"People have begun to buy more. Gulf and Western is recalling lots of workers and they're working overtime 6 days a week," Weisler concluded.

Douglas Scott, 29, is one of those who is back working on the assembly line at the plant which is stamping out parts for the new K line of [illegible].

"He was layed off last April 3, the day before Good Friday," his wife Mary 23, told a reporter. "But he was called back in the last week of July."

The Scotts, who (like Young) live in a trailer home, have two little girls, Angela, 4, and Julie, 1. Douglas is paid $7.23 an hour and is putting in 58 hours a week, 18 of which is overtime.

"But those four months when he was laid off were kind of rough," Mrs. Scott said. "I never shopped by coupon before, and I never shopped from store to store before.

"I planted a bigger garden and I canned double what I usually do. My husband got a part time job at a filling station, and that helped.

At the Charlevoix County Department of Social Welfare, a spokesperson said, "There is no end in sight. People are running out of unemployment benefits and the caseload seems to be getting heavier."

At the Iron Works, though, people are being gradually called back to work.

"We've been retooling with new equipment and improving our old equipment in anticipation of better times," said Bruce Malpass, executive vice president.

'Food for Folks' is healthier, cheaper way to shop

Meet Charlevoix

By Peg Ohle

Berend "Barney" Roeters is coordinator of the Food for Folks food cooperative in Charlevoix. This week he tells the Courier something about the cooperative and how it operates.

COURIER: How long has Food for Folks been operating?

ROETERS: For about a year and a half. We started in February, 1979.

COURIER: How many members do you have?

ROETERS: About 40 families. People of all ages.

COURIER: How do you proceed in ordering and distributing the food?

ROETERS: We meet once a month at the Methodist Church in Charlevoix. Reverend Regier has been good about letting us use his church. At each meeting we take the list of available foods and decide what we are going to order. Since we have to order in fairly large quantities, we have to be able to divide the food up for those who want it.

COURIER: What kinds of food do you order most?

ROETERS: Staples, and cheeses and flour and nuts and raisins. The flours are all milled in Michigan by the Michigan Federation of Food Cooperatives – we're part of that group. The cheeses are processed without chemicals, so are the juices that come from Michigan farms.

COURIER: And these foods cost less than they would on the shelves of a local grocery store?

ROETERS: In most instances, yes, although once in a while they might cost more. We've figured that the prices have gone up only about three percent since we started. Compare that with the general rise in cost of grocery products. Also, a number of people in the cooperative are health food oriented. They can get health foods through the coop a lot cheaper than they can in health food stores, and some foods are not even available elsewhere in the area.

COURIER: What, for instance, do you consider good buys?

ROETERS: Cheese – it's mostly under $2 a pound, raisins are under $1 a pound. Nuts are a good buy, so is peanut butter. We sell a lot of peanut butter – it's prepared without any sugar. Some foods are less than half the price in regular stores – tomato paste and pastas, for instance. We can get carob chips, which are as good as chocolate chips, for $1, compared to chocolate for more than twice that.

COURIER: Where does the food come from?

ROETERS: We order it from the People's Wherehouse in Ann Arbor. Right now they're servicing about 300 coops in Michigan. It's interesting to note that the Michigan Federation of Food Cooperatives is now a multi-million dollar operation.

COURIER: How is the food delivered?

ROETERS: It comes by truck the week after we order it. It is delivered to the church and a group of us goes there to divide it up by orders and package it.

COURIER: How much food does Food for Folks order each month?

ROETERS: Our orders run from $800 to $1,000 each month.

COURIER: Does each member have to order a certain amount?

ROETERS: No. Some spend $200 a month and others may spend only $10 – just to order cheese, for instance.

COURIER: You don't handle meats, I notice.

ROETERS: No, we don't handle meat or sugar. Sugar is unpopular with health food people and the price fluctuates so much. Our members scour around for local foods, too. When we find good buys on corn or apples or something like that, we'll buy a quantity. On occasion we've also bought sides of beef.

COURIER: Does it cost money to belong to Food for Folks?

ROETERS: We have a $5 membership fee, that's all. Our next meeting will be Oct. 6 at the church and we would welcome anyone who is interested. The more members we have, the more food we can order – different foods because of different likes and dislikes.

COURIER: Are members expected to do anything except attend the monthly meetings?

ROETERS: About twice a year they're asked to help distribute the food. We do that the second Wednesday after the Monday meeting

COURIER: Are there other food cooperatives in the area?

ROETERS: There's one in Boyne City and several in Emmet County

COURIER: May persons who want more information call you?

ROETERS: Yes. My phone number is 582-7295

COURIER: What is your job?

ROETERS: I'm General Services Manager at the Charlevoix Area Hospital. I've been there about five years.

COURIER: Do you have a family?

ROETERS: My wife, Mary, and I have three children, aged two, seven, and 11

COURIER: Did you grow up in the area?

ROETERS: No, Mary and I both grew up in Frankfort. We attended Central Michigan University, and I have a degree in journalism.

Wedding

Gordon-Selph

Leah M. Gordon and Timothy I. Selph exchanged marriage vows on Saturday afternoon, Sept. 20, at St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey.

The bride, who has been making her home in Petoskey, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Gordon of Fife Lake. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Selph of Charlevoix.

Father Medard Buvala performed the double-ring ceremony before approximately 100 guests. The church was decorated with blue and white gladiolus and carnations for the occasion.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father. Her gown was fashioned of polyester silesta chiffon with empire bodice, shirred lace trim, high lace neckline, and long tapered sleeves with lace ruffled cuffs. The Chapel train was also edged with a flounce of ruffled lace, as was the bridal hat.

Brenda Huesing served the bride as maid of honor. She wore a turquoise colored gown and a headpiece of forget-me-nots and baby's breath.

Hank Huesing was the best man, and John Marek, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Jay Gordon, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Traditional wedding music was provided by Prof. August Huybrechts.

A reception, hosted by Gary and Julie Hall, brother-in-law and sister of the bride, was held at the Water Wonderland Skating Arena. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner on Friday evening at the Park Gardens Cafe.

The newlyweds will make their home in Grand Rapids.

Clarkes celebrate fortieth

An open house honoring Mr. and Mrs. John R. Clarke on the occasion of their fortieth wedding anniversary was held Sunday at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Michael (Judy) Belfy.

Joining the Belfys in hosting the party were the couple's other children, Mr. and Mrs. Richard (Barbara) Gallant and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Clarke, also of Charlevoix. Their seven grandchildren were also present.

Mr. Clarke and the former Dorothy Paulus were married in Petoskey Sept. [illegible] They resided in the Detroit and Lake Orion area for seven years before returning here to make their home in Marion township. Both are presently employed at the Courter-Bendix Corp. at Boyne City.

More than 60 relatives and friends joined the couple in the observance of the anniversary. They received many gifts.

Funeral services for Mrs. Anna Petter Grundy, 82, retired missionary, were held Sept. 29 at the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church. The Rev. Harry Weidenaar of the Atwood Christian Reformed Church officiated. Burial was in the Ellsworth Cemetery.

Mrs. Grundy, who had returned from India in 1979 after 50 years in the missionary field, died Sept. 26 at the Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility where she had been a patient for three weeks.

The former Anna Petter was born in the Netherlands March 31, 1898, and came to this country in 1908 with her parents who settled near Atwood in Antrim county. She was graduated from Calvin College in Grand Rapids in 1924 and taught in Grand Rapids and later in Chicago. She attended the Moody Bible Institute for two years and, in 1928, went to India as a "Faith" missionary, i.e., without the sponsorship of any special church or group. She remained in India, returning only on furloughs, until her retirement. In 1948 she married Mark V. Grundy, a fellow missionary, at Almora, India. He died in 1972. Through the years she adopted and reared 20 Indian children, 17 of them prior to her marriage.

Surviving are 19 children including Betty Petter of Boston, Mass.; 50 grandchildren; 19 great-grandchildren; five step-children; nine step-grandchildren; three sisters, Miss Jane Petter, Mrs. Fannie Koster and Mrs. Dena Otte, all of Ellsworth and three brothers, Grattus of Detroit, the Rev Andrew of Grand Rapids and William of Ellsworth

The family suggests memorials in her name to the charity of your choice.

Color cruises have started

Autumn's colorful splendor has descended onto the rolling hills surrounding Lake Charlevoix once more and the motorship Beaver Islander has already begun its annual series of color cruises around the lake

The initial voyage was Saturday, September 27. Four more cruises are planned for October 4, 5, 11 and 12. Each cruise departs promptly from the Beaver Island Boat Dock at 1 p.m. and lasts aproximately two hours. The dock is located in downtown Charlevoix next to the bridge.

Tickets are $7 each for adults and $3 for children 11 and under. Beverages will be available on board for an additional cost.

Tickets are being sold in advance on a non-refundable basis. The Beaver Islander has an enclosed area and will sail rain or shine. Tickets purchased for a specific date will be honored only for that cruise and may not be applied to other cruise dates. Paid reservations, by mail or otherwise, will be held and tickets will be sent out, if so desired, as soon as a check or money order for the full amount is received at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce office which is handling arrangements for the cruises

The annual color cruises on Lake Charlevoix, sponsored by the Chamber and the Beaver Island Boat Company, have become very popular over the past few years. Color cruises have been sold out sometimes days before the actual sailing thus leaving several people waiting at the dock for any last-minute openings

The Chamber has urged all those who plan on taking one of the color cruises to order their tickets well in advance to avoid being left at the dock.

For information and reservations, people should contact the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, 408 Bridge St., Charlevoix, Michigan, 49720, or telephone 616-547-2101

Lake drive is scenic trip

For those who look forward to the fleeting beauty of Autumn in Northern Michigan, a drive around Lake Charlevoix can provide as scenic a motoring trip as can be found anywhere in the state

Start out on the Charlevoix-Boyne City Road that skirts the north shore of the lake and winds through thickly wooded areas and gently rolling farmland. Old farms converted to new purposes can be found along the way such as antique shops, resorts and maple syrup retailers

The route will also take you through the quiet village of Horton Bay where, if you like, you can stop at the historic Horton Bay General Store which was built over 100 years ago and is one of the last remaining general stores in the traditional sense. You'll be able to purchase anything from groceries to gas to a quick snack at the General Store.

A spectacular view can be seen from a turnoff of the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road onto Maple Grove Road. About two [illegible] From there you can see all the way from Lake Charlevoix to Lake Michigan and miles of the colorful hills in every direction

This is also about the time that the apples orchards are busy harvesting and the cider should be running aplenty soon

Reflections on a cornucopia

Photos and story
by Anne Kelly

What motive inspires the annual berry picker to rise while the dew is still on the runner to pluck his fruit? What fire burns within the heart of the kitchen pickle packer? To what drum marches the produce picker to the ends of the orchard in quest of a single red haven peach? It's an addiction of sorts, to freshness and fresh air and the bounty of the earth. His motive is spiritual, yet he ponders and predictably at this point of the Michigan growing season wonders—"why me?" He is probably snapping late garden beans and stuffing great big tomatoes into little tiny jars (or so they seem). It is time to contemplate pumpkins and the end of it all

Perhaps he will have one last surge of enthusiasm. One last trip to the orchard for apples, one last hanging of dill weed to dry, one final tilling under of tired plants and vines. Then one autumn day soon, with larder stocked: shelves lined, freezer filled, root cellar satisfied, he will deliver at last his tired hands into October's lap

Charlevoix Outdoors...

Toward better grouse hunting

...by Burford

Partridge season opened a couple weeks ago and, now that some of the forest foliage is thinning out, upland game hunters should be enjoying some good shooting from here on.

Most of the reports published before the season from those who should know are that the ruffed grouse population is healthy this year due to last year's snowless winter and a mild spring. Of course, when it comes to predicting a population trend one way or the other with this enigmatic bird, even the experts can rarely do much better than some educated guessing.

Initial reports in the press from DNR spokesmen who said hunting would be very good in the north are already being looked at skeptically by area hunters who report marginal success.

But there certainly aren't enough returns in yet at this point in the season to draw any conclusions.

As in any other game species, one of the key determining factors in population trends is the quantity and quality of habitat. After many years of little knowledge or concern in that area, we are beginning to see some interesting projects getting off the ground locally and some strong grassroots support being formed within the sportsmen's ranks.

For the past five years or so, the Mackinaw Trails Chapter of the Ruffed Grouse Society has been steadily growing and increasing its activities. The Ruffed Grouse Society is a national organization dedicated to "improving the environment for ruffed grouse, woodcock and other forest wildlife." The society is structured on much the same order as Ducks Unlimited, though on a smaller scale.

Members of the Mackinaw Trails Chapter come from as far south as Grayling and north from the Straits. Membership rolls now carry [illegible].

According to Chapter President Phil Johnson from Boyne City, the group gets involved in several activites ranging from fundraising for habitat improvement to actual participation in bird banding and population studies.

Last year, said Johnson, the chapter helped collect data on the number of birds in the Boyne Valley by participating in a drumming log count. By identifying the number of dead logs in a given area on which grouse have been drumming, (such logs are clearly marked by droppings), a fairly accurate estimate can be made of the population.

Chapter members also spent a day banding woodcock.

In addition to their own projects, the chapter has provided welcome support to some of the DNR's studies of the ruffed grouse in this area.

For as common as the partridge is across the upper Midwest, there has been a relatively small amount of research published on the species until quite recently. One of the best known pioneers in study of the ruffed grouse is Gordon Gullian in Minnesota whose findings in the area of population dynamics and habitat are widely used.

This summer, the DNR sought to initiate a study of ruffed grouse range and the percentage of birds actually taken by hunters by attempting to trap and band some specimens in the Charlevoix County area.

How does one go about live-trapping a bird as wily and cautious as the ruffed grouse? It's hard enough to shoot the rascals much less catch them alive. Just ask Doug [illegible].

A habitat specialist from the DNR's Gaylord office, Whitcomb and a student assistant set traps from August until just before hunting season. Their equipment consisted of 18" woven wire "cells" with funnel type entrances so that once the birds walked in, they couldn't get out. The traps were spaced about 20 feet apart with a chicken wire runner connecting them. The idea was that a covey of grouse not approaching a trap directly would meet the wire fence and walk along it until it came to one of the traps.

Must've been a little too complicated for the birds since only 20 were captured and banded, too few to comprise a valid study. But Whitcomb says the project will be tried again next year, perhaps with some modifications.

Whitcomb had high praise for the Ruffed Grouse Society saying that their assistance in some of his projects has been very helpful. He would like to work even closer with the Mackinaw Chapter saying that the membership might find some off-season field work especially interesting since not many of them observe the birds any other time than hunting season.

Those to whom the Ruffed Grouse Society sounds worthwhile and who are interested in knowing more about it should mark Tuesday, October 7 on their calendar. That is the date for the Mackinaw Chapter's Annual Fall Banquet to be held at Stafford's in Bayview starting with cocktails at 6:30 p.m.

The evening will feature a turkey calling champion from Georgia and is highlighted each year by door prizes, a raffle and auction. Some prestigious prizes are on the block including two new shotguns, (one a special edition), and numerous valuable art prints.

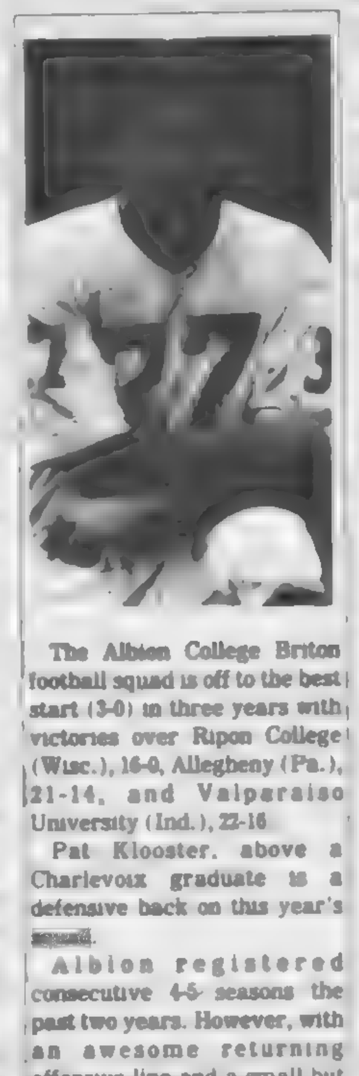
Basketball, volleyball league meetings set

Organizational meetings for independent Basketball and Volleyball Leagues will be held at the community room of the City hall Monday Dwight Boss, city recreation director, has announced.

The volleyball division will be organized at 7 p.m. Men's, Women's and Mixed Leagues managers, coaches and prospective new players are asked to attend or send representatives. Anyone wanting to join a team is asked to attend.

Basketball coaches and managers will meet at the same site at 8 p.m. Boss said that two leagues, A and B, would be organized. Anyone interested in entering a team is invited to attend the meeting.

New players wishing to join a team for the first time are [illegible].



The Albion College Briton football squad is off to the best start (3-0) in three years with victories over Ripon College (Wisc.), 16-0, Allegheny (Pa.), 21-14, and Valparaiso University (Ind.), 22-16.

Pat Klooster, above a Charlevoix graduate is a defensive back on this year's squad.

Albion registered consecutive 4-5 seasons the past two years. However, with an awesome returning offensive line and a small but quick backfield, the Britons should improve that mark. Albion finished third in the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA) last season.

Albion opens the MIAA season on Saturday, October 4, with the Homecoming game against Olivet College.

Klooster, a junior, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Klooster, Route #1 [illegible] View, Charlevoix.

CC team wins Traverse Invitational

The Charlevoix Rayder harriers, with a score of 55, won the Traverse City High School Invitational Cross Country meet held Saturday on a 3.1 (5000 K) hilly course Coach Pete Speiles reports.

The host team placed second among the nine teams entered with a score of 58 points. Benzie Central was third with 75 points and [illegible].

Mancelona's Dan Biehl paced the meet with a time of 17:15; he was followed by Mark King of Kingsley with a time of 17:29; Jeff Landon third with a 17:40; Ed Scarborough of Benzie Central, 17:56 and Chuck Ailsworth of Traverse City, [illegible].

Other Charlevoix runners and their standings and times follow: Jay Swartwout, 8th, 18:09; Todd Russell, 10th, 18:13; Jim Landon, 11th, 18:14; Jim Duke, 23rd, 18:53, Bill Taylor, 27th, 19:09 and Bill [illegible].

Charlevoix also won the JV division of the meet with Matt Peterson, a sophomore, coming in first with a time of [illegible].

Alec Sheets finished 5th with a time of 19:22; Bill Herriman, 6th, 19:44; John Speiles, 9th, 20:15 and Pat Kerr, 11th 20:25.

On Saturday Charlevoix will be at Big Rapids to participate in the Ferris State Invitational.

JV gridders shutout by Gaylord

The Charlevoix Rayders junior varsity football squad [illegible] as they were shut out by Gaylord 22-0 at Kipke Field.

After a scoreless first quarter, Gaylord scored with 2:06 left in the half on a ten-yard run. They ran for the conversion and led at halftime 8-0.

With 8:35 to go in the third quarter, Gaylord recovered a Charlevoix fumble in the endzone for their second touchdown and again ran successfully for two extra points extending their lead to 16-0.

The Blue Devils jv's added six more points with 3:05 remaining in the game on an 11 yard run. Their extra point attempt was stopped this time by the Rayders and the final score of 22-0 stood.

Coaches Charles Bentley and Brian Certa pointed to numerous fumbles and errors by Charlevoix as crucial factors in the game. They did have some good words for the Rayders' defensive efforts, however, and singled out Mark Oostermeyer, Tim Bergmann and Pete Cockfield for especially good games on defense.

Next week the Charlevoix junior varsity team travels to Cheboygan on Thursday, Oct. 2 for a 6:30 p.m. game.

Last week's flag football results

The Cowboys scored seven touchdowns as they romped over the Lions of Boyne City by a score of 51 to 12 in a flag football game played here Saturday afternoon.

In a second scheduled game the Steelers won over the Rams by forfeit when the Boyne City team failed to appear.

In a game played Friday night, the Redskins defeated the Lions 19-13 at Boyne City.

Shannon Spence scored on runs of 20, 11 and 17 yards, Dave McKenzie scored a safety and Spence, Mike Johnson and John Loder scored conversions to give the Cowboys a 23-0 halftime lead.

As the second half got underway, Loder scored on an 11 yard run with Johnson adding the conversion. The running of Jody Putman dominated the final period as he scored on runs of three and 23 yards and 25 yards following a pass interception. Hamlin added a two-point safety and McKenzie a P.A.T.

Brett Johnson and Rick Gibbons scored in the final period on runs of 15 and 10 yards, respectively, to put the Lions on the board.

The Redskins will meet the Patriots at 6 p.m. and the Steelers will play a double-header, meeting the Cowboys at 7:15 p.m. and the Oilers at 8:30 p.m. Wednesday.

On Monday, it will be the Seahawks and the Oilers at 6 p.m. and the Rams and the Cowboys at 7:15 Monday.

Last minute pass lifts Gaylord

Charlevoix lived by the 55 yard pass play Friday night and died by it.

After playing the Gaylord Blue Devils to a 7-7 standoff until there were but 40 seconds left in the game, the Rayders gave up a 55 yard strike from Randy Ogden to John Lake breaking the deadlock and giving Gaylord a 14-7 conference victory.

Charlevoix's lone touchdown also came on a 55 yard pass play early in the game when Scott Kelly found Mike Zednicek open and the Gaylord defender went for an interception but missed letting Zednicek scamper untouched into the endzone.

Joe Sheets added the extra point.

The Rayders' seven point lead held up until midway in the second quarter when Gaylord capped a long drive with a plunge from the one yard line by Steve Martin into the endzone. Brian Campbell kicked the extra point for the Blue Devils.

Charlevoix's frustrating tendency to make crucial mistakes near their opponents' goal line popped up again Friday night when a fumble dashed their scoring hopes on a fourth down play at the Gaylord one yard line.

Gaylord also had their offensive lapses and lost an opportunity to forge ahead earlier in the fourth quarter when Rayder Dave Buday intercepted a pass and ended a promising drive.

A third quarter Gaylord drive was stopped by a fumble on the Charlevoix 11.

Defensively, Mike Loper led the Red Rayders with 18 tackles. Others who played well defensively included Frank Kaufman with 13 tackles, Tim Krueger and Dave Buday with 11 each and Jim Knight with 10.

Charlevoix's running game was substantially weakened by the absence of Jim Buchanon who was unable to play because of an injury.

The leading rusher for the Rayders was Mark Beaudoin with 41 yards. Most of Charlevoix's offensive attack was via the airways Friday night and Quarterback Scott Kelly racked up a total of 113 yards passing.

Now 1 and 1 in the Michigan - Huron Shores Conference, Charlevoix meets Cheboygan this Friday night with the kickoff scheduled for 7:30 at Kipke Field.

Alger may be out for season at FSU

Bob Alger, former football standout at Charlevoix High School and co-captain of the Ferris State University football squad this year, severely injured his left knee in a game Saturday and underwent surgery Monday morning. Alger, a star defensive back for the Bulldogs, had injured the knee previously. The specific damage was unknown as of Monday but sources reported that it is likely that Alger will be out for the season. The week before, he was named NAIA Division Defensive Player of the Week.

Girls beat Petoskey

The Charlevoix girls basketball team, in their first Michigan-Huron Shores game of the season, defeated Petoskey 64-34 on the Petoskey floor.

Charlevoix took a 15-12 first period lead, increased it to 33-20 at halftime and 48-25 at the three quarter mark before [illegible].

Mel Kerridge paced the game with 20 points. Teresa Noirot had 19 and Melinda [illegible] 11.

Elaine O'Brien had 11 for Petoskey.

Laura Kemp had 20 points and Mary Lenhart 11 as the Charlevoix Junior Varsity squad defeated Petoskey JV's [illegible].

Gaylord will play here Thursday.

Frosh can't stop Gaylord

Twenty-one points is normally a good enough production for a freshman football team to win a game but last Wednesday it wasn't enough for the Charlevoix frosh who gave up 36 points in a loss at Gaylord.

[illegible] scored two Charlevoix touchdowns on a one yard plunge and a 20 yard pass from quarterback Jeff Kelly. Pat Mitchell accounted for the third Rayder score on a 5 yard run.

Despite the loss, Coach Dave Smith indicated that the team played much better than its first two games and that defensive linemen Jeff [illegible] had especially good games for the Rayders.

The Charlevoix frosh host Cheboygan at Kipke Field next Wednesday at 6:30 p.m.

Chx runners barely edge Rogers City

The Charlevoix Rayder harriers edged the favored Rogers City Hurons in a four team meet Tuesday to win by two points, 30-32, Coach Pete Speiles reported.

Boyne City came in third with 76 points and St. Ignace fourth with 106.

The Rayders' Jay Swartwout was the overall winner with a time of 16:43. Rogers City's Mark Zielinski came in on his heels with 16:44.

Other Rayders who came in among the top runners were Jeff Landon, third, with a time of 16:48; Jim Landon, 7th, 17:37; Todd Russell and Scott Davis who tied for 9th place with a time of 17:46; Bill Dohm, 10th, 17:46 and Bill Taylor, 13th, 17:55.

Rogers City won the Junior Varsity division with 24 points; Charlevoix second with 36 and St. Ignace with 73. Boyne City did not have a JV squad.

Dave Schroeder with a time of 18:11 placed first followed by Alex Sheets with a time of 18:22. Other Charlevoix runners among the top 10 were Matt Peterson, 6th, 18:43; Bill Herriman, 8th, 18:52, Pat Kerr, 10th, 19:15.

Craig Boss above, son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan J. Boss of 303 W. Garfield, Charlevoix, Mich. and a 1979 graduate of Charlevoix High School, is a member of the Hope College football team. A freshman, Boss is playing Running Back. Hope was one of the nation's winningest small college football teams (NCAA, Division III) during the 1970s. The team is the two-time defending Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association champions.

Recreation office hours

The Charlevoix City Recreation Department office in the city hall will be open from 2 until 5 p.m. daily Monday through Friday according to Dwight Boss, recreation director.

The Charlevoix Recreation Commission meets the first Wednesday of every month at the office in the city hall at 7:30 p.m.

Golfers are second at St. Ignace

The Charlevoix Rayder golfers with a score of 180 placed second behind Petoskey in a three-way meet held Monday at St. Ignace.

Petoskey won the meet with a 169. The host team was third with a score of 185.

Tim Shupert carded a 41; Gary Drury, 43, Doug Drenth, 48, and Bill Joy, 49 for Charlevoix.

Dave Poquette of Petoskey was the medalist for the meet with a 36.

On Thursday, the Rayders hosted a match with Harbor Springs and lost to the Rams who had a score of 167. The Rayders' score was 184.

The loss gave the Charlevoix team, coached by Barry Andersen, a two win-two loss record for the season.

Al Spencley was medalist for the meet with a score of 39. His team-mates had the following scores: Mark Larson, 49; John Wilson, 41 and Russ Fockler, 47.

For Charlevoix Shupert scored a 42; Drury, 44; Drenth and Jeff Greene, 49.

Charlevoix will be at Elk Rapids Thursday and at Cheboygan Monday.

CARDS OF THANKS

WE WOULD like to thank all our friends, neighbors and relatives for the cards, prayers, visits and food during the illness and death of our husband and father, Lionel "Lyle" McClanaghan. A special thanks to Drs. Joy & Stewart along with the I.C.C.U. nurses at Charlevoix Area Hospital for their excellent care. Also thanks to Barnard Methodist Church and the Assembly of God Church for the nice luncheon that was served. Thank you to Rev. Dan Minor and the Winchester Funeral Home for their help and kindness. Mrs. Lionel McClanaghan and family

Gymnasts perform for students

[redacted]

Selected gymnasts from The Charlevoix School of Gymnastics under the direction of Jim Mitchell and [redacted] their skills to an appreciative audience of young viewers last Tuesday. Students at Charlevoix Elementary got a close up look at floor, vault and beam exercises in the hour long performance. Most importantly they were afforded the opportunity of seeing what gymnastics, as a sport, can do for a participant in the program.

"Gymnastic skills are progressive," Jim Mitchell pointed out as he presented gymnasts of varying degrees of competence in strength, flexibility, co-ordination and poise. "We teach our students kinestetic awareness, i.e. where ones body is in the air in relationship with the ground," Mitchell emphasized.

The Charlevoix School of Gymnastics has been in existence for 2 and a half years. Introduction of the sport to the community began in the Community Education Program and preceded formation of the school. Many present students began their training at that time. Mitchell reports that there has been continued interest and support for the school. Enrollment presently exceeds 100 students. Classes range from pre-school to adult in both gymnastics and dance [redacted].

The program features both age group recreational artistics and progressive skill training for the more serious gymnast geared toward competitive training. Students come from as far away as 100 miles for advanced training under the direction of certified [redacted].

The school offers a Booster Association for Gymnastics (G.Y.M.B.A.G.) for members, a non-profit organization supporting the efforts of students in the community. An additional benefit is the opportunity to attend Wolverine Sports Camp under Mitchell's direction for one week, the last week in August [redacted].

The session boasts a 9-12 member coaching staff teaching 6 hours a day for 5 days with 60-75 gymnasts of all ages and levels.

Enquiries regarding program or class membership may be directed to Mitchell's studio on E. Upright in [redacted].

Maugh, Director of Automotive Safety Office, Ford Motor Company; John W. Otten, M.D., Associate Professor of Surgery, Peoria School of Medicine; William C. Bugsby, M.D., Associate Professor Obstetrics & Gynecology, Ohio State University; and Josef Warkany, M.D., Professor of Research Pediatrics, University of Cincinnati. Clinic physicians will also lecture on related topics, as well as provide seven diagnostic workshops to be held at the Clinic.

Big Rock on KS program

Two representatives from Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant - John Popa, Maintenance Superintendent, and Charlie Axtell, Plant Health Physicist - spoke to members of Kappa Sigma Sorority on September [redacted].

Popa detailed the mechanics of how the plant operates and the future operation of Big Rock and nuclear power in general.

Axtell explained about radiation dosages that occur naturally in the atmosphere and daily living, such as X-rays, and how nuclear power plant emissions compare to nature and other industries. Sorority members asked many questions about the spent fuel storage, transportation of radioactive materials, the future operation of the plant and the safety of nuclear power [redacted].

After this informative and interesting program a brief [redacted].

It was stated that the "model meeting" for members and prospective pledges will be held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Riley, 406 Mercer, on Monday, October 6, 1980. Co-hostesses will be Mrs. John Popa and Mrs. [redacted].

The sorority is going to hold a rummage sale on Saturday, October 18 at the old Fochtman Garage on Bridge St. The ways and means committee is in charge of [redacted].

Sorority members will be attending the Dayton Ballet in Petoskey in October for their monthly social activity. [redacted] Steven Smith for reserved [redacted].

To host School of Prayer

The Community Church of God in Charlevoix will host a School of Prayer October 5-8, with Dr. Dean L. Flora as leader, according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, pastor.

"Lack of prayer is usually one of the biggest weaknesses in a Christian's life," said Rev. Hastings, "And one of the main reasons for little spiritual power. The School of Prayer will help people realize the importance of prayer and teach them how to put prayer [redacted]"

[redacted] School of Prayer with [redacted] and experience. He is presently serving as [redacted] with Food For the Hungry, which is a world-wide organization whose objective is to help relieve hunger and suffering around the world.

Dr. Dean L. Flora

Pastor Walt Hastings' parents, Rev. & Mrs. Raymond [redacted] Hastings, also [redacted] the Hungry as Directors for Central America.

[redacted] years as a missionary in Panama, where he helped thousands of people with vocational training and medical aid. Previous to that, he served as a pastor. He is a graduate of Andersen College in Indiana, and was awarded the honorary Doctor of Divinity degree by Gulf Coast Bible College in Houston, [redacted].

In addition to speaking at the 9:45 a.m. and 11:00 a.m. services, Dr. Flora will be teaching Sunday night through Wednesday night at 7:00 p.m. He will also have special sharing sessions at 10:00 a.m. Monday through Wednesday, discussing answers to prayer and miracles he has experienced as a result of prayer.

The public is welcome to attend the School of Prayer held at the Community Church of God, located at 202 W. Hurlbut Street in Charlevoix. There will be no registration fee nor advanced sign-up required.

Firemen's Fund names Hamlin

Firemen's Fund American Life Insurance Company announces the addition of George Hamlin to its sales force

Hamlin lives on Burgess Road in Charlevoix with his wife, Doris, and his two children. He has been a resident of the area his entire life

According to a company representatives, Hamlin will be selling a complete portfolio of consumer oriented products, including life insurance, health insurance, group insurance, tax sheltered plans, annuities, and pensions.

Firemen's Fund American Life Insurance Company is one of Fireman's Fund Insurance Companies, subsidiaries of American Express Company. Since its founding in 1863, Fireman's Fund has grown into one of the nation's largest multi-line insurance groups.

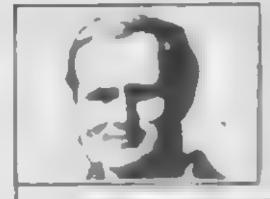
Ballot proposals to be explained

Charlevoix County Residents will make some serious decisions in the November election and it will probably pay to learn as much about the issues as possible

To help voters become acquainted with the state tax, prisons and drinking age proposals, a special meeting will be held Monday evening, October 6 at 7:00 p.m. at Whiting Park in Boyne City

The session is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service and features Lynn Harvey and Dean Rhoads who are public affairs specialists at Michigan State University

"We are offering an objective review of each of the proposals, telling the intent of each proposal and as much as possible, explaining the consequences of each. This is strictly an educational meeting which will objectively analyze each issue," Relates Ed Rebman, Michigan State University Extension Director for Charlevoix County.



Names In The News

LOUIS J. HOLLOW of the First State Bank in Charlevoix was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Michigan Association of Community Bankers, (MACB), at the organization's annual convention Sept. 17 and 18 at Bay City. MACB is a group of locally owned, locally controlled banks dedicated to improving services of community banks. Donald J. Smallcombe, president of the First National Bank in Three Rivers, was elected president.

Council dodges Lexalite action; rejects Big Rock EIS support

By DAVE KNIGHT

In its heart, the Charlevoix City Council wanted to go along with Lexalite but in its ordinance book, it [illegible]

Production manager Bill Kenifeck of the Lexalite International manufacturing firm asked the council Monday night to rule that a variance not be required for an addition Lexalite plans to build on the former Gateway furniture building.

Lexalite was given the green light for acquisition and expansion of the building by the council last month in the form of a 30 percent tax parity [illegible]

According to Kenifeck, the question of whether a 30 inch variance was needed depended on which side of the building was considered the front. He maintained that if the wide side of the plan was considered the front, no variance was needed and that construction could start.

City Manager James Brinker pointed out, though, with the agreement of City Attorney Frank Hoffman, that a building front must be located on a narrow side of the lot according to the city code and that a variance was in order.

Said Brinker, "I have no problem with the site plan and don't object to the project at all but I am just advising the council of what is on the books and think it would be in their best interest to act accordingly to avoid possible legal problems in the future."

Kenifeck emphasized to the council that Lexalite was anxious to expand its operation into the city saying, "We need to move very expediently toward construction and we have come here tonight to ask your assistance."

Among the five councilmen present at the time, there was unanimous approval of the Lexalite site plan but, heeding the advice of Brinker and

Apple Festival idea to take root this weekend

Seeds will be sown this Saturday for a Charlevoix Apple Festival which organizers hope will blossom next year into a full-fledged autumn promotion for area farmers and businessmen.

This year's "practice festival" will start Saturday morning, October 11, with several local farmers setting up produce stands in downtown Charlevoix's East Park at 9 a.m. Twenty-six varieties of apples will be available in the park along with cider, pears, plums, fresh raspberries and homemade jams.

Producers planning to be on hand Saturday include the Rosenthal orchard, Charles Cooper, Brighton's Orchard, Rocky Top Farm and Elzinga's Farm Market.

Area church organizations will add to the feast by providing apple pie, taffy apples and coffee at the park.

Involvement for the youngsters will include a poster contest that is being conducted among third, fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth graders of the Charlevoix School District and students from the Char-Em Intermediate district. Thirteen gift certificates from area merchants will be presented as prizes and the winning posters will be displayed in various businesses around town.

Those students who don't win a gift certificate in the poster contest will get a chance to win one in a "Bite the Apple on a String" contest to be held Saturday at 11 a.m. in the park.

Local hobby and craft artists will be displaying their wares for early Christmas shoppers and others in the Market Mall, at 405 Bridge, (see Fran Martin's story inside today's Courier for more details.)

Most local merchants will be featuring special promotions in their stores Saturday also.

At least four area restaurants have special menu items planned for Saturday. At the Weathervane, a complimentary slice of "Down Under Apple Pie" will be served with the luncheon specials and an apple dumpling with rum sauce comes with the dinner special; "Apple Pie" cocktails will even be available at the bar. Duffy's of Charlevoix has a dinner special of Stuffed Cornish Game Hen with mashed potatoes, fresh Hubbard squash and pumpkin pie. The Parkside Dining Room will feature apple turnovers and traditional apple pie with their fresh whitefish. At the Grey Gables, there will be Victorian Hat Apple Cider Punch, hot pumpkin spiced pie and a variety of squash specials.

Possible events being contemplated for next year's festival include hayrides, square dancers, a special movie matinee and high school band competitions.

Michigan Bank North is denied charter for Charlevoix branch

By DAVE KNIGHT

With a remodeled building, expensive new sign, freshly paved parking lot and newly hired staff, Michigan Bank North was all ready to open the doors of its Charlevoix branch last week when the state Financial Institutions Bureau pulled the rug from beneath them.

"We felt that there were already enough financial institutions in Charlevoix," said Acting FIB Commissioner Russell Kropschot explaining his decision of September 29 to deny the application for charter made by Michigan Bank North.

Kropschot cited high unemployment in the area, lack of potential business and population growth and the slim prospect of success as other factors behind his ruling.

MBN President Ronald Reed said Friday that his firm had filed with Kropschot for reconsideration of the decision within the five day limit set for such action and that he expects to hear again from the FIB within thirty days.

There are currently two banks in the city, the Charlevoix County State Bank and the First State Bank of Charlevoix, and one savings and loan establishment, Family Federal Savings. The two banks filed a protest with the FIB earlier this year and participated in oral arguments in July asking that the MBN charter not be granted.

Michigan Bank North is headquartered in Petoskey where it opened its main office nine months ago. It has one branch in Bayview and the Charlevoix branch would have been its second. MBN is a wholly owned subsidiary of the Michigan National Corporation.

In their attempt to provide evidence to the FIB of a need for a third bank in Charlevoix, Reed and Charlevoix Branch Manager DeRay Daniels canvassed the city last week to collect over 500 signatures on petitions supporting the opening of a MBN branch locally.

Previous to the FIB denial of its charter application, Michigan Bank North had remodeled the former Expressions Unlimited building at 830 Petoskey Ave., erected a modernistic lit sign, paved the parking lot and hired at least three local people to staff the branch.

Frank's Flowers, which shares the building with MBN, is not affected by the charter denial.

Kropschot acknowledged that denial of a bank charter application is rare saying that 90 percent of the applications are approved.

"Normally we give the benefit of the doubt to the applying bank with the reasoning that if the prospects for success were not there, they would not be applying. We let them make those decisions," said Kropschot, "But in this case, the evidence was just too heavily against them."

Said Reed, "We are the ones taking the risk and we are confident that prospects are good in Charlevoix for another bank to be successful."

Another of the requirements for the granting of a charter to a new bank, according to Kropschot, is that the applying bank offer significantly new and different services not available from other banks in the community

Reed pointed to longer daily, Friday evening and Saturday hours and premiums for new deposits as fulfilling that requirement but Kropschot evidently felt that there was not enough in new services offered.

To the FIB premise that Charlevoix's economy would not support a third bank, Reed replied that his evaluation of the area was quite different.

Said Reed, "We don't deny that the economy is down right now but we think it is a temporary situation and that things will improve. We find it hard to take as gloomy a view of things."

If the reconsideration attempt fails, Reed indicated that action may be taken in circuit court.

Gordon Wellman, president of the Charlevoix County State Bank, said that if the matter progressed to court, he assumed that his firm would most likely be involved. Wellman explained his bank's protest of the MBN charter application saying it was based on the grounds that there was not sufficient need in the area for another financial institution.

Homecoming fever sets in at high school

With the election by the senior class of five queen candidates last week, the stage is set for the Charlevoix High School Homecoming festivities this weekend

The traditional Homecoming parade with floats, band and queen candidates will start at 6:30 p.m. Friday at the Middle School and proceed south on State Street to Garfield and the high school.

Friday night's Homecoming football game pits the Red Rayders, 1-2 in conference play this year, against Grayling which has yet to win a conference game in three outings. In halftime ceremonies, the winner of a student body vote being conducted this week will be crowned Homecoming Queen by last year's queen, Tammy Helms

The five candidates are

JILL CALDWELL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Caldwell, active in cheerleading, student council, National Honor Society and on the honor roll

BETH CAREY, daughter of William Carey and Claire Sheaffer, active as a student council representative, vice president and president, National Honor Society, Girls State and on the honor roll

MARY BETH ELDREDGE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eldredge, active in the National Honor Society, ski team, flag corps, cheerleading, marching band, was junior class president and sophomore class vice president and on the honor roll

KRIS LIGNELL, daughter of John Lignell and Sally Berlage, active in ski team, tennis team, flag corps (co-capt.), student council (sec.), National Honor Society (vice pres.) and on the honor roll

INGRID WIEMER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hans Wiemer, active in cheerleading, tennis team, was freshman class vice president and sophomore class secretary

Suspect passing ship in phone cutoffs on north side

As many as 800 Michigan Bell customers on Charlevoix's north side lost their phone service Sunday morning when one of the cables strung beneath the Pine River Channel was partially severed. As of Tuesday, repair crews were still working on the scene hoping to restore full service that day.

According to Michigan Bell [illegible] Reid, service was disrupted at about 9 a.m. Sunday

It is suspected that a large coal ship leaving the channel at approximately that time brushed close enough to the north wall of the channel to damage phone cables at the point where they came out from the mainland and curved downward to the river bed.

Telephone lines affected were those which got wet when the pressurized sheathing protecting the cable was damaged.

Because a spare cable was laid with the primary one and because not all lines were flooded, some north side phones were not affected. Indications were, late Monday, that service would be restored as soon as possible, even if permanent repairs would be a more extensive project later on.

DOORS, WINDOWS AND DRAFTS

The greatest heat loss relative to the size of an opening is the space under your outside doors. All exterior doors should be weather stripped on three sides and have a tight fitting threshold at the bottom. Windows should also be tight and weather stripped.

Check around windows and doors for caulking. Air may infiltrate where your sidings meet window and door frames. Also look to see that you have a good seal where the storm windows meet the frame of the prime window. Use good caulking compound, since this is a time consuming job and you should not have to do it more than once every 5 to 10 years if you use the right material. Buy an acrylic latex caulk and it will give you the best possible combination of longevity, paintability and elasticity.

A good method of locating hidden cracks is to move a lit candle around your door and window frames on a windy day and look for a flicker of the flame. It will indicate those areas which are in need of weather stripping.

St. Mary's sets open house

St. Mary's School will have their annual fall open house Sunday, Oct. 12 after 10:30 mass. The Parish Club and staff members would like to welcome all new families to the Parish as well as offer a broad overview of the school to all those interested. Since St. Mary's enrollment has increased to [illegible] students this year, Sister Agnes Mary Wojtkowiak, principal, has altered the school's format with changes and added [illegible].

The third and fourth grades are presently following a [illegible] plan offering students the advantage of learning about all subjects under the supervision of different teachers. In addition to the present remedial reading, music, and weekly liturgy services, St. Mary's has also incorporated the talents of interested college students and parents to provide many individual tutoring, group arts projects, and various extracurricular activities. The Parish invites everyone to come and share their enthusiasm for the coming school year.

Important Norwood meeting

Residents of Norwood Township are being urged to attend the next meeting of the Township board, to be held Monday, Oct. 13, at 8 p.m.

Among the subjects to be discussed at the meeting will be making application for a Federal grant to restore the Township Hall to its original state.

Kiwanis installs officers for 1980-81

By [illegible]

[illegible] at the end of last week as to when and how long the Medusa Cement plant in Charlevoix would shut down this [illegible].

Although Plant Manager Gilbert Peterson said that the shutdown is definitely coming, he indicated that the number of employees who would be laid off and the duration of the shutdown have yet to be determined.

When it was first announced two weeks ago, November was mentioned as a possible time for the shutdown but Peterson said last week that December was becoming a more likely possibility.

Though he declined to be more specific, when asked if the shutdown could last as long as three or four months Peterson said emphatically [illegible].

The 13-year old Medusa plant on South Point periodically schedules routine shutdowns for maintenance and repairs which usually last about one month. Though this year's shutdown will be used for that purpose, a slump in the cement market projected for next year has caused Medusa to plan for an extension of the maintenance shutdown.

It is that [illegible] that has caused some concern among employees and [illegible]. Data Research Center Inc. of Traverse City estimated last year that Medusa generates almost $90 million in economic activity for the area and provides 150 jobs directly and another [illegible] indirectly.

Tom Oleksy, president of Local 480 of the United Cement Mine and Gypsum Workers International, said last week that his union has not received any official notice of layoffs from Medusa and that he knows no more about the shutdown than what has been in the news.

Oleksy also said that no meetings on the subject have been scheduled with company officials.

Peterson explained that the decision to extend the shutdown past the time needed for maintenance followed projections made by Medusa's sales department of a nationwide slump in the cement industry next year.

The slump is the result, said Peterson, of a general slowdown in road and building construction which, in turn, reflects the current state of the economy.

He also pointed out that the cement industry in the northern states is, by nature, cyclic. Transportation, mining and storage problems created by the cold weather all cause yearly [illegible].

Because mining operations will cease during the shutdown, Medusa's voluntary reclamation program at its quarry will also be inactive for the duration.

Part of the reclamation project has involved the use of all the sludge from the Charlevoix city sewage treatment plant as fertilizer. Peterson was unsure as to whether the city would have to find an alternate site for the sludge during an extended halt to reclamation [illegible].

Lt. Governor Richard Spatcher, right, presents Charlevoix Kiwanis Club outgoing president Clarence Odmark with a commemorative pin in gratitude for his past year of service to the club.

School 1981 budget previewed

By FRAN MARTIN

The proposed budget for the 1980-81 school year in the Charlevoix School District will be aired at a public hearing scheduled for Monday, Oct. 16 it was announced at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Board of Education held Monday at the high school study hall.

The board received a brief preview of the proposed budget which shows an 11.8 per cent in expenditures Vincent Olach, business manager, reported. Anticipated revenues, however, show only a 7.9 per cent increase. The cost of living increase has been in excess of 13 per cent.

The proposed budget for the current school year is $3,382,802 as compared with the audited expenditures of 1979-80 of $3,025,580. Olach explained that the school district had ended the school year in the black in the amount of $108,783 but was quick to add that part of that has already been lost in anticipated state revenues for the current year with the governor's announcement regarding funds to schools. The school district has already been advised that the district will lose some funds and will likely lose up from $100,000 to $120,000 more as the state attempts to balance its budget.

A brief re-cap of the revenues shows $3,190,940 from local sources including taxes, [illegible], state sources, most of which is expected to be lost leaving only a carry-over of [illegible], federal sources, [illegible] and incoming transfers, [illegible].

The re-cap of expenditures shows [illegible] for instruction which includes everything relating to education and support which includes administration, all special services, plant operation and management, transportation and others, [illegible].

In discussing the budget, Board Chairman [illegible] asked if there was any money in the budget for the roof at the high school. He was advised by Olach there was not. Olach added that patching compound had been ordered and would be applied in an effort to get through the school year. This still remains probably the greatest need, he added.

In other action, the board went into executive session briefly to discuss the bid for the house built on Lot 23 in Hampton Village by the high school's Building Trades Class. The board also discussed a request for a certificate of completion of high school by Eric Cooper as the result of passing a GED test so he could enlist in the U.S. Navy.

Learning to read better is aim of new program

By FRAN MARTIN

A program entitled "Learning to Read Better" has been adopted by the Charlevoix Elementary School.

"And the emphasis is on the word 'better' according to Louise Anes, project director at the Niles Brandywine School where the program originated.

Mrs. Anes conducted an in-service training program recently for teachers and aides who will be involved in the "Learning to Read Better" program.

There are few children who can't read at some level but there are those who cannot read at their grade level. This program which is structured around the components of the reading process through which the reader turns printed symbols into meaningful language, she explained. Mrs. Anes went on to explain further that visual training, decoding (learning that letters make sounds and sounds make words), reading and comprehension are all a part of the program. Students are accepted into the "Learning to Read Better Program" on the basis of classroom teacher recommendations, the results of a group-administered standardized reading achievement test and an individually administered word recognition test. Parental permission is required for all students entering the program.

Instruction in the reading room is limited to small groups, grouped according to their test scores and individual diagnosis. These groups vary from four to eight students depending on the amount of individualization each ability group requires. Older children are never put in groups with younger children. If the skill level of an older child does not allow him to receive instruction with his age groups, he is treated individually until he can fit into a group.

Students attend their regular classes in addition to participation in their special reading classes where instruction in a reading room is given by a teacher and teaching aide. The teaching aides have been trained in phonics and structural analysis skills and though they perform some clerical duties, their primary responsibility is to teach. Since the program is structured around components of the reading process. Daily training is provided in visual perception, decoding and comprehension.

In the elementary school where the program is being introduced, the instructional time is one hour per day for four days each week with the group spending 30 minutes with the aide decoding, phonics, structural analysis and vocabulary development. The group also spends 30 minutes with the reading teacher, receiving individually paced visual training for approximately five to eight minutes and completing reading and/or comprehension exercises for the remaining 22 minutes. Each child completes comprehension exercises at his own rate and the teacher [illegible].

Classroom management techniques allow the teaching of as many as 25 to 40 individual mini-lessons on specific problems during the time period.

Children will stay in the program for as long as it takes each child to reach his optimum growth. Grouping is flexible and children change groups as soon as their skill level dictates, Mrs. Anes added.

The Learning to Read Better in-service training session as administered by Mrs. Anes [illegible] and aides to administer the Michigan Adoption Program under Title I and Title IVC.

Chris Bentley, Title I co-ordinator in the Charlevoix Schools, said that Ralph Raymer, K-6 principal, Sue Tillotson, Barbara Wilson,

Knight on the Town

Paying the Price

It was midway in the first quarter and the Ferris State College Bulldogs held a tenuous 3-0 lead over Alma College. Intermittent rains the week before had left the field somewhat slippery. Even with spikes, footing was less than sure; running backs and pass receivers made their cuts gingerly.

FSC's Bob Alger patrolled from his free safety position with a special hunger this week. Already he had two interceptions on the season, enough to tie the school career record of nine and put him right on track for his goal of seven this year, his final year as a college player.

One would be enough, though, today, he thought. One interception would set a new school record.

As adept as he was at pass defense, Alger was feared equally by opposing offensive squads as a tackler. Coming into the 1980 season with a team high of 145 career tackles, he was the type who always seemed to find the action and get in on the stop.

It was one reason the Charlevoix product had been named NAIA Division Defensive Player of the Week just the previous week.

That instinctive tendency to pursue the ball is probably what caused him to rush into the middle on an Alma College dive play that had already been stopped, for all purposes, by front line FSC defenders.

As Alger arrived at the ball, three or four tacklers had stopped the runner's forward progress and the whistle had blown. Bob pulled up just short of the gang tacklers still trying to pull the runner down, but the slippery turf gave way under his right shoe and he slid into an awkward version of the splits just as the pile lurched forward and fell on top of him.

It was an odd feeling in his left knee, at first, devoid of pain because of the nerves detached when the ligament tore. But it was a feeling Alger knew only too well. Last year an early season partial tear in the medial ligament of that same left knee sidelined him on the bench for the duration.

He limped off the field with help and, by the second half, was rooting the Bulldogs on from the sidelines in street clothes.

That night he was admitted to the hospital. The diagnosis was a severe tear of the cruciate ligament, a ligament on the inside of the knee. While last year's injury was able to be repaired by microsurgical techniques avoiding major surgery, the damage [illegible] knee was much more extensive.

At 11 a.m. last week Monday, two days after the injury, Bob was wheeled into the operating room.

By Monday afternoon the doctors had performed their magic and, amazingly, they ventured an excellent prognosis. With proper therapy, the doctors told Alger, his left knee would be stronger than it was before. Probably even stronger than his right which he had injured in high school and actually considered his "bad" knee.

Therapy is still a few months off for Alger, however, who will be hobbling around in a full leg cast for the next six to eight weeks. When it does eventually come off, he will start a rigorous program of muscle toning and lifting exercises to build his weight back up.

Such chores are no stranger to Alger or any other athlete hoping to make a good college ball team.

This past summer, for instance, Alger prepared for the football season with a religious schedule of running three days a week and lifting five days a week - all sandwiched between a full time job at the Big Rock nuclear generating plant.

If it all seems a bit like the myth of Sisyphus in which a poor wretch is doomed by the gods to push a boulder up a mountain only to have it roll down each time he nears the peak, Bob Alger doesn't see it that way at all.

"I guess I was a little depressed at first," he says, "But when I look back on all the work and see what great shape I'm in now, except for the knee, I figure it was worth every minute."

During those long hours of work did he ever dream about playing ball past college?

"Oh, maybe I thought about the pro's a couple of years ago," said Alger, "Maybe even a couple of weeks ago, (laughing). But with my past injuries, I'd be at a disadvantage from the first time I walked into a training camp."

A multiple letter winner in football, basketball and track during his career at Charlevoix High School, Alger would now like nothing more than to get into high school coaching.

He is pursuing a Bachelors Degree in technical education at Ferris State with a minor in physical education. He will graduate with perfect credentials for a high school looking for a drafting teacher and a football coach.

Last Friday, one week after his injury, Alger was released from the hospital. For someone whose leg had just been cut on and his senior year as a tri-captain ended, his spirits were surprisingly buoyant.

"No I'm not turned off by the violence of football at all, not even after this," he said when asked if he thought mothers should round up their sons off the fields immediately, "You can get hurt worse than I did just walking across the street."

"If parents feel that way about their kids playing football, then they might just as well lock their kids up in the house and not let them out at all," he added.

By the time this is read, Alger will have spent his first Saturday on the sidelines as an honorary coach, a title bestowed upon him by head coach Nick Coso. As a Detroit sportswriter said at the beginning of the year, Alger has done everything for the FSC team but coach so now, as they say, he has done it all.

But deep down one can tell that he still would've liked that tenth interception and ironically, Blake Fry, who replaced Alger in the backfield after his injury against Alma, promptly intercepted to stop a drive. Ferris went on to win, [illegible].

No regrets, though.

"If I would have known way last spring that I'd get injured in the fourth game of the season, I still would have gone through all the work and done everything the same," says Alger, who adds with a chuckle, "Except maybe run up on that last play."

Coach Nick Coso makes clear the title of honorary coach on Bob Alger's cast.

City Council

[illegible], the council stood fast on the variance requirement and put the matter on the agenda of the October 20 Board of Appeals meeting.

In a [illegible] to the local anti-nuclear lobby, the council narrowly voted down a resolution supporting a recent Nuclear Regulatory Commission order requiring Consumers Power Company to file an environmental impact statement before expanding their spent fuel pool.

In a September 19 ruling, the NRC ordered that an impact statement be done under the National Environmental Policy Act. Though plant officials have argued that the plant was built before NEPA took effect in 1969, the NRC ruled that the proposed expansion of Big Rock's spent fuel pool from its present capacity of 193 fuel rods to a capacity of 441 was a significant enough undertaking to warrant an impact statement.

Alderman Jeff Porter criticized the cost-effectiveness of environmental impact statements saying, "We've had to do impact statements for almost every project we've started in the past five years and I think they have just been a big waste of money."

Alderman Shirley Roloff supported the resolution as presented to the council by Joanne Bier saying that such a study would increase public awareness of the Big Rock spent fuel pool expansion proposal. Bier also pointed out that Consumers Power is mounting a challenge to the NRC ruling and that action by the city would have bearing on whether the order would actually be carried out.

Following Roloff's motion for adoption of the resolution, the council split [illegible] against it with Roloff and Ivan Whitley voting yes and Earl Munns, Ray Weeks and Porter opposing.

In other action, the council:

-Sent a large audience home disappointed when it opted to table action on appointment of an airport manager and awarding of a fixed base operation contract. Councilmen hesitated to act on the matters without Alderman Robert Timms present. Timms arrived late at Monday's council meeting after being involved with the repair of phone cables across the Pine River Channel.

-Tabled action on a request by the Weathervane Inn for an entertainment permit allowing movies to be shown and drinks served on the Weathervane's outdoor deck.

-Approved a site plan submitted by Charles Taylor for restrooms at his [illegible].

-Instructed City Manager James Brinker to pursue a further recount of the city by the Census Bureau. The second preliminary figures for the city, requested after the council's dissatisfaction with the first ones, showed 186 more people for a total of 3,380, still down 210 from the 1970 census.

Cleaning, Nixon and phones

EVERY SPRING, as you know, the city of Charlevoix holds Clean-Up Days in the various wards, allowing residents to dispose of their discardibles at the curb at no charge.

It's a fine time to clean out the basement, the attic, the closets — and get rid of everything that has been collecting dust.

But is once a year enough?

That's the question posed by my wife and kids over the weekend as they started fall housecleaning. They think most residents would appreciate twice-a-year pickups — once in the spring and once in the fall.

If you agree, why not give your alderman a jingle? The city council might be able to schedule another pickup before the snow flies.

A fall clean-up makes sense, particularly with the home-heating season upon us. The less junk you have accumulated, the better your chances of avoiding a house fire this winter.

Furthermore, a fall clean-up would make the spring clean-up a lot easier.

BEFORE the election, I think we had better get a statement from Ronald Reagan on what role — if any — former President Richard Nixon will play in his administration — if he wins (and the polls are pointing in that direction.)

In a far-reaching interview Sunday in Parade magazine, the former president speculated that since he and the GOP contender see eye-to-eye on foreign policy, Reagan might find some kind of work for him to do if he is elected. He suggested that he might fit in somewhere as a "counselor or negotiator."

A Reagan aide has dismissed Nixon's proposal, saying the old man is "halucinating."

However, I think the American people are entitled to know before the election if Reagan has any intention of putting Nixon back in public service.

Mind you, Nixon might not do a fine job in some areas. But I am afraid his past record would tarnish a new administration right from the start.

Remember, Nixon is the man who almost toppled the American system of government with his lies and his "hate lists."

Reagan will have trouble enough running this free-wheeling land without a millstone called Richard Nixon hanging about his neck.

HOW DEPENDENT are you on your telephone?

That question was answered for many of us over the weekend when phone lines under Pine River Channel went kaput.

At this point it is uncertain what went wrong, but there is a strong possibility that the submerged cable was knicked by a passing freighter.

At first it was a relief not to have the phone ringing every 10 minutes. But after a while a feeling of isolation began to set in. Sunday afternoon we began receiving calls, but we still couldn't make them.

Then panic reared its ugly head. What if the house caught fire? Who would notify the Fire Department on the other side of the channel?

By the time this reaches print, the lines should be repaired ... and none too soon.

The telephone is one of our oldest public utilities. But it is also one of the most important and we would be hard-pressed to get along without it.

A Special Proclamation

The following proclamation was passed, as a resolution, unanimously by the Charlevoix City Council Monday night and signed by Mayor Sam Supernaw.

We live in a world of marvelous technological progress, where continents and oceans can be spanned in mere hours. Through modern communication, we can contact people anywhere in the world in minutes. Men have walked upon the moon. Yet, in all corners of the earth, poverty, sickness, loneliness and starvation are yet to be found, and millions still need understanding, compassion, love, and assistance.

It is toward this objective, service to the needy of the world, that more than 33,000 Lions Clubs, comprised of 1.3 million members, are at work in 150 nations and geographical territories around the globe. These one million men, unified by humanitarian service, have but one objective: to bring to the needy and lonely the help and assistance they need to live with grace and dignity.

On October 8, 1980, the 33,000 clubs of the International Association of Lions Clubs will celebrate the unity of purpose which is best defined by the motto of the world-wide Lions organization: "We Serve."

To make all people more fully aware of the significance of the achievements of the Lions Club members at work today throughout the world, I, Sam Supernaw, do hereby proclaim October 8, 1980, as World Lions Service Day.

I urge all citizens of Charlevoix to mark this occasion as a special observance in recognition of the numerous services provided by the Charlevoix Lions Club to the needy and the blind.

I witness thereof, I have hereunto set my hand.

Samuel Supernaw, Mayor
Charlevoix, Michigan

Letters: Three Joes

Will the real Joe McDonough please stand up

To the Editor:

There is a problem in St. James, Beaver Island of three Joe McDonough's.

Joseph H. "Bud" McDonough owns and operates McDonough's Market. His nephew, Joseph H. McDonough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence McDonough of Charlevoix, is a Ferris State College electronics graduate who lives on the island and commutes frequently to Bay City and Saginaw to repair computers.

The third Joe McDonough, son of the late John and Rae McDonough, is from Round Lake, Illinois and is not related to the other McDonoughs on the island. This Joe McDonough moved to Beaver Island this past summer and has been active in several anti-nuclear activities reported in the Courier.

This is to clarify any misunderstanding regarding the three "Joe McDonough's" on Beaver Island.

Rose Bergmann knows Chx. Township very well

Meet Charlevoix

By PEG OHLE

Rose Bergmann of Charlevoix Township has been active in township affairs for many years. This week the Courier talks with her about some of the problems the township has faced during the years, some of the changes she has seen, and something about the Township Association which she helped form.

COURIER: How long have you been treasurer of Charlevoix Township?

BERGMANN: For 30 years. I just kind of walked into the job without any previous training. I learned to do by doing. But when the townships adopted a uniform bookkeeping system, I studied the method and began keeping the books accordingly.

COURIER: You must have seen many changes in the township during the last 30 years.

BERGMANN: Yes. The township was a small rural area with a tax roll of just over $5,000 when I started. Now the tax roll is almost [illegible].

COURIER: What are some of the big problems you have faced during the years?

BERGMANN: The Medusa Cement Company, zoning, sewer and water hookups, roads, annexation to the City of Charlevoix, fire protection, to name a few.

COURIER: How is township government constituted?

BERGMANN: There's the supervisor, clerk, treasurer, and two trustees. The supervisor and clerk are the executive members. Most of the book work is now done by the clerk, but the treasurer is responsible for sending out the tax bills, collecting taxes, co-signing checks, and paying the water bills. The main function of the whole township board is to govern the township and set policies.

COURIER: Who are the other officers at the present time?

BERGMANN: Oscar Stroud is the supervisor, JoAnn Elzinga is the clerk, and Dale Glass and Don Smith are the trustees.

COURIER: As you look back, what do you remember as significant accomplishments of the township?

BERGMANN: We were the first township in the area to be zoned - in the late 1950's, and we were among the first townships to vote millage for road construction. From 1955 up to just recently, township residents were paying a voted two mills for road construction. We're also proud of the new township athletic field which is on land donated by Ed Shanahan.

COURIER: What is the biggest matter of discussion now?

BERGMANN: Probably township annexation to the city. It goes back a long ways. In 1968, the township board asked the city to annex the township, but in 1970, the township people voted against it, mostly because the city offered no inducements. We have tried to cooperate all the way, but we have to have assurances that the township will receive needed services. We even had a Regional Planning Commission, made up of representatives from the township and the city, a few years back and they hired Williams and Works, professional planners, to develop a plan.

COURIER: We understand you were instrumental in founding the Charlevoix County Chapter of the Michigan Township Association and served as its first president.

BERGMANN: That's right. Most of the townships in the county belong to it and it's been very useful in helping newly-elected officials learn about their jobs.

COURIER: How often do you meet?

BERGMANN: About ten times a year. We discuss our mutual problems and hear talks by specialists in various fields - legislators, lawyers, auditors, and representatives from the state association.

COURIER: Can you name some?

BERGMANN: Well, recently we met with members of the County Board of Commissioners and the County Road Commission. Last month we had a meeting with Herb Norton, director of township services for the Michigan Township Association, who discussed the three property tax amendments that will be on the ballot in November – Tisch, Coalition, and Smart-Bullard.

COURIER: Why is township government important?

BERGMANN: It's closest to the people. It's run by their neighbors. There are 15 townships in Charlevoix County and over 1,200 townships in the state.

COURIER: Do the township people attend the regular meetings of the Charlevoix Township Board?

BERGMANN: Oh, yes, we always have several residents and many of them participate in the discussions. Eight or ten people attend faithfully.

COURIER: We notice all the family pictures on your wall. How many children do you have?

BERGMAN: We have seven children.

COURIER: We bet they learned a lot about township government while they were growing up.

The board voted to give Cooper a certificate of completion following his completion of the GED test with good marks. The certificate was necessary so he could enlist. The board was advised by U.S. Navy Recruiting officer president, Ed Thompson, that a high school education or its equivalent is now necessary to join the Navy.

The board returned to the bid for a pick-up truck-snowplow combination for which bids were opened at a recent meeting. Steven G. Smith reported on some research he had done on the issue and recommended that the bid submitted by Fochtman-Chevrolet Buick in the amount of $7,742 for a 1979 Chevrolet with plow be accepted. The Board approved the purchase.

The principals in the three schools, Ralph Raymer of the Elementary School, Vincent Chew of the Middle School and Vane H. Smith of the High School reported on the reading programs being utilized in the three schools. Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren reported on the recent report he had received from Dr. Ted. K. Kilty, reading consultant of Kalamazoo.

Ken Boss of the Extra-Curricular committee, reported that the committee had met and had discussed qualifications for a band director to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Michael Filkins effective Oct. 24. He also said that numerous applications for the post were being screened.

Mrs. Doris Pearl reported on a meeting of the Professional Studies Committee.

At the opening the meeting Mrs. Pearl and Michael Gibbons, recent appointees to the board to fill vacancies, were sworn in as members of the board.

Boyne City to sponsor hayride, barn dance

The Boyne City Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a Moonlight Hayride and Barn Dance Sunday night, October 12, from 6 to 11 p.m. The event will be held at Windmill Farms on the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road and will feature beer, wine, cider, hot dogs and live country music. Prices are $15 for couples and $8 for singles.

Reading program explained

aides Anne Fiedler, Kay Campbell and Sherry VanLoo received their training here in preparation for introducing the program here.

Mrs. Anes will return at least three times to monitor the progress of the program here and is always available for consultations. She was accompanied here by her assistant Sue [illegible].

In commenting on the program Mrs. Bentley said "We feel that we have something in this program that we've been looking for...something that will reach all children who need additional help in learning to read better."

Edward K. Shanahan

Shanahan elected

Edward K. Shanahan of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club was recently elected president of the Board of Trustees of Camp Daggett.

Other officers are Robert Brummeler of the Petoskey Rotary Club, Mike Hills of the Petoskey Kiwanis Club, and Norma Eineder of Boyne City, member at large from Charlevoix County.

Also serving on the Board of Trustees are John DiMartino of the Boyne City Rotary Club, Russ Eineder of the Boyne City Lions Club, Clark Ketchum of Petoskey, Emmet County member at large, Dick Lauterback of the Walloon Lake Lions Club, Ken Lemon of the East Jordan Lions Club, Marshall Lincoln of the Petoskey Lions Club, William McCutchey of the Little Traverse Bay Kiwanis Club, Pat McFall of the Petoskey Business and Professional Women's Club, Mike [illegible] of the Harbor Springs Kiwanis Club, Tom Taber of the Petoskey Jaycees, Art Treloar, life member from Petoskey, Chuck McDowell of the East Jordan Rotary Club, and Marge Greenway of the Petoskey Zonta Club.

Camp Daggett was established on Walloon Lake 55 years ago to provide camping facilities for boys and girls in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. This year, 575 campers, 80 percent of them local children, attended.

Members of local service clubs not only serve on the Board of Trustees but do much of the physical maintenance work at the camp each year.

Christmas Bazaar to feature work by several local craftsmen

"Exciting" is the one word used by Andrea Mathews to describe the second annual Christmas Bazaar to be held in the Market Mall Saturday under the sponsorship of 12 artists and craftsmen whose work will be displayed.

The event features handcrafted items that are ideal for unique and unusual Christmas gifts.

The bazaar will be held in the Market Mall at [illegible] Bridge St. from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 11.

Why the word 'exciting' to describe the plans and preparations? Because when an artist or craftsman loves what he or she is doing there is no limit to what can be created, Mrs. Mathews explained. Since each person enjoys his or her particular media, they have enhanced and expanded their artistic abilities and talents.

The group which will offer their work at the Christmas Bazaar is composed of local residents, many whom are friends and neighbors.

Mrs. Mathews, for instance, will be offering her unique wind chimes in addition to other pottery pieces including [illegible] holders, [illegible] flower packets and pots of all kinds handcrafted in stoneware clay. She will also offer for sale her book entitled "From the honey jar and more" which she will autograph on request.

Mrs. Puhl, will feature gingerbread houses that serve as tissue box covers, calico angels that serve as treetop or table decorations and candy canes.

Judy Crook will feature hand-woven yard and wheat straw good luck symbols and Christmas ornaments. Sharon Horn's specialty will be unique woodcraft; Shirley Lusk and Joni Wagner's offerings will include silk and dry flower arrangements for a touch of beauty now or a special event such as Hallowe'en, Thanksgiving or Christmas; dolls, pillows, tote bags, quilts and baby items in creative sewing will be available from Gayle [illegible].

Linda Brown will feature unusual objects in stained glass which she mastered while living in Indianapolis; Dawne Hard, who has been potting for four years, will show "down home" pots including piggy banks, [illegible] mugs, and a wide selections of pots and bowls; porcelain Christmas ornaments in varied designs finished in rich but subtle shades which can be personalized with names and dates will be offered by Susan Miller.

Peggy Spang has a touch of nostalgia expressed in oil on wood or tin. Among the items will be napkin holders, oil can ring holders, wooden salad tongs, salt and pepper shakers, a wooden sled and a wide choice of small wooden Christmas ornaments; hand knit and crocheted items for the young fry, hot mats and hang-up kitchen towels and Christmas tree ornaments will be the offering of Delora Richardson and Midge Bourissau; Rex Supernaw will feature wood products including paper towel holders, napkin, flower pot, knife and candle holders, mug trees, frames and [illegible].

And, if you don't find what you're looking for, the artists and craftsmen, in most instances, will accept special orders in your choice of size or color.

The Christmas Bazaar will be one of features of the Apple Festival, planned for Saturday, Oct. 11.

Calico angels that will double as tree top decorations or a table decoration at Christmas and gingerbread houses in a choice of colors that serves as a clever tissue box cover will be among the many gift items to be offered at the second annual Christmas Bazaar at the Market Mall Saturday, Oct. 11, by Sandy Puhl, above and all other artists and craftsmen. The event will be held from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

A FLIRTATIOUS FALL

The look for fall is reminiscent of the '40's. There's an extra bit of flirtatiousness in the '80 interpretation of these styles which bares the way for more fine jewelry

The calf-length skirts are slit, sometimes once, sometimes twice, to bear a little knee or a little thigh. And jewelry plays it up. A gold anklet, perhaps one accented with a diamond, draws the eye to that well-turned ankle.

Most blouses have a plunging V-neck, a perfect canvas for a splash of gold or silver and gemstones. Pearls in all shapes and sizes are very much in vogue. Bejewelled collars and lariat styles also fill the bare area beautifully.

The flowing, sleek line of the narrow lapels can be accentuated with a bar or stick pin.

Brooches are back, mostly for securing scarves and ties.

Since hair is being worn in twists and rolls and fancy braids, hair ornaments accented with gemstones are new this fall.

If you have a particular outfit you'd like to accessorize, wear it into our store. Our trained personnel will show you many possibilities for making the best of it.

A special occasion coming up? A wedding perhaps? We've got jewelry to make the bride and her entourage stand out for miles.

We also have cuff links and tuxedo studs for the lucky groom and his moral supporters.

For your every jewelry need, come to Rausch Jewelry. We stand on a reputation of knowledge, ethics and good taste qualities that set us apart as an American Gem Society [illegible]

Wedding

Sulkowski-Avery

Diana Sulkowski and Christopher Allen Avery exchanged their wedding vows during a single ring service at St. Mary's Church Saturday.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Betty Sulkowski of East Jordan, Norman Sulkowski and Mr. and Mrs. Valois Avery of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Fr. R. Dale Magoon officiated at the service in the presence of 175 guests. Arrangements of white gladioli graced the altar for the ceremony. An arrangement of daisies, baby's breath and greens were on the Blessed Virgin altar. Mrs. Jenne Brewster, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. [illegible].

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. For her wedding she chose a gown of white satin fashioned with a scoop neckline appliqued with lace, a fitted bodice with a satin sash at the waist, long sheer sleeves edged with lace and a full skirt accented with Galoon lace at the hemline made by Mrs. Don Finley, sister of the bridegroom. Her fingertip veil was of embroidered lace. She carried a bouquet of [illegible] and daisies.

The honor attendant was Mrs. Henry Peters of Boyne City and bridesmaids were Mrs. Don Finley and Mrs. Gregory Seese, sisters of the bridegroom. They wore identical light blue spaghetti-strapped gowns worn with navy blue velvet bolero jackets accented with lace inserts. Each carried a single red rose baby's breath and greens.

Teri Finley, niece of the bridegroom, wearing a white eyelet gown was flower girl and Danny Avery, nephew of the bridegroom was ringbearer.

Joseph Avery of Sault Ste. Marie assisted his brother as best man. Don Finley and Gregory Seese, brothers-in-law of the bridegroom, were groomsmen and brothers of the couple, Patrick Avery and Ernest Sulkowski of East Jordan, seated the guests.

A reception, hosted by the parents of the couple, followed at the American Legion post home.

After a northern Michigan wedding trip, the couple is at home at [illegible] Marion Center Road, Charlevoix.

The bride is a student at North Central Michigan College. The bridegroom is employed at the Charlevoix Manufacturing Company.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Avery at their home Friday evening.

Women's Retreat planned for Boyne

The 9th annual women's retreat will be held at the Boyne Mountain Resort on Friday, November 7 and Saturday, November 8. The retreat will provide an opportunity to join with other women for inspiration, fellowship and encouragement.

Ann Kiemel of Boston, Mass., and Bob Benson from Hamitage, Tenn. will be the featured speakers. Whether Ann is talking to a crowd of people in a large auditorium, one person in a hospital corridor or private apartment, her approach is unique. Rather than person to person, it's soul to soul, as Ann shares her love and commitment to Jesus Christ, with childlike simplicity and honesty.

Ann's books, "I'm Out to Change My World", "It's Incredible", and "I Love the Word Impossible", describe her day-to-day encounters with people while illuminating her courage, faith and sense of humor. All three books are among the top best sellers in inspirational literature.

Ann held the position of Dean of Women at Eastern Nazarene College in Mass., from 1971-1976. Today, she is among the most widely respected and requested speakers in America.

The seminar sessions will further develop the retreat's theme entitled "Today's World". They are as follows: Skip Ross, "The King's Formula for Dynamic Living," Audrey Tennant, "Christian World View," Carol Kent, "Learning to be a Lover", Margie Graham, "Coping With Drug Abuse by Youth", Marion Kohn "Harold, A Portrait in Courage", and Dr. James Kennedy "Like a Mighty Army" a film on witnessing.

A selection of Christian books, records and tapes will be available in the bookstore.

Instrumental and vocal music will be brought by Skip Ross of Rockford, Michigan, Evelyn Smiley of Northville, Michigan and Jeanne Jensen of Charlevoix.

A special Community Banquet, for men and women of all ages will be the highlight of the retreat weekend. Ann Kiemel will be giving a Christian insight into the theme "Today's World," and Skip Ross will be the featured vocalist. The program and dinner will be held November 8 at 7:00 p.m. in the Boyne Mountain Convention Hall.

Reservations for the retreat must be in on or before Tuesday, October 28, 1980 to Win-Some Women, Box 503, Petoskey, Michigan 49770. More information, registration forms and banquet tickets may be obtained by contacting your local area coordinator, Dorothy Custer, or they may be picked up at local churches or Oleson's and Glen's Market.

Make your own plate

Five-year old Aaron Pope, above, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pope, is holding a plasticware plate he designed at the Charlevoix Cooperative Nursery School last year. Each year students at the school design their own plates. This year the plate designing session will be open to all children in the community and will be held in the evening on Tuesday, October 14 from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. At the session, the children draw their original design on a translucent plate-sized disc. The discs are then sent to a Texas company which transfers the designs by a heat process onto plasticware plates. The process takes about eight weeks so the plates are expected to be back in time for Christmas gift giving. Children and their parents are asked to come to the nursery school room in the Elementary School on Oct. 14 between 6 and 8:30 p.m. Plates cost $3 each or two for $5.50. Proceeds from the plate sales will be used for supplies and equipment for the school.

45-Year Subscriber

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mayne of Charlevoix are long-time subscribers to the Charlevoix Courier.

Their subscription card in the Courier files indicates they began getting the Courier on July 1, 1935, which subtracts out to 45 years.

"We read every word in the Courier", Mayne told us last week, "especially during the winter months when we are in Florida." The Maynes spend their winters in Englewood, Fla.

Mayne retired about ten years ago after serving the City of Charlevoix as clerk for 23 years. He also spent many years in the gasoline business.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayne have been married 48 years and have two daughters, one of whome lives in Troy and another who lives in San Diego. They plan to go to San Diego next spring to see their grandson graduate from high school.

The story of Whiting Memorial Park-Part 1

By PEG [illegible]

Back in 1923, Charlevoix County accepted the gift of 100 acres along the south shore of Lake Charlevoix in Eveline Township from Perry Whiting of Los Angeles, Calif.

It was stipulated that the land be used for a public park and that it be called "Whiting Memorial Park" in memory of Perry Whiting's father, Ryerson Whiting, who homesteaded the land in [illegible].

Today, the park is the setting for meetings and picnics of many organizations, headquarters for numerous family reunions, and the favorite campgrounds of hundreds of local and downstate families.

The County manages Whiting Park through a manager, Phile Sumner, and a Parks and Recreation Commission made up of Robert Stowe, Tom Wieland, Clayton Healey, Thomas Gerlock, Ed Rebman, John Ferguson, Oral Sutliff, Oscar W. Ward, Herbert Griffin, and Wayne Saunders.

An interesting sidelight to the above list of names is that Perry Whiting and Clayton Healey have a common ancestor. Charles Healey, who came to Charlevoix County in 1868, was the father of Melissa Whiting, Perry's mother, and therefore Perry's grandfather. Charles was also the great grandfather of Clayton Healey.

Boyne City historian Ferris Lewis recently supplied us with a copy of "Perry, Experiences of a Pioneer" by Perry Whiting, which was published in 1930. Because it tells such a vivid story of pioneer life in Charlevoix County and because of the author's connection with Whiting Park, the Courier will run excerpts from the book in the next few issues. The first excerpt follows:

Father had chopped down the trees, burned the logs, and made a little clearing on the shore of Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix). Their household goods had not arrived as yet, so they made plates from chips of trees, and knives, forks, and spoons from the same material.

Mother cooked on an open fire outside, by a "stump" (which is the part of a tree left above the ground after the tree has been felled). There were no horses in that part of the country and only about one settler out of five or six had a team of oxen, a cow, or any other domestic animal.

It was impossible to procure milk, butter, eggs, or fresh meat, except what wild game the settler was able to shoot from time to time. Consequently, all the meat or butter anyone could procure consisted of salt pork or "sow belly" and the grease from it had to serve the purpose of butter, lard, etc.

During that summer and winter (1870 and 1871), Father had to carry our supplies on his back from Charlevoix, a distance of sixteen miles. In the winter, 50 pounds of flour was carried many times through snow one and two feet deep.

In the spring, when it was time to plant their crops, if one settler in five had a cow and a steer or an ox, they yoked them together and he would plough and harrow his own and his neighbor's lands, and they would pay him by working for him.

As there was practically no money in that part of the country, it was necessary for them to exchange labor and supplies of every kind. When a man wanted to build a house,, he would fell the trees, cut the logs into proper lengths, get a neighbor who owned an ox team to drag the logs together, and invite all the settlers within a radius of ten or 12 miles to a "raising bee" on a certain day. Usually about ten or 12 families would attend.

Everyone considered it not only a pleasure, but a duty or an unwritten law to be there with his wife and children. The women would prepare the banquet of corn bread, grease, sow belly, beans, etc., while the men cut and fitted the logs together and lifted and rolled one on top of another until the heavy part of the new home was erected, after which they celebrated.

Score doesn't tell truth about Rayders' effort against Chiefs

The Confidence was there. So was the Execution, for most of the game. But, to the chagrin of the Charlevoix Rayders and their hardiest fans who braved Friday's chilly temperatures, the Fumble reared its ugly head as well and almost single handedly demoralized the Rayders at a point when Cheboygan looked almost [illegible].

Scott Kelly sprints out on a keeper.

Although a second quarter fumble led to the Chiefs' 14 point lead at halftime, it was a third quarter fumble deep in Cheboygan territory after the Rayders narrowed the gap to seven points that really left [illegible].

Undefeated Cheboygan methodically took the lead with a five yard run in the first quarter by Mike Trombly and an extra point by Chris Elliot.

Following a Charlevoix fumble on their own ten in the second period, Cheboygan's Elliot ran seven yards for a touchdown and Jeff Pattison this time kicked the conversion for a 14-0 halftime lead.

Charlevoix's offense caught fire early in the second half as Quarterback Scott Kelly connected with halfback Dave Buday for two nice, long-yardage passes that brought the Rayders to the Cheboygan eight yard line. From there, Kelly ran the ball into the endzone and [illegible] the extra point to make the score 14-7.

At this point in the game, the momentum was visibly swinging to Charlevoix with Mike Loper leading a charged up defense to stymie the Chiefs and the offense continuing to move the ball well. They moved it, in fact, deep into Chief's territory and were threatening to tie the [illegible] ballgame when the ball was fumbled and Cheboygan recovered.

From then on, the Rayders seemed to lapse into a less-spirited tempo and got burned for two more Cheboygan touchdowns on long runs.

Chris Elliot did the most damage with a sudden 53 yard burst after intercepting a Kelly pass. His touchdown and extra point put Cheboygan up 21-7 with only minutes to go in the game and dashed whatever hopes the Rayders held on to a the time.

Insult to injury was added a short time later when Cheboygan tackle Wayne Carpenter picked up a blocked Charlevoix punt and lumbered 41 yards for the final score, for which the extra point was missed.

The final score of 27-7 hardly indicated the tough battle Charlevoix waged for three quarters against a 5-0 team which has not been taken to task to much extent by any other teams in the league so far.

Loper had an outstanding night on defense logging 19 tackles for the Rayders. Tim Krueger, Dave Buday and Ross Carey each had 10 tackles.

Jeff Drury also had a good game in the defensive backfield with two crucial broken up passes.

Offensively, the Rayders totaled 276 yards with 135 passing and 141 on the ground.

Kelly hit 50 percent of his attempts with eight completions in 16 attempts. Of his targets, Ross Carey had two catches for 35 yards, Dave Buday had 4 for 58 yards, Mark Beaudoin caught one for eight yards and Mike Zednicek caught one for 35 yards.

Beaudoin led in the rushing department with 76 yards in 12 carries. Kelly had 40 yards in 10 carries, Jeff Morgridge was nine for four, Mark Morgan had six yards in two carries and Buday had 10 yards in four carries.

Next week Charlevoix plays its Homecoming game against Grayling at Kipke Field with the kickoff set for 7:30 p.m.

Frosh waxed by Cheboygan

In freshman football activity last week, Cheboygan [illegible] Charlevoix [illegible]. In the first quarter, Charlevoix capped a long drive with Pat Mitchell going over from the one for the score. Cheboygan answered with a drive and score from the three yard line.

The Chiefs broke it open in the second quarter with 47 yard run for a touchdown but Charlevoix came back with another six-pointer by Mitchell from five yards out. Shawn Hartnett scored the extra point. Cheboygan went into the endzone once more before the half on a two yard run to give the Chiefs a 20-13 halftime lead.

Third quarter explosives from the Cheboygan offense in the form of 62 and 30 yard runs put the game out of reach for Charlevoix and led to the final score of [illegible].

Coach Dave Smith was pleased with his offensive line of Ron Hartley, Jeff Reynolds, Jeff Lemerand, Mike Plachner, Bill Tillen and Gary Angerman. Smith also had words of praise for running backs [illegible].

The frosh play this Wednesday at Traverse City where gametime will be 6 p.m.

JV's fall to Chiefs as well

The Rayder JV football squad was soundly thrashed by Cheboygan Thursday [illegible]. Charlevoix Coach Charles Bentley termed the Cheboygan squad "well drilled" and the stats [illegible].

Cheboygan scored six touchdowns on runs of [illegible] yards, 28 yards, nine yards, nine yards, 57 yards and 10 yards.

Charelvoix's lone touchdown was scored with 3:12 to go in the second quarter when Quarterback Jeff Trimper tossed a 28 yard pass to Mark Oostermeyer for six points. The extra point was missed.

Bentley said that the Rayder team was simply "outplayed" by the Chiefs and that the Cheboygan team executed nearly perfectly on offense.

This week's game is on Thursday at Grayling and starts at 6:30 p.m.

Holiday Cookbook Contest

$150 In Prizes To Be Given Away!

•$10 cash for each of the winners in all 5 categories.

COURIER HOLIDAY COOKING CONTEST RULES

1. Contestants are invited to enter as many categories as they wish but may submit only one recipe per category.

2. Recipes should be typed or printed on a sheet of paper with the category indicated.

3. To each recipe there should be a separate sheet of paper attached with the contestants name, address and phone number. The contestant's name should not appear on the actual recipe. As each recipe is received, it will be assigned a number which will be logged with the contestant's name. The names will be removed from the recipes so the judges will not know whose recipes they are judging.

4. Ingredients should be listed in accurate, easily understood amounts and in the order that they are used.

5. Recipes do not have to be completely original. They may be old standards or new variations on familiar recipes. The more original the recipe is, however, the better its chance of winning.

6. If duplicate recipes are received, the one submitted first will be accepted. We will log date and time recipes are received.

7. All contestants must agree to permit their recipes to be published in a special cookbook section of the Charlevoix Courier.

8. Employees of the Charlevoix Courier and Petoskey News-Review and members of their families are not eligible to win the contest.

9. A panel of judges will evaluate the recipes submitted and name three finalists in each of the five categories. The 15 finalists will be notified and asked to prepare their recipes for a final judging session. Judges will then sample the entries, name a winner in each category and a grand prize winner of the five winners.

Golfers take 1 of 3

It was one out of three for the Charlevoix Rayder golf team last week as they won over Cheboygan 166 to 189 but lost to Elk Rapids 178 to 179 and to Petoskey and Gaylord in a three-way meet. Petoskey with a score of 175 won the meet followed by Gaylord with a 178 and Charlevoix with a 181.

In the Cheboygan meet Tim Shupert tied the school record of 35 set by Mike Custer in 1977. Gary Drury posted a 42, Doug Drenth, 44 and Jeff Greene, 45.

The JV team made one of its rare appearances in this meet to win by a score of 185 to 211. Bill Joy carded a 43; Steve Cooper, 48; Tom Egler, 47, and [illegible] 49.

Don Russell led the Cheboygan JV with a 46; Mike [illegible] had a 56 and [illegible] 58.

In the triangular meet, Dave Poquette was medalist with a 38 to lead his team to the victory. Brian Grow had 45 and Jim Warner and John [illegible], 46.

Gaylord with a score of 178 was led by Dave [illegible] with a 40; Dwight Kammerer and Kurt Supinger with 44s and Todd Diesing with a 50.

Tim Shupert with a 41; Drury with a 46; Steve Keller with a 46 and Greene with a 48 accounted for the Rayder score of 181.

At Elk Rapids Thursday Shupert and Pete [illegible] tied for medalist honor with a low score of 40. Drury posted a 43 and Keller and [illegible] 47's.

Jim Petermann had a score of 44 and Ken Anderson and John Kennedy 45's for the victors.

Obituaries

LOUISE B. BEUTNER

Louise B. Beutner died on September 27 in the Charlevoix Area Hospital after a long illness. She was born in Charlevoix on November 16, 1905, the daughter of Charles and Mabel Bush and granddaughter of Alexander Bush, pioneer East Jordan businessman. She moved with her family to Ann Arbor in 1918 where she later met her future husband, Edward L. Beutner, while both were graduate students in the Department of Geology at the University of Michigan. They were married on December 2, 1931.

Mrs. Beutner had a lifelong interest in natural history and wrote numerous articles for publication dealing with areas where her husband was stationed during his career as a geologist. After his retirement they moved back to Charlevoix where she chronicled a number of local historical events for the Charlevoix Historical Society.

In addition to her husband she is survived by two sons, Tom Kent Beutner presently of Charlevoix and Edward Chandler Beutner of Lancaster, Pennsylvania. She also leaves a sister, Mrs Helen Sanders of Phoenix, Arizona, and three brothers, Chandler Bush of Grants, New Mexico, Alba Bush of La Selva Beach, California, and Stanley Bush of Whitmore Lake, Michigan. A favorite cousin is Bernice G. McKenney of East Jordan.

After a private prayer service on September 28 the body was cremated for later burial. Arrangements were by the Winchester Funeral Home. Anyone wishing to honor the memory of Louise Beutner may make a contribution to the Charlevoix County Humane Society.

Library now has coupon exchange

The Charlevoix Public Library will now feature a coupon exchange according to Librarian Mary Beth Wallick. People will be able to bring in any coupons they cannot use and pick up coupons they can use in the exchange. All coupons are acceptable including grocery, cash refund and others. Wallick also reminds library users that the magazine exchange is still offered at the library also.

Early winters are nothing new

The pleasant weather that greeted October in Charlevoix County reminded some oldtimers that winter sometimes comes early to the area.

Mrs. James (Myrtle) Gaskins recalls that on Sept. 10, 1943, she took a train from Charlevoix to Chicago in a blizzard of wet snow.

"We had spent the summer in Charlevoix," she said, "and on Sept. 10 we were ready to go home. When we boarded the train, the ground was covered with snow and it was still coming down in heavy flakes."

Church of God to present film

Free Forever, a new film, will be shown at Community Church of God, 222 W. Hurlbut Street in Charlevoix, on Sunday, October 12 at 7:00 p.m. according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, Pastor.

Free Forever is a [illegible] the story of Anthony Zeoli, the "Walking Bible." As a teenager, Anthony Zeoli roamed the streets of South Philadelphia. A mainline heroin addict and seemingly without hope, he was sentenced to a long prison term.

During the prison years, a guard tossed a New Testament into Zeoli's cell and something happened that was to alter his entire life.

Free Forever is a social as well as spiritual message. At a time when a good percentage of our population occupies prison cells and social workers grope for means of rehabilitation, Free Forever points to the true means of changing the life style of troubled youth – faith in God.

Free Forever was directed by Ko Durieux of Evangelische Omroep of the Netherlands and is a Gospel Films, Inc. release.

Inside: Charlevoix wins thrilling Homecoming game in tie-breaker

Charlevoix Courier

Vol 96 No. 42 14 Pages Serving Charlevoix County (Mich) Since 1883 Wednesday, October 15, 1980 25¢

Charlevoix's first try at an autumn Apple Festival was rudely treated by cold and rainy weather Saturday but several people braved the elements to check out a wide variety of local orchard products, above, in East Park. Downtown merchants also reported a brisk day of shopping and large crowds attended the Christmas craft bazaar in the Market Mall. Winners in the poster contest for area students included, from the Char-Em district, Andrea McGarry, Lori Kritcher and Jim Ostrander; third graders Chad DeYoung, Greg Shepard, Billy Bellinger and Tamara Cosgrove; fifth grader Dan O'Brien; sixth graders Sheryl Drews and Becky Christiansen; seventh graders Patrick Vandel and Michelle Gagnon; and eighth graders Melinda Morgan and Jennifer Clock.

Legionnaires Disease confirmed in death of Charlevoix man

A detailed investigation is in process this week following the death October 5 of Leland H. "Jack" Warner of Legionnaires' Disease complications at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

The mysterious disease first identified only recently was officially confirmed on Thursday, October 2 following extensive testing by the Laboratory Division of the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Warner was admitted to Charlevoix Area Hospital on September 19.

Although testing was to be conducted at LexaLite International Corporation where Warner was employed and other areas with which he had regular contact, District Health Department Administrator Gerald Chase said last week that there is no medical documentation of the disease being spread from person to person after an [illegible].

Chase said further that research has not proven conclusively the cause of Legionnaires' Disease and that local testing is being done primarily to gain more scientific knowledge of the disease. A physician from the National Disease Center in Atlanta was expected to arrive in Charlevoix Friday to lead the investigation.

Warner's family consented to the publication of the cause of his death with the statement that, "We hope his death was not in vain but will be helpful for others."

Legionnaires' Disease is a form of pneumonia occuring in discrete outbreaks and sporadic cases. An organism called legionella pneumophila has been identified in patients with Legionnaires' Disease.

According to Chase, the organism is found in many places throughout the environment and that as many as 45,000 cases of the disease probably occur each year but go undetected because the symptoms are very similar to other [illegible].

Only a very small percentage of cases, said Chase, develop into severe cases and when death occurs, it is usually caused by unusual complications of the disease.

Chase said that the District Health Department No. 3 consisting of Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet and Otsego Counties, will be assisting in the follow-up investigation into the source and possible other cases of the disease. Also involved will be the Division of Epidemiology of the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Thousands of additional trout to be planted in fishery build-up

Fish hatchery trucks are expected in Charlevoix late Wednesday night with [illegible] yearling trout to be planted here as part of an effort to beef up the sagging sport fishery in the area.

The trucks will be coming from [illegible] hatcheries from which the Michigan DNR obtained the some of the fish to be planted.

According to local DNR fish biologist Myrl Keller, 10,000 steelhead trout will be planted in Charlevoix this fall, 25,000 German brown trout and 50,000 lake trout.

Thousands more of the six-inch yearlings are to be distributed in other areas between Grand Traverse Bay and Harbor Springs.

The special fall plant of about 200,000 fish on the northwestern coast of Lower Michigan follows a spring plant of 100,000 and is designed to augment a game fish population severely diminished by unlimited gill netting, said Keller.

He cited last summer's large alewife dieoff as a sign of dwindling numbers of the predator game fish and predicted larger such dieoffs in the future unless the trout populations can be built up.

"By planting game fish that aren't for sale on the market," said Keller, "We are trying to beef up the sport fishery in this area which has such a great impact on the local economy and has become so successful in the past."

EPA ship visits; Mesquite coming

Drivers on Bridge Street in downtown Charlevoix last week may have noticed a sizeable vessel with familiar Coast Guard colors berthed at the former Sundew dock on Friday. The Roger R. Simons, a former Coast Guard ship, now flies the flag of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and is a research vessel used for monitoring pollution and water quality in the Great Lakes.

According to an EPA spokesman in Chicago, the Simons was in transit from its port this past summer in Alpena to winter quarters in Milwaukee. It left Charlevoix on Monday morning.

Officers and crew of the U.S.C.G.C. Sundew exchanged ships Saturday with personnel of the Mesquite at the Sault. The Mesquite is expected in its new home port of Charlevoix [illegible].

Election '80

Translating the state proposals into local language

With the 1980 General Election of Tuesday, November 4 less than three weeks away, the Courier starts this week a series of articles explaining what can be found on the ballot this year and how local voters can expect the outcome to affect them. This week, the crucial state referendum tax proposals A, C and D are covered below and Proposal B on the drinking age [illegible] Town". Next week's installment will focus on city, county and township races and ballot questions. The final issue before the election will be devoted to the presidential and legislative races.

By [illegible]

The range of candidates for public office in the November General Election runs from those who would be president of the United States to those who would like to serve their [illegible].

In between, there are those who would like to go to Congress, those who would like to represent us in the State Legislature, and those who seek office at the county level.

The choice of any of these candidates may or may not change our daily lives to a notable degree.

However, there are those who believe that the results of the General Election could affect our lives drastically... These persons refer to the passage of any or all three of the tax proposals on the ballot.

Feelings run from unabashed joy that property taxes could be cut to the barest minimum to deep concern that our school systems and government agencies will suffer from lack of funding and will not be able to provide the services we have [illegible].

Consequences are undoubtedly exaggerated at both ends of the ladder, but there has been enough discussion about the propositions to try to put them into focus.

All three proposals amend the Michigan constitution and all three would substantially reduce the property tax, but [illegible]. The vote on each proposal will be separate, so that all, none, or any combination could be approved.

The three proposals are:

PROPOSAL A, the Smith-Bullard proposal, which substantially reduces the property tax on residential and family-owned and operated agricultural property, but which has the chief objective of attempting to achieve equality in the financing of K-12 education.

Proposal A was drafted by Representatives Ray Smith of Ypsilanti and Perry Bullard of Ann Arbor. It has received the active support of several statewide education groups. This proposal would shift the basis of funding elementary and secondary education from the local property tax to a statewide system of financing education. Currently 47 percent of local education is financed through the property tax.

PROPOSAL C, the Executive-Legislative Coalition proposal, which is a tax relief proposal developed through a coalition process and placed on the ballot by a two-thirds vote in each house of the legislature.

The basic features of this proposal are a reduction in property taxes and a provision to compensate for lost revenue by increasing the sales and use tax rate from the present four percent to five and a half percent. Proposal C was drafted by a task force with representatives from the governor's office, legislative leadership, and various public groups. The goal of the drafters was to make the present tax system more equitable.

Nine bills designed to implement this proposal have already passed the legislature and have been signed by the Governor. They will take effect only if Proposal C is approved by the electorate.

PROPOSAL D, the much-discussed Tisch proposal, is directly aimed at reducing or limiting the property tax. It would require the state to reimburse local governments for some of the loss in property tax, and would place strict limitations on the legislature's ability to increase taxes. The petition drive for this constitutional amendment was organized by Robert Tisch, Shiawassee County Drain

Miss Lister is the daughter of Reverend and Mrs. V.V Lister of Tucson, Arizona. She is the third of ten children. During her high school days she began to see her beautiful talent in a very natural and moving way. In 1970, she sang for the Governor of Texas. Since graduating from college she has toured more than 90,000 miles as well as traveled to Europe in 1973 with a student group from Anderson College in Indiana.

Her musical ability is widespread in that she has sung the lead role in many of the outstanding classical oratories, operas, and cantatas while attending both Gulf-Coast and Anderson colleges. She is also one of the featured singers on the "Christian Brotherhood Hour" radio broadcast which is heard around the world. Imodean has recorded two stereo albums titled, "I Feel the Touch," and "Roll Jordan Roll." These recordings are a combinatin of contemporary gospel with a few classical anthems. Her program consists of many songs which were written by outstanding composers as Bill Gaither, Andrae Crouch, and Otis Skillings.

THE HISTORY OF GOLD COINS

The fascination of gold has been known all over the world throughout history. The use of precious gold coins dates back to 560 BC. King Croesus authorized the first gold coinage known to man. The use of gold in jewelry predates recorded history, so it is not surprising that from the first the most exquisite design & craftsmanship were used in creating gold coins ... pieces of beautiful jewelry.

During the Middle Ages, gold coins became the world's standard of wealth. Paper money originated in the exchange of 'checks' between merchants whose gold was held for safekeeping by goldsmiths. By 1835, the world was officially on the gold standard. This meant that each nation's wealth depended on the amount of gold its government held to guarantee the value of paper money. Previous gold coins were, of course, the surest currency in circulation. The advantage of the gold standard was that it provided an automatic assurance of the real value of paper money.

All paper was redeemable in gold from the treasury of the country where it was issued, so inflation was automatically controlled by the stability of the value of gold.

Reusch Jewelry invites you to stop and view the gold coin jewelry available, along with the South African Krugerrand, and pure gold ingots.

Winsome Retreat will feature recording artist as speaker

Skip Ross, who will speak on the topic "The Kings Formula For Dynamic Living", and also will be the featured solo artist, can be seen and heard at the 9th Annual Win-Some Retreat at Boyne Mountain Lodge on November 7 and 8.

Ross is a businessman who has devoted his time and talents to helping people. He is Vice President of Hansen Corporation, Crown Direct Distributor with Amway Corporation, President of All Faith Christian Missions, Founder of Agape Adventures, and recently selected as one of the Outstanding Young Men of America for his attainment of excellence in his chosen profession.

As a businessman, recording artist, and motivational speaker he has shared his talents with over 250,000 people in the past year. He has inspired countless numbers of businessmen, executives, married couples and parents to take a new look at themselves and their abilities.

The retreat's theme of "Today's World" will be further developed by two speakers and authors, Ann Kiemel and Bob Benson.

For challenge and inspiration, six seminar sessions will be offered. They are as follows: Skip Ross, "The King's Formula for Dynamic Living", Audrey Tennant, "Christian World View", Carol Kent, "Learning to be a Lover, Margie Graham, "Coping With Drug Abuse by Youth", Marion Kuhn "Harold - A Portrait of Courage", and Dr. James Kennedy "Like a Mighty Army," a film on witnessing.

A special Community Banquet, for men and women of all ages will be the highlight of the retreat weekend. Ann Kiemel will be giving a Christian insight into the theme "Today's World", and Skip Ross will be the featured vocalist. The program and dinner will be held November 8 at 7 p.m. in the Boyne Mountain Convention Hall.

Reservations for the retreat must be in on or before Tuesday, October 8, 1980, to Win-Some Women, Box 503, Petoskey, Michigan 49770. More information, registration forms and banquet tickets may be obtained by contacting local area coordinator Dorothy Custer or they may be picked up at Oleson's and Glen's Market.

Exec Director hiredbyHousing Commission

Edwin G. Gregory has been appointed as the first executive director of the Charlevoix Housing Commission. According to commission president Ralph McRae, Gregory took over his duties on October 1.

As executive director, Gregory will have the responsibility of carrying out policies and directives of the Housing Commission, some of which are still in approval stages by the HUD office in Grand Rapids.

Income and asset limits for people interested in living the commission's elderly housing project now being built will soon be announced, according to McRae. Of the 62 units planned, ten percent will be designated for handicapped residents.

One of Gregory's duties will be to assist and interview prospective occupants and handle all lease agreements and apartment assignments.

Monthly rentals will be set at 25 percent of an occupant's adjusted monthly income. Rates will include all utilities except phone services and a master television antenna will be provided free.

During construction of the complex, which is set to be completed by next summer, Gregory will be a laison between the commission, the architect, the contractor and the building inspector. Upon completion, Gregory will become manager of the complex and will have an office in the building.

Gregory, 28, is a recent graduate of the Thomas M. Cooley Law School in Lansing and plans eventually to set up a private law practice in this area. He has had experience as a special investigation officer in the Air Force and is also a licensed real estate salesman.

He and his wife Penny reside with their two children and her father, Mr. Bruce Hentey.

The Housing Commission has also appointed Irvin H. Sturm as "Clerk of the Works" for the elderly housing project. Sturm will represent the commission at the construction site and will be present at the site every day. Working closely with contractor job superintendent Harold Nordeen, Sturm will act as a building inspector for the commission and will be responsible for seeing that the architect's plans are carried out.

Formerly a chief engineer for the Charlevoix County Road Commission, Sturm has also had experience with the Detroit Dept. of Buildings. He lives in Horton Bay with his wife Patricia and two children.

County lawmen cited for handling of arrest

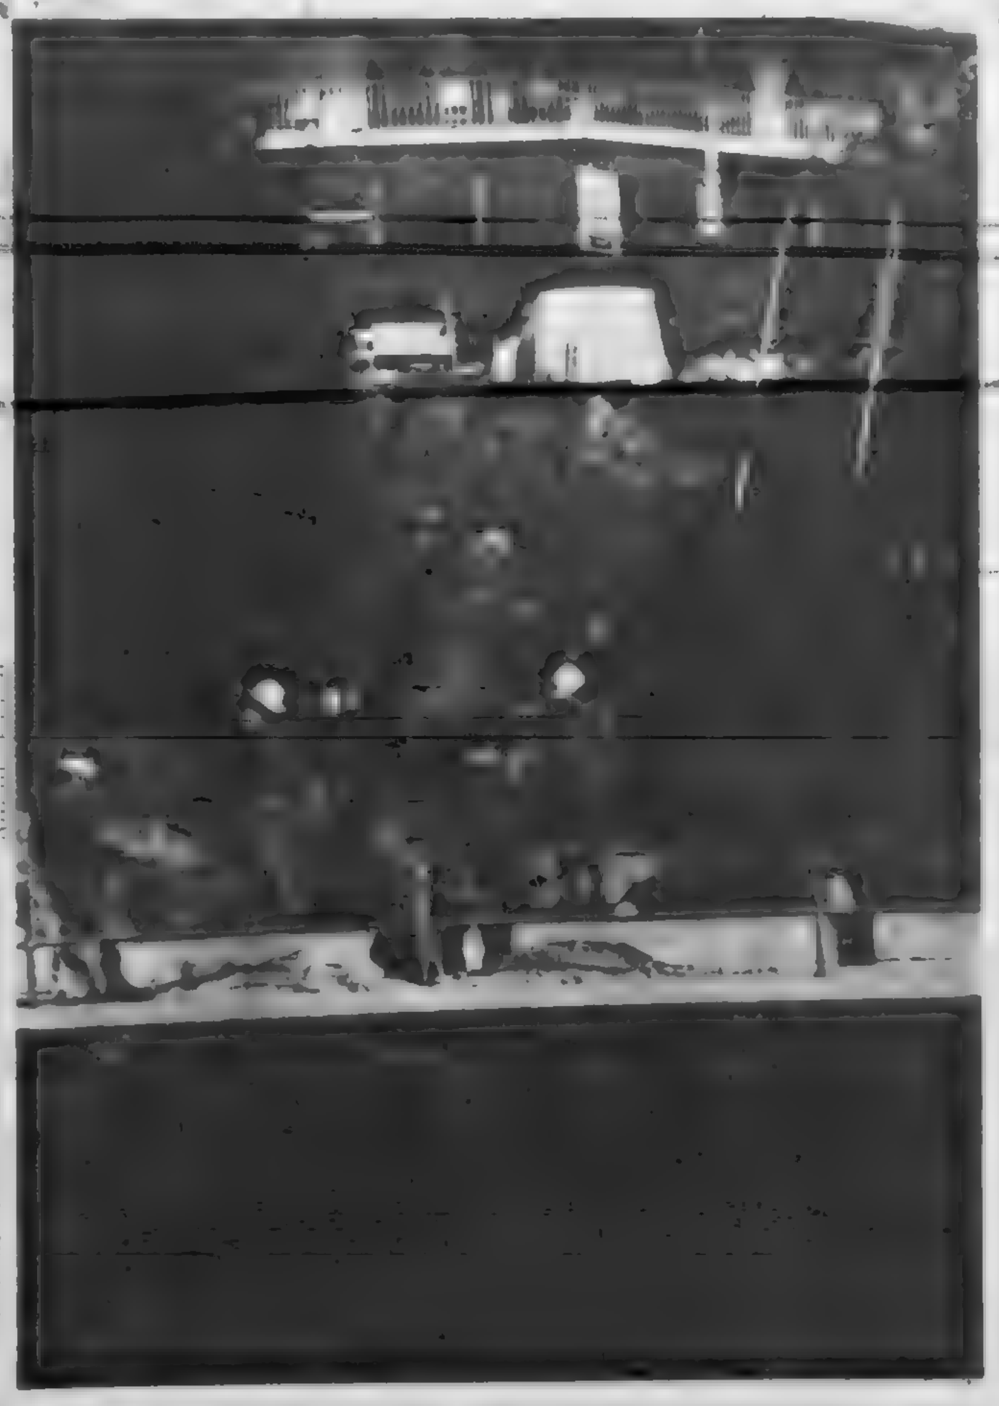
The actions of three Charlevoix County law enforcement personnel in a December 8, 1979 incident were cited last week by Prosecuting Attorney Scott Beatty. Sheriff George Lasater, Deputy Dale Boehm, Jr. and Boyne City Officer Donald Hawkins all received Meritorious Service Citations for their handling of the arrest of Paul Thackaberry.

According to Beatty, Thackaberry was arrested "without injury or harm" on December 8, 1979 when he was armed with a 45 caliber semi-automatic weapon. Thackaberry was walking on Ferry Road in Eveline Township at the time and during the arrest assualted Sheriff Lasater with the weapon. Lasater, Boehm and Hawkins managed to arrest Thackaberry, however, without an incident.

Thackaberry was tried by Prosecutor Beatty on July 15, 1980 and convicted of felonious assault. He was subsequently sentenced and is currently serving a term in the Charlevoix County jail. Said Beatty, "I have only the highest regard for the method in which these police officers handled the incident on December 8, 1979. It was due to their professionalism and restraint that the arrest was effected without any injuries."

The medals and certificates presented to the officers were given by the Michigan Sheriffs' Association.

Beatty also announced the award of a Citizen Meritorius Citation from the Sheriffs' Association to County Deputy David Burris. On March 4, 1979, Burris assisted fireman Steve Joseph Paterka in removing a driver from a burning vehicle.



Phones on Charlevoix's north side were all back in service by the end of last week as Michigan Bell crews worked to repair the damage to a phone cable done by a passing ship in the Pine River channel a week ago Sunday. Cable lines leading to the water's edge had to be completely dug up, as shown above, on both sides of the channel. Bob Timms, above right, is still in his wetsuit in this photo after just making an inspection dive to check out the repair work underwater.

How old is old enough?

Should 19 year-olds, who enjoy the rights of adults in almost every other aspect of the law, be able to able to buy a glass of beer or a bottle of liquor?

This is the question posed by Proposal B which, if passed, would amend the state constitution to lower the legal drinking age from 21 to 19. In 1978, Michigan voters approved the 21 age requirement. Legislative initiative has placed the issue on the ballot once again.

Vane Smith, Charlevoix High School principal, deals with the problem of youthful drinkers regularly. He said, "Basically, I do not want alcohol use involved with the school or any of the school functions." With 19 year-olds legally able to obtain alcoholic beverages, says Smith, the chance of its use by students is increased.

The statewide association of secondary principals, to which Smith belongs, approached the legislature two years ago to set a 21 drinking age thinking that a compromise at 20 would be reached and would be agreeable to them. The 21 law passed, however, and has frustrated school officials because of the widespread disregard for it by young people.

"The law was passed," said Smith, "But it wasn't enforced. Almost any kid in high school today can easily get any alcoholic beverage he or she wants. What difference does a law make if it's [illegible]?"

Though he is on record as opposing the passage of Proposal B, Smith's strongest inclination is that change in the state law does not address the real problem of youth drinking. "Changing the drinking age is not the answer," he says.

Mike Greeley, owner of the Wharfside Market in Charlevoix which carries beer, wine and liquor, thinks the 19 year-old deserves the right to drink if he or she pleases.

"When you're 19 you can vote, you can get shot, you can buy a house; you should also be able to drink," said Greeley. He also pointed out that since the 21 law was passed, no noticeable change in the accident rate has been observed.

As to drinking in the schools, Greeley thinks that setting the age at 19 will effectively keep it out of the schools as opposed to an 18 year-old drinking age under which almost half of Charlevoix's senior class could legally purchase alcoholic beverages by graduation.

Business-wise, Greeley thinks that a 19 drinking age will boost business for the bars more than the liquor stores. Indeed much of the support for it has been generated in bar-heavy college towns. He believes that it will be a good way to let young people learn how to handle alcohol responsibly.

Said Greeley, "It's much better for the kids to be exposed to drinking legally with supervision than for them be driving around with it."

Shari Jones, 17, a Charlevoix High School senior, thinks that on one hand lowering the drinking age might have a favorable effect by removing the [illegible].

"If it (drinking) becomes legal for 19 year-olds, it probably won't be as much fun for them anymore," she said, "The way it is now, a lot of kids see underage drinking as a kind of risk or game and that's what they like about it."

Shari also thinks, however, that a 21 law would be good if it was enforced saying, "Some kids our age just can't handle alcohol."

Scott Davis, 17, also a CHS senior, plans a military career after high school. Does he resent being welcomed into the armed forces but not legally allowed to drink?

"The only thing I don't like about it is that other people are making a decision for me that I should be able to make myself," said Scott.

He was skeptical also, though, of the affect of the law on the real problem. "If I wanted, I could go out right now as a 17 year-old and get as much beer and wine as I pleased so what difference does changing the law from 21 to 19 make?"

To both Shari and Scott, the drinking age debate should not focus on 19 or 21 year-olds but on 14 year-olds and younger. Even in their relatively short span of reference, they have seen some dangerous trends developing.

"When we were freshmen, it was almost unheard of to go to a party with a pony keg of beer," said Shari, "Now it happens more often than not."

"Kids in the Middle School are even drinking now," added Scott.

The debate on Proposal B will end on Election Day with the voters' decision. The problem it attempts to address, however, will not. The issue is obviously much broader and deeper than can be covered in one sentence on a ballot and how people in Charlevoix are dealing with it will be a good topic for another day.

Tax proposals...

Commissioner and is similiar to the 1978 Tisch Proposal which was defeated.

As noted, all three tax proposals would reduce the amount of property taxes levied. However, voters need to evaluate the "tradeoffs" between taxes paid and services received. The shift to other taxes to replace the property tax also creates additional issues such as the distribution of tax burden, equity in the total tax system, and stability in the financing of public services.

The Cooperative Extension Service has summarized the methods of property tax reductions under each proposition as follows:

Under Proposal A:

1. Changing the 50 mill limitation for operational purposes of local government to 24.5 mills on homestead and family-owned-operated farms. The average statewide reduction would approximate [illegible] mills.

2. Establishing a 10 mill limit (allocated plus extra voted) for general operational purposes of local education, which includes K-12, vocational education, special education, and intermediate school districts.

3. Establishing new millage limits for operational purposes for counties, townships, and community colleges.

4. Exempting retirees, age 65 years and over, from property taxes on the first $25,000 State Equalized Value on their homestead.

5. Granting renters a $140 Michigan income tax credit.

Under Proposal C.

1. Exempting from operating millages the first $7,100 State Equalized Value on resident homesteads. The statewide average property tax reduction for householders would approximate $350. This exemption and the renter credit would be in addition to the current homestead property tax credit, as long as the combined credits do not exceed the current property tax liability.

2. In addition to receiving the $7,500 SEV exemption, persons 65 years or older with incomes of $10,000 or less would be exempt from $1,200 in property taxation, not to exceed the amount of property tax liability.

Under Proposition D:

Proposal D would cut property taxes by reducing property assessments to 25 percent of True Cash Value. Currently, property is assessed for tax purposes at 50 percent of True Cash Value. The proposal would roll back property tax assessments to 1978 levels. These changes would result in an average 60 percent cut in property assessments.

The annual increase in assessed value of residential and agricultural property is limited to two percent. Other classes of property may increase in assessed valuation at a rate not to exceed the "general price level" increase from the previous year.

The proposal would further reduce, by an additional 50 percent, the property tax liability for householders whose annual income is $5,000 to $10,500. Property taxes are eliminated for a household whose annual taxable income is less than $5,000.

Householders age 62 years or older would be exempt from paying local school operating taxes.

Bob Clock

You heard it here first

Well, sir, Ronald Reagan came through like a champ.

This corner suggested last week that American voters deserve to know before Nov.4 what role former President Richard Nixon will play in Reagan's administration — if there is one.

Nixon, as you'll remember, had ventured the opinion that since he and Reagan see eye-to-eye in a number of areas, that the new president might find a role for him as [illegible] or negotiator."

Reagan must read the Courier, because late last week the GOP candidate did make a statement [illegible] dealer.

"As far as President Nixon is concerned, I think he has vast experience in international affairs, and it's been customary for presidents to consult with previous presidents who are alive in our land and I would do that. But he would have no formal place in the next administration."

So said Reagan.

It is interesting to note that Reagan is going to consult only with ex-presidents "who are alive." In a way it's a shame, because I think he would get better advice from Abraham Lincoln and Harry Truman.

Reagan said he already has conferred with Nixon on the Iran-Iraq war "and I'm most grateful fo that input."

So there you have it. Nixon will enjoy a very important role in Reagan's administration — if he succeeds.

SPEAKING of ex-presidents, do you realize that only two former occupants of the Oval Office are still in our midst — the [illegible] Richard Nixon and his immediate successor, Gerald Ford?

The job apparently is not only is the loneliest in the world, but also the most [illegible].

But I, for one, don't have any suggestions for lightening the load. The drive that pushes men to seek the presidency must be overpowering. Directed in other channels it would be downright frightening.

IF YOU ENJOY "good" music — with the emphasis on good — you'll want to stop by the Weathervane Inn next Thursday night to hear a two-man combo named "Clockwork" — not to be confused with "Clockwise" which marches to the beat of a different drummer.

The two men are Jim [illegible] (no relation to Guy) and Rick Beeman of Petoskey who hold court at the 'Vane Thursday evenings. Jim plays the guitar, mandolin and harmonica while Rick sticks pretty much to the guitar. They both sing.

The pair have been playing together for about one year and their repertoire now includes about 100 songs — ranging from Civil War classics, Irish melodies, jazz, and show tunes.

Their best sound comes from Rick's guitar and Jim's mandolin, a sound which puts me in mind of the "Irish Rovers."

Of course, their music is amplified — but they hold it down so the vibes don't rattle the bottles on the back-bar.

Jim says he and his buddy have played many engagements in Traverse City, where they enjoy entertaining the college crowd.

I predict you'll be hearing more about "Clockwork" in the Charlevoix-Petoskey area before too long. The little combo produces some mighty beautiful music.

"Clockwork" is a veritable oasis and a world dominated for too long by the bombast and wail of acid rock.

Some area officials comment on tax proposals

Lee Moerland, County Board

Lee Moerland, chairman of the Ways and Means committee of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, comments about the Tisch amendment as follows.

Passage of Tisch would result in an estimated revenue loss from our ad valorem taxes of $321,600. This represents 21.5 percent of our ad valorem taxes and a loss of 13.5 perecent in our anticipated county budget. These taxes make up about 52 percent of our budget revenue.

As far as the state making up for any loss in local revenue is concerned, I don't figure they will come up with any money because they don't have it.

Why should anyone around here be interested in any one of the three tax propositions when local area people have shown confidence in their school boards and administrations by voting school millages?

I believe everyone should vote "no" on all three propositions.

James Brinker, City Manager

James Brinker, city manager for the City of Charlevoix, says bluntly of the Tisch proposal, "I think it would create serious problems for the city." According to Brinker's computations, the city's estimated 1981 tax revenue without the Tisch proposal will be $506,522 based on a projected state equalized value in 1981 of $48,240,287 and a millage rate of .0105. If the Tisch proposal passes, the equalized valuation will fall to $17,918,835 and the city's tax revenue will be $188,148 which, when matched with the state's share of an equal amount, will result in a total operating revenue for the city of $376,296. This represents a net loss in revenue to the city of $130,226, or, 25.7 percent.

Although all city serices would feel a financial pinch under the Tisch proposal, those first and seriously affected would probably be the non-revenue producing areas such as parks and recreation said Brinker. Staff reductions would be assured in City Hall and other departments. Perhaps the only budgets not as vulnerable to drastic cuts would be the public safety departments of fire, ambulance and police since they are essential and already as small as they can be [illegible].

One aspect of Robert Tisch's plan that worries Brinker is the definition of "tax" that includes any fee paid for municipal services. Under that definition and the part of the proposal calling for a public vote on any tax increase, a vote will be required every time the city wishes to raise utility rates. With the [illegible] from the city buys its electrical power, the result could be chaotic, says Brinker.

Brinker's main objection to Proposal D is that it will cause a loss of local governmental power. The Tisch plan, he says, will make the cities more dependent on the state and less responsive.

"If Proposal D passes," said Brinker, "It will really put the handcuffs on city government."

Vincent Olach, Schools Business Man.

Vincent Olach, business manager of the Charlevoix schools, has analyzed the effect of passage of any of the three propositions as follows.

Propositon A, Smith-Bullard – Would limit local school districts to a maximum of seven voter-approved mills. We currently have 16.25 voter-approved mills. With the current SEV, this is a loss of $1,170,168 to be made up through other general state taxation – probably personal income tax and possibly the single business tax. This could result in erosion of local control and possibly create state-wide teacher salary structure and teacher placement policies.

Proposition C, Legislative-Gubernatorial – No real figures can be established as this proposal exempts the first $7,000 SEV on residential property and provides for an increase in sales tax to offset the lost revenue. This plan would also result in loss of local control of schools. As always, when the state allocates money, they dictate its use.

Proposition D, Tisch II – Would result in a loss of $1,583,836, assuming our current voter-approved millage remains the same. This proposal requires school funding from the state based on current per pupil expenditures. Programs such as pupil transportation, vocational education, student health services, and many others would be left without funding. Tuition rates would have to be tripled to replace funds that the legislature could no longer provide. The two percent restrictions on SEV growth would prohibit the adding of any new curriculum without eliminating an existing one as there is no way to secure the additional funding.

Any of the three proposals reduces local control and increases state control.

Mrs. Smith marks 25 yrs. at DSS

By [illegible]

A retirement party honoring Mrs. Carlton (Mary Ann) Smith upon her completion of 25 years with the Department of Social Services was held at the Grist Mill Room of the Weathervane Inn Saturday evening.

More than 60 present and former co-workers and members of her immediate family gathered for the event honoring Mrs. Smith who has served as a secretary in the department through the years, her most recent position being secretary to the director, Richard Tillen, who served as master of ceremonies at the informal program that followed.

Mrs. Smith was presented with a gift from her co-workers and also gifts from [illegible] among those attending.

"Mine was a checkered career with the department that added up to 25 years scattered over a 40 year span" Mrs. Smith said of her years of service.

She began her employment with the department as Mary Ann Lilak of East Jordan after she had completed three years of business training at the now-defunct Chapin School of Business in Traverse City. Her first position was with the Antrim County Bureau of Social Aid at Bellaire in 1940. Then came World War II and her marriage to Mr. Smith and his departure to the South Pacific with the 32nd Red Arrow Division where he was to spend the next 2½ years.

Upon his return, she joined him at Fort Ord, Calif., until his discharge in 1946. They returned to Charlevoix to live and she remained at home to have her family. She returned briefly in 1955 and again at various times until 1965 when, except for a lay-off of employes in 1967, has served as secretary to the director of the Department of Social Services which resulted from the merger of the Bureau of Social Aid and the County Welfare Department in the [illegible].

"There's been a vast change in the department since I first joined it 40 years ago. At that time there were four employees; today there are 30 and many services have been incorporated into the department. The work was relatively simple in those days compared to the magnitude of paperwork that is involved today", Mrs. Smith said of the position she is leaving.

What does she plan to do? "All the things I haven't had time for ... things like sewing, reading, needlecrafts and some traveling. "Until now we've never had times for more than a vacation trip. We plan to go to Florida for several months this winter and do some other traveling at some future date" she added. She also hopes to find time to take a course in painting that has always interested her.

Joining her at the retirement party was her husband, Carlton, her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gary (Jeanne) Hice of Petoskey and her sons and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Don Smith and Carlton, better known as Mick, all of Charlevoix.

"Annie" hopeful has local ties

Julie Barker of Troy, who often visits in Charlevoix with her grandparents, may well be on the way to movie stardom.

Julie is the grandaughter of Dr. and Mrs. John B. Barker and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Barker. Her grandparents spend part of each year at their home on Cherry Street, where Julie has made many friends.

A fourth grade student, Julie is one of several semi-finalists in competition for the role of Annie in the movie production of that well-known musical comedy. She was was of 12 girls selected from a group of 320 at a regional screening held recently in [illegible].

The budding young actress will have to wait until mid-November before she knows if she will be among the fortunate few selected to attend a one-week Annie Academy in Los Angeles over Christmas vacation. The lucky Annie will be selected that week, and filming is slated to begin in June, with John Huston as director and Ray Stark as producer.

Commenting on her abilities, the nine-year-old-actress said, "I have a good voice. I can memorize two scripts in one day, and I talk loud."

As to following in the footsteps of Shirley Temple, Julie said, "I don't like her. I don't like her hair."

Holiday Cookbook Contest

$150 In Prizes To Be Given Away!

•$10 cash for each of the winners in all 5 categories.

COURIER HOLIDAY COOKING CONTEST RULES

1. Contestants are invited to enter as many categories as they wish but may submit only one recipe per category.

2. Recipes should be typed or printed on a sheet of paper with the category indicated.

3. To each recipe there should be a separate sheet of paper attached with the contestants name, address and phone number. The contestant's name should not appear on the actual recipe. As each recipe is received, it will be assigned a number which will be logged with the contestant's name. The names will be removed from the recipes so the judges will not know whose recipes they are judging.

4. Ingredients should be listed in accurate, easily understood amounts and in the order that they are used.

5. Recipes do not have to be completely original. They may be old standards or new variations on familiar recipes. The more original the recipe is, however, the better its chance of winning.

6. If duplicate recipes are received, the one submitted first will be accepted. We will log date and time recipes are received.

7. All contestants must agree to permit their recipes to be published in a special cookbook section of the Charlevoix Courier.

8. Employees of the Charlevoix Courier and Petoskey News-Review and members of their families are not eligible to win the contest.

9. A panel of judges will evaluate the recipes submitted and name three finalists in each of the five categories. The 15 finalists will be notified and asked to prepare their recipes for a final judging session. Judges will then sample the entries, name a winner in each category and a grand prize winner of the five winners.

10. The deadline for entries is 5 p.m., Friday, October 31. Recipes should be submitted to the Charlevoix Courier, 405 Bridge St., Charlevoix, MI, 49720.

The public is invited to attend the giant garage sale October 18 and support worthwhile community programs while finding some good bargains.

Obituaries

MRS. SYLVIA ANDERSON

Funeral services for Mrs. Sylvia Anderson, 75 who died Thursday at the Charlevoix Area Hospital where she had been a patient for five weeks, were held Sunday at the Winchester Funeral Home. Mel Holden of Walloon Lake officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born in Manhattan, N.Y., Dec. 6, 1904, the former Sylvia Goldman was married to Charles Anderson of Toledo, Ohio, in 1929. They came to Charlevoix in the 1940's and for a brief time owned and operated the Charlevoix Hotel. Later they operated a summer rooming house on West Dixon Ave. Mr. Anderson died in March 1964. She continued to reside here after retiring.

She is survived by a brother, Charles Goldman of Oak Park and two sisters, Mrs. Ida Keys and Mrs. Eleanor Strager of [illegible].

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

ANDREW J. GALLAGHER

Funeral services for a former resident, Andrew J. Gallagher, 42, of Freeport, Fla., were held Monday at Holy Cross Church. The Rev. Gabriel Fox O.F.M. officiated. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Mr. Gallagher died unexpectedly Oct. 8 of an apparent heart attack at Morgan City, La., where the ocean-going vessel on which he served as an officer was in port at the time.

Born at Charlevoix, Feb. 5, 1938, he had resided here until enlisting in the U.S. Coast Guard. He retired in 1975 after completing 20-years in the service and, during the past five years, had served as an officer aboard ocean-going vessels. He was a member of Holy Cross Church.

Surviving are a daughter, Kelly, and two sons, Sean and Patrick of Freeport, Fla.; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Gallagher of St. James; three brothers, Ronald, also of St. James, Daniel of Sault Ste. Marie and Arthur of Detroit and a sister, Mrs. Donald (Mary) Heilig of Grand Haven.

The Rosary was recited at the family home here.

The Winchester Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

DOROTHY VANDERARK

Graveside services for a former resident, Mrs. Harry (Dorothy) Vander Ark, 66, of Grandville, were held Friday afternoon at the Ellsworth cemetery. Evangelist Foster [illegible] of Big Rapids officiated.

Earlier Friday funeral services were held at the Posthumus Funeral Home in Grandville with the Rev. Edward J. Blankespoor officiating.

The former Dorothy Kieft was born at Muskegon Feb. 18, 1914, and following her mother's death in childbirth, was raised by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Herrenga of Ellsworth. On Sept. 10, 1936, she was married to Harry Vander Ark of Ellsworth. They lived in Ellsworth until the early 1940's when they moved to Grand Rapids. Following his graduation from Calvin College and his ordination as a minister of the Christian Reformed Church they lived in various western Michigan communities. The most recent was Grandville where Rev. Vander Ark was [illegible] pastor of Trinity Christian Reformed church prior to his death in March 1980. She was a member of Trinity Christian Reformed Church and several church-affiliated organizations.

She is survived by a son, Dr. Gary VanderArk of Denver, Colo.; two grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. John (Elsie) [illegible] of Ellsworth.

LELAND H. WARNER

Funeral services for Leland H. (Jack) Warner, 54, who died Monday at the Charlevoix Area Hospital where he had been a patient since Sept. 10, were held Thursday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Austin Regier of the United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Born in the Gaylord Area Jan. 12, 1926, Mr. Warner came to Charlevoix with his parents at the age of 12 years. He was graduated from the Charlevoix Schools and during World War II served with the U.S. Army. On Jan. 29, 1949, he was married to the former Rose Mary Orvis. They always made [illegible].

Mr. Warner had been employed at the Erber Oil Co. for 21 years and the East Jordan Cooperative for six years. More recently he had been associated with Haggard Plumbing and Heating and the Lexalite Corp.

He was a member of the Charlevoix Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 1153 and the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion. He attended the United Methodist Church.

Besides his wife he is survived by four daughters, Mrs. Richard (Elaine) Hanahow of Dimondale, Mrs. Michael (Jacquelyn) Thorp, Mrs. Norman (Jill) Ostrum and Rachelle K. Warner, all of Charlevoix; five grandchildren; five brothers, Glen of Wheeler, Ira of Sault Ste. Marie, Clifford of Dearborn, William and Lyle of Gaylord and two sisters, Mrs. Max (Elinor) Duby of Lansing and Mrs. Gerald (Edna) Barnett of Central Lake.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Area Hospital CC Unit and Respiratory Department.

NORMAN L. HELMS

Norman L. Helms, 61, died Sunday at a Traverse City Hospital following a long illness.

Funeral services are tentatively scheduled for Wednesday at the Winchester Funeral Home. A full obituary will follow.

Alums go home happy after thrilling 21-14 victory

You can't tell Coach Don Carey or any of his Charlevoix High School varsity football players that there's no such thing as Homecoming Magic.

Not after Friday night's miraculous overtime victory in which the Rayders stopped Grayling 21-14 in a great show for the returning alumni.

"We were very lucky," Carey had to admit after a clipping call resulted in a Grayling touchdown being called back in the Vikings' half of the overtime [illegible].

It was the first time Charlevoix had ever been exposed to the relatively new method of breaking high school football ties. When the score is tied at the end of regulation time, according to the rule, each team gets four downs to score from the oppostion's ten yard line.

With no time left on the clock Friday, the Rayders and Vikings were knotted at 14-14. Charlevoix won a coin toss and took the ball first at the north end of Kipke Field. Quarterback Scott Kelly scampered to the three on the first play and Mark Beaudoin rammed closer to the one. Charlevoix then spent too much time in the huddle and was sent back to the six for their third down attempt.

Kelly found end Ross Carey in the endzone for the six-pointer and Joe Sladek added the extra point for a 21-14 lead.

Grayling then took over for their four chances and proceeded to recover their own fumble on the first play. With Quarterback Jon Juntilla fading way back under heavy pressure, one of the Charlevoix pass rushers was hit from behind just as Juntilla looped a pass to Bill Roach for the apparent touchdown. The subsequent clipping call sent the Vikings back to the 44 and on the next play, defensive standout Mike Loper intercepted at the 15 for the Rayders to clinch the victory.

Charlevoix struck early in the game when Beaudoin took off on a 50-yard jaunt from scrimmage with 10:09 left in the first quarter for the first touchdown with Sladek adding the extra point.

With 4:16 to go in the second quarter, Grayling answered with a seven yard scoring pass from Juntilla to Roach and the two connected again on the extra point try for an 8-7 lead at halftime.

Juntilla added six more for the Vikings when he dashed into the endzone from 13 yards out with 5:56 left in the third quarter. Another running try for the extra point was no good, however, and Grayling settled for a 14-7 margin.

With about two minutes to go in the quarter, Charlevoix drove to the Grayling 11 with a fourth down and four opportunity but they could not make the first and the Vikings took over.

Shortly after, Frank Kaufman forced a Juntilla fumble with a hard tackle and Charlevoix recovered on the Grayling 30. A facemask grabbing penalty on the Vikings moved the ball to the 22 and two plays later, Kelly ran it in for the score from 13 yards out and Sladek made it 14-14.

A succession of stopped drives and punts wound the clock down to 1:25 when Dave Buday intercepted and returned the ball to the Grayling 15. A personal foul then brought it seven yards closer and Mark Morgan drove for a first down at the five. But the all-to-familiar fumble halted the drive right there sending the game into overtime.

Charlevoix piled up [illegible] yards on the ground and 70 yards passing with Kelly going four for 11. Beaudoin led all rushers with 178 yards.

Loper again led the defense with [illegible] tackles while Dave Buday and Tim Krueger each had [illegible].

Now 3-2 in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference, Charlevoix travels to Rogers City this Friday for a 7:30 game.

Cheerleader Renee Russell directs the pep rally.

Dave Buday returns an interception.

Mark Beaudoin bolts for yardage.

CC Runners finish 2nd at Petoskey Invit.

The Charlevoix Rayder harriers finished second behind Rogers City in Petoskey's McDonald-Optimist Cross Country Invitational tournament held Saturday.

Charlevoix had 82 points. The winning Hurons had 50. Others in Class C-D were St. Ignace with 100 points followed by Boyne City with [illegible], 174. Kalkaska and Elk Rapids were also entered in this class.

Jay Swartwout was the overall winner in the C-D division with a time of 16:09. [illegible] was second with 16:15 and Jeff Landon, third, 16:20.

Other Rayders in the meet [illegible] Todd Russell, sixth, 16:47; Jim Landon, 15th, 17:2[illegible]; Scott Davis, 27th, 18:05; Bill Herriman, 28th, 18:16; Jerry Thompson, 46th, 20:07.

Only two teams were entered in the Junior Varsity or C-D division, Rogers City who finished first with 40 points and Charlevoix, second with 47 points.

Max Hogan of Rogers City placed first in 17:15 with Bill Taylor of Charlevoix coming in second in 17:[illegible].

Bill Dohm was 7th in 17:36, John Spieles, 11th, 17:50 and Alec Sheets, 12th, 17:57.

...And dominate dual meet

The Charlevoix Rayder harriers wrapped up the first five places in the Cross Country meet here recently to outscore the Petoskey Northmen 15-[illegible].

Jay Swartwout took first place with a 16:41 with Jeff Landon second at 16:51. They were followed by Jim Landon, 17:15, Todd Russell 17:27 and Bill Taylor, 17:29.

Rick Reinke of Petoskey took seventh with a 17:36, Dave Coveyou, of Petoskey, seventh, 17:39; Todd Muche, Petoskey, 17:40.

Charlevoix also won the JV division by a 15-41 margin with Alec Sheets first at 18:07 and Jon Spieles second with 18:18 14.

Charlevoix is scheduled to run in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference meet at Rogers City Tuesday.

Girls win two more

The Charlevoix girls basketball team posted two victories during the week, a 72-52 win over Grayling Thursday and a 68-51 romp over Cheboygan Tuesday.

Charlevoix rushed to an [illegible] first period lead, increased it to [illegible] at halftime and [illegible] going into the final period over Grayling.

Melinda Klooster had 35 points and Teresa Noirot 14 for the Charlevoix team. Jean Bayham and Jean Stevens shared scoring honors for Grayling.

On Tuesday Klooster had 24 points, Noirot 15 and Mel Kerridge, 14, for Charlevoix as the Charlevoix team was in control all the way in their meeting with Cheboygan.

The Charlevoix JV won 27-21 over Grayling.

Charlevoix will play at Rogers City Tuesday and at St. Ignace Thursday.

JV's beaten by Grayling

The Grayling junior varsity football squad just barely squeaked by Charlevoix Thursday night [illegible].

In the game played on the Vikings' home field, the Charlevoix jv's drew first blood with a three yard run by Jeff Trimper with about five minutes left in the second quarter.

The extra point try was [illegible].

Midway in the third quarter, Grayling tied the score with a three yard run but missed a chance to take the lead as their extra point try was no good also.

The Vikings took a winning margin in the fourth quarter when they capped a drive with a two-yard plunge for a 12-6 [illegible].

Rushing totals for the Rayders were dominated by Trimper with 147 yards and Jon Supernaw with 74 yards. The team averaged eight yards every time they ran the ball but they were stymied by almost 200 yards in penalties, three fumbles and three interceptions.

The junior varsity's next game is this Thursday at home against Rogers City.

Frosh "overwhelmed"

"Overwhelmed" is the only word that can describe the reaction of the Charlevoix freshmen squad to a bigger, better frosh team from Traverse City which beat the Rayders 66-0 last week.

With over 50 players suited up for the game, the Traverse squad had little trouble with Charlevoix who, according to Coach Dave Smith, were lucky to get away without any major injuries.

The frosh play Rogers City [illegible].

Golfers third at conf. meet

The Charlevoix Rayder golf team placed third in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference Championship meet held recently at Boyne Mountain reported Coach Barry Anderson.

The team had a total score of 382 to place third behind Gaylord who won the meet for the first time with a score of 332 and Petoskey who placed second with 344.

Dave Jabola of Gaylord was medalist for the meet with a score of 71 for 18 holes.

Coming in behind Charlevoix were Cheboygan with a team score of 392, [illegible].

Individual scoring for Charlevoix included Tim Shupert with a score of 87, Jeff Greene, [illegible]; Gary Drury, 90 and Doug Drenth, [illegible].

Coach Anderson said of the results, "I was satisfied. We have a young, inexperienced team which has shown great progress during the season. I think we had a good season considering the youthfulness of the team."

...And fifth at Regional

The Charlevoix Rayder golfers finished fifth among the 14 teams entered in the Class C Regional meet at Houghton Lake Saturday. It marked the first time in recent years the Rayders have not qualified for state competition.

Clare placed first with a score of 353 followed by Reed City with a 364; Houghton Lake and Bessie Central tied for third with a 380 and were to play-off to determine the third place [illegible]. Charlevoix was fifth with 382.

The three top teams will advance to state competition.

Steve Kircher of Boyne City with a score of [illegible] was medalist for the meet.

Tim Shupert scored [illegible] to lead the Rayder foursome. Jeff Greene had an [illegible], Gary Drury, 90, and Doug Drenth, 101.

Shupert is the only senior on the team.

City league vacancies

There are vacancies to be filled on all but one independent team sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department Dwight Boss, Recreation Director, has announced.

Only one league, the 10-team women's volleyball league which is scheduled to begin Oct. 23, is filled. This league plays Monday night.

Two more teams are needed for the men's volleyball league which plays on Tuesday night. This league will begin play Nov. 4.

One more team is needed to fill the 12-team mixed league which plays on Wednesday and Thursday nights. Action in this league will begin Nov. 5 and 6.

Two basketball leagues are being organized for the season which will begin Nov 3.

The A league has three teams signed up with room for three more. Out of towns may enter this league.

The B league has five teams signed up with room for 12.

The B league will play Monday and Wednesday the A league on Thursday Boss said.

All fees must be in by Oct. 28.

Anyone wishing to sign up may call 547-4272 between 1 and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Flag football results

Games played during the past week in the Charlevoix Flag Football League have resulted in some exciting times for the young players.

On Wednesday the Patriots [illegible] the Lions [illegible] and the Steelers trounced the Redskins [illegible].

Earlier in the week the Seahawks defeated the Oilers 16-9 and the Cowboys won over the Rams [illegible].

Doug Sloan scored on runs on 15, 30 and 40 yards, the latter a punt return; Matt Lignell on runs of 18 and 21 yards and Britt Center on a 20 yard pass from Mark Trimper to account for the Patriot's scoring. Trimper scored one conversion and passed to Lignell for a second.

The Steelers scored twice by the aerial route in their win over the Redskins. S.J. Greenway passed 32 yards to Thad Morgan and 20 yards to Mike Herriman for two TDs; [illegible] added one on a two yard plunge and Morgan the final on a 30 yard run. Morgan also scored a conversion.

[illegible] Pearl scored on a five yard run and passed Chris Havens for 30 yards and a touchdown as the Seahawks downed the Oilers 16-9. Havens also scored a safety and a conversion and Pearl a conversion while the Seahawks held the Oilers to a touchdown and a safety. Raymond Kerr scored the safety and Brent Cole passed 24 yards to Troy Smith and [illegible] Curtis scored the P.A.T. for the Oilers.

Dave McKenzie scored on a 33 yard run and again on a 31 yard pass play from Jody Putman as the Cowboys stopped the Rams 26-13. Putman on a six yard run and Shannon Spence on a 23 yard run plus conversions by Spence and Pat Hamlin gave the Cowboys the victory.

A pass from Tony Napont to Meryl Carson good for 10 yards and a one yard plunge by Carson gave the Boyne City team its two scoring plays. Kevin Shiotelis scored the conversion.

The league has three games remaining on its schedule (see schedule).

"First Love", a group of musicians specializing in contemporary Christian music, will appear in concert on Saturday evening, Oct. 18, at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix.

The group is described as having the goal of sharing the good news of God's love. They are a full time, self-supporting faith ministry and are being sponsored in Charlevoix by the local [illegible].

First Love's repertoire consists of "a spirit-filled blend of unique and exciting original songs", according to their news release, which they combine with "down to earth" testimony.

The concert will be free to the public.

VFW Aux. to write hostage families

November 4 will mark a year of captivity for the American hostages in Iran.

In recognition of this, members of the Auxiliary of the Charlevoix V.F.W. Post No. 1153 have been asked to write to the families of the hostages to show their support. Letters may be sent by not only Auxiliary members but also anyone else who wishes to participate. Letters should be addressed to: American Hostage Families, Iran Working Group, Room 7516, Department of State, Washington, D.C., 20520. The letters will then be forwarded by this committee.

The members of the Auxiliary were asked to do this by Mrs. Lorraine Barger of Traverse City, 13th District Auxiliary President who made an inspection of the local Auxiliary at a recent meeting and by Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, Auxiliary president.

At the meeting she presented a Certificate of Merit from the state organization for the local Auxiliary's excellence in service and work in the fields of safety, cancer, Americanism, National home projects and the VFW-PAC project. Mrs. Goldstick was also presented with a citation from the Michigan department for 100 per cent participation in all department programs.

Other business included approval of a $35 donation to the National Home Christmas Project and the payment of all [illegible].

Mrs. Barger, in addressing the group, stressed membership and said that the 13th District is now in the lead in the membership contest. All members are urged to pay their dues by the December 31 deadline. A small token was presented to all those who have paid their 1981 dues. Mrs. Barger was presented with a Petoskey stone gift from the Auxiliary.

Plans were made to attend the State Pow-Wow meeting at Boyne Mountain October 24-26. All members were urged to attend as many meetings as possible.

Gifts are being accepted for the veterans at the Traverse City hospital. These may be left at Staley's Grocery.

The following gifts have been made and contributed to the Traverse City veterans facility: 21 wheelchair tote bags, four lap robes, one large bib and seven knitted pairs of socks. A like number will be given to the Saginaw VA Hospital.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Edna Woodward, Mrs. Ruhl Metiger and Mrs. [illegible].

BUDGET HEARING

The Board of Education of Charlevoix Public Schools will hold its annual budget hearing on Monday, October 20, 1980, at 7:30 p.m. in the Charlevoix High School. Copies of the proposed budget are available at Board of Education offices, 208 Clinton Street.

Mrs. [illegible] and Mrs. Eldred Ostrum will be in charge of the kitchen; Mrs. Coy Groves, the dining room and Mrs. [illegible] the bazaar and bake sale.

New arrivals announced.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Plum of Traverse City are the parents of a daughter, Tricia Ann, on Oct. 3. She is the first girl in the Plums' immediate family in 29 years. The couple has four sons. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Plum of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Jack DeWildt of Grand Rapids. The great-grandmother is Mrs. C.B. [illegible].

Mr. and Mrs. David Knapp of Virginia Beach, Va., are the parents of a son, Corey David, on Oct. 4. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Jack Grubaugh of Charlevoix and Mrs. John Knapp of Boyne City.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Fochtman of Ballston Lake, N.Y., are the parents of a son, Michael David, born Sept. 23. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Fochtman of Charlevoix and Mrs. Audrey Lind of Mobile, Ala. Mr. Fochtman is stationed at Ballston Lake, N.Y., with the U.S. Navy.

Kiwanis Past President Clarence Odmark, right, last week presented Dick Krueger, administrator of the Charlevoix Area Hospital, with a check for $500, the second installment of a $2500 pledge made by the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club last year.

Public Library to have coloring contest

The Charlevoix Public Library is sponsoring a Fall Coloring Contest for area youngsters. Four age categories include preschool children; kindergarten-first grade; second and third grades; and fourth and fifth grades.

Sheets with the picture to be colored are available at the library. Crayons or colored pencils may be used and the deadline for submitting entries is Nov. 3 at 8 p.m.

A five dollar prize will be awarded in each category.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX COUNCIL MINUTES

October 6, 1980
8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Supernaw presiding.

Present: Councilman Porter, Councilwoman Roloff, and Councilmen Wood, Mumo, and Whitley.

[illegible]

The Minutes of the September 15, 1980 regular meeting were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council [illegible].

The City Manager advised council that George Plumm's term on the City Compensation Commission expired October 1, 1980 and that Mr. Plumm is not interested in being reappointed. It was generally agreed that the Councilmembers would submit names of residents willing to fill the vacancy for consideration at the next Council meeting.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Porter to accept and file the City Planning Commission Minutes dated September 22, 1980 and the City Recreation Commission Minutes dated September 2, 1980.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilman Porter, Councilwoman Roloff, and Councilmen Wood, Mumo, and Whitley. Nays: None. Absent: Councilman Timme.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Porter to approve the Site Plan presented by Charles Teuter for restroom facilities at his Holiday [illegible].

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilman Porter, Councilwoman Roloff, and Councilmen Wood, Mumo, and Whitley. Nays: None. Absent: Councilman Timme.

Council discussed LeesLite's proposed addition to the former Leesly building on U.S. 31 North. The City Manager stated that a variance of 30' would be required for the addition to conform with the Zoning Ordinance. Bill Kanfeck, representing LeesLite, asked Council to consider the building as fronting on Ance Road rather than U.S. 31 which would eliminate the need for a variance. The City Manager pointed out, and the City Attorney concurred, that the Ordinance is very explicit in determining the front of a lot. Mr. Kanfeck was advised that LeesLite must apply for the necessary variance.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilwoman Roloff to approve the Site Plan as presented by LeesLite Corporation for a 60 x 126 addition to their building on U.S. 31 North as amended by the City Planning Commission.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilman Porter, Councilwoman Roloff, and Councilmen Wood, Mumo, and Whitley. Nays: None. Absent: Councilman Timme.

Council received a request by Rowe Enterprises, Inc. of the Weathervane Inn, for a new [illegible] to allow the showing of movies and outdoor service of alcoholic beverages. It was generally agreed that [illegible] would be unacceptable due to the noise it would generate. Mayor Supernaw suggested that Council's concern be expressed to the State Liquor Control Commission to see if the permit could be qualified to exclude the outdoor entertainment provision.

Council tabled any action on the U.S. Coast Guard's contract to rent the City commercial dock pending an inquiry into the amount other places charge the Coast Guard for similar dockage.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Mumo that the City Manager be authorized to sign an indemnity [illegible] figure.

Council declined to take a position regarding the [illegible] Tisch Amendment as requested by the Michigan Municipal League.

Mayor Supernaw proclaimed October 8, 1980 as [illegible] Service Day in the City in recognition of the Lions Club contributions in this area and throughout the world.

JoAnn Bier, a member of the General Public, presented [illegible] asked Council to adopt a Resolution in support of an environmental impact study of the Big Rock [illegible].

Moved by Councilwoman Roloff and supported by Councilman Whitley to support the Nuclear Regulatory Commission asking for an environmental impact statement covering the [illegible] environmental impacts of [illegible] of the facility that such expansion would [illegible].

Motion was denied by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilwoman Roloff and Councilman Whitley. Nays: Councilmen Porter, Wood and Mumo. Absent: Councilman Timme.

The City Manager advised Council that Mr. Buckboot had withdrawn his previous request to rezone his property at 113 Michigan Ave from R-4 to C-1.

Council tabled the appointment of an Airport Manager and Fixed Base Operator until the next meeting when the entire Council is present.

The City Manager reported the second preliminary Census count shows the City's population at 3,[illegible] an increase of 105 over the first count but a decrease of 210 from the 1970 count. Council directed the Manager to continue to appeal the Bureau of Census' [illegible] bond in connection with a writ of execution in the District Court Case of the City of Charlevoix vs. Raymond and/or Virginia Whitley.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Porter, Wood and Mumo. Nays: None. Abstain: Councilman Whitley. Absent: Councilman Timme.

Council authorized the City Manager to purchase a grinder for use at the City Golf Course.

Council agreed to pay actual expenses for three City Ambulance attendants to attend a class in Mt. Pleasant on October 18, 1980 but declined to authorize compensation at $5.00 per hour for attending the class as requested by the attendants.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood that the City Manager be authorized to sign the Lake Michigan Beach Project Agreement.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Porter and Timme, Councilwoman Roloff, and Councilmen Wood, Mumo and Whitley. Nays: None.

Council having examined bills totaling $254,131.05 find them correct and [illegible].

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Timme, that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amount.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Porter and Timme, Councilwoman Roloff and Councilmen Wood, Mumo and Whitley. Nays: None.

Council adjourned.

The Northwest Shrine Club sponsored a concert at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium Saturday night by the Saladin Concert Band. The band, comprised of Shriners from all over Northern Michigan, was directed by George D. Davis and played a program of several marches and other familiar concert pieces. Featured soloists were Kathleen Coe Saladino and Irving Johns. The Club presented the proceeds of the concert, a check for $3,080, to Illustrious Potentate Frank VanderVoord of the Saladin Temple. The money was raised through sales of advertising space in the concert program. The club expressed gratitude to all the advertisers for their financial support which will be put toward the Shrine's extensive orthopedic hospital and burn center programs, many of which are in this area. Three buses of senior citizens attended the concert including two from the [illegible].

Mesquite here just in time for Halloween

Only the number on the bow and the abscence of a canopy over the rear deck spell the difference between the U.S.C.G.C. Mesquite, above, and the Sundew which left Charlevoix last month and is now in Duluth. The Mesquite arrived at its new moorings in Round Lake last Tuesday ahead of schedule and was welcomed by a gaily decorated dock courtesy of the Coast Guard wives. Some of the first to get a close look at the Mesquite will be all Charlevoix children up to grade five who are invited to come aboard Halloween night. The crew will be hosting another "ghost ship" party for the children from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Friday, October 31.

Two boys hit while bicycling; one hospitalized

Charles Frank Witthoeft, 9, was hospitalized in stable condition last Wednesday evening after he and another local youth were struck by a pick-up truck while they were riding their bikes on McSauba Rd. in Charlevoix Township.

According to preliminary reports, young Witthoeft, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Witthoeft, Old Orchard Rd. and Andrew Todd Harper, also 9, were riding their bicyles north on McSauba Road about one-tenth of a mile west of Waller Road at about 6:45 p.m. when they were struck.

No charges had been filed as of last Friday against the driver of the 1979 Ford pick-up, Ronald Edward Browe, 22, 1010 May St., Charlevoix. Browe was apparently driving the opposite direction of the two boys and had crossed the center line when he struck them.

Sheriff George Lasater said indications were that the boys were riding their bicyles in the proper lane and near the shoulder of the road. They had been downtown and were on their way home at the time.

Lasater declined to release any further details of the accident pending the completion of a full investigation. The nature of Witthoeft's injuries were also unavailable.

Elementary students plagued by head lice outbreak in schools

By DAVE KNIGHT

An outbreak of head lice in epidemic proportions has been reported among Charlevoix elementary school children. Twenty-two children on whom lice were found were sent home last week following extensive testing of students in the Charlevoix district.

No cases of head lice have been found at the high school or the middle school according to School Nurse Gerry Brady. All the confirmed cases were found at the K-5 elementary school which has since been completely sprayed and disinfected.

Unusually high numbers of head lice cases have also been reported in several other area communities prompting a strong informational drive by the District Health Department No. 3 offices in Charlevoix, Emmet, Antrim and Otsego Counties.

District No. 3 Administrator Gerald Chase said last week that this year's head lice problem is the worst his office has seen. Some cases are reported every year at about this time but not nearly as many that have been confirmed in area schools over the past two weeks.

[illegible] weeks ago by the Charlevoix School Nurse's office about the local epidemic. Both Chase and Brady said that sporadic, isolated cases were first identified much earlier this year than in other years and may have something to do with the unusual magnitude of the problem.

The head lice being found among Charlevoix students are of the Pediculosis capitis species, one of three varieties of lice found to inhabit human hair or clothing. Neither of the other varieties, body lice (Pediculosis corporis) or public or crab lice (phthirus pubis), have been reported locally.

[illegible] public appeal to parents of school children to help stem the epidemic by [illegible]

What to look for; what to do

The lice themselves are often difficult to see but the eggs, or nits, are small, whitish, oval shaped eggs that can easily be seen with the naked eye. Head lice are found in the hair and scalp and lay their eggs on the shafts of hair.

Head lice can be spread from one individual to another by direct contact with an infested person's head or hair, the sharing of combs, brushes, hats, caps, scarves, pillows, bedding or other clothing. They can also be spread indirectly by placing the clothing of an infected person in contact with the clothing of an uninfected person.

Frequent scratching of the head, because lice do bite and cause itching, is one symptom. Advanced cases may show [illegible].

Nits are most commonly found at the nape of the neck and above and behind the ears. In order to see the nits, part the hair carefully, beginning at the nape of the neck and the area around the ears. Use a disposable item such as a pencil, toothpick or comb for inspection. If nits are not found in these areas, continue to inspect the rest of the hair. In order to avoid mistaking dandruff for nits, attempt to pull the particle from the hair shaft. If it remains attached, you have reason to suspect nits, and therefore, head lice.

Dr. Brian Youngs, District No. 3 medical director, has advised that "It is usually best to seek medical help for diagnosis and advice on treatment of lice." While a family's docter may be able prescribe a more specific, more effective treatment after definite diagnosis, over-the-counter remedies for head lice are available at all Charlevoix drug stores.

The most popular and effective treatment suggested by School Nurse Gerry Brady is a shampoo named A-200. She also suggested a spray called R&K that can be applied to carpets, chairs and other household surfaces that may be infested.

Certain environmental precautions can be taken by the family. Personal articles such as clothes, sheets and towels can be disinfected by machine washing in hot water and drying using the hot cycle or by pressing with a hot iron. Other articles can be dry-cleaned though it may be prohibitively expensive for some families.

Another suggestion is to place clothing and bedding in a plastic bag and seal it for 30 to 35 days. At room temperature, this period of time far surpasses the life span of head lice off the host and nits kept at room temperature for this length of [illegible].

Those with a continued problem of head lice should call their physician or the District Health Department office in [illegible]

Board adopts '81 budget with "guesstimates"

By [illegible]

Following the annual budget hearing Monday night, the Charlevoix Board of education adopted the proposed 1980-81 budget of $3,382,802 which represents a 7.9 percent increase in revenue and an 11.8 percent increase in expenditure over the 1979-80 budget.

In reviewing the budget for the board members and five people present, four from the administration/faculty and a fifth from the news media, both Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren and Vincent R. Olach, business manager, said the budget was compiled on "guesstimates" because there are so many uncertainties regarding revenue which will be available to support the budget.

Revenue from state sources has decreased from $189,420 to $143,744 and as much as another $90,000 could be lost school officials have been advised. Impac funds under P.L. 874 which allows some revenue to school districts that have military personnel in the area has been reduced and CETA and Indian Education Funds have been discontinued. Incoming transfers or funds through the Intermediate School District have been reduced from $21,390 to $5,187

Supt. VanWieren said some districts are not even setting budgets because financing is so uncertain.

Among the areas hardest hit by the loss of income from state sources are transportation, special education and vocational education.

Areas in which there were marked increases in expenditures include increase in the amount of approximately $25,000 when the city of Charlevoix turned down the school district's request to collect 50 percent of the school taxes with the city summer taxes and funds had to be approved; a 27 percent increase in such fringe benefits as dental and health insurance; an increase in tuition for students attending classes at Petoskey; an increase all utilities with the exception of electricity as the result of using energy-saving devices; driver education which will cost an

Election '80

The Courier continues its coverage of the 1980 General Election ballot this week with analyses of local races and ballot questions. Below is the story on the water bond proposal facing city voters. Inside are stories on the other city charter amendments, the County Clerk's race, and the only seat on the County Commission being contested. Next week: the presidential and legislative races.

By DAVE KNIGHT

With increasing concern for the infirmity and inadequacy of the 80 year-old water [illegible] on the south bank of the Pine River Channel, Charlevoix city officials are asking the voters once again on November 4 to approve a bond proposal to build a new tower.

The proposal last appeared on the ballot in March when a meager turnout of 11 percent of the city's registered voters defeated the proposal 223-165.

This time around, the city is stepping up its informational drive on the bond proposal and has sent brochures to the voters explaining why a new tower is needed.

The new tower would be located in a wooded section near the second tee of the golf course on the north side of town. The project is currently priced at about $500,000. According to City Manager James Brinker, approval for the sale of General Obligation Bonds for up to $550,000 is being sought in case project bids come in slightly higher [illegible] estimate.

The city has opted to sell General Obligation Bonds rather than Revenue Bonds, (which are repaid through increased water rates), because of the lower interest rate at which they can be sold, because additional taxes paid are deductible from income taxes while increased water rates are not, because senior citizens who receive their property taxes back from the state would not have to pay any additional taxes and because everyone would pay their fair share including seasonal residents who use the water system.

The bonds would be repaid by a levy of an additional tax millage of less than [illegible] and a half mills for the next nine years.

The initiative to build a new tower dates back to 1975 when an engineering study of the city's water system recommended increasing the city's water storage capacity. An updated water system report two years ago also suggested increased storage capacity. The present tower holds 100,000 gallons while the proposed tower would hold [illegible] gallons.

Another study in 1977 by the Chicago Bridge and Iron Company listed six structural problems with the aging tower including a cracked frost casing, bent pipe support rods, a bad roof and disintigrating foundation pier tops

Some south side residents have expressed concern that a new tower on the north side would affect their water pressure. Brinker claims that the only effect of the new system would be increased pressure for all users, on both sides of the channel, because of the increased capacity.

[illegible] resort in Mississippi is what the tower proposed for Charlevoix would look like. Charlevoix's would be slightly smaller, however, at 140 feet high.

Pump pressure systems which create water pressure with electric pumps instead of a tower have been studied by the city but rejected. Although they would be less expensive to install, the long range maintenance and operational costs would actually be higher, according to Brinker

He also said that Elk Rapids has recently installed a pump system and has had "nothing but problems" with it.

Construction on the proposed 140-foot tower could start as early as this spring if the bond proposal passes and bids are let immediately after.

Brinker expressed the city's concern saying, "We are going to have to build a new tower eventually because repairs to the old one would only solve our problems temporarily. And the longer longer we wait, the more expensive it is going to be."

What will happen to the old tower, should the proposal pass, has not been determined. If it is phased out of the water system and is emptied, Brinker fears that the lack of stability provided by the weight of the water will make it dangerous to neighboring residents, many of whom have already expressed [illegible].

Since, by law, the property the old tower is on cannot be sold by the city without specific approval from the voters, some discussion has been to create a park area at the location.

WHY YOU SHOULD BE IN THE STOCK MARKET TODAY

Investment experts throughout the country are predicting a boom in the stock market. In fact, the Dow Jones Index has been rising steadily during the past year. But how high is up? What are the stocks that will make tomorrow's news? And how do you structure an investment program to meet your needs?

An excellent way to learn more about market trends is to attend our seminar "Investing in Stocks in the 1980's." At the seminar our speakers will offer specific recommendations regarding the purchase or sale of certain stocks. The seminar is free and of course there is no obligation to invest. Seats are limited however, so we suggest you make your reservation today.

Appointments announced by Cunningham

Several appointments to county boards and commissions were made last week by Clyde Cunningham, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners. They were:

Sam King of Charlevoix, re-appointed to a three year term on the County Office of Veterans' Affairs.

Robert Stowe of Charlevoix, re-appointed to a six year term on the County Road Commission.

Vivien Visscher of St. James and Dennis Jason of East Jordan, re-appointed to two year terms on the County Planning Commission. A third upcoming vacancy was not filled.

Oral Sutliff of Boyne City and Oscar Ward of Charlevoix, re-appointed to three year terms on the Parks & Recreation Commission.

Sam Kosc of Boyne Falls, re-appointed to a three year term on the Act 228 Mental Health Board.

Harry Watson of East Jordan, re-appointed to a three year term on the Welfare Board.

Thora Kotowich of East Jordan, Eleanor Squire of Boyne City, and Florence Stucker of East Jordan, re-appointed to three year terms on the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging; Marvin Loding of Boyne City, re-appointed to a one year term; and Dr. Robert Martin of Charlevoix, appointed to fill the unexpired term of Raymond Giffin, who resigned, and to fill a full three year term thereafter.

The Performing Arts Class presented "Up the Down Staircase" by Bel Kaufman at the Charlevoix High School cafeteria Thursday and Saturday evenings.

The play, which tells the story of a young teacher and her first experience in the classroom of a large school, was produced by Cassie Mann, student teacher from Central Michigan University who left Charlevoix Friday enroute to England with a group of CMU students who will do some student teaching abroad.

Kathy Pidek played the role of Sylvia, the young teacher, and Christine Peterson the part of her best friend.

Appearing in the roles of administrators and teachers were Bob Best, Ron Archey, Sheri Cook, Debbie Thomure, Lisa Hoffman, Janine Browe, Martha Staley, Beth Ford and Dennis Batdorf. Appearing as students were Paul Stangis, Mike Ford, Jim Gleason, Kelly Mathews, Judy Mabee, Gary Carson, Donna LaVasseur, Craig Glass, Norman Carlson, Patti Cook, Laura Groeters, Tim Novotny, Jacquie Erber, Mariko Regier, Tammy Boggs, Jim Boggs, Dave Buday, Lee Sanford, and Angie Spieles.

Laura Baldwin served as stage manager, Shawn McLelland, Sound director and Tammy Southwood, [illegible]

Mrs. Connie Ford was the faculty advisor for the production.

Stanley Lord, left, of Norwood did not expect much success out of his pumpkin patch this but was pleasantly surprised to recently discover the monster pumpkin shown above. The pumpkin weighed over 200 pounds when it was picked and measured eight feet around. It is considerably bigger than Lord's grandson Jesse Lord, right, who is four and a half.

Council awards fixed base operator's contract to McPhillips Flying Service

The matters of appointing an airport manager and establishing a fixed base operation at the Charlevoix Airport finally got off the ground Monday night at the City Council meeting following various delays that had stalled action for the past months.

McPhillips Flying Service was awarded the contract for the fixed base operation and Joseph McPhillips will be airport manager following unanimous council votes. Both the contract and the appointment are for the period of one year.

In their proposal submitted to the council for a fixed base operation, McPhillips had asked for a five year contract. Said Richard Hodgson of the firm, "We need some continuity in our business. The figures we included in the proposal were based on a five year contract and we would like to go on that basis."

City Attorney Frank [illegible] advised the council to stick to a one-year pact, however, with which the city could more easily review and regulate fees on such things as gasoline and space rental.

The McPhillips proposal included the rental from the city of 324 square feet of space for $567 a month, rental of three hangers for $150 a month, a five cent per gallon profit on all gasoline sold and used, a $3 landing fee and all tie down and parking revenues to the operator.

LexaLite International's request for a 30-foot setback variance at their proposed expansion site at the former Gateway Furniture building sailed through the council, acting as the Board of Appeals.

The action cleared the way for LexaLite to begin construction of an addition onto the building which the firm plans to use for storage, research and light manufacturing.

The council also accepted an application by LexaLite for an

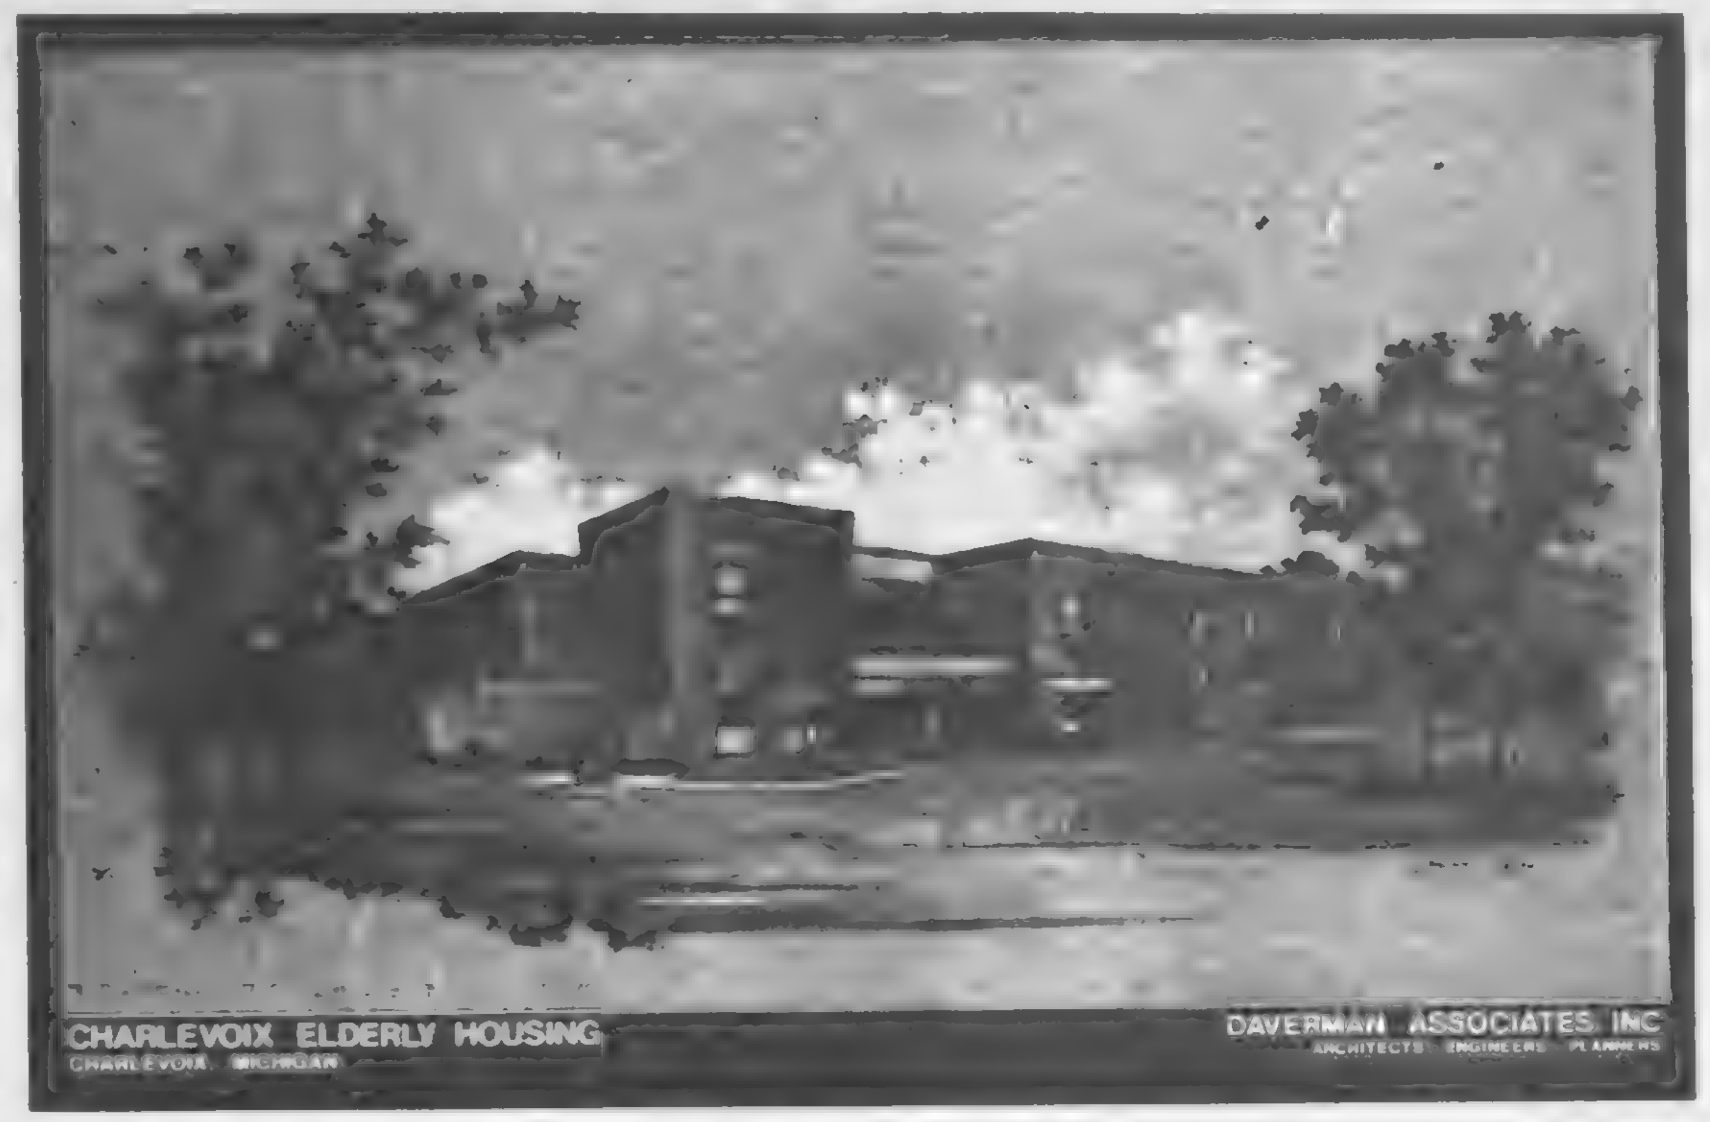
No spread of Legionnaires Disease

Investigative studies following the confirmation of Legionnaires' Disease in the October 6 death of Leland H. Warner of Charlevoix have turned up no evidence of the disease spreading or of any environmental causes for it as yet.

District Health Department Administrator Gerald Chase said last week that preliminary findings of the investigating team were that Warner's was an isolated case. He acknowledged that other cases with similar symptoms had been reported at the hospital but that testing revealed them to be cases of pneumonia not involving the Legionnaires' Disease organism.

Although it will take months for the more than 90 blood samples taken in the investigation to be tested completely, Chase said that initial tests by the state Department of Public Health have not turned up any further incidence of the disease. He also said that analyses of the water cooling and air conditioning systems at LexaLite where Warner was employed have shown them to have no bearing on the cause.



The Charlevoix Housing Commission received last week an architect's rendering of the Elderly Housing Project now under construction on the city's south side. The 63-unit apartment complex was started this past August and is scheduled to be completed by next summer.

Enrollment is down again in all Charlevoix schools

By PEG OHLE

Once again there is a decrease in enrollment in the Charlevoix Public Schools.

The "fourth Friday count" indicates a school population of 1,536 compared with 1,580 last year. This is the fourth consecutive year in which a decrease in school enrollment has been registered, beginning with the 1976-77 school year, when the enrollment was [illegible]

There was a loss of 47 students in the elementary school and five in the high school, while the middle school enrollment increased by 8.

Commenting on the decrease in enrollment, Schools Business Manager Vince Olach said that beginning with next year there should be a reverse trend.

"We may lose a few more next year – that depends on the economy– but after that we expect enrollment to start moving up," he commented.

Olach cited the kindergarten enrollment as a possible barometer of the upswing.

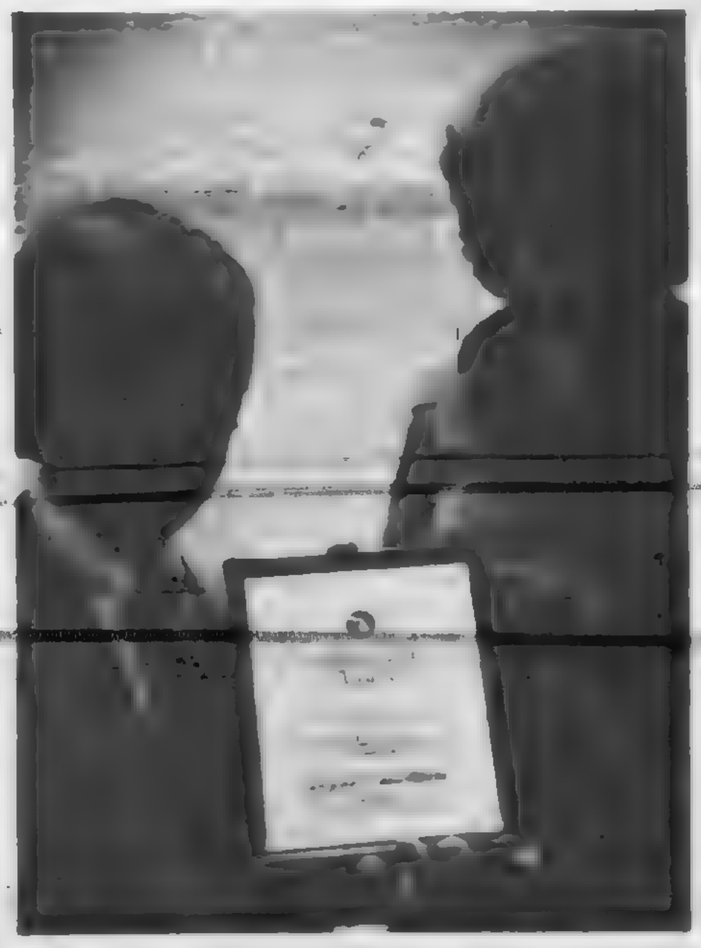
The decrease in school enrollment, he said, will not materially affect state financing of Charlevoix schools. Because of its high State Equalized Valuation, the Charlevoix Public School system is not eligible for Membership State Aid, except for a pittance called "Pass Through State Aid" which last year amounted to four cents a student.

However, the schools do receive another type of state aid called "Categorical State Aid", which covers funds for such school needs as transportation, special education, and vocational education. Last year this amounted to $159,282, or $101.51 per pupil.

This year, because of the state's critical financial situation, Olach estimates that the Categorical State Aid figure may be reduced to as little as $103,810, or $66.97 per pupil

"And we might even lose that," he says, "because the state may not have it.

"We're lucky because we have a carry-over fund of about $106,000 which we can use-if we have to," he added.



The American Cancer Society Charlevoix County Unit has been cited by the ACS Michigan Division for its success in fund raising this past year. Treasurer Hugh Mason, left, of Charlevoix and President Chris Robinson of Walloon Lake are shown with the gold plaque received by the county unit last week for recording a 15 percent increase in funds raised last year.

Charter amendments affect officials' paydays; terms of clerk and mayor

By PEG OHLE

In the November General Election, voters in the City of Charlevoix will be faced with two local propositions having to do with operation of city government.

Amendment A would make it possible for the city to pay council members, the mayor, the deputy mayor, and the city clerk bi-weekly rather than quarterly as is now the case.

Election '80

The main reason for this change is that the duties of the city clerk have become full-time, which necessitates regular, short pay periods. The clerk is paid a base salary of $3,300 for her city clerk's duties plus an hourly amount for her duties as purchasing agent, accounts payable and accounts receivable clerk, election clerk, cemetery recorder, and city ambulance records clerk, among others.

While passage of Amendment A would also permit the mayor, deputy mayor, and council members to be paid bi-weekly instead of quarterly, such a change is not now contemplated, according to one council member.

Presently, the mayor receives $2,040 a year and $30 per diem for committee meetings. Council members receive $1,320 a year plus $120 for each year of service after the first year, and $30 per diem for committee meetings.

Amendment B would increase the term of the city clerk from one year to two years. The advantages of this move are obvious, said a council member, because it takes at least a year to learn the job.

Present clerk, Deanne Balch, was appointed to the job on April 1, 1979 after serving as deputy clerk since 1976. Her appointment expired December 31, 1979, but she had previously been elected by write-in vote in November, 1979 to serve another term, which will expire December 31 of this year. She is again on the ballot in this year's General Election for another one year's term.

If Amendment B is passed, the term of the clerk would be for two years beginning with the term commencing January 1, 1982.

Neither Amendment A nor Amendment B would make any change in the rate of compensation for any city official.

Knight on the Town

Depraved and soon deprived

Many area sportsmen have no doubt been disturbed by the gill nets that have been pulled out of Little Traverse Bay recently with their grisly toll of decaying lakers and other game fish.

In fact, everyone should be disturbed - not just sportsmen - for this is a senseless waste of a resource precious to many more than just the individuals who boat them. It has been accurately pointed out by more than one source just how much our area depends on sport fishing.

If you don't believe it, just sit on Bridge Street some summer day and count the number of out-riggered boats that are trailored through town behind Winnebagoes full of vacationers.

The State of Michigan, in their efforts to introduce a non-native salmonid population to Lake Michigan some years ago, has written the book on reviving a large scale sport fishery.

Evidence of the DNR's continuing committment to maintain a healthy population of game fish in this area was in the planting just last week of tens of thousands of brown and lake trout in the Pine River Channel.

And yet, at the same time the bold little fingerlings were schooling along the Charlevoix pier on their way toward open water, keeper sized adult fish, dead for days in untended, illegally placed gill nets were being hauled out onto Petoskey docks.

One can easily empathize with the frustration of all the people involved with maintaining a harvestable game fish population along Northwestern Michigan shores. It seems lately that as fast as they can plant the fish, the fish are being wasted.

It's hard for me to understand the psychology of poaching.

It's a self-defeating process. If the individuals who laid those nets in Little Traverse did it because they needed meat on the table, what are they going to do in a few years when they'll either starve or learn to like alewives?

Besides, what was supposed to be meat on the table turned out to be a bunch of rotting fish on the dock. Who gains from that?

Therein lies another common trait of the poacher; cowardice. When the law starts sniffing around, drop the goods and run. These are the same people responsible for the deer found each year shot out of season with just the prime quarters removed. The rest is left to rot.

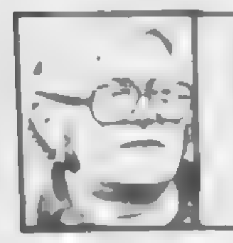
Obviously the people whose nets were pulled out of the bay last week figured that someone was onto them. What do they do? Just leave the nets. To avoid getting caught, a boatload of wasted lake trout is a trivial price to pay.

In "Sand County Almanac" Aldo Leopold wrote, "A peculiar virtue in wildlife ethics is that the hunter (or fisherman) has no gallery to applaud or disapprove of his conduct. Whatever his acts, they are dictated by his own conscience rather than by a mob of onlookers. It is difficult to exaggerate the importance of this fact.

"Voluntary adherence to an ethical code elevates the self-respect of the sportsman, but it should not be forgotten that voluntary disregard of the code degenerates and depraves him."

Depraved indeed were those responsible for the wasted trout in Little Traverse Bay.

The end result is that all of us are deprived.



Bob Clock

We've heard it all before

The next time an incumbent politician comes on TV and tells me government is spending too much money and I should re-elect him to bring a little thrift to the halls of Congress or the Legislature, I am going to throw a rock through the screen.

After all, this is the guy who has spent two years, or four years, in Washington or Lansing spending money hand over fist without a kindly thought for the hard-pressed taxpayer.

Now all of a sudden it's election time again and Larry the Lawmaker knows which way the political winds are blowing. So, he dons a white hat and accuses his colleagues with being the last of the big spenders. He's been too busy to do anything about it, but just re-elect him and he'll show you what a tight-wad he can be.

Sorry, fellow. You've had your chance. Of all political promises, the vows of fiscal responsibility by incumbents ring the hollowest of all.

If you are really interested in conserving tax dollars, why not look at some of the newcomers rather than give Larry the Lawmaker another crack at spending your money. We know Larry's track record — and it would be hard for anyone else to do worse.

ANOTHER TYPE of candidate who poses a hazard to the continued health of my television set is the fellow who comes on the screen and tells me I have been demanding (that's the word he uses) too many government services and that is why it costs so much to govern me.

Which is a crock. I have never "demanded" that government spend a dime more than it already has at its disposal. And neither have you.

If such "demands" are made, they are not lodged by individual taxpayers but by special interests which stand to benefit monetarily from the rape of the public treasury. Included in these special interests are labor unions, business organizations, professional associations and what have you.

Most of the individual taxpayers I know wouldn't have the gall to go begging for federal or state funds the way faceless organizations do.

What bothers me is that some of our citizens have become brain-washed by such election year rhetoric.

"We demand too many services from government," a friend told me recently on Bridge Street.

"Oh," says I in mock surprise. "What services have you demanded lately? I didn't even know you had been out of town."

My friend conceded that governmental over-spending isn't his idea — but results from the powerful lobbies which carry so much clout among our elected officials.

Perhaps if we're seriously interested in whittling the cost of government we should make it a felony for any elected official to so much as meet for coffee with any paid representative of a special interest — much less accept a campaign contribution from him.

The lobbyist should play absolutely no role in a democratic government dedicated to the principle of one man — one vote.

FOR MY LOCAL tax dollars I want my schools to be properly operated and maintained; I want police and fire protection; I want my streets plowed and patched as necessary; and I'd like a little set aside for citizens who are down on their luck.

And that, folks, is about it. The rest is folderol.

School board adopts '81 budget

estimated $15,300 for which the state will pay approximately one-third with the school district underwrite the remaining 66 percent.

These are in addition to the cost of living increase for personnel and of all services and supplies, Olach added.

Copies of the budget are available at the School Business Office at 208 Clinton Street.

In other action, the board approved a debt retirement payment of $18,635 to the City National Bank in Detroit for the bonds dated Aug. 1, 1979, for the high school addition.

Approved the recommendations made by the Language Arts/English committee and directed the administration to implement the recommendations to the fullest extent possible within the framework of the budget.

Mrs. Sandy Fassett reported briefly in the results of the community survey made last spring. A full report will be made on this next week.

Principals of the three schools reported on Parent-Teacher conferences or planned visitations which were well attended by a majority of parents.

Supt. VanWieren reported briefly on alternative Education Task Force which has been seeking a way to offer an alternative education to students who do not adjust to an educational environment. He said the survey was being made through the Intermediate School District and that a way to finance such a project was one of the reasons why it has not progressed past the planning stage. However, he said the committee would continue to seek a solution to the problem.

Vane H. Smith, high school principal and a member of the Athletic Council, reported on a recent meeting held with Michigan High School Athletic Association Representatives and some of the problems discussed.

A report was given on the hiring of an instrumental music director to succeed Michael Filkins who resigned earlier this month. The list of 15 candidates has been screened and cut to six who are still being interviewed. Max Novak, president of the board, advised that it may be necessary to engage a substitute until a replacement can be found. This may take time, he said, because a candidate may have trouble being released from his contract.

The next meeting was scheduled for Nov. 3 with only one meeting scheduled for November unless there is an emergency.

Fourth Wednesday Forum

With the proximity of the Consumers Power Big Rock nuclear plant to Charlevoix, the question of what role nuclear power generation should take in our lives has been debated on these pages regularly for years. This week the Courier will begin a new feature which will hopefully keep the flow of opinions and information on nuclear power going but in a more consolidated, specialized format. On the fourth Wednesday of each month, the Courier will publish all the pertinent commentaries received on either the pros or cons of nuclear energy in general or of happenings related to the local situation. Those interested are invited to submit their letters to the Courier by the Friday before the fourth Wednesday of each month. The deadline for the next Fourth Wednesday Forum is November 21.

The people need the facts

Lots of people have opinions on the effects of nuclear energy but their opinions don't solve the hazardous conditions that have been created. The pro-nuclear people are supposed to have all the scientific answers but their lack of logical reasoning doesn't satisfy some of us boneheads.

For one, why do they use a waste salvage system that requires constant maintenance and would increase a hazardous condition in case of mechanical or physical failure.

No. 2, they have no guarantee, after a ten year build up to have a better solution to the waste problem than right now.

No. 3, they forgot to mention that reconditioning of this stored salvage creates more hazardous waste and may not be competitive with other fuels.

No. 4, in case of war the enemy would have a ready made nuclear bomb even with the use of conventional explosives by bombing all nuclear plants and waste sites.

No. 5, the bigger power plant may be more profitable and of higher investment value and require less labor but actually is socially and morally wrong as more people are out of work and in case of failure more people would be deprived of their needs.

Their kind of logic is a philosophy of capitalistic economics, to get all you can for your money and let the public pay for it. This is actually being done by mutual agreement by the chemical corporations that pass the cost of accumulated waste disposal on to the public and get a profit on the increased volume of capital required.

Which is in fact an advantage for the investment owned public utilities that are allowed a profit on their volume of investments. The profit promoted corporations spend millions on advertising to buy favorable public opinions. The facts and common public knowledge would put an end to their stupidity if more of the people were fully informed and based their decisions on all the facts.

James Novotny
Charlevoix

There are positive alternatives to nuclear energy

Not being a member of any anti or pro nuclear group, I try to remain objective about nuclear energy. Here are some thoughts on the matter.

All nuclear power plants create radioactive materials which are potentially very dangerous to one's health. It is a growing belief among doctors that some people are more susceptible to cancer caused by radiation than others. However, it is becoming evident that even small amounts of radiation can accumulate in one's body and develop into cancer 15 to 20 years later.

My doubts increased about the safety of nuclear power when I learned that among those who oppose nuclear power are many renowned scientists, physicians and professors. Dr. James D. Watson, Professor of Molecular Biology from Harvard University and a Nobel Prize winner said, "An increasing number of our most informed scientific minds have very deep qualms about the widespread introduction of more nuclear power." A Declaration was sent to Congress signed by 2,000 biologists, chemists, engineers and other scientists. They said, "We urge a drastic reduction in new nuclear power plant construction starts before major progress is achieved in the required research, and in resolving present controversies about safety, waste disposal, and plutonium safeguards." A group of leading physicians have formed an organization calling for "...nuclear weapons disarmament, a moratorium on the construction of nuclear power plants, a phased withdrawal of existing plants, and a comprehensive program to conserve energy and to develop the alternative sources of energy which do exist." Another opponent of nuclear power as it is now, is Mr. David E. Lilienthal. Mr. Lilienthal was the first chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and foremost proponent of nuclear fission. In his new book, Atomic Energy: A New Start, Mr. Lilienthal admits that they rushed into the nuclear energy business too quickly. He says that nuclear power is UNSAFE, that we should deal with the dangers quickly and then make a "new start".

One of the greatest objections to nuclear energy is the problem of waste disposal. At least nine states have passed laws barring the disposal of commercial nuclear waste within their borders. According to Norman Cousins in the Saturday Review, "It is estimated that at the present rate of nuclear expansion, 60 million gallons of radioactive waste will have to be disposed of by the turn of the century." He also says, "...the highly lethal waste products produced by nuclear power plants cannot be permanently contained by any present method of storage or dumping." Nuclear waste will stay radioactive and highly dangerous to the environment for thousands of years.

The government is currently trying to find a nuclear dump site for the nation. However, there are serious questions as to what geologic conditions are best suited for a waste deposit. When radioactive wastes were stored in tanks at Hanford after World War II, leaks began to appear after 15 years when the tanks were supposed to have lasted a century.

While we are waiting for "technology" to answer the questions of how and where to store lethal wastes for generations, the nuclear plants continue to produce the waste. In Charlevoix, the Big Rock nuclear plant wishes to expand its spent fuel storage until a permanent disposal site is found. The spent fuel is highly radioactive. It seems wrong to produce a substance which is going to have to be guarded and watched for a time longer than recorded history. And for what cause? Big Rock only produces 1½ percent of Consumers Power's electricity. The plant also only has about 15 more years to operate.

Until the problems of waste storage can be solved, we should all turn our attention to the alternatives. Suppose that Consumers Power Co. turned Big Rock Point into a non-threatening energy research station. Electricity could be produced through wind power, devising practical wind generators for individuals to buy. Solar and geothermal methods of creating energy could be fully explored. Another part of the Big Rock energy complex could be a large, efficient recycling center for all of northern Michigan. Ann Arbor, Michigan has a very successful recycling center in which solid waste is collected and separated into categories of glass, paper, aluminum, etc. and then sold back to the companies for recycling. This would also help our situation of rapidly filling sanitary landfills.

There are other kinds of recycling plants. There is one in Germany in which the refuse is incinerated, then electricity is made from the steam. This plant produces 18 percent of all the electricity for the large city of Munich. Through conservation and recycling, more energy can be saved than a nuclear plant can produce.

There are positive alternatives. It is only by admitting that our environment is not ready for nuclear energy, and then work as a community, that we will make the alternatives a reality. We all have the same desire for a community which is non-threatening to our health and self-sufficient in energy supply. We must listen openly and carefully to one another's opinions and thoughts on the matter, and then act responsibly for ourselves and future generations.

NORMAN L. HELMS

Funeral services for Norman L. Helms, 41, who died Oct. 13 at a Traverse City Hospital, were held Wednesday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Austin Regier of the United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Barnard Cemetery.

Born in Charlevoix Feb. 10, 1939, Mr. Helms was graduated from the Charlevoix High School where he was an outstanding athlete. He served briefly in the U.S. Army. He had been employed at the American Mold Engineering Corp. until he became ill. He was a member of the United Methodist Church.

He is survived by two daughters, Laureen and Tamera, both of Charlevoix and a sister, Mrs. Stephen (Susie) LaJoice of East Jordan.

TOMMY THOMAS

Funeral services for Tommy Thomas, 80, who died Oct. 14 at Provencial House in Traverse City, were held Wednesday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Austin Regier of the United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born on one of the islands in the Beaver Group, Charlevoix County, April 19, 1900, Mr. Thomas had always resided on Beaver Island and in Charlevoix. He never married.

He had no immediate survivors.

MARTHA O. LOCKWOOD

Funeral services for Mrs. Warren E. (Martha O.) Lockwood, 57, who died Oct. 13 at the Charlevoix Area Hospital where she had been a patient for a week, were held Thursday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Roger Ames of Christ Episcopal Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born in Deering, Mo., Feb. 18, 1923, the former Martha Opal Walker was married to Mr. Lockwood on July 16, 1966 at South haven. She had moved to Allegan County from Missouri in 1951 and to Charlevoix in 1977 from Fennville.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Lockwood is survived by five sons, Sonny Harold Young, Monty Ross Young and Donald Kenneth Young, all of Charlevoix, Gary Emmett Young of Pullman and Daniel Lee Young serving with the U.S. Marine Corps; seven daughters, Mrs. Larry (Maudie) Streeter, Mrs. Lorna Holt, Mary Maria Young and and Rita Fern Young of Charlevoix, Mrs. Sam (Martha Shirleen) Clements of East Jordan, Barbara Jean Young of Pullman and Mrs. Erwin (Bobbie Kay) Bodfish of South Haven; 28 grandchildren and her father, James Walker of Deering, Mo.

LILLIAN B. MOORE

Funeral services for Mrs. Lillian B. Moore, 96, the community's oldest resident who died Thursday at Grandvue Medical Care Facility where she had been a patient for several months, were held Monday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Austin Regier of the United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born in Sheboygan, Wis., March 7, 1884, the former Lillian B. Sandrock came to the Charlevoix area at the age of seven years. In 1903 she was married to Matthew Saunders at Petoskey. They always made their home in the Ironton area until his death in 1927. In 1933 she was married to Gene Crandall who died in March 1936. She then married Joseph Moore at Grosse Pointe in 1941. The resided here. He preceded her in death in October 1950. For many years she was employed as a home nurse in the community.

She was a member of the United Methodist Church and its Etha Nagler circle and a member and Past Noble Grand of the Charlevoix Rebekah Lodge No. 293.

Surviving are a son, Wallace P. Saunders of East Detroit; a step-son, Herbert Moore of Charlevoix; six grandchildren; nine great-grandchildren and a half-brother, Frank Nowland of Miami, Fla.

MARTHA G. ZALUSKY

Mrs. Martha G. Zalusky, 87, of 104 W. Haight St. died suddenly early Thursday morning at her residence.

Martha G. Gallagher was born June 27, 1893 in Beaver Island, St. James, Mich. and was married to Fred F. Zalusky Jan. 17, 1922 in St. Simon Catholic Church, Ludington. He preceded her in death on May 11, 1966.

She was a graduate of St. James High School, Beaver Island and attended Ferris Institute in Big Rapids. She came to Ludington from Beaver Island in 1920 and was a devoted member of St. Simon Catholic Church.

She was a member of the Catholic Daughters of America, St. Simon Altar Society and the American Legion Auxiliary to Edwin H. Ewing Post 76. She had been employed at one time by the JC Penney Company, the Morris Store, Dawne Fashions and the Pic N Pac as a salesperson.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Martin (Freda Mae) Shumsky of Ludington; three grandchildren, William Shumsky of Miami, Fla; Janet Marie Shumsky of Ludington and Mrs. Dennis (Margaret Irene) Grant of Ludington, five great-grandchildren, Brian and Jennifer Shumsky of Miami, Fla.; Christa Shumsky of Ludington and Matthew and Brandon Grant of Ludington, several nieces and nephews.

She was preceded in death by her parents, William J. and Margaret (Boyle) Gallagher; one son, Fred Jr., four brothers and six sisters.

MARIE J. LODER

Funeral services for Mrs. Marie J. Loder, 70, who died Sunday at Lockwood-MacDonald Hospital where she had been a patient for two days, will be held at St. Mary's Church at 10 a.m. Wednesday. The Rev. R. Dale Magoon will officiate. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

The Rosary will be recited at the Winchester Funeral Home at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. Friends may call Tuesday evening.

The former Marie J. Ores was born in Barberton, Ohio, March 15, 1910 and was married to Wallace R. Loder at Lakewood, Ohio, July 14, 1941. They resided in the Cleveland area until 1962 when they came to Charlevoix from Avon, Ohio. At that time they purchased Wal-Mar Cabins on US 31 North and operated them until 1970. During those same years she operated a beauty salon, Wal-Mar Coiffures. She had operated shops in Ohio before coming here. Mr. Loder preceded her in death on Aug. 3, 1980. She was a member of St. Mary's Church and the Little Flower Guild.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Michael (Rosemary) Johnson of Charlevoix; two sons, Wallace, R., Jr., of Fairview Park, Ohio, and Gary of Charlevoix; seven grandchildren; two sisters, Miss Anna Ores of Cleveland and Mrs. Joseph (Julia) Kastmir of Phoenix, Ariz., and three brothers, Steve Ores of Oberlin, Ohio, George Ores of Tulsa, Okla., and Albert Ores of Sacremento, Calif.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society of the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

By PEG OHLE

(This is the second in a series of excerpts from the book "Perry, Experiences of a Pioneer" by Perry Whiting, who came to Charlevoix County in 1870. He gave the land his father, Ryerson Whiting, homesteaded to Charlevoix County in 1923 for use as a park. Whiting Park is still an integral part of the county's recreation system. The book was written in 1928.)

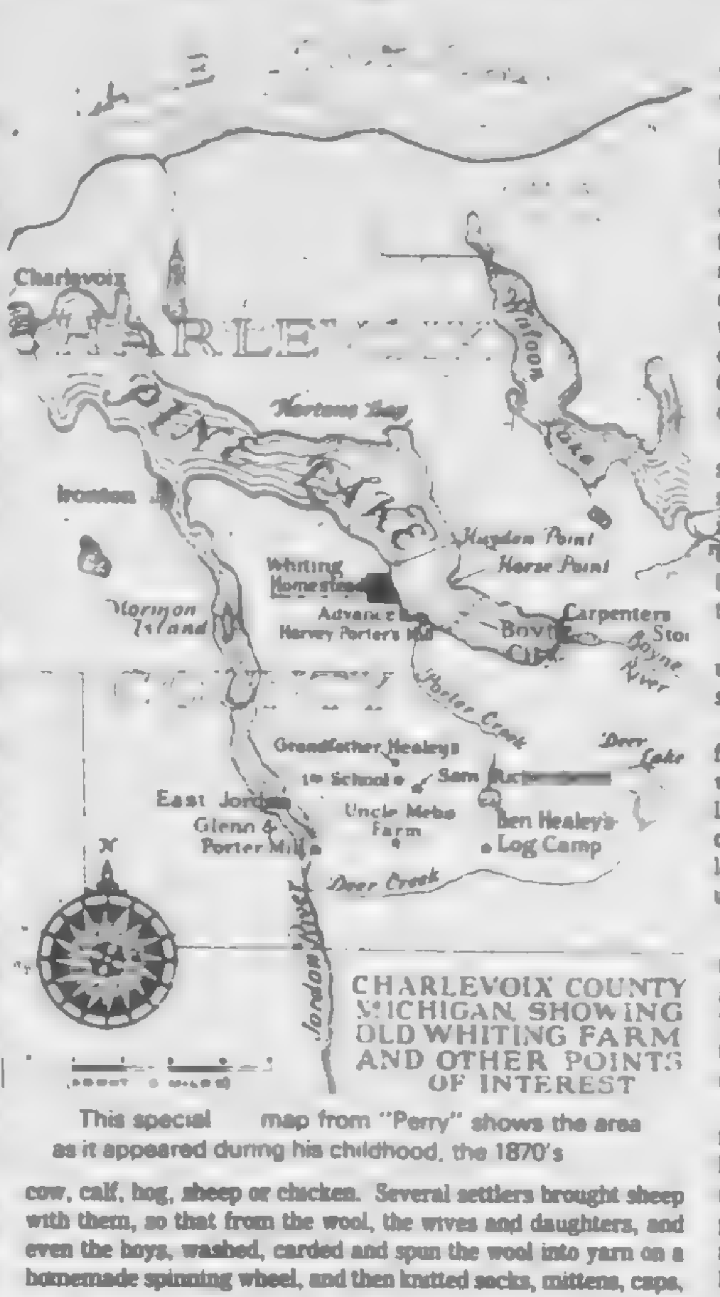
"I said the settlers had no money (in 1870 and 1871), and you may wonder how they paid for their sow belly, overalls, jumpers, mittens, socks, etc., so I will explain:

"Charlevoix is three hundred miles north and across Lake Michigan from Chicago. Pine Lake (Lake Charlevoix) is a most beautiful body of water from one to three miles wide and sixteen miles long, one end being within a mile of Lake Michigan. Round Lake, which is about three-quarters of a mile wide, making a most beautiful harbor. Round Lake is connected with Lake Michigan by another river or channel 400 feet long. Charlevoix is situated on this Round Lake, and at the present time, is a most beautiful little city, or rather resort, for Chicago and Southern Michigan cities. In 1870, the freight and passengers on Lake Michigan were carried by old-fashioned sidewheel steamers, called 'Propellers', hence the name 'Propeller wood'" which was fuel for the steamers.

"The settlers cut down the trees, sawed them into four foot lengths and then split them into two pieces about six inches in diameter. These were drawn to the lake shore and piled up at the water's edge. The value of this wood was $2 a cord, a pile 4x4x8 feet, and it took one man one and one-half days to cut and convey one cord to the water's edge. Then the settler walked to the general merchandise man at Charlevoix and made a bargain to sell him his propeller wood; that is to say, trade him his propeller wood for sow belly and other necessities of life. The reader will thus see that no money changed hands. There was none to exchange. The store keeper sold his wood to the old sidewheeler and what money he received was sent to Chicago to pay for the goods he had traded the settler. Likewise, the excess products of the farm were traded to the store keeper, he, in turn, traded them to some other party for propeller wood or whatever he might have to trade.

"In this way, the settlers were able to pay for their clothes, and the other necessities which they were not able to produce on the farm.

"One farmer would trade to another so much wheat, corn, potatoes, or maple sugar, or perhaps some of each, for an ox, a cow, calf, hog, sheep or chicken. Several settlers brought sheep with them, so that from the wool, the wives and daughters, and even the boys, washed, carded and spun the wool into yarn on a homemade spinning wheel, and then knitted socks, mittens, caps, etc. A great many, including Mother and Grandmother Healey, wove cloth on a homemade loom from homemade yarn, with which to clothe the family.



CHARLEVOIX COUNTY MICHIGAN SHOWING OLD WHITING FARM AND OTHER POINTS OF INTEREST

This special map from "Perry" shows the area as it appeared during his childhood, the 1870's

"These poor creatures had to carve their farms out of the forest. There was no sale for the timber, except the propeller wood, and the demand for that was very limited. Only those whose farms were near the lake could derive any income from that source. It was necessary for them to raise and store sufficient food for their families and fodder for their stock, to carry them through the long winter (five or six months), during which time the snow was from five inches to five feet deep. I often wonder how many of us ever think, realize, or give thanks to God, Man or Science, for the most wonderful luxuries and opportunities of this glorious age in which we are living?

"In the spring of 1871, one year after Father and Mother had settled on the homestead, he sent to Lapeer and had his father send him a yoke of young oxen. I do not know how long they were in transit, but they were driven part of the way and came the rest of the way by boat. With the aid of the oxen, he was able, during the next winter, to cut and haul many cords of propeller wood to the lake shore and trade it for flour, etc.

"In the past two years, he had been able to cut away and burn up the forest off about ten acres. It may be interesting to some...to hear how this clearing was accomplished.

"In the winter, when there was little else to do, the men would fell the trees on from one to ten acres. In the spring, as soon as it was dry enough, they would apply a torch and burn all the small limbs and brush, after which they would chop the trees into logs of a size that an ox team could drag and haul to one place. The logs were so green and wet that they would not burn unless rolled up in a pile, three or four deep.

"Two poles were brought into position, each havingg one end on the first log and the other on the ground, then they dragged another log, by means of the ox team, along side of these poles. Two men would then take handspikes (a piece of small tree about two inches in diameter and about six feet long) and put them under either end of the last log, and roll it upon the others.

"This process was repeated until the pile was from four to six feet high. Often the women would help at this work. After the log heaps were large enough, the small boys and girls would gather up all the small chunks and debris, not previously burned, and pile it on top of the log heaps. Then the heaps were set on fire, and at night it made a beautiful picture when several of them were burning."

Real estate workshop planned

A two-day Estate Planning Workshop is being sponsored by the Charlevoix County Extension Office and Michigan State University and will be held at Whiting Park on Wednesday and Thursday, October 29 and 30.

Many people are becoming more concerned about their families and the methods of transfers to their heirs. Also there have been several changes in the inheritance taxes and rates.

Some of the topics include: (1) What is an Estate Plan, (2) Why have a plan, (3) Kinds of property (4) Forms of ownership, (5) Federal estate tax, (6) Michigan inheritance tax, (7) Probate Process, (8) Trusts, (9) Life Insurance, (10) Partnership and Corporations.

Speakers include Ed Rebman, County Extension Director; Glenn Kole, Myron Kelsey and Ralph Hepp - Extension Specialists Michigan State University. Probate Judge John Murphy of Charlevoix and Emmet Counties, Trust Officer Bob Prevette of State Bank and Trust of Petoskey and Steve Seldon Area Agent Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance.

These meetings will run from 9:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. each day. The cost for coffee, donuts and all materials will be $10.00 for singles and $12.00 for couples. Lunch can be either brown bag or drive to Boyne City. Reservations should be made with the County Extension Office as soon as possible.

Knight on the Town

Depraved and soon deprived

Many area sportsmen have no doubt been disturbed by the gill nets that have been pulled out of Little Traverse Bay recently with their grisly toll of decaying lakers and other game fish.

In fact, everyone should be disturbed - not just sportsmen - for this is a senseless waste of a resource precious to many more than just the individuals who boat them. It has been accurately pointed out by more than one source just how much our area depends on sport fishing.

If you don't believe it, just sit on Bridge Street some summer day and count the number of out-riggered boats that are trailored through town behind Winnebagoes full of vacationers.

The State of Michigan, in their efforts to introduce a non-native salmonid population to Lake Michigan some years ago, has written the book on reviving a large scale sport fishery.

Evidence of the DNR's continuing committment to maintain a healthy population of game fish in this area was in the planting just last week of tens of thousands of brown and lake trout in the Pine River Channel.

And yet, at the same time the bold little fingerlings were schooling along the Charlevoix pier on their way toward open water, keeper sized adult fish, dead for days in untended, illegally placed gill nets were being hauled out onto Petoskey docks.

One can easily empathize with the frustration of all the people involved with maintaining a harvestable game fish population along Northwestern Michigan shores. It seems lately that as fast as they can plant the fish, the fish are being wasted.

It's hard for me to understand the psychology of poaching.

It's a self-defeating process. If the individuals who laid those nets in Little Traverse did it because they needed meat on the table, what are they going to do in a few years when they'll either starve or learn to like alewives?

Besides, what was supposed to be meat either on or under the table turned out to be a bunch of rotting fish on the dock. Who gains from that?

Therein lies another common trait of the poacher; cowardice. When the law starts sniffing around, drop the goods and run. These are the same people responsible for the deer found each year shot out of season with just the prime quarters removed. The rest is left to rot.

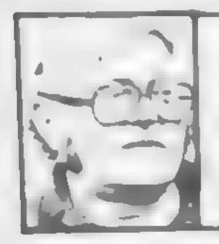
Obviously the people whose nets were pulled out of the bay last week figured that someone was onto them. What do they do? Just leave the nets. To avoid getting caught, a boatload of wasted lake trout is a trivial price to pay.

In "Sand County Almanac" Aldo Leopold wrote, "A peculiar virtue in wildlife ethics is that the hunter (or fisherman) has no gallery to applaud or disapprove of his conduct. Whatever his acts, they are dictated by his own conscience rather than by a mob of onlookers. It is difficult to exaggerate the importance of this fact.

"Voluntary adherence to an ethical code elevates the self-respect of the sportsman, but it should not be forgotten that voluntary disregard of the code degenerates and depraves him."

Depraved indeed were those responsible for the wasted trout in Little Traverse Bay.

The end result is that all of us are deprived.



Bob Clock

We've heard it all before

The next time an incumbent politician comes on TV and tells me government is spending too much money and I should re-elect him to bring a little thrift to the halls of Congress or the Legislature, I am going to throw a rock through the screen.

After all, this is the guy who has spent two years or four years, in Washington or Lansing spending money hand over fist without a kindly thought for the hard-pressed taxpayer.

Now all of a sudden it's election time again and Larry the Lawmaker knows which way the political winds are blowing. So, he dons a white hat and accuses his colleagues with being the last of the big spenders. He's been too busy to do anything about it, but just re-elect him and he'll show you what a tight-wad he can be.

Sorry, fellow. You've had your chance. Of all political promises, the vows of fiscal responsibility by incumbents ring the hollowest of all.

If you are really interested in conserving tax dollars, why not look at some of the newcomers rather than give Larry the Lawmaker another crack at spending your money. We know Larry's track record — and it would be hard for anyone else to do [illegible]

ANOTHER TYPE of candidate who poses a hazard to the continued health of my television set is the fellow who comes on the screen and tells me I have been demanding (that's the word he uses) too many government services and that is why it costs so much to govern me.

Which is a crock. I have never "demanded" that government spend a dime more than it already has at its disposal. And neither have you.

If such "demands" are made, they are not lodged by individual taxpayers but by special interests which stand to benefit monetarily from the rape of the public treasury. Included in these special interests are labor unions, business organizations, professional associations and what have you.

Most of the individual taxpayers I know wouldn't have the gall to go begging for federal or state funds the way faceless organizations do.

What bothers me is that some of our citizens have become brain-washed by such election year rhetoric.

"We demand too many services from government," a friend told me recently on Bridge Street.

"Oh," says I in mock surprise. "What services have you demanded lately? I didn't even know you had been out of town."

My friend conceded that governmental over-spending isn't his idea — but results from the powerful lobbies which carry so much clout among our elected officials.

Perhaps if we're seriously interested in whittling the cost of government we should make it a felony for any elected official to so much as meet for coffee with any paid representative of a special interest — much less accept a campaign contribution from him.

The lobbyist should play absolutely no role in a democratic government dedicated to the principle of one man — one vote.

FOR MY LOCAL tax dollars I want my schools to be properly operated and maintained; I want police and fire protection; I want my streets plowed and patched as necessary; and I'd like a little set aside for citizens who are down on their luck.

And that, folks, is about it. The rest is [illegible]

These are in addition to the cost of living increase for personnel and of all services and supplies, Olach added.

Copies of the budget are available at the School Business Office at [illegible] Clinton Street.

In other action, the board approved a debt retirement payment of $18,625 to the City National Bank in Detroit for the bonds dated Aug. 1, 1979, for the high school addition.

Approved the recommendations made by the Language Arts/English committee and directed the administration to implement the recommendations to the fullest extent possible within the framework of the budget.

Mrs. Sandy Fassett reported briefly in the results of the community survey made last spring. A full report will be made on this next week.

Principals of the three schools reported on Parent-Teacher conferences or planned visitations which were well attended by a majority of parents.

Supt. VanWieren reported briefly on alternative Education Task Force which has been seeking a way to offer an alternative education to students who do not adjust to an educational environment. He said the survey was being made through the Intermediate School District and that a way to finance such a project was one of the reasons why it has not progressed past the planning stage. However, he said the committee would continue to seek a solution to the problem.

Vane H. Smith, high school principal and a member of the Athletic Council, reported on a recent meeting held with Michigan High School Athletic Association Representatives and some of the problems discussed.

A report was given on the hiring of an instrumental music director to succeed Michael Filkins who resigned earlier this month. The list of 15 candidates has been screened and cut to six who are still being interviewed. Max Novak, president of the board, advised that it may be necessary to engage a substitute until a replacement can be found. This may take time, he said, because a candidate may have trouble being released from his contract.

The next meeting was scheduled for Nov. 3 with only one meeting scheduled for November unless there is an emergency.

Fourth Wednesday Forum

With the proximity of the Consumers Power Big Rock nuclear plant to Charlevoix, the question of what role nuclear power generation should take in our lives has been debated on these pages regularly for years. This week, the Courier will begin a new feature which will hopefully keep the flow of opinions and information on nuclear power going but in a more consolidated, specialized format. On the fourth Wednesday of each month, the Courier will publish all the pertinent commentaries received on either the pros or cons of nuclear energy in general or of happenings related to the local situation. Those interested are invited to submit their letters to the Courier by the Friday before the fourth Wednesday of each month. The deadline for the next Fourth Wednesday Forum is November 21.

The people need the facts

Lots of people have opinions on the effects of nuclear energy but their opinions don't solve the hazardous conditions that have been created. The pro-nuclear people are supposed to have all the scientific answers but their lack of logical reasoning doesn't satisfy some of us boneheads.

For one, why do they use a waste salvage system that requires constant maintenance and would increase a hazardous condition in case of mechanical or physical failure.

No. 2, they have no guarantee, after a ten year build up to have a better solution to the waste problem than right now.

No. 3, they forgot to mention that reconditioning of this stored salvage creates more hazardous waste and may not be competitive with other fuels.

No. 4, in case of war the enemy would have a ready made nuclear bomb even with the use of conventional explosives by bombing all nuclear plants and waste sites.

No. 5, the bigger power plant may be more profitable and of higher investment value and require less labor but actually is socially and morally wrong as more people are out of work and in case of failure more people would be deprived of their needs.

Their kind of logic is a philosophy of capitalistic economics, to get all you can for your money and let the public pay for it. This is actually being done by mutual agreement by the chemical corporations that pass the cost of accumulated waste disposal on to the public and get a profit on the increased volume of capital required.

Which is in fact an advantage for the investment owned public utilities that are allowed a profit on their volume of investments. The profit promoted corporations spend millions on advertising to buy favorable public opinions. The facts and common public knowledge would put an end to their stupidity if more of the people were fully informed and based their [illegible]

There are positive alternatives to nuclear energy

Not being a member of any anti or pro nuclear group, I try to remain objective about nuclear energy. Here are some thoughts on the matter.

All nuclear power plants create radioactive materials which are potentially very dangerous to one's health. It is a growing belief among doctors that some people are more susceptible to cancer caused by radiation than others. However, it is becoming evident that even small amounts of radiation can accumulate in one's body and develop into cancer 15 to 20 years later.

My doubts increased about the safety of nuclear power when I learned that among those who oppose nuclear power are many renowned scientists, physicians and professors. Dr. James D. Watson, Professor of Molecular Biology from Harvard University and a Nobel Prize winner said, "An increasing number of our most informed scientific minds have very deep qualms about the widespread introduction of more nuclear power." A Declaration was sent to Congress signed by 2,000 biologists, chemists, engineers and other scientists. They said, "We urge a drastic reduction in new nuclear power plant construction starts before major progress is achieved in the required research, and in resolving present controversies about safety, waste disposal, and plutonium safeguards." A group of leading physicians have formed an organization calling for "...nuclear weapons disarmament, a moratorium on the construction of nuclear power plants, a phased withdrawal of existing plants, and a comprehensive program to conserve energy and to develop the alternative sources of energy which do exist." Another opponent of nuclear power as it is now, is Mr. David E. Lilienthal. Mr. Lilienthal was the first chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission and foremost proponent of nuclear fission. In his new book, Atomic Energy: A New Start, Mr. Lilienthal admits that they rushed into the nuclear energy business too quickly. He says that nuclear power is UNSAFE, that we should deal with the dangers quickly and then make a "new start".

One of the greatest objections to nuclear energy is the problem of waste disposal. At least nine states have passed laws barring the disposal of commercial nuclear waste within their borders. According to Norman Cousins in the Saturday Review, "It is estimated that at the present rate of nuclear expansion, 60 million gallons of radioactive waste will have to be disposed of by the turn of the century." He also says, "...the highly lethal waste products produced by nuclear power plants cannot be permanently contained by any present method of storage or dumping." Nuclear waste will stay radioactive and highly dangerous to the environment for thousands of years.

The government is currently trying to find a nuclear dump site for the nation. However, there are serious questions as to what geologic conditions are best suited for a waste deposit. When radioactive wastes were stored in tanks at Hanford after World War II, leaks began to appear after 15 years when the tanks were supposed to have lasted a century.

While we are waiting for "technology" to answer the questions of how and where to store lethal wastes for generations, the nuclear plants continue to produce the waste. In Charlevoix, the Big Rock nuclear plant wishes to expand its spent fuel storage until a permanent disposal site is found. The spent fuel is highly radioactive. It seems wrong to produce a substance which is going to have to be guarded and watched for a time longer than recorded history. And for what cause? Big Rock only produces 1½ percent of Consumers Power's electricity. The plant also only has about 15 more years in operating.

Until the problems of waste storage can be solved, we should all turn our attention to the alternatives. Suppose that Consumers Power Co. turned Big Rock Point into a non-threatening energy research station. Electricity could be produced through wind power, devising practical wind generators for individuals to buy. Solar and geothermal methods of creating energy could be fully explored. Another part of the Big Rock energy complex could be a large, efficient recycling center for all of northern Michigan. Ann Arbor, Michigan has a very successful recycling center in which solid waste is collected and separated into categories, of glass, paper, aluminum, etc. and then sold back to the companies for recycling. This would also help our situation of rapidly filling sanitary landfills.

There are other kinds of recycling plants. There is one in Germany in which the refuse is incinerated, then electricity is made from the steam. This plant produces 18 percent of all the electricity for the large city of Munich. Through conservation and recycling, more energy can be saved than a nuclear plant can produce.

There are positive alternatives. It is only by admitting that our environment is not ready for nuclear energy, and then work as a community, that we will make the alternatives a reality. We all have the same desire for a community which is non-threatening to our health and self-sufficient in energy supply. We must listen openly and carefully to one another's opinions and thoughts on this matter, and then act responsibly for ourselves and future generations.

By [illegible]

(This is the second in a series of excerpts from the book "Perry, Experiences of a Pioneer" by Perry Whiting, who came to Charlevoix County in 1870. He gave the land his father, Ryerson Whiting, homesteaded to Charlevoix County in [illegible] for use as a park. Whiting Park is still an integral part of the county's recreation system. The book was written in [illegible].)

"I said the settlers had no money (in 1870 and 1871), and you may wonder how they paid for their sow belly, overalls, jumpers, mittens, socks, etc., so I will explain:

"Charlevoix is three hundred miles north and across Lake Michigan from Chicago. Pine Lake (Lake Charlevoix) is a most beautiful body of water from one to three miles wide and sixteen miles long, one end being within a mile of Lake Michigan. Round Lake, which is about three-quarters of a mile wide, making a most beautiful harbor. Round Lake is connected with Lake Michigan by another river or channel 400 feet long. Charlevoix is situated on this Round Lake, and at the present time, is a most beautiful little city, or rather resort, for Chicago and Southern Michigan cities. In 1870, the freight and passengers on Lake Michigan were carried by old-fashioned sidewheel steamers, called 'Propellers', hence the name 'Propeller wood" which was used for the steamers.

"The settlers cut down the trees, sawed them into four foot lengths and then split them into two pieces about six inches in diameter. These were drawn to the lake shore and piled up at the water's edge. The value of this wood was $2 a cord, a pile 4x4x8 feet, and it took one man one and one-half days to cut and convey one cord to the water's edge. Then the settler walked to the general merchandise man at Charlevoix and made a bargain to sell him his propeller wood; that is to say, trade him his propeller wood for sow belly and other necessities of life. The reader will thus see that no money changed hands. There was none to exchange. The store keeper sold his wood to the old sidewheeler and what money he received was sent to Chicago to pay for the goods he had traded the settler. Likewise, the excess products of the farm were traded to the store keeper, he, in turn, traded them to some other party for propeller wood or whatever he might have to trade.

"In this way, the settlers were able to pay for their clothes, and the other necessities which they were not able to produce on the farm.

"One farmer would trade to another so much wheat, corn, potatoes, or maple sugar, or perhaps some of each, for an ox, a cow, calf, hog, sheep or chicken. Several settlers brought sheep with them, so that from the wool, the wives and daughters, and even the boys, washed, carded and spun the wool into yarn on a homemade spinning wheel, and then knitted socks, mittens, caps, etc. A great many, including Mother and Grandmother Healey, wove cloth on a homemade loom from homemade yarn, with which to clothe the family.

"These poor creatures had to carve their farms out of the forest. There was no sale for the timber, except the propeller wood, and the demand for that was very limited. Only those whose farms were near the lake could derive any income from that source. It was necessary for them to raise and store sufficiednt food for their families and fodder for their stock, to carry them through the long winter (five or six months), during which time the snow was from five inches to five feet deep. I often wonder how many of us ever think, realize, or give thanks to God, Man or Science, for the most wonderful luxuries and opportunities of this glorious age in which we are living?

"In the spring of 1871, one year after Father and Mother had settled on the homestead, he sent to Lapeer and had his father send him a yoke of young oxen. I do not know how long they were in transit, but they were driven part of the way and came the rest of the way by boat. With the aid of the oxen, he was able, during the next winter, to cut and haul many cords of propeller wood to the lake shore and trade it for flour, etc.

"In the past two years, he had been able to cut away and burn up the forest off about ten acres. It may be interesting to some...to hear how this clearing was accomplished.

"In the winter, when there was little else to do, the men would fell the trees on from one to ten acres. In the spring, as soon as it was dry enough, they would apply a torch and burn all the small limbs and brush, after which they would chop the trees into logs of a size that an ox team could drag and haul to one place. The logs were so green and wet that they would not burn unless rolled up in a pile, three or four deep.

"Two poles were brought into position, each havingg one end on the first log and the other on the ground, then they dragged another log, by means of the ox team, alongside of these poles. Two men would then take handspikes (a piece of small tree about two inches in diameter and about six feet long) and put them under either end of the last log, and roll it upon the others.

"This process was repeated until the pile was from four to six feet high. Often the women would help at this work. After the log heaps were large enough, the small boys and girls would gather up all the small chunks and debris, not previously burned, and pile it on top of the log heaps. Then the heaps were set on fire, and at night it made a beautiful picture when several of them were burning."

St. Mary's School of Charlevoix held an open house Sunday, October 12 to welcome new families in the area. Parents were invited to explore the school's programs and the children's work such as the banner held above by, from left, Karen Seese, Amy Pischner, Melissa Hansen, Jane Scharenbroch and Joan Kenney. On the banner were all the childrens' families' names. Carrying the theme farther, each student and his or her family designed a family coat of arms which the students then wore to the special Mass Sunday and later to school.

Legion Auxiliary wins ribbons for meeting membership quota

The Auxiliary of the Leslie T. Shapton Post, American Legion, has been awarded a blue ribbon for meeting its 1980 membership quota, a citation from the Department for reaching its membership quota and a national citation for continuous service to the community. Mrs. William Farkas, president, advised the membership at a recent meeting.

Mrs. Farkas also reported on the recent district meeting held at South Boardman. Mrs. Harry Pearsall, District Energy Conservation chairman, gave a report on energy conservation and 101 ways to conserve energy in the home.

District Girls' State Chairman, Madelyn Taylor of Central Lake, advised the local Auxiliary that the 1981 Girls State would be held at Central Michigan University July 11 through 18 and that the cost per girl would be $130.

Thailand has been selected as the American Legion Auxiliary country for foreign relations assistance during 1981 the membership has been informed.

The membership voted to pay the remainder of the Auxiliary's pledge to the Charlevoix Area Hospital expansion and renovation project.

Mrs. Josephine Bins announced that 14 cards had been signed by members to be sent to those who are ill or shut-ins.

Mrs. Lester Smith, treasurer, reported that 31 senior members and one junior member had paid 1981 dues to date. All members are asked to pay their dues as soon as possible.

The meeting closed with refreshments served by Mrs. William Bellows and Mrs. Pearsall.

Holiday Cookbook Contest

$150 In Prizes To Be Given Away!

•$10 cash for each of the winners in all 5 categories.

COURIER HOLIDAY COOKING CONTEST RULES

1. Contestants are invited to enter as many categories as they wish but may submit only one recipe per category.

2. Recipes should be typed or printed on a sheet of paper with the category indicated.

3. To each recipe there should be a separate sheet of paper attached with the contestants name, address and phone number. The contestant's name should not appear on the actual recipe. As each recipe is received, it will be assigned a number which will be logged with the contestant's name. The names will be removed from the recipes so the judges will not know whose recipes they are judging.

4. Ingredients should be listed in accurate, easily understood amounts and in the order that they are used.

5. Recipes do not have to be completely original. They may be old standards or new variations on familiar recipes. The more original the recipe is, however, the better its chance of winning.

6. If duplicate recipes are received, the one submitted first will be accepted. We will log date and time recipes are received.

7. All contestants must agree to permit their recipes to be published in a special cookbook section of the Charlevoix Courier.

8. Employees of the Charlevoix Courier and Petoskey News-Review and members of their families are not eligible to win the contest.

9. A panel of judges will evaluate the recipes submitted and name three finalists in each of the five categories. The 15 finalists will be notified and asked to prepare their recipes for a final judging session. Judges will then sample the entries, name a winner in each category and a grand prize winner of the five winners.

10. The deadline for entries is 5 p.m., Friday, October 31. Recipes should be submitted to the Charlevoix Courier, 405 Bridge St., Charlevoix, MI, 49720.

Marilyn Blauman to take on Court Administrator duties

Marilyn Blauman, who has been serving as a magistrate in the 90th District Court, has taken over the duties of Court Administrator.

Mrs. Blauman has been a magistrate since June, 1976 and before that served as a deputy clerk in the court.

Despite her new duties, Mrs. Blauman says she will continue to perform some of the duties of a magistrate, including performing wedding ceremonies.

Taking Care of Your Pearls

By following these simple rules, your pearls will give you more lasting satisfaction

1. Wipe off your pearls after each wearing, for some types of perspiration and skin oils are harmful to them.

2. Never immerse them in water or other liquids. Pearls may be wiped with a damp cloth or brushed with a damp fine-textured brush.

3. Do not place them in air-tight vaults or boxes. This reduces the water content of the pearls, and their luster diminishes.

4. Do not wear your pearls in contact with sharp-pointed metal jewelry. Pearls are prone to be scratched.

5. Do not subject your pearls to high temperatures such as a hair dryer.

6. Broken strings mean lost pearls. Be sure the strings are sound by having them checked once a year by your jeweler.

Determined ground game beats Rogers City 17-6

A stiff wind off Lake Huron forced the Charlevoix Rayders to abandon their passing game Friday night against Rogers City but the 178 yards Charlevoix ground out rushing were enough to boost the Rayders over the 500 mark in conference play with a 17-6 victory.

Mark Beaudoin led the running attack for Charlevoix with 99 yards in 21 carries.

Although the Hurons played a steady ball-control offense that allowed Charlevoix only 42 offensive plays, the Rayders defense tightened up when the chips were down.

Tim Krueger snagged two interceptions, one of which he returned 38 yards to set up the Rayders' second touchdown.

Jeff Drury also posted an interception and Dave Krueger a fumble recovery.

Rogers City took the upper hand in the first quarter when Jac Getsinger swung to the outside on a fourth and two on the Rayder 12 when he found the middle jammed on a dive play. A couple plays after Getsinger's first down, he went into the endzone from the two for a 6-0 lead. The extra point attempt was unsuccessful.

In the second quarter, the Hurons resorted to some unusual strategy when they ofund themselves deep in their own territory. A Charlevoix punt put Rogers City on their own two yard line from which they could not move the ball. Instead of punting from their endzone, however, the Hurons apparently decided they could afford to give up two points for a better field position rather than risk a blocked or short punt that might result in six points for the Rayders. So they intentionally downed the ball in the endzone for a safety and went into the locker room at halftime with a 6-2 lead.

In the third quarter, a disciplined Charlevoix offense patiently ground out a 60 yard drive without a single pass play and capped it off with a six yard touchdown run by Mark Beaudoin to take the lead 8-6.

On the extra point try, a penalty forced kicker Joe Sladek to spot the ball five yards deeper. Holder Scott Kelly executed a fake kick and ran the ball in for two points and a 10-6 margin.

Following Krueger's interception and 38 yard return in the fourth quarter, halfback Mark Morgan iced the game for Charlevoix with a six yard touchdown run and Sladek hit the extra point conversion for the final score of 17-6.

The Rayders almost added another TD for good measure but opted to play it safe on the Huron two yard line with the final seconds ticking off.

Rogers City's offenses was better than the score indicates as they completed five of 12 passes for 34 yards and totalled 111 yards rushing.

Mike Loper played his usual outstanding game on defense racking up 17 tackles. Bill Ranger also had a great game matching Loper with 17 tackles also.

The Rayders will put their 3-2 conference record and a 5-2 overall record on the line this week against St. Ignace who will visit Charlevoix's Kipke Field Friday night for a 7:30 p.m. kickoff.

Rayder jayvee squad piles up 402 yards in win over Rogers City

Despite a scoreless first quarter, the Charlevoix Junior Varsity exploded against their counterparts from Rogers City last week in a satisfying 44-6 victory.

Quarterback Jeff Trimper led the offensive charge with 209 yards rushing out of Charlevoix's total offensive production of 402 yards.

Dave Batdorf, who played well defensively also, had three carries for 46 yards and Jon Supernaw had eight for 40.

Mark Oostermeyer caught four passes for 100 yards for the Rayders and Tim LaBlance tossed three passes out of five attempts for 61 yards in other offensive performances praised by Coaches Charles Bentley and [illegible].

After nobody scored for either side in the first quarter, Supernaw raced ten yards into the endzone with seven minutes to go in the second quarter for the first points on the board.

Three minutes later, LaBlance connected with Oostermeyer on a 47 yard pass play and Trimper ran for the two extra points.

On the last play of the half, Rogers City scored on a three yard pass play but missed the extra point try for a halftime lead of 14-6 for Charlevoix.

Early in the third quarter, Trimper scored the first of his three touchdowns on a five yard run but the extra point attempt was unsuccessful. With two minutes to go in the quarter, the Rayders took a solid lead of 28-6 when Trimper scored again from three yards out and LaBlance ran for two more points.

In the fourth quarter it was LaBlance to Oostermeyer again for 22 yards and a touchdown with eight minutes to go. Trimper added two more with an extra point run.

Trimper capped an excellent offensive performance with a 46 yard run with two minutes to go and LaBaince ran for the extra points to make the final score 44-6.

The coaches were delighted with the JV offense but also had many words of praise for defensive players Shannon Reynolds, Aaron Disbong, Alan Bergmann and Tim Bergmann who helped hold the Hurons to six points.

The JV squad next travels to St. Ignace Thursday for a 6:30 p.m. game.

Incumbent Brannon to face Erickson for clerk

Thure Erickson of Boyne Falls is running against Jane Brannon for County Clerk on the Democratic ticket.

Erickson, 44, is a native of North Muskegon and a graduate of North Muskegon High School. He is married to the former Gale J. Fraley of Boyne Falls and is the father of three grown daughters and the grandfather of two.

While he has had no experience in county government, Erickson feels that he is "highly qualified and competent to hold the office, having an extensive administrative background, which included preparing statistical reports, financial data, budgeting, and office management."

Erickson's experience was gained while serving in the United States Air Force in the Medical Administrative Services career field for 20 years. He describes the positions he held as "Non-commissioned Officer-in-Charge of the Business Office; Registrar, Admission & Disposition Section; Aeromedical Evacuation; and Operations Support Branch. Veteran of the Vietnam Conflict, serving in the Military Airlift Command's evacuation unit, airlifting sick and wounded patients from Vietnam to ConUS hospitals."

Erickson was the recipient of several medals and ribbons and completed military courses in several fields relating to his tours of duty.

After leaving military service, Erickson was employed with the Government Employees Credit Union of San Antonio as a Balance and Edit Clerk in Data Processing. Since returning to northern Michigan, he has been employed in the mailing department of Gregg Publications in Boyne City, as a field assistant with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Services, and as a crew leader with the U.S. Census Bureau in enumerating households in the eastern part of Charlevoix County.

Erickson adds that he "would contribute invaluable experience and know-how to the office and our local county government. I sincerely desire to serve the people of Charlevoix County with honesty, integrity, and compassion."

Incumbent County Clerk Jane Brannon, a Republican, has been a clerk in government offices since she graduated from St. Francis High School in Petoskey in 1970.

She started her career as a Deputy City Clerk in Petoskey with duties which included "Contact with general public and elected and appointed department heads. Responsible for payroll and personnel records, time reports, union and insurance records, and council minutes."

After working for the City of Petoskey for three years, Mrs. Brannon joined the staff of the Charlevoix County Clerk as Deputy Clerk, a position she held for five years before being appointed Chief Deputy Clerk in August of 1979. In March of this year, she was appointed County Clerk to fill the unexpired term of Clarence Rabach, who had resigned.

Mrs. Brannon describes her duties as "General supervision of office, including extensive personal contact with county elected and appointed officials, such as department heads, board members and township clerks. Contact with others, such as general public, attorneys, vendors, and employees of various departments. Responsible for payroll and personnel records, time reporting, commissioner's minutes, election procedures, campaign finance reporting, and [illegible]."

While holding down her [illegible] has passed examinations [illegible] Accounting through Michigan State [illegible] Certificate in Advanced [illegible]. Last year she spent a semester [illegible] Management and Organization at North Central Michigan [illegible].

Mrs. Brannon says her [illegible] to manage the clerk's office [illegible]. She and her husband, Gary, [illegible] Township.

Frosh lose tough one

The Charlevoix freshmen football squad could lost a heartbreaker to Cheboygan last week on a 17 yard pass play with 26 seconds to go in the game. The successful last-minute heroics gave Cheboygan a 24-18 victory in a hard fought contest.

Cheboygan scored first when they returned a punt 45 yards in the first quarter for a touchdown and a 6-0 lead after the extra point try was no good.

Charlevoix answered strongly with a drive nearly the length of the field capped by a three yard plunge by Pat Mitchell for the tying touchdown. The Rayders also missed on their extra point [redacted].

In the second quarter, Cheboygan came right back with a long drive of their own and eventually went ahead 12-6 after scoring on a run from the one-inch line. The 12-6 lead stood up until half time as the extra point try was missed again.

In the third quarter, the two teams became knotted again when Rayder Quarterback Jeff Kelly snuck over from the one with the extra point no good. Cheboygan matched Charlevoix with a three yard run of their own to forge ahead 18-12.

Fourth quarter action saw Kelly toss a scoring pass that covered 54 yards to Bill Tillen. Another missed extra point set the stage at 18-18 for the winning Cheboygan touchdown in the final [redacted].

Coach Dave Smith was pleased with the strong effort by the frosh and singled out Tillen, Jeff Lemerand, Shawn Hartnett, Gary Angerman and Eric Hoffman for playing especially good games.

The freshmen play at Gaylord this Wednesday night.

Rayder cagers lose first conf. game at St. Ignace

The Charlevoix Girls' [redacted] team suffered its first loss in Michigan-Huron Shores Conference play Thursday night when the team fell victim to the league leading St. Ignace Saints by a score of 59 to 56.

Earlier in the week, Coach Toni Felter's squad had defeated Rogers City 86 to 51.

In the game at St. Ignace, Charlevoix led the Saints 19-15 at the quarter; 36-27 at halftime and 48-42 at the third quarter mark before falling victim to the Saints' stalling tactics and being outscored [illegible]-8 in the final period.

[redacted] Klooster was the only player in double figures with 27 points. Ann Massey had 17, Sandy Halbert 16 and Marcia Mundt [illegible] for the [redacted].

St. Ignace also won the JV game [redacted].

In the game at Rogers City earlier in the week, Klooster scored 30 points. Teresa [illegible] Morgridge 16 [illegible]

The Rogers City JV squad won [illegible].

[illegible] Boyne [illegible] Tuesday and Petoskey Thursday before [illegible] Oct. 28 as the [illegible] gets underway.

By FRAN MARTIN

The Patriots, by a score of 40-13, toppled the Seahawks from the ranks of the undefeated here recently.

In other games the Oilers dumped the Cowboys 33-21, the Steelers swamped the Lions 58-0 and the Redskins defeated the Rams 18-6.

A Mark Trumper to Thad Morgridge pass of 20 yards gave the Patriots the incentive they needed to roll over the Seahawks who managed two scoring plays on passes from John Pearl to Chris Havens for 24 and 14 yards. Pearl added a conversion to conclude their scoring.

The Patriots went on to add touchdowns by Doug Sloan on runs of 18 and 30 yards and a 32 yard pass from Sloan to Mark Lignell on 12 and 13 yard runs by Lignell and a safety by Jeff Smith. Trumper and Sloan also scored conversions.

In their win over the Cowboys, the Oilers did all their scoring in the second half to wipe out a second period scoring play, a 24 yard pass from Jody Putman to Dave McKenzie and a conversion by Shannon Spence for the Cowboys.

Kevin Smith was in on every scoring [illegible] 15 yard kickoff [illegible] interception and [illegible] 22 yards from [illegible] who added three conversions.

Putman scored again on a three yard run and then passed [illegible] McKenzie for 11 yards as the Cowboys [illegible]. Mike [illegible] Spencer also scored conversions.

[illegible] scoring [illegible] Mike Herriman [illegible] yard pass from [illegible] Greenway, an 18 yard pass interception and a 17 yard [illegible] from Matt Morgan. [illegible] on passes of [illegible] yards from Greenway and an eight yard [illegible] on a five yard pass interception and Brian Wilmott on a four yard run. Wilmott scored three conversions, Morgan two and Kevin Pearsall, Greenway and Jim Kenney one each. Kenney also cued a safety.

In a game played at Boyne City the Redskins edged the Rams 18-6.

Games postponed from Monday, Oct. 13, will be played Saturday.

PUBLIC NOTICE TO THE ELECTORS OF NORWOOD TOWNSHIP

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that the following proposition will be submitted to the vote of the electors of Norwood Township at the [redacted]

MILLAGE PROPOSITION FOR ROAD IMPROVEMENT ONLY

Shall the 15 mill tax limitation on general ad valorem taxes imposed upon real and tangible property for all purposes in one year under the Michigan Constitution be increased for the Township of Norwood, Charlevoix County, Michigan by 1 mill ($1.00 per $1,000.00 of equalized valuation) for a period of 4 years from 1980 through 1984 inclusive for road improvement purposes only?

All township electors who are registered with the township clerk are eligible to vote on the proposition.

Nancy Ritsema
Township Clerk

I, Anah H. Potter, Treasurer of Charlevoix County, Michigan, hereby certify that as of June 6, 1980 the records of this office indicate that the total of all voted increases over the above the tax limitation established by the Constitution of Michigan, in any local units of government affecting the taxable property located in Norwood Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan, is as follows:

By Charlevoix County: None
By Norwood Township: None
By Charlevoix Public Schools

Hayes Township - Regular Meeting
[redacted]

A Motion was approved to accept the audit report of Auditor Rick Petersen, from the firm Hills, Woodcock & Distel.

A Motion was approved on a roll call vote of the Board to award the bid for construction of the new township hall to Hans Marten, Construction Co., Traverse City, for $90,405.65.

Dick Wood, Oyster Bay, attended the meeting to inform the Board about a water drainage problem he is having due to the up-grading of the abutting property before a building was constructed on that property in 1977. The Clerk will check with the Township Attorney about this matter.

Lucille Hogan was spokeswoman for a group of people from Pine Pt. They want to do some work on the public beach at the end of Eastern Ave. in Hayes Twp. The Board found no reason to object to their beach renovation plans.

Carla Spencer read a letter to the Board which stated that a municipality could close streets using the authority of the Michigan Plat Act. However, it was again explained that the Township is advised by the Michigan Assoc. of Twp.'s Attorney that the Township should not involve itself in street closing. Mrs. Spencer was given a copy of the letter received by the Clerk from the Michigan Twp. Assoc. Attorney, Mr. [redacted].

A Motion was approved to re-appoint Mrs. Betty Straw for a 3 year term on the Hayes Twp. Zoning Board of Appeals.

A Motion was approved by roll call vote of the Board to pay the Township's bills. Total Amount $7539.45.

On Motion the meeting was adjourned.

Site Planning Development of Charlevoix presented the Charlevoix Area Hospital with another check for $2,000 last week. It was the third installment on the organization's pledge of $10,000 to the hospital's Construction and Renovation Project. During the hospital's fund raising campaign, SPD President John Campbell agreed to match whatever his employees pledged to the hospital. The employees pledged $5,000 which was then matched by Campbell.

Presenting the check is H. Traver Wood, III to Charlevoix Area Hospital Administrator Richard Krueger. To the right is J.C. Bascom and left to right in the back are Lionel McClanaghan, Andre Pineau and Irene McClanaghan. Campbell commented, "We made this pledge because we believe in the hospital and what it does for our community."

City council meeting

Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate which will be taken up at the council's November 3 meeting following a public hearing that evening. Input from the school district, county and city voters will be sought at that hearing.

In another Board of Appeals decision, a variance request by Minerva Telgenhof of 901 Sherman St. for a front yard setback on a planned garage was denied.

City Ordinance requires a 25-foot front yard setback but the proposed garage, which would have adjoined the house, required a nine-foot setback as planned. The council turned down the request for the 16-foot variance despite its prior approval by the Plan Commission.

The council split on the vote with Aldermen Timms, Whitley and Roloff voting yes and Muma, Porter and Wood no. The variance needed a majority to pass.

The city dockmaster's report for the 1980 summer season as presented to the council Monday night showed increases in revenue, number of boats and number of boat-days logged at the municipal docks.

Dockmaster James Ance reported a total revenue from May 1 to September 1 of $43,368, up almost $8,800 from last year. Although the revenue increase is about 25 percent over last year's figures, 20 percent is due to a rate increase implemented in 1980. The net revenue increase, therefore, is about five percent.

Said City Manager James Brinker, "We had a good season, considering the economy."

In other action, the council:

-Directed the city manager to seek bids on a comprehensive master plan for downtown Charlevoix so that federal grant money can be applied for.

-Acknowledged upcoming hearings from November 17 to 24 on Northern Michigan rail use. Further information on times and locations of the hearings can be obtained at City Hall.

Official Notice

There will be a public hearing at 8 p.m. on November 3 at the Charlevoix City Hall on the matter of an application by LexaLite International Corporation for an Industrial Development Exemption Certificate.

County board sets 1981 mill rate

The county budget for 1981 will be based on a tax rate of 4.55 mills.

That decision was reached by the County Board of Commissioners last week in anticipation of considering the proposed budget at the next meeting of the Commission, on Oct. 28.

The 4.55 mill rate is a slight increase over the present 4.5 mill rate. However, it is slightly lower than the 4.5942 mill rate which would be permitted under the Headlee amendment.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY

It is possible we might have a "Meet the Candidate Night". If it happens, "Bring your Questions". "I will be there." Together we will discuss the issues, to better serve our county:

1. The large increase over the 1980 budget.
2. Poor service throughout the county, resulting in a complete waste of taxpayers' money.

Campaigning throughout the county, has told me you know what you have. The point is, do you want it to continue?

Remember, we are trying to pick a winner. Let's make sure it's the Citizen's of Charlevoix Co. Not the Candidates.

Give this statement some thought, it might help you decide nationwide.

Harmon vs. Kondradt for Boyne Falls county commission seat

Ralph Harmon of Boyne Falls, Democrat incumbent county commissioner representing District 7, Boyne Valley and Hudson Townships, will be challenged at the polls in the November General Election by Republican Thomas Kondradt.

Election '80

Harmon is completing his sixth year on the county commission. He has been serving on the Public Safety & Property committee, with special responsibility for the County Road Commission, Ironton Ferry, and airports.

Harmon lives in Boyne Falls, where he grew up, and operates a construction business. The county commissioner's job is the only public office Harmon has ever held.

He is the father of five children, ranging in age from a married son to a seven-year-old.

Kondradt also lives in Boyne Falls, where he was born and raised. He is self-employed in the construction and logging industry.

Kondradt's previous public service consists of serving four years on the Boyne Falls Village council. He says he is running for the county job in order to "get some action in our part of the county".

Kondradt and his wife have four children, all grown.

Mobile home inspections are on

District Health Department Number 3 has been designated by the Department of Commerce and Michigan Department of Public Health to conduct annual mobile home park inspections. Their inspections are required by Section 17 of 1976, Public Act 419.

The annual inspections cover six main areas established by the Michigan Department of Public Health. They include water supply, sewage disposal, drainage, garbage and rubbish storage and disposal, insect and rodent control and general operation maintenance and safety.

The Department of Commerce also include the following general items for inspection by the District Health Department. They are site identification, distance from buildings, distance between mobile homes, parking spaces available, availability of fire extinguishers, oil and gas cylinder storage, proper lighting and electrical hookup, proper road and sidewalk construction and maintenance of playground equipment.

Under the new mobile home inspection program District Health Department will inspect and respond to environmental health related complaints concerning mobile home parks. This new act will require inspections of newly constructed parks or new lots in an existing park as well as previously established parks.

Two main types of inspections will be made. The first type is the annual inspection. This inspection is required each year for all mobile home parks. A follow-up inspection is the second type of inspection. It is required for any park that is not in substantial compliance. Substantial compliance requires operational maintenance and design functions to be working properly. A significant number of violations in any area is also a cause for not being in substantial compliance.

Anyone with questions or concerns about mobile park inspections should contact the environmental health division of any District Health Department Number 3 offices. Antrim 533-8670, Charlevoix 547-6523, Emmet 347-6014 and Otsego (517) 732-1794.

Wood, gas making inroads in heating oil territory this year

by Sara Gay Dammann

Michigan's home heating oil industry is feeling the effects of the price difference between home heating oil and natural gas, according to a press release from the Michigan Petroleum Association.

But, local home heating oil dealers add, wood may be having an even greater effect.

The Michigan Petroleum Association states, "Michigan's home heating oil industry has suffered a sharp economic setback over the past twelve months as increasing numbers of home furnaces in the state are being converted from fuel oil to natural gas..."

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, which serves the northern Lower Peninsula and Upper Peninsula from regional offices in Mt. Pleasant, has figures which show conversions to gas from oil are significant.

Wood stove retailers and chimney sweep Mark Loding of Boyne City also report business is booming, both for wood stoves and wood-oil combination furnaces.

Cost is the basic factor.

Figures published by the wood stove industry show costs stack up as follows:

One full cord of hardwood (maple, beech, oak) produces 25.9 million BTUs, (British Thermal Units of Heat). Locally wood is sold by the face cord at about $25. A full cord would cost approximately $75.

The equivalent amount of natural gas, currently selling for $.33012 per 100 cubic feet, would require 24,610 cubic feet of natural gas to produce 24.18 million BTUs. The cost would be $[illegible].

Bottled gas, at approximately $.665 per gallon requires 270 gallons for 24.7 million BTUs. The cost would be $179.55.

Home heating oil averages $.97 per gallon. To produce 27.86 million BTUs would require 199 gallons at about $193.03.

[illegible]

Risch and spokesmen for the oil and gas industry agree that in northern Michigan the use of traditional fuels – oil and gas – is diminishing while wood is being used increasingly.

"A lot of our rural customers are using wood as an alternate heat," said Mrs. Doug Way, speaking about the business at Charlevoix's Way Oil Company. But Mrs. Way added, "Our business is good, we are selling more oil than last year."

Robert Allen, Manager of the East Jordan Coop which sells fuel oil said, "Our volume of sales is diminished but our business is not threatened.

"Wood stoves have had more impact than people switching to gas. I think people see that gas is going to catch up in price with oil."

Allen reported that many customers who formerly used 1000 gallons a year have cut down to 200 or less with the use of wood, an observation repeated by oil jobbers and wood stove salesmen.

Jack Rader, President of Petoskey Oil Company, which serves Charlevoix County, commented, "Our business is down quite a bit. People are switching to both natural gas and wood, and are conserving more."

Rader said he agreed with the Michigan Petroleum Association contention that natural gas will soon be as expensive as oil.

Deregulation is the key to rising natural gas prices.

Harley Schumacher, speaking for the Michigan Consolidated Gas Company explained that in 1968 Americans for the first time consumed more natural gas than was discovered. Thus the Federal Government reacted with a policy to stimulate more exploration, permitting a gradual ride of gas prices at the well head.

"By 1985 natural gas will be free to find its own market value, as a result of deregulation," Schumacher explained.

"In regard to price parity with fuel oil," he continued, "that's a highly complex issue. We've always heard parity is

Courier survey shows one-third undecided as to presidential race

Election '80

A random telephone survey of the Charlevoix area conducted last week by the Courier has indicated that the presidential race locally is up for grabs.

One-third of the individuals contacted had not yet decided which presidential candidate they will vote for on November 4. The 33.3 percent figure fits in with state and national polls that indicate a similar percentage of undecided voters as the campaign enters its final week.

Of the three major candidates, Republican Ronald Reagan fared the best in what has traditionally been a GOP stronghold. Reagan was favored by 27.5 percent of the local voters contacted.

Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter garnered the support of 18.8 percent in the survey and Independent John Anderson was far back with 5.8 percent.

Those who said they are not planning to vote in the election totaled 8.7 percent of the responses and 5.8 percent chose not to reveal their preference.

The survey was conducted by calling every 25th name in the Charlevoix exchange of the telephone directory, commercial numbers excluded. Three call backs were made at different times of the day in cases where there was no answer.

Of a possible 104 calls, 12 numbers were disconnected, 23 calls were not answered after three tries and 69 responses were recorded.

Of those 69 individuals contacted, 23 were undecided, 19 were for Reagan, 13 were for Carter, six said they are not voting, four were for Anderson and four chose not to reveal their preference.

Courier reporter Anne Kelly, who conducted the survey, observed a general feeling of negativism toward the election by local voters.

Said Kelly, "Of all the people I talked with, even the ones who are backing one candidate or another, they are just not excited about it. There seems to be very few people waving flags or getting enthused about this election."

She also observed that in many cases where a respondent indicated support for a candidate, it was a choice of "the lesser of two evils."

Two warrants result from August 30

Two incidents which occurred in Marion Township on last August 30 have resulted in the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department obtaining arrest warrants.

In the first case, the Sheriff's Department has obtained a warrant for criminal sexual conduct in the 4th degree for a Midland County citizen who is being charged with criminally sexually assaulting an 11-year-old male subject. His name is being suppressed by court order.

In the second case, the Sheriff's Department has obtained a felonious driving warrant against Patrick Buxton of Ontario. The warrant is in reference to an accident in which two Charlevoix County residents, Tracine Curtis, 18, and Mike Snizik, 21, were injured.

The rock band, "The Cars" was appearing at Castle Farms on the evening of the two incidents. Several other complaints were handled by the Sheriff's Department in Marion Township that evening, including two of malicious destruction of property, three of drunk driving, one of assaulting a police officer, five of accidents involving property damage and three involving personal injuries.

Big Rock to shut down for refueling process

Consumers Power Company announced this week that the Big Rock nuclear generating plant near Charlevoix will shut down this Friday, October 31, for a six-week period.

The shutdown is mainly for refueling purposes though other work to be done includes inservice inspection of piping and welding, backfitting of the plant to meet current Nuclear Regulatory Commission requirements, operational surveillance tests and preventive maintenance, according to plant spokesman Phil Loomis.

Twenty-two fuel bundles, already on-site at the plant, will replace 22 used bundles in the refueling process which is done annually at Big Rock.

Write-in campaign by Renaud creates Second Ward race

The aldermanic seat representing Charlevoix's Second Ward is being contested on November 4 after all.

Melvin P. Renaud, 503 W. Hurlbut, announced last week that he is running for the seat as a write-in candidate against James F. Block, 219 W. Hurlbut who ran unopposed in the August primary.

Present Second Ward Alderman Ivan Whitley is not running for re-election thus creating the vacancy on the council.

Block, 65, is a former employee of the Pere Marquette and Chesapeake & Ohio Railroads. During his 39 year career in the rail industry, Block worked as a supervisor in the operations department and lived in various cities around the state. As a supervisor, he was responsible for up to 1,200 railroad employees.

Born in the Barnard area, Block attended Charlevoix schools and various railroad short course educational programs. He and his wife, Phyllis, who is a Boyne City native, have two grown daughters and seven grandchildren. Following his retirement in 1971 they moved to East Jordan and in 1977 to Charlevoix.

According to Block, he decided to run for the council seat when he learned Whitley was not running for re-election and when some of his neighbors approached him about the position. This will be Block's first bid for an elective public office.

Said Block, "I am not actively against anything in city government nor am I pushing for anything in particular. The main reason I am running is that I want things as well as we can have them in Charlevoix and am willing to work hard at the job."

Renaud, 49, first moved to Charlevoix in 1956 when he got out of the Navy. While in the service, Renaud spent eight years as an aviation mechanic. He is originally from the downriver area of Detroit.

Since moving to Charlevoix he has worked as a vehicle mechanic, an employee of LexaLite International and is presently employed at E.J. Plastics in East Jordan.

Renaud and his wife Madelyn, who is a native of this area, have two children in high school.

Though this is his first experience as a candidate for public office, Renaud says he is familiar enough with city government to be an effective alderman.

"I have been attending council meetings regularly," said Renaud, "And I think I have a pretty good idea of what is going on."

One of the issues prompting Renaud's write-in campaign is government spending. He said, "I hate to see the city spending money for things we don't have to. I think we should have more control over the studies and paperwork that city government is being forced to fund every time a project comes along."

Charlevoix High School trombone player Mark Petrie took some "hot licks" during a solo at Friday night's halftime show. Petrie ran a propane gas line through his sleeve into the trombone and lit it as he played resulting in flames bursting out the bell of the horn.

Bottle is an old one

The old bottle which Brenda Bryan found along the side of US-31 North may be as much as 80 years old.

Longtime Charlevoix resident, Mrs. Carl Kohler, reports that the Ivy Drug Store, which name the bottle bears, was located at the place of the present Shop of the Gulls "about the turn of the century".

The store was called the "Ivy Drug Store", according to Mrs. Kohler, because the south wall of the building was covered with ivy.

Everyone who has an interest in Charlevoix past or present is invited to the meeting.

Buying and Selling Real Estate by Gene Steele

WHICH CLOSING COSTS DEDUCTIBLE?

Expenses connected with the sale of real estate over and above the selling price are known as closing costs. Some of these are deductible [illegible]

Property taxes are usually pro-rated so that both the buyer and seller each pay the taxes for the portion of the year that each owned the property. Each may deduct this amount - and only this amount even though one or the other pays the entire amount.

Another deductible item that appears in closing costs, is interest charged to you on the mortgage up to the date of closing. Also deductible as interest is the amount charged as points - provided they are charged as a premium for the loan of the money - not when charged for services.

Non-deductible closing expenses are fire insurance, FHA mortgage insurance, and charges for rent for occupancy before closing.

Dorrity challenges Davis in 11th Cong District...

Democrat Dan Dorrity of Sault Ste. Marie is running against Republican incumbent Bob Davis for Congressman from the 11th District.

Dorrity came to the Sault from Ireland with his parents and seven brothers and sisters. He learned his father's trade of bricklaying and worked at it for 14 years before entering the University of Michigan, where he eventually earned a Doctorate in history. For the last ten years he has been teaching history and political science at Lake Superior State College.

Dorrity's elective political career began four years ago, when he ran for the Chippewa County Board of Commissioners. He won the seat, and when the Board of Commissioners assembled, Dorrity was elected chairman. He still holds that position.

Outside the Chippewa County Board of Commissioners, Dorrity serves as Director of the Chippewa County Economic Development Corp., Director of the Regional Planning and Development Commission, Director of the Michigan Association of Regions, Director of the Community Mental Health Agency and U.P. Health Systems Agency, is a member of the Michigan Education Association, is a former Chairman of the Kincheloe Air Force Base Conversion Authority, and a former member of the Bricklayers' Union.

Dan Dorrity

As he campaigns throughout the District, Dorrity brings up the subjects of jobs, inflation, and the plight of senior citizens as his major concerns.

His campaign literature says he is largely responsible for the 20 new industries and 900 new jobs created as the result of the Kincheloe Air Force BAse conversion. Inflation, says Dorrity, is caused mainly by increased energy prices and skyrocketing hospital and medical costs. He would direct his energies to these problems immediately upon election. Dorrity was appointed to the Michigan Commission on Aging by Governor Milliken, and while serving on that Commission "has fought for funds for rural elderly and property tax relief for senior citizens," an aide reports.

Dorrity also says he was "shocked" at a recent recommendation of the Department of Energy that further study be made of portions of the Upper Peninsula considered prime sites for disposal of highly radioactive nuclear waste.

Dorrity is opposed to "further construction of nuclear plants until we are certain a safe way has been found to dispose of nuclear waste."

According to an aide, Dorrity is running for office because he feels there is a need for leadership and better representation for the District. "He doesn't feel the present Congressman is providing that leadership or representation."

... And Davis mounts strong bid for re-election

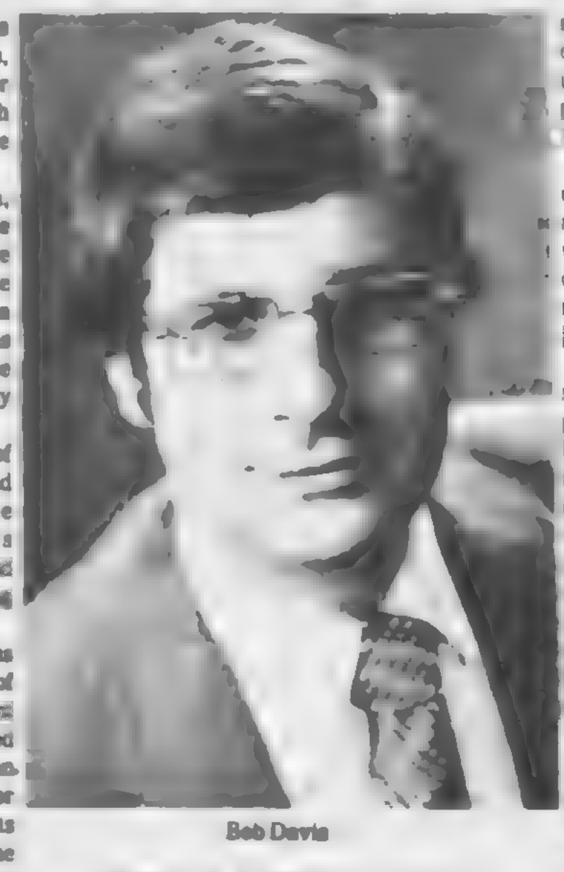
Bob Davis of Gaylord, who is completing his first term in Congress, is once again a candidate for Congressman from the 11th Congressional District on the Republican ticket.

A native of the Upper Peninsula, Davis attended college in Marquette and was in business in St. Ignace before going to Lansing to serve in the State Legislature. He served two terms as a State Representative and two terms as a State Senator. While in the Senate, he was both a minority and a majority leader.

Davis' appointments in the House of Representatives are on the Science and Technology Committee and the Merchant Marine & Fisheries Committee, both of which he has found challenging and interesting, according to an aide.

Davis believes the major problems facing the country today are those of the economy, including unemployment and inflation. He has supported legislation for a balanced budget and an amendment which would provide for saving funds for the bad years. Davis also believes in tying the growth of the money supply to the gross national product.

Excessive government regulation has been one of Davis' concerns and he has supported the Regulatory Reform Act, which as aide explains would:



Bob Davis

Have each department review and delete every rule and regulation which is not absolutely necessary, give the legislature veto power by simple majority over rules promulgated by departments, (Sunset legislation) require every agency and every department to dissolve every ten years unles re-authorized by Congress and permit some agencies to dissolve by attrition.

Davis has been working in the field of energy problems, particularly in the area of alternate energy, including wind, synthetic fuels, and alcohol. His office reports he is pleased with the recent passage of the $100 million geothermal development program.

Davis is described as being a strong supporter of defense programs. He points out that even though the defense budget has gone up, it is actually only about 25 percent of the general budget, compared with 50 percent as it once was. He is concerned that our conventional weaponry is outdated and should be replaced, and he believes that service personnel should be paid more money so they will re-enlist. He cites the loss of trained technicians from the services as [illegible].

As far as unemployment is concerned, Davis says there are two philosophies of attacking it: The Democrats create jobs with government money, but Davis believes in reducing the employers' tax loads so that risk capital will be available for new ventures, thus creating jobs. He also believes that various tax credits should be available to eligible employers to help them expand.

Census figures show increase in county but don't tell whole story

By [illegible]

The Bureau of the Census in Washington recently advised the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners that the preliminary 1980 census figure for the county was 19,882.

This figure represents an increase in county population of 3,351, or 20.3 percent, since the census was taken in 1970. It also represents an increase of 6,471, or 48 percent, from 1960 to 1980.

Another population study, "Population Characteristics of Northwest Michigan, 1980", indicates that the base permanent population figure does not come near to representing the number of people in the county most of the year.

This study shows that, with the addition of seasonal residents, the population of Charlevoix County, month by month, is:

January, 20,082; February, 20,070; March 20,402; April, 21,530; May, 26,848; June, 29,957; July, 37,606; August, 35,825; September, 30,224; October, 25,587; November, [illegible] and December [illegible]

While the population of Charlevoix County showed an increase from 1970 to 1980, the population of the City of Charlevoix is recorded as dropping from 3,510 in 1970 to 3,300 in 1980, a decrease of 210, or six percent. However, this figure has been questioned by the City of Charlevoix with a request that it be reviewed.

Other towns in the county showed increases in population from 1970 to 1980 as follows:

Boyne City, from 2,969 to 3,352, a change of 12.9 percent; Boyne Falls, from 347 to 378, a change of 8.9 percent; and East Jordan, from 2,041 to 2,182, a change of 6.9 percent.

Exec of women's group is Charlevoix native

By [illegible] MARTIN

"You might say my job is unusual and exciting but I think I would describe it as gratifying because I can see so many wonderful things resulting, not from my job, but from the organization I am representing" Mrs. Mary Pomeroy, a former resident, said of her position as executive secretary of the "Delegation for Friendship Among Women"

Mrs. Pomeroy spoke of the organization she represents while visiting her parents, Mr and Mrs. Fred Willis, enroute to Detroit from her home in South St. Paul, Minn.

The purpose of the organization, she explained, is to promote friendship and understanding among the women of the world. However at the present time, the United States is centering its attention on those countries of the Third World.

"You cannot believe how anxious they are to learn about just everything. You have to remember that they have not known many of the things we have always taken for granted. For instance, we take education for granted for women in the United States. They are found in all careers including industry and business. In most of the Third World countries women are just now beginning to break out of the sheltered world in which they have always lived" she said in explaining the goals of the Delegation for Friendship Among Women.

She explained further that it is a non-profit organization funded by industry, philanthropists, universities and others who see this as a way to extend not only trade to these countries but to teach modern technology to these [illegible] countries.

As executive secretary, she explained, it is her job to serve as a liaison between a wide variety of groups in this country and countries that are just now developing contacts on a large scale with the United States.

"It works both ways. Women from this country visit those countries carrying their message and, in turn, learn how best they can assist. On the other hand, I arrange for women from these countries to visit industries, hospitals, health centers, places of learning to learn how things are done here."

She went on to say that she was enroute to Detroit to meet four women from Egypt who were making the trip at the request of Mrs. Anwar Sadat, wife of the president of the country on the Nile, who was unable to make the trip herself because of commitments at home though she had hoped to come. All four have been educated in the United States. One is a doctor of medicine, another in business, and the other two have their doctorates in other fields.

Why only the well educated? Because so few women have any education, she explained. "These dedicated women

Knight on the Town
Idylls of the Kling

Charlevoix's rush hour traffic was held up Monday morning by the passage of the John A. Kling, a very long coal ship, through the Pine River Channel into Round Lake.

How long was it?

It was so long that when the wheelhouse went through the bridge the Tisch amendment was ahead in the polls but when the stack came by it was losing.

The Kling proceeded to head toward the passage into Lake Charlevoix but took a wrong turn at a buoy and almost found itself established as a permanent tourist attraction in the shallow waters of Round Lake's north shore.

Too bad. It would've made a nice [illegible]

While surprised onlookers watched the mighty Kling churn up bottom faster than a Camaro, this reporter, had his glasses trained on the bridge where a conversation was going on that may have sounded something like this:

HELMSMAN: Captain, sir, we are through the channel now. You can open your eyes.

CAPTAIN: Did you feel anything hit?

HELMSMAN: No sir.

CAPTAIN: Call the aft watch and see if we are dragging any cables.

HELMSMAN: I did, sir. Looks like we're clean.

CAPTAIN: We didn't even nick the [illegible]?

HELMSMAN: We scared a few fishermen off but I don't think we touched, sir.

CAPTAIN: Bloody winds. I won't get near this channel in anything over five [illegible]

HELMSMAN: Good judgement, sir. I don't think the crew has minded being anchored out in the lake since Labor Day. It's given them a chance to catch up on their macrame and quilting.

CAPTAIN: What's our heading, anyway?

HELMSMAN: Uh, begging your pardon, sir, but you'll remember that the compass hasn't worked very well since you spilled that snowcone on it last summer.

CAPTAIN: Drat. Where's my Boy Scout compass?

HELMSMAN: I believe you lost that, sir, in last week's poker game. I think it was the hand right before you lost the [illegible].

CAPTAIN: No sextant either? Oh well. Never could figure that stupid thing out. Get out the sea charts and let's look for some landmarks or buoys or something.

HELMSMAN: I've been looking at the charts, sir, but I think they are a bit out of date.

CAPTAIN: Nonsense. Let's see here...there's supposed to be a livery stable on the right as we come into the channel and an Indian village on the left. Better watch for canoes, lad.

HELMSMAN: I've got my eyes peeled, sir.

CAPTAIN: According to this we should be looking for a buoy around here someplace. I can't make out what number it is. Hand me my glasses.

HELMSMAN: Uh, they went in the hand where you called with a pair of threes, sir.

CAPTAIN: Oh, yes. Well can you read the number of this buoy on the chart?

HELMSMAN: I think it's 488-2539, sir.

CAPTAIN: That's it!

HELMSMAN: The buoy number, sir?

CAPTAIN: No! The number of that cute little redhead in Duluth. I've been looking all over for that! Couldn't remember where I wrote it down. Must've been while I was giving her a tour of the chart library.

HELMSMAN: Chart library? I didn't know we had one, sir. I thought we kept the charts in your stateroom.

CAPTAIN: Never mind, son, just watch where you're going.

HELMSMAN: I think we are passing a white buoy, sir, to starboard.

CAPTAIN: White...white...what the devil does a white buoy mean? I can never keep those blasted things straight. It would be so simple if the Coast Guard would just float some nice, lighted signs out here telling you where to go. But noooooo! They have to make it hard for us. Get out the manual again.

HELMSMAN: I don't think we need it, sir.

CAPTAIN: Why not?

HELMSMAN: Well, sir, I think I figured out which side we should pass this buoy on.

CAPTAIN: Oh?

HELMSMAN: Yes, sir. I think we should have passed it to port instead [illegible].

CAPTAIN: Gee, I hadn't noticed! Are we that close?

HELMSMAN: One of the deckhands just got knocked overboard by a tree limb, sir.

CAPTAIN: Holy smokes! How do you back this thing up?

HELMSMAN: I'll arrange it, sir, if you wish.

CAPTAIN: Very well. I think I better go below and take advisement on current affairs before we go ashore.

HELMSMAN: Aye aye, sir. The [illegible]

CAPTAIN: Thank you. Carry on.

No comparison

Dear Editor,

Why do some people insist on comparing Michigan to California when they look for a reason to vote for Proposal D? California had a huge cash surplus at the time they passed a proposal to cut taxes. They also did not have a recession like we now have in Michigan. This year in California may be a different story. They have practically used up their surplus. Instead, we are already faced with cuts in our educational system and social services, without any proposals passing. Get money from the state to help fund programs that would be cut? The state is underfunding mandated programs now, and is living on a temporary three month budget.

No one should have to point out the recession or depression (depending on where you live in Michigan) that is going on at the present time. Too many mental patients are out of institutions now that should be getting help. Does anyone need to wonder if we have overcrowded prisons, or if prisoners are released because of lack of space?

It is true that we need another way of financing education, other than high property taxes. We have all seen millages go down to defeat for the second and third time. But is the Tisch alternative the answer?

Proposals A and C cut property taxes but provide for another source of revenue. There is no way that an adequate educational system and social services can survive at 50% of the 1978 level. Tisch requires a 60% vote of the state electorate to raise taxes. There has not been a tax raise passed by 60% of the electorate since 1927. Why does Tisch think, that in these hard times, it could happen? People will not willingly choose to tax themselves unless it affects them directly, where they live, at the present time.

No one is really sure what will happen if Tisch passes. Our tax structure is complicated and the wording of the proposal is not clear. However, many people have made some educated guesses, and it is scary!

Do people really want to go back to the dark ages and close The School for the Blind and The School for the Deaf? Do parents really want to be responsible for getting their children to school and back every day when the transportation system stops running? Do people really want the only institutions of higher learning in the state of Michigan to be the big three-Michigan State, University of Michigan and Wayne State? Can those schools run on 50% of their present budget? It is unclear under Tisch, if schools could raise tuition. How can special education programs run as mandated by the state and federal government without funding? Do people really want the option of vocational education wiped out for children that are not college bound? Do people really want more mental patients and criminals released, not because they are cured, but because of insufficient funds? Do people really want fewer state police in these troubled times?

People say that this is just "scare tactics". Friends and neighbors, the money is just not there. Of course, there is some "fat" in every budget, but do we want to "throw the baby out with the bath?"

It will take a year or two to find out just what Tisch will affect, and just how bad the situation can get. Then it will take at least another one or two years to reorganize and reinstate needed programs. Is it fair to our children, young people and others in need of services, to take up to four years out of their lives?

People say "Why do I have to pay for other peoples' kids?" Someone paid for their education and their children's education. It is less costly to educate all children properly, than to pay for their care in penal or mental institutions for the rest of their lives. Unfortunate people with social problems are a fact. They are in our world and effect us directly or indirectly. Our world is too complex for simplistic answers. We all have to help others to ultimately survive.

Shouldn't we take the time to work out an equitable tax proposal with input from many groups? Tisch will result in chaos for Michigan. It's your choice.

A correction

Dear Sir:

I have just been given a copy of the Wednesday, Aug. 27, 1980 Courier. The statement that the last class of the Charlevoix County Normal School [illegible] is incorrect.

I graduated from the School in 1930. Mrs. Dick was the Critic teacher and Miss Bigge was the principal. The school continued until June of 1933, according to my list of graduates. They are:

Ona Elzinga, Donald Dow, Giles McCann, Claire Chew, Louise Reidel, Martha Reidel, Ivan Thompson, Leroy Bussler, Eleanor Burdick, Minnie Gornell, Edna Knudson, Ruby Supernaw. It seems that some of these people may still be living in Charlevoix.

Sincerely, Ruby Crump Mummert, Boyne, MI.

Water money

To the Editor:

The need for a new water system to fulfill the public and city's needs has been generally accepted by the people. There is the method of funding as has been proposed by the city council by the use of tax exempt bonds and the addition of millage on property. This creates a political economic question as various tax proposals are on the ballot to limit taxes on properties.

Where is the public economic value in tax exempt bonds that allow a tax loop hole for the benefit of accumulated money power. The proposal as it is will require your yes vote.

I believe we should have a choice on other methods. There are all kinds of federal funding agencies that promote free enterprise that end up in the hands of speculators.

The money is an acknowledged credit power and is backed by all the people and all government issues of money are backed by the power of taxation. Thereby we should petition the federal government for an interest-free loan over a period of time as may be required. This loan should be funded by adding to the users water bill. The idea of a property tax, would be unfair to the hardware store that would be required to pay a share of the water used in a laundromat.

Gas, wood are growing home heating trends this year

going to come, but it hasn't so far. So, when, how and if are merely conjectures."

Conversions from oil to gas seem to have slowed since last year, according to Michigan Consolidated's figures.

"In northern Michigan, we usually have about 4500 new customers a year," Schumacher said. "In 1979 we began [illegible] but expect that it will be back down to around 5000 this year.

"Through this September in the residential market there were 980 new gas customers and 2410 conversions in an area from Ludington across to Tawas and north, including parts of the Upper Peninsula," Schumacher said. "Sixty-five percent [illegible]."

Dean Carper District Manager for CITGO, which sells propane, agreed that the rate of conversion from oil to gas has slowed this year.

"There are not as many people converting as last year. In one or two years the prices will be close to the same for oil or gas."

Clearly in northern Michigan the big gainer is the wood industry, particularly with wood all but free for people with [illegible]

"This will be the third heating season I've been in business," Mark Loding of Mystic Chimney Sweeps said. "It's just remarkable the number of people interested in wood.

"I'm going into a lot of homes where people tell me they have paid for the cost of their wood stove within one year.

"My business has tripled in three years.

"More and more people in higher income brackets are switching to wood because of the economy of it."

Loding also commented that with current [illegible] locally, the wood cutting business is very competitive which serves to keep prices down.

"At the national convention of The Chimney Sweeps Guild two years ago, a private forestry consultant predicted oil companies would get into the wood industry. He said it was attracting big investors.

"This year a speaker said that with the proper capital a business delivering wood nation wide for $60 a cord could be developed."

Recently U.S. Assistant Energy Secretary Thomas Selson was quoted as stating that wood burned for fuel last year in homes and industry replaced at least 279 million barrels of oil, saving the country an estimated $7.7 billion.

As for the effect on independent jobbers such as Way Oil, Petoskey Oil, or Woodland Oil, which serves Charlevoix from headquarters in Traverse City, William Milligan, President of Woodland Oil predicted, "there will be fewer jobbers in the future as a result of changes and consolidation in the oil business."

But local jobbers seemed confident that they will survive the slight slump in business that conversions to gas and wood [illegible]

Don't buy hostage story

"Arranging to have the American hostages freed by the Iranians the last week before the election is a cheap political move by President Carter."

I have heard that sentiment expressed a half-dozen ways in the last two weeks — but it simply cannot be true.

First, if President Carter had it in his power to negotiate the release of the hostages, he would have done it long before this. The festering hostage [illegible]

Second, even if the president were behind the flurry of activity concerning the hostages in these dying days of the 1980 campaign, Mr. Carter has absolutely no guarantee that their release will work in his favor. In fact, their release could well backfire and make Mr. Reagan a winner.

There are many among us, myself included, who feel that if the fate of the 52 imprisoned Americans is negotiable, then negotiations should have started a long time ago. And such folks aren't going to entertain very warm thoughts of the president on election day, if such is the case.

But such is not the case. The release of the hostages — if and when they are turned loose — will be a political move. But the politics will be theirs, not ours.

I believe that the Ayatollah Khomeini and his cohorts have taken a long, hard look at the Aamerican political situation and they would rather have [illegible] Ronald Reagan in the White House for the next four years. If releasing the hostages now will help Carter next week, they'll do it.

Iran knows that Carter does not consider seizure of the American Embassy staff an act of war. If he did, he would have moved in militarily 12 months ago. But there is considerable uncertainty about Reagan, who has acquired a shoot-from-the-hip reputation — probably because of his hard-line stand in international affairs.

The Iranians also know that Carter is more likely to be more charitable toward smaller nations, whereas Reagan appears steeped in the principle that might makes right.

So if the hostages are released before the election, don't be misled. Carter won't have had anything to do with it — aside from the fact that the Iranians prefer him in the Oval office to his Republican challenger.

AS OF LAST week, fully one-third of Michigan voters had not made up their minds on how to cast their presidential ballots come Nov. 4.

Although I usually make my choice [illegible] in advance, I have to admit that this year I am among the undecideds.

Even if the party leaders were removed and we had vice presidential nominee Walter Mondale facing Republican VP nominee George Bush on the ballot, I'd still be in trouble, because I consider them equally qualified — just as their respective party standard bearers are equally unqualified.

So, like millions of Americans, I am going to have to wait until the Great Debate Tuesday night before making up my mind.

My only hope at this point is that one of them bombs so badly — or rises to such exalted heights — that no room for doubt remains.

I do not want to have to defend my candidate at every turn for the next four years.

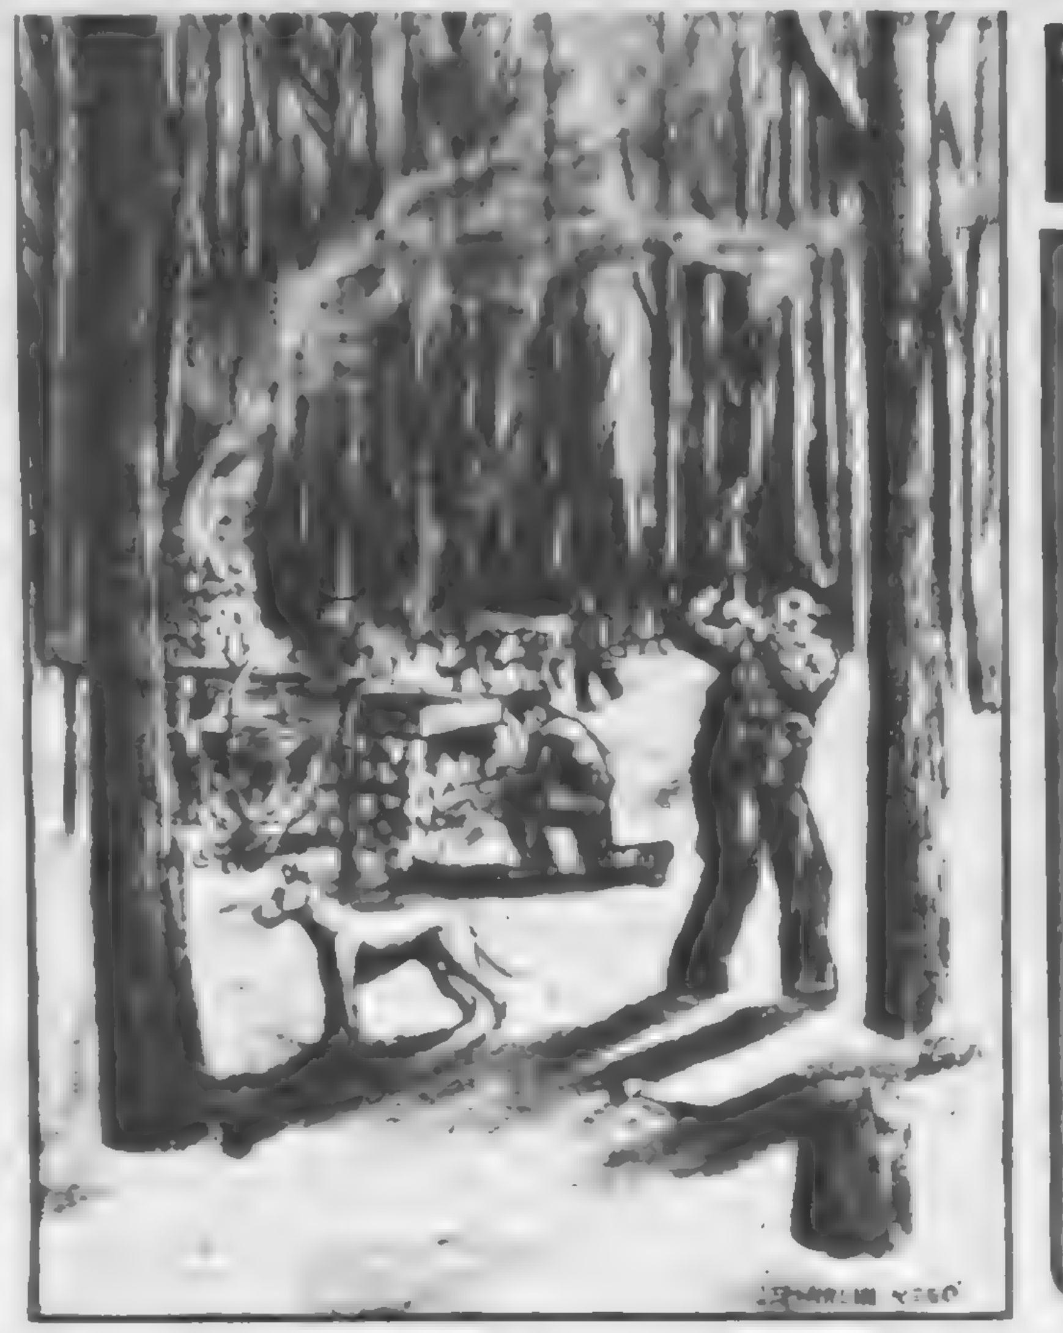
More of Whiting Park story

(This is the third in a series of excerpts from the book, "Perry, Experiences of a Pioneer" by Perry Whiting, who came to Charlevoix County in 1870. In 1923, he gave the land his father, Ryerson Whiting, homesteaded, to Charlevoix County for a park. Whiting Park, on the south shore of Lake Charlevoix, is still an integral part of the county's recreation system. [illegible])



This artist's conception of maple sugar making in the early days of Charlevoix County is from the book, "Perry, Experiences of a Pioneer".

"(In 1873) about one and a half miles up the lake shore from our Homestead was Advance, previously mentioned, which consisted of Harvey Porter's combination grist and saw mill, Mr. Hayes' store, Mr. Newton's store, Carlson's shoe shop, a blacksmith shop, Heller's Lodging House, three or four houses, and a school house.

"Harvey Porter had put a dam across a small stream which formed a large pond (we called it the Mill pond), and from this pond he took the water through a flume to a water wheel, which furnished the power to run the mill.

"The grain was ground between granite stones with flat surfaces, the lower one was stationary, the upper one was made to revolve by power from the water wheel. You have heard the old saying, 'Mill stones grind slowly', well so did [illegible].

"The farmers brought their grain to the mill, Mr. Porter took his toll (of one peck (one-fourth) bushel from each bushel, the remaining three-fourths were placed in the hopper above the stones and allowed to slowly drop through a small hole in the upper stone and was ground between the two. Then the grain was conveyed onto screens of various mesh which separated the bran and shorts from the flour. The farmer took all these home, the flour for bread, the shorts for pancakes, and the bran for the stock. No money was exchanged for this whole transaction.

"In a shed on one side of the grist mill was the saw mill. This saw mill was sure a crude affair compared to our modern mill. It had a saw fastened in a frame that moved up and down like a jig saw. The log carriage moved forward about one-fourth of an inch every time the saw came down. This saw would cut about two thousand feet in ten hours, whereas our modern band saw mill cuts two hundred and fifty thousand feet in eight hours.

"Grandfather (Charles Healey) used to tap one thousand trees every spring and made more sugar and syrup than any one in that part of the country. The sugar season only lasted about one month as the sap would not run from the trees after that.

"This was done in the early spring, just before the snow melted off the ground. Usually it was about one foot deep in the woods at this time of year, and it took a lot of hard work to prepare for the making of sugar.

"First, it was necessary to fell cedar trees, then cut them into blocks about fourteen inches long and split these blocks into staves (pieces about three-fourths of an inch thick by three inches wide), then formed with a draw shave (a long knife with handle on both ends). The pieces for the bottom were also made from pieces of timber split from the cedar blocks. The hoops to hold these buckets together were made of strips split from an elm tree. After this material was all prepared by hand, the buckets were put together in the same manner as a cooper makes a barrel. I do not know how many of these Grandfather could make in one day, but it must have been a tedious job.

"These buckets were then distributed through the woods one at each maple tree, then the boys would cut a small notch in the tree at an angle of about forty-five degrees, into which the sap would drip. At the lower end of this notch they drove a circular iron chisel. Into this hole made by the chisel they drove a spout of the same shape which formed a drain that carried the sap into the bucket. Each tree would produce about one-half to a full bucket of sap every twenty-four hours.

"Each day this sap had to be gathered and carried or drawn to the boiling pots. When this sap was boiled down to a thick syrup, it was placed in a large cast iron kettle and boiled and stirred until it became thick enough to make sugar. This was poured into little square boxes about eight by eight inches. When it became cold, it was a nice block of sugar. I have no idea how much labor it took to produce one of the cakes, but labor meant very little to those poor people. It was a matter of doing anything and everything to make an existence possible up in those cold north woods.

"After the sugar season was over each spring, Grandfather would invite all the married sons, daughters, and grandchildren home for a 'Sugaring off' or family reunion. They usually came on Saturday and all (twenty to thirty) stayed in the one room cabin until Monday. They made maple taffy, killed the fatted pig, feasted, danced, played games and had a jolly good time. Monday morning after the goodbyes were said, they all walked home through the woods, each carrying their cake of maple sugar, a distance of one to five miles.

"The next spring after I went to live at Grandpa Healey's, they sent me to school. I was then six years old. Now, after fifty-five years, that little log school house and everything that was in it stands forth as a painting in my memory. It was located about three-fourths of a mile through the woods from Grandfather Healey's cabin, and near the farm of Sam Richardson. It was one room about twelve by sixteen feet with one door and two windows. It was built of logs, with a plit shake roof, the floor was made of slabs split and hewed from trees by hand. The teacher's desk or table was made by boring two holes in each end of a slab, then inserting pegs into those holes for legs. We had no desk to lay our books or slates on, there were only six or eight scholars, and only three or four books, so that often two or three children had to study from one book, or from the teacher's copy on the blackboard."

Benefit dance set for Warners

Plans have been announced by the Charlevoix V.F.W. Post No. 1153 and its Auxiliary for a benefit dance for the family of the late Jack Warner.

Proceeds from the event, scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 8, at the V.F.W. Post Home, will help defray extensive medical and hospital costs and other obligations assumed by the family during Mr. Warner's long hospitalization period recently.

Mrs. Kenneth Staley and Mrs. John Gilding have been named co-chairmen of the [illegible] by Jasper and his Tag-Alongs for all types of dancing. George Smith will call for square dancing.

Refreshments and door prizes will be offered to those attending.

Tickets which are $5.00 for singles and $10 per couple may be purchased at Staley's Grocery or at the door.

When you finance a car at many banks, there's no reason to pay the loan off early. No incentive to make extra payments. (In fact, many banks impose a penalty for practicing such sensible money habits.)

Precisely the opposite is true at Michigan Bank-North.

With our Simple Interest Car Loan, you can save a substantial amount of money over other loans. Because interest is assessed only on your unpaid balance. So every time you make a payment a little early, you save a little interest.

Obviously, over the full term of a Simple Interest Loan, you can realize significant savings over the cost of many other loans. And our Simple Interest Loans can be used to finance a wide variety of other needs, too.

The Simple Interest Loan. Think of it as interest off for good behavior.

Ostling to seek fifth term in state legislature

Election '80

Republican Ralph Ostling of Roscommon is running for re-election in the State Legislature from the 103rd District.

Ostling is completing four terms (eight years) in the Michigan House. Prior to that he served as a Township Clerk for 18 years and was a classroom teacher for 20 years.

The toughest problem facing Michigan today is the economy, Ostling believes, and the tax problem is close behind.

Questioned about the three tax proposals on the General Election ballot, Ostling says that Proposal A, Smith-Bullard, would be helpful to the schools, as would Proposal C. However, he is not leaning toward Proposal A because it would increase the income tax.

Proposal C, the Legislative-Executive Proposal, would replace some of the property tax with a higher sales tax, which Ostling believes is the fairest tax of all.

Proposal D, the Tisch Proposal is "irresponsible", according to Ostling, but if the voters want to cut education and government services to the bone, that is the way to go, he says.

"If property tax is taken away, the State has to take over," Ostling pointed out. "Where it comes from is up to them."

"I want people to read, study, and make up their minds. They should pick the one they want and vote against the others," he says of the three proposals.

"It's important to remember that if more than one property tax proposal is approved, it may take months before the areas of conflict are sorted out. Questions arising from conflicting sections will undoubtedly be settled through the courts. Our constitution says that if conflicting amendments are approved, the one with the highest number of votes will prevail."

As for Proposal B, to reduce the legal drinking age from 21 to 19 years of age, Ostling says he is for it.

"I voted to raise the drinking age from 18 to 19," he said. At 19, very few young people are still in high school. They are treated as adults in all other areas and should be treated as adults in this respect."

Ostling is also in favor of Proposal E, to provide an increase in income taxes to construct four regional prison facilities, demolish the Michigan Reformatory, and develop facilities for local correctional purposes and preventive programs.

Brauker opposes

Bill Brauker, a democrat from Harrisburg, is running for representative in the state legislature from the 103rd District. He did not respond to Courier telephone calls requesting information on his background or campaign issues.

Fritz Allard, newly elected chairman of the Charlevoix County Democratic Party, was unable to furnish any information about Brauker either. "He has never contacted us," said Allard. The Courier has learned that Brauker was once press secretary for Rep. Dennis Albosta from the 10th Congressional District.

CONGRESSMAN BOB DAVIS

The walls in Congressman Bob Davis' office are covered with plaques from national organizations honoring him for what he has done. Davis is proud of those awards.

But the memento he's most proud of hangs on a separate wall all by itself. It's a collection of letters from constituents, letters thanking Congressman Davis for his help with their individual problems. To some, the problems might seem small — a lost Social Security check or a mix-up with the Veterans Administration.

But to Bob Davis, those individual problems are important. That's why he's so proud of all those thank you letters.

Bethany Lutheran conducting disaster supply drive

Bethany Lutheran Church of Charlevoix is collecting clothing, blankets, and soap for Lutheran World Relief, an agency that provides assistance wherever disasters occur. A 1980 goal of 40,000 blankets and quilts has been set by the agency. New or used blankets, children's clothing under size 12, men's clothing (no shoes, knits, or ties) and hand soap are needed.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the drive may call Marion Parker, 547-6886, or Mary Towaley, 547-4325, to have items picked up. Those who do not have clothing or blanket items, may pay the equivalent of $4 per blanket with checks payable to Board of Social Ministry and World Relief, 3773 Geddes Rd., Ann Arbor, Mi. 48105.

The collection ends November 1.

Eleanor Freedman (right) and Marge Dinwiddie were thinking Christmas as they displayed some of the gift items that will be found at the pre-Christmas showing at the Show Case, the gift shop at the Charlevoix Area Hospital operated by the Women's Guild. The showing is scheduled for Thursday and Friday, Nov. 6 and 7. The hours will be from 9:30 a.m. until 8 p.m.

This year the shop is featuring "stocking stuffers".

Hospital Women's Guild plans pre-Christmas showing at gift shop

With Christmas less than two months away, the Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Area Hospital is prepared to offer shoppers a wide choice of gift items at its pre-Christmas showing at the gift shop, the Show Case, found off the lobby at the hospital.

The showing, which will feature a complete new line of gift ideas in addition to old favorites, is scheduled for Thursday and Friday, Nov. 6 and 7. For the convenience of everyone, the hours will be from 9:30 a.m. until 8 p.m.

With the present day economy in mind, Mrs. Eleanor Freedman and Mrs. Marge Dinwiddie, gift shop chairpersons, have concentrated on "stocking stuffers", small and unusual gifts in a modest price range.

"Our motto this year is. If it will fit in your Christmas stocking it will fit your purse" Mrs. Freedman said of selection of gift items that will be found at the Show Case.

Since early summer Mrs. Freedman and Mrs. Dinwiddie have been shopping with this as their goal. "Everyone has people they want to remember with a little something. We have kept this in mind in selecting practical but clever and unusual items that will fit everyone's purse. We have tried to find items for everyone at a cost everyone can afford" Mrs. Freedman added.

Mrs. Dinwiddie called attention to the wide selection of small and cuddly stuffed animals for the young fry...teddy bears in every size and other "lovables" that kids adore, all at a price parents will love.

The gift shop is located off the main lobby inside the front door at the Charlevoix Area Hospital. During the pre-Christmas showing, the shop will "run over" into the lobby itself to give shoppers a view of the many and varied items that will be available.

The hours will be from 9:30 a.m. until 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday, Nov. 6 and 7.

For the convenience of those who cannot attend the opening, the shop is open every afternoon from 1 until 4 p.m. and from 7 to 8 p.m.

Charlevoix Courier
Holiday Cookbook Contest

$150 In Prizes To Be Given Away!

•Grand Prize $100 worth of groceries from Edward's IGA, plus...
•$10 cash for each of the winners in all 5 categories.

COURIER HOLIDAY COOKING CONTEST RULES

1. Contestants are invited to enter as many categories as they wish but may submit only one recipe per category.

2. Recipes should be typed or printed on a sheet of paper with the category indicated.

3. To each recipe there should be a separate sheet of paper attached with the contestants name, address and phone number. The contestant's name should not appear on the actual recipe. As each recipe is received, it will be assigned a number which will be logged with the contestant's name. The names will be removed from the recipes so the judges will not know whose recipes they are judging.

4. Ingredients should be listed in accurate, easily understood amounts and in the order that they are used.

5. Recipes do not have to be completely original. They may be old standards or new variations on familiar recipes. The more original the recipe is, however, the better its chance of winning.

6. If duplicate recipes are received, the one submitted first will be accepted. We will log date and time recipes are received.

7. All contestants must agree to permit their recipes to be published in a special cookbook section of the Charlevoix Courier.

8. Employees of the Charlevoix Courier and Petoskey News-Review and members of their families are not eligible to win the contest.

9. A panel of judges will evaluate the recipes submitted and name three finalists in each of the five categories. The 15 finalists will be notified and asked to prepare their recipes for a final judging session. Judges will then sample the entries, name a winner in each category and a grand prize winner of the five winners.

10. The deadline for entries is 5 p.m., Friday, October 31. Recipes should be submitted to the Charlevoix Courier, 405 Bridge St., Charlevoix, MI, 49720.

Vote For Experience

My name is Jane E. Brannon and I am asking for your vote and support as your Republican candidate for County Clerk. I believe I am the best qualified candidate and would like to tell you why I feel this way.

Over the past seven years I have worked closely with county department heads, board members, and township clerks, along with the general public, attorneys and vendors.

My performance and involvement are excellent yardsticks and I submit the following.

- •DEPUTY CITY CLERK - Petoskey, Michigan 1970-1973.
- •DEPUTY COUNTY CLERK - Charlevoix, Michigan 1973-1979.
- •CHIEF DEPUTY COUNTY CLERK - Charlevoix, Michigan 1979-1980.
- •COUNTY CLERK - Charlevoix, Michigan, March 1980.

Since being appointed to County Clerk in March my duties have been "General supervision of office, including extensive personal contact with county elected and appointed officials, such as department heads, board members, and township clerks. Contact with others such as general public, attorneys, vendors and employees of various departments. I am responsible for payroll and personnel records, time reporting, commissioner's minutes, election procedures, campaign finance reporting, and numerous other duties."

While holding down the clerk's job I have also passed examinations for a Certificate in Governmental Accounting through Michigan State University as well as a Certificate in Advanced Governmental Accounting. Last year I spent a semester studying Management and Organization at North Central Michigan College.

I believe that I have an excellent background of experience and performance. If you believe that I can serve you and the county in a competent and diligent manner, please vote for me on Tuesday, November 4th and ask your neighbors and friends to cast their vote for me as well. I won't let you down!

YOUR VOTE ON NOV. 4th WILL BE GREATLY APPRECIATED

Paid for by the Committee to elect Jane E. Brannon.

Vicksburg couple to conduct revival services here

The Rev. and Mrs. V. E. Crandall of Vicksburg will conduct revival services from Oct. 28 to Nov. 2 at the Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene.

Church pastor Earnest L. Knight is inviting the public to attend these services, which will be held at 7:30 p.m. weekdays and at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Sunday. The church is located at the corner of US-31 North and Waller Road.

The Rev. and Mrs. Crandall have been full-time evangelists in the Church of the Nazarene for 17 years, and before that they pastored in Iowa and Indiana.

The Crandalls' program is described as "Holy spirit annointed preaching – a Sunday School emphasis that appeals to all ages – youth and young adult programs that are unique. Musical selections such as solos, duets, choir numbers, and congregational singing that is alive and vibrant."

Gunn named interim pastor by Baptists

Rev. Carl M. Gunn

Rev. Carl M. Gunn, Rt. 3, Charlevoix, has been called by the First Baptist Church in Charlevoix to assume the post of interim pastor. The appointment will be for the period of October 26, 1980 to January 14, 1981.

The call was confirmed in action taken at an October 8 business meeting of the church.

Rev. Gunn left the Cadillac Motor Division in Detroit in 1945 to enter Christian ministry as a field representative with the Christian Service Brigade, a youth organization in the USA and Canada. He continued with the group for 25 years with field assignments in Michigan, Illinois, California and Texas.

From 1970 to 1976 he worked in developing and directing at Frontier Camp at Grapeland, Texas. From 1977 to 1978 he was a consultant in stewardship with Wycliffe Bible Translators. Also from 1977 to present, he has worked part-time as a business consultant with Christian camps and organizations in Texas, Arkansas and Michigan. He is currently finishing a 20 month consultancy with the One Way Family Ministries of Niles, Michigan.

Rev. Gunn attended Ohio State University and was a special student at the Dallas Theological Seminary. He took special seminar studies in financial development in [illegible].

He and his wife, Joanna, [illegible] community volunteer programs such as the Charlevoix Area Hospital's Womens Guild, Grandvue Auxiliary and the Little Traverse Hospital chaplain's service.

A member of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association, Rev. Gunn is also a member of the National Association of Evangelicals and Christian Camping International.

The History of Amber

Most of today's amber was formed at least 40 million years ago as the thick sticky resin oozing from pine trees hardened into amber. [illegible]

People once believed amber could cure or prevent some diseases. They also wore amber around their necks for good luck or to keep danger away. Today amber is still carved and [illegible].

The best amber for jewelry is translucent. Light seems to [illegible] even though you can't see through it.

Amber comes in different colors. It can be light yellow or deep orange brown. Black and blue pieces of amber are rare. Some amber is fluorescent and shines under special light. When amber is rubbed, it makes static electricity – causing little pieces of dust or lint to cling to the amber. This is one way to tell if amber is real or fake. Another way is to see whether it floats in a strong salt solution. Real amber will sink to the [illegible].

Rare waterspout captured on film

On their way to St. James, Beaver Island last August [illegible], Tom [illegible] and his son, Tom, Jr., were enjoying a pleasant trip on calm waters and under a partly clouded sky when it struck.

Like a huge, narrow finger coming down from the clouds, a rare waterspout stirred up a froth on the lake's surface not more than half a mile from the [illegible] boat, the Duchess.

The waterspout was observed by several other boaters nearby and by residents of Beaver Island. The Duchess was about five miles out of St. James harbor when the waterspout occurred.

Tom [illegible] had only an Instamatic camera on board at the time and used it to capture the above photo. Tom, Jr. is shown on the left.

According to [illegible], the waterspout lasted about one half hour and was "breathtaking."

Contacted in Sault Ste Marie, Principal Assistant John Wallis of the National Weather Service said that late summer and early fall are the most common times for waterspouts to occur on the Great Lakes.

When cold fronts begin to surge down from the northwest and meet relatively warmer air over the lakes' surfaces, the unstable conditions are right for forming waterspouts.

A waterspout, said Wallis, is related to a tornado but possesses less of a funnel. Waterspouts are reported only once about every two or three years. To [illegible] report of the waterspout occurring on a calm, partly sunny day, Wallis responded that calm air is one of the requirements for the formation of waterspouts. When there is too much wind, he said, air currents are mixed up and the fragile, unstable conditions for waterspouts are unlikely.

Change in KC dance plans

The Charlevoix Knights of Columbus dance on November 1 will be held at the VFW post home on Highway 31 north of town, not at the American Legion post home as originally announced.

VFW membership drive to start soon

The Charlevoix V.F.W. Post No. [illegible] and its Auxiliary have announced plans for their annual membership dinner drive at the post home at 6 p.m. Tuesday, Veterans Day, Nov. 11.

Post and Auxiliary members and their spouses are urged to attend and bring prospective members.

World War I veterans and their spouses are cordially invited to attend the dinner as guests of the Post. The meat, rolls and beverage will be furnished but members are asked to bring a dish to pass and their own table service. Guests are not being asked to bring food.

Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, Mrs. [illegible], Mrs. Joseph [illegible] and Mrs. Albert [illegible] will be in charge of the dinner.

Plans for the dinner were made at recent meetings of the sponsoring organizations.

At the same meeting, members were urged to pay their 1981 dues so the organizations may be 100 percent by December. Dues may be paid to Mrs. Donald White, Auxiliary treasurer, or Clarence Rabach, [illegible].

The public is also encouraged to write letters to the families of the U.S. hostages still being held in Iran. November 4 will mark one year in captivity. Letters may be addressed to American Hostages Families, Iran Working Group, Room [illegible], Department of State, Washington, D.C. [illegible].

The Auxiliary is suggesting that everyone "Tie a Yellow Ribbon" in remembrance of the hostages. Mrs. Goldstick, Mrs. [illegible], and Mrs. [illegible] Whitley are in charge of the program of the post.

Members are asked to bring small Christmas gifts to Staley Grocery as soon as possible for delivery to the veterans at the Traverse City Hospital.

The end-of-the-month potluck dinner at post home has been cancelled but will be replaced by the Veterans Day dinner Nov. 11.

The public is urged that everyone vote on Nov. 4. It is the feeling of V.F.W. members that "a country worth fighting for is worth voting for. You have to vote to win. This is a time when your country needs you again. Get involved".

Schaller elected

Kirk Schaller, Publisher of the Petoskey News-Review at the Charlevoix Courier has been elected to the Board of Directors of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

Schaller's two-year term runs through June of [illegible]. As a Director of the State [illegible], Schaller is involved in establishing policy on major economic, legislative, political and social issues that have an effect on Michigan's business and economic climate.

The State Chamber was formed in [illegible] to represent a broad cross-section of business interests throughout Michigan. More than [illegible] business firms are members of the State Chamber.

A northwest Michigan native, Schaller has been with the Petoskey News-Review for [illegible] years. He is a graduate of Ferris State College.

Schaller has served on the Governor's Task Force studying the Single Business Tax, and has served on the Board of Directors of the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce and the Retail Merchant's Division.

He is a member of the Michigan Press Association, League of News Dailies, National Newspaper Association, International Newspaper Promotion Association, and Petoskey Rotary.

Kirk Schaller

Putnam will run as write-in for Marion trustee

Roland R. Putnam has announced that he is running as a write-in candidate for a spot on the Marion Township Board.

Putnam, a volunteer worker for the Department of Social Services, juvenile court and Humane Society, was beaten [illegible] by Lawson Way in the August primary. He says, however, that the defeat was the result of a poor voter turnout and that he expected a heavy turnout next month to be in his favor.

Rayders savor two wins in girl's basketball; now 7-1

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Girls Basketball team added two more victories to its growing string this week with a 37-31 win over Petoskey and a 70-30 triumph over Boyne City.

As the team passed the halfway point in the schedule, Charlevoix has a 7 win-one loss record in Michigan-Huron Shores Conference play with a single loss to the league leading St. Ignace Saints.

"We are having our best season in two years" Coach Toni Felter said, adding that the girls have a fine attitude and are playing well.

Melinda Klooster, back on the squad after almost an entire year's absence because of a knee injury, is not only the team's leading scorer but tops the league with a game average of 26.1 points per game.

Two other team members are listed among the top 15 scorers in the league, Teresa Notret with a game average of 13.8 and Mel Kerridge who has been averaging 11.7 points a game.

"It is the balanced scoring on the part of these three and the fine defensive play by the others that have brought us to this point." Coach Felter said.

This week the team will take on Gaylord, Cheboygan and Grayling, all of whom gave the local squad good games the first time around. Gaylord will play here Tuesday and Charlevoix will be on the road for the others on Thursday and the following Tuesday. Both teams are tough on their home floors Coach Felter said of the upcoming games.

On Thursday Klooster was the only player in double figures with 13 points as Charlevoix defeated arch rival Petoskey 37-31 in a defensive battle. Kerridge was out of the line-up in this game with a knee injury but is expected back this week.

Petoskey jumped to an eight to six first quarter lead. Charlevoix, however, went ahead by one point at halftime, 16-15 and then outscored the visitors 14-7 to go ahead 30-18 going into the final period. Petoskey tried to make a come-back but the locals held their lead for the victory.

Kris Ronan had 11 and Elaine O'Brien 10 points for Petoskey.

Earlier in the week, Charlevoix won over Boyne City after heading them 19-11; 43-18 and 60-24 by quarters behind the scoring of Klooster who came through with 18 points, Notret with 18 and Kerridge with 16. Becky Amesbury had 16 and Lori Pouquette nine for Boyne City.

The Charlevoix JVs also chalked up two wins during the week by scores of 35-27 over Boyne City and 28-26 over Petoskey. In the latter game, Laura Kemp scored 22 of the team's [illegible] points.

Women's volleyball teams organized

The 10-team Women's Volleyball League sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department launched its 1980-81 season Monday and will play four nights this week before adopting its regular scheduled play every Monday at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

The four nights of play were necessary to get all the games within the alloted times for scheduled play because of the increased size of the league from nine to 10 teams.

The teams and their managers are Topside, Marian DeNio; County State Bank, Brenda VanderArk; Bartlett's Rag Rats, Nancy Ferguson; Duffy's, Pauline Young; V.I.P. (Village Inn Pizza), Coreen Henry; Flight Deck Bar, Cathy LaFontaine; Gnatcatchers, Robbie Johnson; Jim's Doylies, Sally Nye; KHQ-tees, Ruth Ann Sleph and Peters Electric, Kathleen McCann.

The schedule for the first week of play follow.

Tuesday, Oct. 28

7:00 p.m. V.I.P. vs Flight Deck Bar

7:45 p.m. Topside vs KHQ-tees

Last minute effort falls short in loss to St. Ignace

The minutes ran out for the Charlevoix Rayders Friday when a Scott Kelly pass with 1:40 left in the game was intercepted near the St. Ignace goal line to quash a thrilling last minute drive by the Rayders that could have won the game.

St. Ignace prevailed, however, by a 17-12 score when the final gun went off.

Though behind throughout the game and missing five starting players who were injured, Charlevoix made a strong showing against the Saints racking up 294 yards in offense behind the running of Mark Beaudoin.

Beaudoin ran the ball 28 times for 106 of Charlevoix's 198 yards rushing. Quarterback Kelly threw for 96 yards.

With 3:11 left in the first quarter, St. Ignace Quarterback Tim Dahms tossed a 19 yard strike to Jeff St. Louis for six and Steve McPhee converted the extra point for a 7-0 Saints lead.

Charlevoix's defense held tough in the second quarter when St. Louis intercepted a Rayder pass and returned it to the seven. The Rayders held St. Ignace for three downs and eventually gave up a field goal for a 10-0 St. Ignace lead.

Hard running by Beaudoin and Dave Buday, plus a face mask penalty on St. Ignace, sparked an 80 yard drive by Charlevoix late in the first half. With but 32 seconds left to play, Beaudoin put Charlevoix on the board with a three yard run.

The extra point try was wide so the Rayders went into the locker room behind 10-6.

In the third quarter St. Ignace drove the length of the field to the Charlevoix 19 from which Dahms tossed another touchdown pass to Bill Pope. McPhee kicked the extra point and the lead was stretched to 17-6.

The Rayders last score came late in the third quarter when Kelly dove into the endzone from the one capping another impressive drive.

A running play for two points was unsuccessful, however, thus the final score of 17-12.

Defensively for Charlevoix, Mike Loper again led in tackles with 15. Joel Schnackenberg had 12 tackles and Buday 8 with one interception.

This week the Rayders put their 3-3 conference record on the line against rival Boyne City at the Ramblers home field.

Frosh end with win

The Charlevoix freshman football team ended their season on a high note last week with an 8-0 victory over Gaylord.

The Rayders broke a scoreless tie in the third quarter when Pat Mitchell capped a long offensive drive with a 28 yard run for six points. Mitchell also added the two extra points with a successful run for the conversion.

Charlevoix actually dominated the game even more than the score indicates as they were inside the Gaylord ten yard line on at least two other occasions.

The frosh posted a record of one win and five losses for the 1980 season.

JV squad beaten

Two first half strikes by St. Ignace put the Charlevoix junior varsity football team behind early and the Rayders could not recover. In their final appearance of the year, the JV squad lost to St. Ignace 30-6.

The first St. Ignace touchdown came with 7:30 left in the first quarter on a 34 yard running play. The Saints passed for two extra points.

Only three seconds into the second quarter, St. Ignace scored again on a five yard plunge but they were unsuccessful on the conversion attempt leaving the score 14-0.

Charlevoix scored its lone touchdown with only one minute to go in the first half when Jeff Trimper tossed a 34 yard TD pass to Mark Oostermeyer. The extra point attempt, a running play for two points, was no good, however, so the Rayders went into halftime trailing 14-6.

At 9:15 in the third quarter St. Ignace made it 22-6 with a 20 touchdown run and a two point conversion. They later iced the game with a fumble recovery deep in Charlevoix territory that led to a three yard touchdown run and another two point conversion for a final score of 30-6.

St. Ignace dominated the game running 73 offensive plays to Charlevoix's 47. Fumbles really hurt the Rayders as they lost a total of nine.

Defensively Charlevoix battled hard as Oostermeyer had 11 tackles and three assists, Bernie Frei had six tackles, Dave Batdorff had seven tackles and Tim Bergmann had six tackles and two assists. Tim LaBlance played well offensively as did Oostermeyer who had three pass receptions for 52 yards

The junior varstiy team ended its season with a record of two wins and six losses

Beaver Island soccer game set

Beaver Island Community School will be hosting a Charlevoix Junior League Soccer team, Friday, October 24th at 5:30 p.m

Kitty McNamara, the Physical Education instructor has coordinated this event with Mike Davis, the Recreation Director for County Social Services.

Charlevoix team members will spend the evening in the home of the Beaver Island students after the game and will have a dinner of pizza at the Beachcomber, a local restaurant.

Donations will be accepted at the gate to defray any overhead. Everyone is welcome.

Runners on to State!

The Charlevoix Rayder Cross Country team added another title to its growing string, the Class C regional title which qualified the team for the State Class C meet to be run at Clare Saturday.

Charlevoix finished first with 60 points. Placing second was Mancelona with 73 followed by Benzie Central with 96. The top three team advance to state competition.

Dan Biehl of Mancelona was the overall winner in 16:54 in the meet covering the 5000 meter hilly course that was made slippery and sloppy by rain that fell out and on throughout the meet.

Charlevoix's Jay Swartwout finished second in 17:05; Jeff Landon in fourth place in 17:22; Todd Russell, eighth in 17:30; Jim Landon, 18th in 18:08 and Bill Taylor, 28th in [illegible].

Other Rayder who ran were Bill Dohm, 42nd, in 18:46 and Jon Spieles, 51st in 19:07

Vicki Rogers, only entry in the girls division, finished [illegible] in 23:30. The winning time was [illegible].

Coach Pete Spieles said he was pleased with his runners performances; that Swartwout and Jeff Landon ran their usual consistent races; that Russell and Taylor had good times and, combined with Jim Landon, gave the team the depth it needed to win. He went on to say that everyone has worked hard and that he is hoping the team can finish among the top 10 in the state on Saturday. "They've earned it!" he added.

Swartwout and Jeff Landon are the only seniors among [illegible]

Harriers add Gaylord meet to string

The Charlevoix Rayder harriers were the overall winners in the Gaylord Invitational meet Tuesday coming in first with a total of [illegible] points.

Mancelona with 83 points won the Class C trophy; Fairview, fourth in the meet, the Class D trophy and Petoskey, eighth in the meet, the Class B trophy

Boyne City with 94 points finished third; Fairview had 103, Kalkaska, 134; Alanson, 146; Gaylord, 150 and Petoskey, 193.

Dan Biehl of Mancelona and Jay Swartwout tied for first place in a time of 16:30. However, the judges gave the first place medal to Biehl and the second place medal to Swartwout.

Jeff Landon of Charlevoix finished third in 16:[illegible].

Other Charlevoix runners finished as follows: Jim Landon, 8th, 16:31; Todd Russell, [illegible]; Bill Taylor, 21st, 17:04, Bill Dohm, 24th, 17:05, Matt Peterson, 27th, 17:20

Charlevoix won the JV division which was run as an open race with the Rayders taking the first three places. Jon Spieles finished first in 17:15; Scott Davis next in 17:16 and Bill Herriman, third, in 17:28. Alec Sheets and Pat Kerr finished in fifth place in 17:29 and received the fifth and sixth place medals. Jerry Thompson was seventh in [illegible]

Vicki Rogers finished 11th in the girls division, which was also an open race

This event was the last scheduled meet of the season

The team will now advance to the Regional and State Class C meets.

Flag football results

The flag football program sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department closed out Wednesday with the Steelers and the Patriots sharing the title

The Patriots came on strong during the last half of the season to defeat the Steelers 22-13 on the final night of play to spoil their perfect win record. Earlier, they had defeated the Seahawks who Wednesday night suffered their second defeat by a score of 33-13 at the hands of the Cowboys. In other games the [illegible]

In what turned out to be the title game, the Patriots and the Steelers played to a 7-6 first quarter after Thad Morgan had scored on a 30 yard pass from S.J. Greenway and Jim Kenney had scored the conversion point and Mark Trumper had scored on a 23-yard run for the Patriots

From then on it was the Patriots game as they scored in the second period on a 22 yard pass from Doug Sloan to Trumper with Matt Lugnell adding the conversion and a safety by Jeff Smith in the [illegible].

In a last ditch effort Thad Morgan scored on a two yard run to give the Steelers 13 points but the Patriots countered with a touchdown on an 18 yard run by Lugnell and a conversion by Sloan for the victory and a share of the title.

The Seahawks' hopes of sharing in the title were shattered when they fell victim to an inspired Cowboy squad by a score of 33-13.

The Cowboys took a 6-0 first period lead on a six yard run by Jody Putman and [illegible] second period when John Pearl scored on a four yard run and Brian Greenway put his team ahead when he scored the conversion point.

From then on it was the Cowboys game as they scored on pass plays of 18 and 20 yards from Putman to Dave McKenzie and an 18 yard running play by Putman and a second one of three yards by Shannon Spence. Pat Drost and Dan Drost added points [illegible].

Packy LaBlance scored again for the Seahawks on a five yard run as the Seahawks slipped into a tie with the Otters for second place in league standings.

Jim Martin scored on three pass plays and Kyle Smith on two kickoff returns to lead the Otters to a 44-14 win over the [illegible].

Martin scored on passes of one and five yards from Brent Cole and a 15 yard aerial from Carl Rothenberger; Smith on two 40-yard kick-off returns and Cole on a 10 yard pass play from Mark Hodgson and a 23 yard run. Denny Curtis and Cole added conversion points

The Redskins TDs were scored on one and 10 yard runs by Robb Musser who also scored the P.A.T.s

Rayders savor two wins in girl's basketball; now 7-1

By FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Girls basketball team added two more victories to its growing string this week with a 37-31 win over Petoskey and a 70-30 triumph over Boyne City.

As the team passed the halfway point in the schedule, Charlevoix has a 7 win-one loss record in Michigan-Huron Shores Conference play with a single loss to the league leading St. Ignace Saints.

"We are having our best season in two years" Coach Toni Felter said, adding that the girls have a fine attitude and are playing well.

Melinda Klooster, back on the squad after almost an entire year's absence because of a knee injury, is not only the team's leading scorer but tops the league with a game average of 28.1 points per game.

Two other team members are listed among the top 15 scorers in the league, Teresa Notrot with a game average of 13.8 and Mel Kerridge who has been averaging 11.7 points a game.

"It is the balanced scoring on the part of these three and the fine defensive play by the others that have brought us to this point." Coach Felter said.

This week the team will take on Gaylord, Cheboygan and Grayling, all of whom gave the local squad good games the first time around. Gaylord will play here Tuesday and Charlevoix will be on the road for the others on Thursday and the following Tuesday. Both teams are tough on their home floors Coach Felter said of the upcoming games.

On Thursday Klooster was the only player in double figures with 13 points as Charlevoix defeated arch rival Petoskey 37-31 in a defensive battle. Kerridge was out of the line-up in this game with a knee injury but is expected back this week.

Petoskey jumped to an eight to six first quarter lead. Charlevoix, however, went ahead by one point at halftime, 16-15 and then outscored the visitors 14-7 to go ahead 30-18 going into the final period. Petoskey tried to make a come-back but the locals held their lead for the victory.

Kris Ronan had 11 and Elaine O'Brien 10 points for Petoskey.

Earlier in the week, Charlevoix won over Boyne City after heading them 19-11; 43-18 and 60-24 by quarters behind the scoring of Klooster who came through with 28 points, Notrot with 18 and Kerridge with 16. Becky Amesbury had 16 and Lori Pouquette nine for Boyne City.

The Charlevoix JVs also chalked up two wins during the week by scores of 35-27 over Boyne City and [illegible] over Petoskey. In the latter game, Laura Kemp scored 22 of the [illegible] points.

Women's volleyball teams organized

The 10-team Women's Volleyball League sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department launched its 1980-81 season Monday and will play four nights this week before adopting its regular scheduled play every Monday at the Charlevoix Elementary School.

The four nights of play were necessary to get all the games within the alloted times for scheduled play because of the increased size of the league from nine to 10 teams.

The teams and their managers are Topside, Marian DeNio, County State Bank, Brenda VanderArk; Bartlett's Rug Rats, Nancy Ferguson; Duffy's, Pauline Young; V.I.P. (Village Inn Pizza), Coreen Henry; Flight Deck Bar, Cathy LaFontaine; Gastcatchers, Robbin Johnson; Jim's Doylies, Sally Nye; KHQ-tees, Ruth Ann Staph and Peters Electric, Kathleen McCann.

The schedule for the first week of play follow:

Tuesday, Oct. 28

7:00 p.m. V.I.P. vs Flight Deck Bar

7:45 p.m. Topside vs KHQ-tees

8:30 p.m. Peters Electric vs Jim's Doylies

Last minute effort falls short in loss to St. Ignace

[illegible] for the Charlevoix Rayders Friday when a Scott Kelly pass with 1:40 left in the game was intercepted near the St. Ignace goal line to quash a thrilling last minute drive by the Rayders that could have won the game.

St. Ignace prevailed, however, by a 17-12 score when the final gun went off.

Though behind throughout the game and missing five starting players who were injured, Charlevoix made a strong showing against the Saints racking up 284 yards in offense behind the running of Mark Beaudoin.

Beaudoin ran the ball 28 times for 106 of Charlevoix's 198 yards rushing. Quarterback Kelly threw for [illegible] yards.

With 3:11 left in the first quarter, St. Ignace Quarterback Tim Dahms tossed a 19 yard strike to Jeff St. Louis for six and Steve McPhee converted the extra point for a 7-0 Saint lead.

Charlevoix's defense held tough in the second quarter when St. Louis intercepted a Rayder pass and returned it to the seven. The Rayders held St. Ignace for three downs and eventually gave up a field goal for a 10-0 St. Ignace lead.

Hard running by Beaudoin and Dave Buday, plus a face mask penalty on St. Ignace, sparked an 80 yard drive by Charlevoix late in the first half. With but 17 seconds left to play, Beaudoin put Charlevoix on the board with a three yard run.

The extra point try was wide so the Rayders went into the locker room behind 10-6.

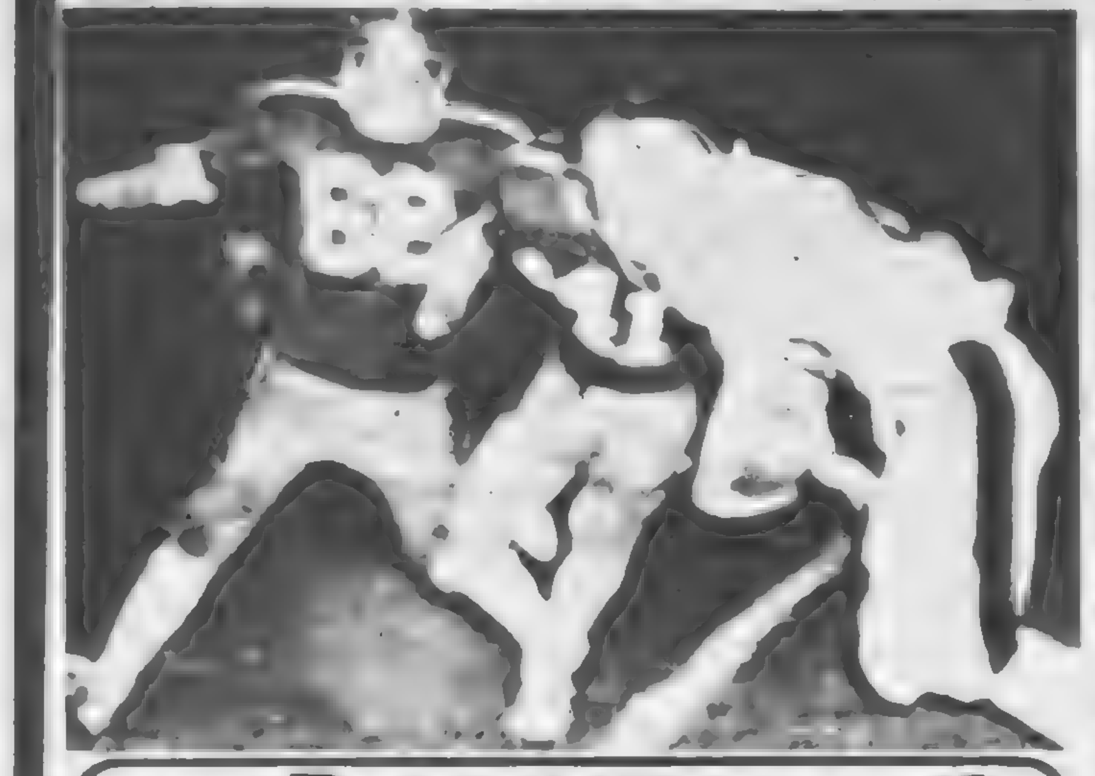
In the third quarter St. Ignace drove the length of the field to the Charlevoix 19 from which Dahms tossed another touchdown pass to Bill Pope. McPhee kicked the extra point and the lead was stretched to 17-6.

The Rayders last score came late in the third quarter when Kelly dove into the endzone from the one capping another impressive drive.

A running play for two points was unsuccessful, however, thus the final score of 17-12.

Defensively for Charlevoix, Mike Loper again led in tackles with 15. Joel Schnackenberg had 12 tackles and Buday 8 with one interception.

This week the Rayders put their 3-3 conference record on the line against rival Boyne City at the Ramblers home [illegible]



Frosh end with win

The Charlevoix freshman football team ended their season on a high note last week with an 8-0 victory over Gaylord.

The Rayders broke a scoreless tie in the third quartdr when Pat Mitchell capped a long offensive drive with a 23 yard run for six points. Mitchell also added the two extra points with a successful run for the [illegible]

Charlevoix actually dominated the game even more than the score indicates as they were inside the Gaylord ten yard line on at least two other occasions.

The frosh posted a record of [illegible] for the [illegible] season.

JV squad beaten

Two first half strikes by St. Ignace put the Charlevoix junior varsity football team behind early and the Rayders could not recover. In their final appearance of the year, the JV squad lost to St. Ignace [illegible]

The first St. Ignace [illegible] in the first quarter on a 24 yard running play. The Saints passed for two extra points.

Only three seconds into the second quarter, St. Ignace scored again on a five yard plunge but they were unsuccessful on the conversion attempt leaving the score [illegible]

Charlevoix scored its lone touchdown with only one minute to go in the first half when Jeff Trumper tossed a 34 yard TD pass to Mark Oostermeyer. The extra point attempt, a running play for two points, was no good, however, so the Rayders went into halftime trailing 14-6.

At 9:15 in the third quarter St. Ignace made it 22-6 with a 20 touchdown run and a two point conversion. They later iced the game with a fumble recovery deep in Charlevoix territory that led to a three yard touchdown run and another two point conversion for a final score of [illegible]

St. Ignace dominated the game running 73 offensive plays to Charlevoix's 47. Fumbles really hurt the Rayders as they lost a total of five.

Defensively Charlevoix battled hard as Oostermeyer had 11 tackles and three assists, Bernie Frei had six tackles, Dave Batdorff had seven tackles and Tim Bergmann had six tackles and two assists. Tim LaBlance played well offensively as did Oostermeyer who had three pass receptions for 52 yards.

The junior varstiy team ended its season with a record of two wins and six losses.

Runners on to State!

The Charlevoix Rayder Cross Country team added another title to its growing string, the Class C regional title which qualified the team for the State Class C meet to be run at Clare Saturday.

Charlevoix finished first with 60 points. Placing second was Mancelona with 73 followed by Benzie Central with 96. The top three team advance to state competition.

Dan Biehl of Mancelona was the overall winner in 16:54 in the meet covering the 5000 meter hilly course that was made slippery and sloppy by rain that fell out and on throughout the meet.

Charlevoix's Jay Swartwout finished second in 17:05; Jeff Landon in fourth place in 17:22; Todd Russell, eighth in 17:39; Jim Landon, 18th in 18:00 and Bill Taylor, 20th in [illegible]

Other Rayder who ran were Bill Dohm, 42nd, in 18:46 and Jon Spieles, 51st in 19:07.

Vicki Rogers, only entry in the girls division, finished [illegible] in 23:38. The winning time was [illegible]

Coach Pete Spieles said he was pleased with his runners performances; that Swartwout and Jeff Landon ran their usual consistent races; that Russell and Taylor had good times and, combined with Jim Landon, gave the team the depth it needed to win. He went on to say that everyone has worked hard and that he is hoping the team can finish among the top 10 in the state on Saturday. "They've earned it!" he added.

Swartwout and Jeff Landon are the only seniors among those who ran Saturday.

Harriers add Gaylord meet to string

The Charlevoix Rayder harriers were the overall winners in the Gaylord Invitational meet Tuesday coming in first with a total of 45 points.

Mancelona with 83 points won the Class C trophy; Fairview, fourth in the meet, the Class D trophy and Petoskey, eighth in the meet, the Class B trophy.

Boyne City with 94 points finished third; Fairview had 102; Kalkaska, 134; Alanson, 146; Gaylord, 150 and Petoskey, 193.

Dan Biehl of Mancelona and Jay Swartwout tied for first place in a time of [illegible]. However, the judges gave the first place medal to Biehl and the second place medal to Swartwout.

Jeff Landon of Charlevoix finished third in [illegible]

Other Charlevoix runners finished as follows: Jim Landon, 8th, 16:31; Todd Russell, 11th, 16:38; Bill Taylor, 21st, 17:04, Bill Dohm, 24th, 17:05, Matt Peterson, 27th, 17:20.

Charlevoix won the JV division which was run as an open race with the Rayders taking the first three places. Jon Spieles finished first in 17:15; Scott Davis next in 17:18 and Bill Herriman, third, in 17:28. Alec Sheets and [illegible] in 17:29 and received the fifth and sixth place medals, Jerry Thompson was seventh in [illegible]

Vicki Rogers finished 11th in the girls division which was also an open race.

This event was the last scheduled meet of the season.

The team will now advance to the Regional and State [illegible]

Flag football results

The flag football program sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department closed out Wednesday with the Steelers and the Patriots sharing the title.

The Patriots came on strong during the last half of the season to defeat the Steelers 23-13 on the final night of play to spoil their perfect win record. Earlier, they had defeated the Seahawks who Wednesday night suffered their second defeat by a score of 33-13 at the hands of the Cowboys. In other games the Oilers defeated the Redskins 44-14.

In what turned out to be the title game, the Patriots and the Steelers played to a 7-6 first quarter after Thad Morgan had scored on a 30 yard pass from S.J. Greenway and Jim Kenney had scored the conversion point and Mark Trimper had scored on a 23-yard run for the Patriots.

From then on it was the Patriots game as they scored in the second period on a 22 yard pass from Doug Sloan to Trimper with Matt Lagnell adding the conversion and a safety by Jeff Smith in the third period.

In a last ditch effort Thad Morgan scored on a two yard run to give the Steelers 13 points but the Patriots countered with a touchdown on an 18 yard run by Lagnell and a conversion by Sloan for the victory and a share of the title.

The Seahawks' hopes of sharing in the title were shattered when, they fell victim to an inspired Cowboy squad by a score of 33-13.

The Cowboys took a 6-0 first period lead on a six yard run by Jody Putman and [illegible] the Seahawks tied [illegible] in the second period when John Pearl scored on a four yard run and Brian Greenway put his team ahead when he scored the conversion point.

From then on it was the Cowboys game as they scored on pass plays of 22 and 29 yards from Putman to Dave McKenzie and an 18 yard running play by Putman and a second one of three yards by Shannon Spence. Pat Drost and Dan Drost added [illegible]

Packy LaBlance scored again for the Seahawks on a five yard run as the Seahawks slipped into a tie with the Oilers for second place in league standings.

Jim Martin scored on three pass plays and Kyle Smith on two kickoff returns to lead the Oilers to a 44-14 win over the Redskins.

Martin scored on passes of one and five yards from Brent Cole and a 15 yard aerial from Carl Rothenberger; Smith on two 40-yard kick-off returns and Cole on a 10 yard pass play from Mark Hodgson and a 22 yard run. Denny Curtis [illegible] conversion points.

The Redskins TDs were scored on one and 18 yard runs by Robb Musser who also scored the P.A.T.s.

Bloodmobile to be in Charlevoix on Election Day

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be coming to Charlevoix on Election Day, Tuesday, Nov. 4.

The Bloodmobile will again be headquartered at the United Methodist Church. The hours will be from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m. at 105 State St.

The men of the U.S.C.G.C. Mesquite are scheduled to come in during the first hour from 1 until 2 p.m. Others can come in at that time but it will be busy a spokesman said.

The quota for the visit is 150 [illegible].

The last quota was short by 11 pints. It is hoped that that can be made up at the Nov. 4 visit which will be the last for the community until May 1981.

A spokesman for the Bloodmobile committee said a calling committee is busy contacting more than 300 previous donors listed in the active files. If you have not been called and would like to make an appointment, please [illegible].

Seventeen year olds wishing to donate may do so with parental consent. The consent forms may be obtained at the high school.

A special plea is being issued at this time for O-positive and O-negative blood. It seems that patients at the Charlevoix Area Hospital as well as other hospitals requiring these types, O-positive and O-negative, has increased dramatically. Donors with these types may receive a special recruitment letter from the Flint headquarters. They are urged to give at the Nov. 4. [illegible]

As in the past, two chapters of Beta Sigma Phi sorority, Xi Epsilon Gamma and Kappa Sigma, will organize, staff and stock the canteen. Representatives of the Charlevoix Lions Club donate their time to unload and set up the Bloodmobile for the day and then return to dismantle and load the equipment on the truck.

Mrs. Joan Bradley is recruiting nurses willing to donate some time to the Bloodmobile project. Her number is 547-9260. If you are a nurse and willing to contribute some time, call her.

Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr., is recruiting the many other workers required to staff the Bloodmobile. Her number is 547-9896 if you wish to help.

The committee has high praise for the many donors Charlevoix boasts and the many volunteer workers who donate their time to the project.

Many individuals have donated more than 20 pints of blood. "Although we run the risk of missing someone accidently we will take that chance and give credit to these special people" a spokesman said. Among them are Carol Dutcher and Jim Jinsky who have given 26 pints each; Irving Manville, 31; Charles Wilmot, 32; Ted Browe, Jr., 36; John Zoulek, 38; Paul LaFreniere, 41; Herb Dishong, 43; Richard Sayward, 40 and Austin [illegible] 52.

"A big cheer for these people! We hope others will join their ranks on Nov. 4 and put Charlevoix's Bloodmobile over the top," a committee member said.

STATE OF THE SCHOOLS REPORT

One of the greatest challenges facing our educational system last year was to complete the high school addition. With the assistance of the community building committee, this goal was achieved without using all the the millage approved by the voters. Also, the middle school project was completed and the millage was renewed for operating the schools. An additional millage for repairing and replacing roofs was defeated.

Once again, a community survey was made, and the most significant finding was that both parents and non-parents in our school district would like to have the students pass a test of minimum requirements in order to graduate. The Curriculum committee has taken this into consideration and will be working toward this goal in the future.

With the help of several people representing the school district, a discipline policy has been refined and will be presented to the board of education.

Although our students continue to score well above average on state and national achievement tests, a problem exists in that some students are reading below average. A joint goal of the board of education, administration and teaching staff is to make a concentrated effort in order that these reading problems be reduced.

All of us in the educational system want to take this opportunity to thank you, our "bosses," for your support and the opportunity for us to work with you and the young people of our school district.

Charlevoix Area Hospital Women's Guild meets

The Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Area Hospital met at the hospital recently and took action on several issues.

The 12 members present vote to meet only every other month; to name only Guild members to the Scholarship committee which will be a rotating committee with the third member an appointee by the president and to underwrite the expenses of the president and vice president or secretary at the fall and spring meetings of the regional association meetings plus mileage.

A suggestion to close the Show Case, the gift shop, during the evening hours, was tabled for the present.

Programs for future meetings were also announced. Nancy Stewart of the Women's Resource Center in Petoskey will address the Dec. 8th meeting; Richard Krueger, hospital administrator, the Feb. 9 meeting and Mrs. Barbara Rogers, the director of nurses, the April 13th meeting.

Mrs. Joanna Gunn presented her plans for a chaplain's service at the hospital. She advised those present that she had asked for the support of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association who had agreed to have personnel available. The proposal was approved. She said from five to 10 volunteers would be named to assist with the program.

The treasurer reported a balance on hand of $2,246.

Funds are raised by the Guild to support its scholarship fund, to meet its $15,000 pledge to the Hospital Renovation and Expansion Fund and other programs provided by the Guild.

The by-laws are to be reviewed by a committee.

The next meeting is scheduled for Dec. 8.

Mrs. Pomeroy visits here

learn as much as they can on these trips and then return to their own countries to put their knowledge in action. While they meet many people and are entertained, these are working trips" she explained.

As an example, the doctor of medicine from Egypt had an appointment at the Mayo Clinic where she had asked for help with knowledge regarding blood. The others were to visit Minnesota Mining to learn about the manufacturing methods. The company, in turn, is interested in Egypt as a possible overseas outlet for their many products and welcome the visits, Mrs. Pomeroy said.

"They will be spending several weeks here and visiting certain industries and other places where they will learn about a variety of fields of interest that they can use on their return to Egypt." she continued.

"It is this way that the knowledge and information they have gleaned will trickle down through organizations in their country to the majority of women. It will take a long time but it is a start. When you consider the illiteracy among the people in these countries there isn't much of any other method you could use to get to these women who are only now leaving the shelter of their homes," she explained further.

She then related one of her favorite stories to get her point across. She told of a woman she had met in India who was quite wealthy and who had learned a little about manufacturing on a small scale. She knew of women in her community who made items for sale but their hard work never seemed to benefit them. She learned that in order to obtain materials for their items, they borrowed from money lenders who charged them high rates of interest. As a result, they were never able to make a profit.

She then went to a bank and talked the officials into loaning the women money at a fair rate to purchase their materials. She then arranged for an outlet for their finished products. Until now they had sold them only at the marketplace and bazaars. After a while the women organized, hired others to work for them and eventually had a small business on their own on a sound financial base. They were making a living and making it possible for others to do the same.

"To most people this sounds like a very small operation compared to industries in this country but it served a dual purpose: It proved to these women they could help themselves and it brought them out of the poverty they had always known. I guess this is why I find this so gratifying," Mrs. Pomeroy added.

"Until you see the poverty, the conditions under which these people live, you can't appreciate what something as small as this means to them," she said in explaining her feelings.

"This is why I feel so badly about what is happening in Iran. They had made so much progress along these lines and now, at least for the time being, all that is lost" she said.

Egypt is not the only country participating in this program and the United States is not the only country. Other industrialized countries are members and sponsors like visits.

Only recently Mrs. Pomeroy returned from a similar trip to China, her fifth to that country since foreign travel has been allowed. The others, however, were made as a tour guide for a travel agency in Minneapolis-St. Paul for whom she worked for [illegible] years until accepting her present position.

There have been few countries she hasn't visited. However, she said she finds this the most gratifying.

Mrs. Pomeroy is the mother of three grown children. She was widowed last December when her husband, "Red", who was well known here, died following heart surgery. He was a widely known veterinarian in a family that handled several generations in the profession. Their son, Fred, who had been associated in the profession with his father has now taken over the practice.

Weathervane Terrace condo-motel plans receive reaffirmed blessing

by DAVE KNIGHT

Worried owners of the Weathervane Terrace were reassured by the City Council Monday night that plans for expansion of the condominiumized motel will not be jeopardized by a zoning dispute.

At the heart of the owners' concern was an October 30 letter from City Attorney Frank Hoffman stating Hoffman's opinion that, under the current city ordinance, the property in question should be rezoned "R-4" from its present "C-1" before anything further is done with the project.

According to Hoffman, condominiums may only be constructed in an "R-4" zoned district.

A copy of Hoffman's letter was sent to the Condominium Section of the state Department of Commerce which is in the process of reveiwing the expansion plans.

Richard E. Georgi, Jr., speaking as one of the members of the Charlevoix Development Company which owns the Weathervane Terrace, expressed strong objection to Hoffman's sending of the letter to the Department of Commerce. He called the letter a serious threat to the department's approval of the project.

Georgi and several other supporters of the project maintained to the council that the Weathervane Terrace was run as a motel and that the 38 units planned in the expansion would be managed on the same basis.

Attorney Art Bond, representing C.D.C., pointed out that the fact that the Weathervane units were condominiumized reflected only a form of ownership, not use of the units and that a "C-1" zoning was appropriate for a motel operation.

Hoffman defended his actions saying that new ordinance requirements established by the city since the project site plan was approved changed the zoning picture.

Attorney Donald Berlage, another C.D.C. supporter, criticized Hoffman for contacting the Department of Commerce on his own saying, "The City Attorney has taken a rash and precipitous action that could seriously delay the poject."

The Weathervane Terrace was first condominiumized in 1974 when the motel's 39 units were purchased by individual owners. The owners formed an association which manages the units as motel units and, by mutual agreement, prevents long term occupancy by even the owners.

Three years ago, the C.D.C. obtained from the city council approval of a site plan for an expansion of the Weathervane Terrace. Last year the neccessary property for the expansion was obtained. This summer, final documents were submitted to the Department of Commerce for its approval.

Included in those documents was a letter from City Manager James Brinker confirming the city's approval of the plans

The fact that the department now has Brinker's letter saying the project is approved and Hoffman's letter saying it should be halted, said Bond, will be confusing to the department and could cause long delays in its handling of the C.D.C.'s file.

The issue was further complicated by Hoffman's contention that a pending tax action involving the Weathervane Terrace could be jeopardized by any action by the council.

The Weathervane Terrace is appealing its [illegible] tax assessment at an upcoming tax tribunal.

After lengthy discussion, the council voted unanimously in favor of a motion by Alderman Earl Muma to reaffirm the council's support of the Weathervane Terrace site plan and to

Mesquite, CG lifeboats race to scene of sunken tug

The Cutter Mesquite and two smaller rescue vessels from the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station were dispatched at about 4:30 a.m. Wednesday to Grand Traverse Bay where one of two tugs towing the disabled tanker Amoco Wisconsin collided with the tanker and sank.

One crewman from the sunken tug was reported missing.

The 98-foot tug Lauren Castle, owned by the Selvick Marine Towing Corporation of Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin, reportedly went down approximately one and a half miles from Lee Point.

Three other crewmen from the Castle, one seriously hurt, were recovered by the William Selvick, the other tug towing the Amoco Wisconsin at the time. A Coast Guard helicopter was dispatched immediately to the Selvick to airlift the injured crewman to a medical facility

The Amoco Wisconsin, loaded with 40,000 barrels of gasoline, sustained unspecified damage from the collision but was reported leaking gasoline at about 12 gallons an hour. As of 5:20 a.m. Wednesday, the disabled tanker was at anchor near the scene of the collision awaiting the Mesquite to tow it to safe moorings.

Reports on the exact cause of the collision were not immediately available early Wednesday morning but a spokesman from the Coast Guard Group Station at Sault Ste. Marie did tell the Courier that weather was not a factor and that the incident was a "freak happening."

The Amoco Wisconsin went dead in the water off the Leelanau Peninsula late Monday when her main engines broke down.

The disabled tanker was towed Tuesday to Grand Traverse Bay by the Mesquite and was subsequently to be towed into Traverse City by commercial tugs.

The two tugs from the Selvick Marine Towing Corporation were in the process of towing the Amoco Wisconsin into its fuel terminals in Traverse City when the collision occurred.

The name of the missing crewman was being witheld as of early Wednesday morning.

Also dispatched to the scene were the Cutter Mobile Bay from Milwaukee and a search helicopter equipped with spotlights from the Traverse City air [illegible].

Four to eight foot waves were reported at the time of the search with northwest winds blowing at 20 to 30 knots at the time.

FIRST-HOME MYTHS

A national study done by the Chicago-based Family Housing Bureau dispells a lot of myths about buying of first homes. Here's a few.

MYTH: First time home buyers have been driven out of the market by escalating costs. FACT: The survey showed that 44% of today's home buyers are first time buyers.

MYTH: Young people cannot afford homes anymore. FACT: Eighty seven percent of first-time buyers are younger then 35 with the average age being 28.

MYTH: Costs for single-family homes have risen so sharply that most home buyers are turning to multi-family solutions. FACT: Ninety percent of first-time home buyers choose single family homes, 7% condos and only 3% choose multi family homes.

MYTH: Most home buyers now spend more on mortgage payments than the recommended ¼ of total income. FACT: One quarter of the current crop of first time buyers fall into the ¼ rule of thumb category. Another 53% are even more conservative spending 20% or less of total income for shelter payment.

Rabies shots to be given

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week announced that it had entered into an agreement with the East Jordan Animal Clinic and the Charlevoix County Extension Service to provide rabies vaccinations for dogs in the county.

The vaccinations will be available as follows:

December 6, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the East Jordan City Garage.

December 6, from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Garage in Charlevoix.

December 13, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the Charlevoix County Road Commission Garage in Boyne City.

The vaccination contract was awarded to the East Jordan Animal Clinic on the basis of competitive bids.

Wood featured in news feature

The Rev. Wilford D. Wood, who served as pastor of the Community Church of God in Charlevoix from 1942 to 1952, recently was the subject of a newspaper feature story.

Rev. Wood retired in 1972 from his last pastorship, at the First Congregational Church in Belding, but he still resides in Belding, the town where he grew up.

Rev. Wood and his wife were recently honored by his former Belding congregation at "The Rev. Bill and Hilda Wood Day", when he was awarded the honorary title of Pastor Emeritus.

The former pastor's church career began in Joliet, Ill., where he served for six years prior to coming to Charlevoix. When he left Charlevoix, he went to the Church of God in Kalamazoo, serving there for 14 years, and finally to the Belding church.

In reflecting on his career in the ministry, Rev. Wood said there were two areas of particular interest to him: working with alcoholics and working with couples having marital difficulties.

"It's one thing to get up and say you're an alcoholic and quite another to actualy be able to help out someone in that situation" he said.

"In these two areas is where I see the church lacking – how to offer constructive help to the alcoholic and to married couples. So often the church pushes the idea but life is very different."

New band man named

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education voted to offer a contract to Terry Isenbarger for the remainder of the 1980-81 school year as director of instrumental music in Charlevoix Schools.

Isenbarger has filled a comparable position in the Bellaire school system for the past six years and is presently president of the District II Michigan Association of School Band and Orchestra Directors and a member of the state executive board of the organization.

He was named from among 25 applicants for the post which has been vacated by Michael Filkins. Filkins resigned effective October 24 after a little more than a year as band director.

Mrs. Frank North of Norwood, a formewr music major, is currently serving as interim director until Isenbarger takes over.

It is not known at this time when Isenbarger wil be coming to Charlevoix. In a telephone conversation Monday night he said it would depend on when the Bellaire Board of Education would release him from his present contract.

A native of Troy, Ohio, Isenbarger is a graduate of Ohio University with a major in music and a minor in science. He also has an M.A. degree in music from Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana.

Isenbarger has served as instrumental music director in the Tekonsha (Mich.) Community Schools in 1961; Roeper City and Country School, a private school for gifted children in Bloomfield Hills, where he initiated an instrumental music program and developed a full orchestra and band program from 1964-68; he was band director and instrumental music teacher at Mancelona Schools from 1968 to 1971 and Elementary School Principal in the Mancelona-Alden system from 1971 to 1974 before going to Bellaire where his band received first division ratings on the district level for five years and on the state level for five years.

Isenbarger is married and has two children. His wife is an elementary teacher.

In other action, the board heard a request from Mrs. Patricia Miller of Charlevoix and Bruce Mayhew of Brutus to rent space for a non-profit day care nursery. The matter was turned over to the Charlevoix Public Library Advisory Board for a recommendation at the next meeting Dec. 1.

A revised discipline policy was tabled so board members could study it before the next meeting.

Michael Gibbons of the Library Committee reported on a recent meeting of the Library Advisory Committee stating that the committee had several names under advisement but has not taken any action on them.

direct the City Attorney to send another letter to the Department of Commerce withdrawing his earlier concerns.

Further controversy swirled around the Charlevoix Airport Monday night as the council voted 5-1 to rent office space at the airport to Welke Aviation.

Attorney Arthur Reibel, representing Welke, told the council that the Welke request for office space dated back to 1977 and that they deserved action on the matter.

City Attorney Hoffman reminded the council that a large amount of landing fees were stilled owed the city by Welke but Reibel angrily responded that the fees were in process of litigation and that Hoffman's statement was legally inappropriate.

The disputed fees were later the subject of a heated exchange between Reibel and Richard Hodgson, an employee of McPhillips Flying Service which has been designated by the city as the fixed base operator at the airport.

Hoffman also pointed out that the city code sets a 200 square foot minimum requirement for any office space and that the 12 foot by 12 foot room that Welke wants to rent falls below that minimum.

On a motion by Alderman Ivan Whitley, the council voted to rent the office space with a variance on the space requirement and subject to final approval by the City Attorney.

Only Alderan Jeff Porter voted against the motion.

Downstate man dies in Beaver Island trailer fire

A Pontiac man died in a trailer fire in Peaine Township in the early morning hours Tuesday, October 28 according to Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater.

The fire is believed to have been caused, Lasater said, by [illegible].

The victim was Donald Williams, 49, whose home address was 57 Seneca, Pontiac. He had arrived on Beaver Island October 25 to spend some time at the trailer located on property he owned approximately one and a half miles south of St. James on the East Shore Road.

He was alone in the 10 by 24 foot trailer to which an addition had been constructed at the time of the fire.

The blaze was discovered by Bob McGlocklin of the Circle M Ranch Supper Club who called the Beaver Island Fire Department. The entire structure had collapsed by the time the department arrived at the scene.

Williams had been a seasonal visitor to the island, usually spending some time at the trailer in the spring and again during the hunting seasons according to island residents.

His body was taken to the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix and transferred to [illegible] Funeral Home in Pontiac.

According to Lasater, Williams' next of kin was a sister, Freda Williams, at the same Pontiac address.

"Haunted" Mesquite draws youngsters

It was hard to tell who was having more fun Friday night on the Cutter Mesquite: the crewmen or the kids they entertained. As a Halloween treat for area youngsters, the Mesquite was decorated as a "Ghost Ship" Friday night with spiders dangling in the halls and hair-raising scenes acted out in the ships innards by the crew. About 700 costumed children were escorted through the ship where they saw such things as the witch at her cauldron, left, the Mad Surgeon and his unfortunate victim, below left, and a realistic Dracula in his coffin who had an amazing resemblance to Lt. Commander Warren Miller, skipper of the Mesquite. As the kids boarded, they were greeted by a headless horseman, right, and as they left they all received treats from the crew, above. The event was sponsored, along with the crew of the Mesquite and the Coast Guard Wives, by several area businesses and individuals. Artwork was provided by the high school and St. Mary's elementary art classes.

Election Beatitudes

A short post-election prayer:

Blessed are the "No to D" voters for they have delivered us from the hungry jaws of the fiscal wolves who may have bloodied our flesh while going for the [illegible].

Blessed are the water bond backers for theirs is the kingdom of milk and honey and plenty of water to wash the milk and honey from their moustaches.

Blessed are the "No to A and C" voters for they shall spur us on to keep searching for the most equitable way to tax ourselves no matter how elusive and unpleasant that quest may be.

Blessed are they who have delivered 19 year-olds from the temptation of drink for they shall be remembered at Dooley's with many a fond phrase of endearment.

And finally;

Blessed are those who lifted Ronald Reagan to greatness for they shall inherit...Ronald Reagan.

City Council action

In other action relating to the airport, the council passed new vehicle parking rules calling for fees of $1 per night, $5 per week, $15 per month and $50 per year.

The new rules also state that vehicles must be parked in designated areas, have current license plates and be in operating condition. The penalty for parking without a permit will be $2 per day and cars left without permits for 30 days will be towed away.

The lease on a hangar rented by Robert Winchester was renewed by the council at the rate of $50 per month and approval was granted for the airport master plan.

The May St. apartments drainage pond was back on the council agenda with a request by the developers for a variance for a five foot fence around the pond. Attorney John Michael, representing the developers, told the council that the developers' insurance company had designated at least a five foot fence be built. The city code sets a maximum fence height of 42 inches.

Michael warned the council that if they did not grant the variance and an incident occurred involving bodily harm, the city "would find itself in defensive litigation." He also said that the problem with the pond was its aesthetic value which the city cannot tolerate.

Alderman Shirley Roloff, who has been a constant critic of the pond and the developers' failure to solve the problem of standing water in the pond, maintained that a fence variance was only another delay and would not address the real problem of safety.

"If we grant this variance," she said, "We are giving them (the developers) another six months to play around."

On a motion by Roloff, the council voted 5-1 to deny the variance with only Whitley dissenting.

Site plans were approved by the council for an addition to Bartlett's Decorator Center, a deck and storage area behind the LaCroft Condominium and a small building to house a 24-hour teller at the First State Bank of Charlevoix.

Tisch goes, problem stays

Win, lose or draw, the Tisch tax cut amendment has underscored a gnawing problem in Michigan government which must be corrected before the next state election.

At this point, the pollsters predict that Tisch will go down the tube, along with the two other tax proposals on the Michigan ballot.

If it does, most of us will breathe easier — because a 50 percent reduction in local property taxes will pose an unbearable hardship on so many governmental units, not to mention our colleges and universities.

But defeat of Tisch will not erase the problem: Too few of us are being asked year after year to support too much government.

And it is up to the state Legislature to make the necessary changes before it takes up another single matter of business.

I, for one, hope that Gov. Milliken will take the lead in supporting "sunset legislation" and zero-based budgeting to make sure that every single tax dollar brings a fair return to the taxpayer.

It is also time for a thorough-going comparison of state salaries with those paid in the private sector for similar work — and an adjustment of state compensation downward when glaring discrepancies are found.

New state employees are often pleasantly surprised to find that their remuneration from state coffers is sometimes double what they received in private industry.

The same goes for fringe benefits: Vacations, paid-holidays, state-paid insurance, cut-rate drugs, pensions, you name it.

I am not saying we have treated our public servants too well. I am saying that workers in the private sector should not be have to bear the burden of supporting state employees in a manner that they themselves can no longer afford.

DURING the past few weeks, numerous residents of the area — all of them tied in some way to government — have bent my ear about the Tisch proposal.

One caller said that if Tisch passed the only state employees left on the payroll would be old fuddy-duddies with tons of seniority. The bright young people with bright young ideas would be turned loose.

And my caller was probably correct.

Another said that she probably would be unable to send her children to college if tuition doubled or tripled, as has been predicted under Tisch.

And she, too, has a valid argument.

But it is not a question of keeping old fuddies on the payroll and firing bright young people. Nor is it a question of educating or not educating your children.

The main issue is whether Michigan — or the nation, for that matter — can survive for long if citizens are taxed beyond their means to pay.

MANY times in this corner I have complained about the proclivity of public bodies to spend money willy-nilly.

Elect the most tight-fisted old skinflint you can think of to the city council or the board of commissioners — and suddenly he'll turn into the last of the big spenders when it comes to approving public programs and public employment.

If he didn't, he'd appear to be a tight-fisted old skinflint in the public eye.

Which is probably true. But he might also get re-elected.

Letters: Devil's Night

To the Citizens of Charlevoix:

Why is it in this fair City of Charlevoix that the citizens must protect themselves from the children? Something should, and can, be done about this.

The vandalism that has been happening to our family alone is costly. I'm talking about two separate residences, which are across town from each other, so it is hard to believe that it is being done by one group of people. We have had four gas caps stolen, which forces us to buy locking gas caps for all of our vehicles. Before we got the caps, a full tank of gas was syphined from my husband's truck. This was not at the same residence that the caps were taken from. A car parked out in front of the house had a rearview mirror broken, and water dumped all over the interior. Apparently, apples were thrown at it. We have had eggs, berries and other things splattered on the vehicles.

A valuable plant was stolen from the front porch, as was a bike which was fairly new. The bike was only out for about ten minutes.

We have had other peoples' gas caps and plants left on our porch.

People, children we are assuming, have rung the doorbell, then run off.

Now you are probably thinking this all happened on "Devils Night." Well it didn't. It seems it is Devils Night all year long any more. And what is Devils Night? Does anyone know? I'm only in my late twenties, and I sure don't remember that night when I was a kid. Yes, I did grow up in Charlevoix.

Parents, where are your children at night, and what are they doing? Why isn't the 9:30 p.m. curfew enforced?

I'm sure that other people have had similar things happening to them, too. Do you call the police and complain when it does? Nothing can be done unless you do.

So many evenings when I drive thru downtown at 10:30 or 11:00 p.m. I see school children on the street. What are they doing out so late on a school night? Don't you get parents care? Or does everyone think that "Their kids" wouldn't get in trouble? Well someone's children are.

Please help to make this a nice town again. Know where your children are and who they are with. Have them home when it is dark. Did you have so much freedom to go where and when you wanted as a child? Is it really good for your kids to have such lack of supervision? What benefits do they gain from this?

Charlevoix used to be a nice small town to live in. Now I'm not so sure. I am asking that my name not be signed, as I would hate for the harassment to increase any worse than it is. It's too bad that a person should have to have a fear of retaliation in such a small town.

Review of area property taxes

By PEG OHLE

The owner of a $40,000 house with a state equalized value of $20,000 located in Boyne City will pay taxes amounting to $1,170.75 next year, while the owner of a house of equal value located in St. James Township will pay taxes amounting to $801.52.

These are the "high and low" of property taxes in Charlevoix County as revealed by the annual "Township and City Clerks Report" prepared by Joan Blanchard, equalization director.

(However, if the request for an additional 2.8 mills for the East Jordan school system passes in December, taxes on a $40,000 house in East Jordan will be $1,192.81, the highest in the county).

The difference in amount of taxes is due to the difference in cost of operating the local unit of government (St. James Township and Boyne City), and to the difference in cost of operating the school systems (Beaver Island and Boyne City).

The cost of operating St. James Township is 9.6389 mills, and the cost of operating the City of Boyne City is 19.100 mills. The cost of operating the Beaver Island school system is 14.6968 mills, and the cost of operating the Boyne City school system is 33.007 mills.

Taxes on a $40,000 house in the City of Charlevoix will amount to $910.21, and on the same house in Charlevoix Township, $710.21. They are based on a city operating cost of 12 mills and a township operating cost of two mills. The Charlevoix school system serves both communities at a cost of 27.779 mills.

All property owners in Charlevoix County will pay 4.56 mills for operation of county government, and 1.1963 for operation of the Char-Em Intermediate School, as well as their townshi or city operating costs and the costs of operating their local school systems.

Millages for local school systems vary considerably, ranging from the low of 14.6968 on Beaver Island to the high of 34.2152 in Ellsworth. However, the latter would be overshadowed by the 36.65 mills in the East Jordan school system if the December millage passes.

Property taxes totaling $12,412,613 will be levied in the county next year. Of this amount, $1,372,892 will go to support county government (11.06 percent); $1,686,033 to township and city governments (13.58 percent); $8,985,170 to local schools (72.4 percent); and $350,516 to the Char-Em Intermediate School (2.80 percent).

Here is what the tax bill on a $40,000 house ($20,000 state equalized value) would be in the various political units throughout the county:

5th Graders call at Grandvue

Residents of the Grandvue Nursing Home missed out on none of the Halloween action Friday as two busloads of fifth graders from East Jordan paid a trick-or-treating visit to the home. The entire fifth grade of East Jordan, in fact, made the trip which has become an annual affair. After visiting each of the residents' rooms for treats the children were given a party in the Grandvue activity room with refreshments donated by several Charlevoix County grocery and drug stores.

At the right, Teresa Maurer as an Indian girl and Trina Bos as The Mummy get their reward from Erma Close. Below, the East Jordan students whoop it up at the party. Grandvue activity director Judy Muma expressed gratitude for all the help lent by the volunteers and sponsoring merchants.

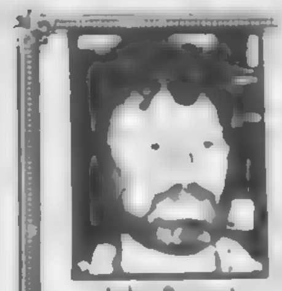
GEMWISE



John Reusch

TOPAZ IS THE NOVEMBER BIRTHSTONE

Perhaps no other gem has had more varied or preposterous powers ascribed to it. When worn as an amulet, it was said to drive away sadness, strengthen the intellect and bestow courage. A topaz mounted in gold and hung around the neck was believed to dispel enchantment. When the powdered stone was put in wine, it was used as a cure for asthma, insomnia, burns and hemmorrage. It was considered the stone of fruitfulness and faithfulness, conferring cheerfulness on the wearer, calming passions, and preventing bad dreams. Topaz was supposed to become abscure in contact with poison and quench the heat of boiling water. All of these powers were believed to increase and decrease the powers of the moon.

Reusch Jewelry has a selection of topaz set in many fine pieces of jewelry. Let us help you select the right gem and setting for yourself or for a gift.

Weddings

Morris-Threet

Pamela Ann Morris of Mt. Clemens and Jewell M. Threet Jr. of Adrian were married on Saturday morning, Oct. 18 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Morris of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jewell M. Threet of Adrian.

The Rev. R. Dale Magoon performed the double-ring ceremony before approximately 200 guests who came from Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Lansing, Colorado, Pontiac, Midland, Detroit, and Adrian as well as from the Charlevoix area.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents, wore a traditional white wedding gown, fashioned from white poly-sheer organza. It featured a Queen Anne neckline and a fitted Venise lace bodice which accented the Empire waist. The long fitted sleeves had details of Venise lace and satin [illegible].

The Chapel-length train had echoes of the lace and a full satin flounce at the hemline, as did the full-length gown. The silk net fingertip veil which was made by the bride's sister, Deborah Baldwin, featured silk organza flowers that framed her face. The bride's bouquet was made of white, yellow, and tropicana roses with baby's breath, and she carried a silk lace handkerchief that has been in the weddings of her grandmother, mother, and sisters.

Marina La Blanc provided organ music for the ceremony, and Evelyn Wujcik provided trumpet music.

The bride's sister, Cheryl M. Morris, served as maid of honor, and two other sisters, Theresa Faust and Liz Morris, along with Sue Murchie, were bridesmaids. They wore matching floor-length gowns of burntwood qiana, fashioned with fitted sleeved jacket accented with Venise lace collars and cuffs. They wore apricot silk flowers in their hair and carried bouquets of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums and yellow and white roses with baby's breath.

The bride's sister, Deborah Baldwin, also participated in the ceremony by reading several verses.

Randall S. Faust was best man, and Melvin Seigner, Rick Knight, and Gary Cottrell performed the duties of groomsmen. John Threet, the bridegroom's brother, and Denny Hoffman seated the guests.

The bridegroom wore a formal white wedding suit with tails and a boutonnier of a tropicana rose. His attendants wore coffee au lait formal wear accented by brown velvet collar and stripe on trousers, and boutonniers of white roses.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Morris wore a bronze qina gown with full-length puffed sleeves and a softly gathered floor-length skirt, and a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. Threet wore a floor-length beige gown accented by a pleated organdy cape-like collar, and a corsage of white and yellow roses.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents hosted a reception at the Boyne Golf Club Villa. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at Duffy's of Charlevoix.

Following a wedding trip to Bermuda, the newlyweds are at home at 1239 Sherman St., Adrian.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Michigan School of Nursing, and the bridegroom is a graduate of Adrian College, with a teaching certificate.

Rayder cross country runners place fifth at State Class C meet

The Charlevoix Rayder Cross Country team placed fifth in the state with 231 points in the State Class C meet held Saturday at Clare. Twenty-one teams from regional meets around the state gathered at Clare for the State meet.

"We met all our goals...all the goals we had set for ourselves before the season opened. With hard work and dedication we have reached those goals." Coach Pete Spieles said following the final meet of the season.

The team captured the Michigan Huron Shores Conference title and the Class C regional title earlier in the season.

Rogers City placed ninth among the 21 teams with 257 points. Mancelona came in 18th in the field of 21 with 371 points. Spieles said that Mancelona ran without its No. Two runner who was out with an injury.

In discussing the meet, he said it spoke well for the league to have two of its teams finish among the top 10 in the state.

In addition to finishing fifth, one of the team members, Jay Swartwout qualified for All-State, placing sixth among 147 runners with a time of 16:09.3. Another team member, Jeff Landon, with a time of 16:25.3 finished in 13th place.

The top time posted in the meet was 15:33.4 set by Eric [illegible] of Williamston whose team finished 12th.

Other Charlevoix runners, how they finished and their times follow: Todd Russell (51st), 17:15.5.; Jim Landon (68th), 17:24.4; Bill Dohm, (94th), 17:41.1; Bill Taylor, (97th), 17:45.3; Jon Spieles, (138th), 18:41.7.

Rogers City's top runner, Mark Zielinski, finished 71st overall with a time of 16:39.7. [illegible] in 16:44.3.

Tim Crumbaugh of Boyne City who ran in the individual race finished 60th in 17:15.6. The winning time in this category was 15:50.

The 15 runners with the best times running as team members and the top 15 in the individual race were awarded medals at the meet. Both Swartwout and Jeff Landon received medals.

Concord with a total score of 136 placed first in the meet to capture the state title; Reese was second with 182; Napoleon, third, with 187 and Kalamazoo Christian, fourth, with 198.

It is interesting to note that Concord which won the title as a team did not place a runner among the top 10 while third place Napoleon had three; Williamston which finished 12th had two, Reese, in second place, Kalamazoo Christian in fourth, and Charlevoix, sixth, each had one runner among the top 10.

Seniors on the Charlevoix team are Swartwout, Jeff Landon, Scott Davis, Gerry Thompson, Vicki Rogers and [illegible].

The team also had a 6-0 record in dual meets; won three invitational meets; placed second in three others and third in the Ferris Invitational meet.

Tough-hitting Boyne City squad ends season on sour note for Charlevoix gridders

Charlevoix's hopes for a winning conference season were blown away by a biting winter wind and some vicious hitting by the Boyne City Ramblers Friday night.

In their first varsity football victory over the Rayders in ten years, Boyne City capitalized on mistakes and relied on a sturdy defense to beat Charlevoix 36-14.

Boyne took an early 6-0 lead after Charlevoix failed to advance the ball from deep in their own territory on the first set of downs foilwing the kick-off. A Mark Morgan punt was blocked and the Ramblers pounced on the ball in the endzone for the score.

Another kick-off, another sputtering Charlevoix offense resulted in another punt and excellent field position for Boyne City. In a 42-yard drive that included two converted fourth down plays, Quarterback Todd Newville added six more points on a two-yard run.

With 3:38 left in the first half, Charlevoix finally got a break when the Rayders recovered a fumbled pitchout at the Boyne City 12. With help from an offside call on the Ramblers, the Rayders moved to the seven from which Scott Kelly tossed a scoring pass to Ross Carey. Another pass to Dave Buday added two extra points to narrow the gap to 13-8.

It was the third quarter that spelled relief for the Ramblers as they scored after recovering a fumble at the Charlevoix 13 for an 18-8 lead and scored again, with a two point conversion, after recovering a fumble at the Rayder 37 for a 26-8 margin with over five minutes still remaining in the quarter.

Boyne City iced the game with yet one more third quarter touchdown, a 32-yard pass and two more extra points for a 34-8 lead.

Adding further insult to injury, the Ramblers downed Kelly in his own endzone with 5:31 left in the game for their final of 36.

Charlevoix put their last six points of the season on the board late in the game on a six yard run by Jeff Morgridge.

Boyne City relied on a steady running game which amassed 202 yards to Charlevoix's 138. The gusting winds held passing yardage down for both teams as the Ramblers passed for 28 yards and Charlevoix 30.

The Rayders' offensive thrust was hampered by an injury to Mark Beaudoin who played only a few minutes.

Mike Loper, Dave Buday and Frank Kaufman, each of whom had 15 tackles, played excellent defensive games as did Joel Schnackenberg with a fumble recovery and Jeff Drury with an interception.

The Rayders ended their season at 3-4 in the conference [illegible].

Jeff Morgridge drives for Charlevoix's last touchdown.

Girls retain lead in conference cage standings

The Charlevoix girls basketball team continues to share the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference lead with St. Ignace after posting two victories over strong opponents this week.

Thursday the team posted a 63-43 win over Cheboygan, the only team to defeat St. Ignace, and a 69-57 win over Gaylord.

In Thursday's game Coach [illegible] said the team was in trouble in the third period when Melinda Kloester collected her fourth foul. However, the team went into a stall and out-scored Cheboygan 11-3 to pull themselves out of the jam. Kloester returned to the line-up in the final period and collected 14 of her 24 points.

The game was not without its exciting moments as Cheboygan overcame the Rayders first period 14-8 lead to knot the score 24-24 just before the half. Two quick baskets gave the Rayders a 28-24 margin at halftime. Charlevoix went on to a [illegible] lead at the third period before wrapping up the win.

Teresa Neirot who is usually in double figures was assigned to Cheboygan's top scorer, Liz Driscoll who averages 25 points per game and held her to 10 points for the game. Tina Miggs had 13 points for the game, 12 of them in the first half.

Mel Kerridge added 16 points and Holly Taber 12 and a majority of the rebounds.

The Cheboygan JVs won in the preliminary by a score of 63-30.

In the game at Gaylord, Charlevoix led 27-13; 43-30 and 51-39 by quarters behind the scoring of Kloester with 24 points; Neirot with 19 and Kerridge with 14.

Arlene Guidon had 12 and Kelly Johnston 10 for Gaylord.

The Charlevoix JVs won their game 40-38 on a basket at the buzzer by Connie Bertha.

Charlevoix now has a 9 win-one loss record in league play and 10-2 overall record.

Obituaries

FRANCIS MOONEY

Funeral services for Francis Mooney, 84, who died Oct. 29 at his home in Redford Township, were held Saturday at Holy Cross Church. The Rev. Gabriel Fox, O.F.M., officiated. Interment was in Holy Cross cemetery.

Born at St. James Jan. 24, 1896, Mr. Mooney was married to the former Elizabeth Tetsloff McCafferty in 1936 at St. James. He was a farmer and a barber until moving to Redford Township in 1960.

He is survived by his wife and his sons, Bernard McCafferty and LaDonna Mooney of St. James, Arthur McCafferty and Eugene Mooney of Detroit, Francis McCafferty of Toledo and Donald McCafferty of Chicago.

The Rosary was recited at the family home.

LEROY R. HAERTTER

Funeral services for Leroy (Lee) R. Haertter, 59, who died Oct. 29 at the University Hospital in Ann Arbor, were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Austin Regier of the United Methodist Church officiated. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

Born in Caseyville, Ill., Sept. 29, 1921, Mr. Haertter was married to the former Marion Wright Nov. 21, 1942. They made their home in Clarkston until coming to Charlevoix in 1968. He had been employed as general manager for the J.A. Fredman Construction Co. in Pontiac until moving north when he became a general contractor. He was a veteran of World War II having served in the South Pacific with the U.S. Marine Corps from 1942-46.

He was a member of B.P.O.E. Lodge No. 629 of Petoskey; Cedar Lodge No. 60, F. & A.m., Elf Khurafeh Temple Shrine and the Leslie T. Shapton Post. No. 226, American Legion.

He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Mrs. Michael (Sandra) Bonello and Mrs. Bruce (Susan) Meggison, both of Charlevoix and two grandsons.

The family suggests memorials to Shriners Children's Hospital.

Vet pensions

Veterans, surviving spouses, children and dependent parents who received their 1980 income tax and 1981 anticipated tax questionnaires with their November pension checks are reminded that the questionnaires must be completed and returned to the Veterans Administration before January 1, 1981.

Ronald Geer, Charlevoix County Veterans Counselor, has advised that he will be in the counselor's office on the first floor of the County Building every Tuesday and Friday beginning November 14. The office will be open from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on these days.

The office will be closed Tuesday, November 11 for Veterans Day.

Geer warned that if the forms are not completed and returned by January 1, 1981, the pension checks may be affected.

Manager Tom Urban, above, is shown with the fleet of vehicles now being dispatched by Wise Window Cleaning which has recently been taken over by new ownership. Owner Jim Colwell and Urban are providing a wide range of cleaning services in their new business including both residential and commercial cleaning. Said Urban, who just moved to Charlevoix with his wife and two daughters, "In the short time we've been here we have been very impressed with the community and look forward to doing the best job we can for our customers."

Charlevoix firemen were unusually busy this past weekend logging three fires over the two-day period. The first occurred Saturday at about 10 a.m. when Mrs. Michael Bonar's car caught fire under the hood while it was parked in the parking lot at the Assembly of God Church on M-66. Extensive damage was done to the car. At 8:40 a.m. Sunday firemen responded to a chimney fire at the Stanley Nyquist home in Hayes Township and later Sunday at 6:18 p.m. they controlled a dryer fire at the 220 Park Avenue residence of Ruth Ance in Charlevoix.

Solid waste county plan coming in two years

By PEG [illegible]

If all goes well, two years from this coming February, the Department of Natural Resources will approve a plan for disposal of solid waste (garbage and trash) in Charlevoix County.

That is the timetable set up by the County Planning Commission and the advisory committee which will help in developing the plan.

A Work Program outling the procedural steps in writing the plan was recently approved. It calls for the submission of the Work Program to the DNR by Dec. 1 of this year. After DNR approval, actual preparation of the plan will begin, probably about Feb. 1, [illegible]

Approximately a year later, by Jan. 15, 1982, the plan will be submitted to review agencies for comments. A month after that, by Feb. 15, 1982, the plan and comments from review agencies will go to the County Board of Commissioners.

At about the same time, the Planning Committee will authorize public hearings, with hearings to begin about March, 1982. The plan will then be revised to incorporate comments from the public hearings. This will be followed by approval of the plan by the Planning Committee, by April, 1982, by approval by the County Board, by May, 1982, by approval by 67 percent of local municipalities, by July, 1982, by submission of plan to the DNR, by August, 1982, and finally by DNR approval or disapproval, by Feb., 1983.

If all this sounds complicated, a perusal of the Solid Waste Work Program will confirm that the job is many-sided.

The "goals and objectives" of the plan as outlined are "to promote the recovery and disposal of solid waste in a manner which will protect the public health and environment." The study will also study ways "to utilize to the maximum extent possible, the resources available in the solid waste stream."

Present facilities in the county for getting rid of solid waste will be inventoried by location, size, ownership, type, volume, capacity, and deficiencies. Problems caused by different types of waste will be identified by collection, management, processing, treatment, transportation, and disposal.

County demographics will be studied, including population densities present, near future, and 20-year future. Centers of waste generation will be studied in the same way, as will land development patterns and environmental conditions.

Some of the problems of actual solid waste disposal to be addressed will be separation of materials, possible use of waste for energy, compacting waste materials, collecting waste materials, and transporting waste materials for ultimate disposal.

All through the planning process, the public will be kept informed about plan development and encouraged to attend meetings of the Planning Committee.

The cost of the two-year-plus solid waste planning study is estimated at $15,502. Of this amount, the State of Michigan will pay $12,540 and Charlevoix County will contribute $2,962 in the form of in-kind services from the County Planning Department.

Park erosion control plan enters final stage

By DAVE KNIGHT

For the vast majority of Americans, escape to a quiet lakeshore retreat of sandy beaches, swaying grasses and tall pines means hours of driving and much expense.

Charlevoix residents, however, need only walk a few blocks to Park St. thanks to the foresight of a family one hundred years ago and the hard work in [illegible] local people.

An erosion control project aimed at renovating and preserving Charlevoix's City Park entered its final phase last week culminating a five year drive by the Charlevoix Women's Club for improvement of the park.

A CETA work crew from Boyne Falls is currently installing three sets of rustic steps down to the beach in hopes of channeling pedestrian traffic away from the more fragile natural areas.

Other final touches to the erosion control project to be added this fall include 150 feet of rock riprap (boulders) adjacent to the picnic area, wooden fencing along 1,170 feet of trails, vehicular traffic barriers to protect the dune area, barrier posts along 650 feet of the access road to prevent vehicular damage to vegetation, a three-inch layer of wood chips on 2,500 feet of trails and the planting of trees and beach grass on bare areas of the park.

The total cost of the project, $43,[illegible], will be born equally by the City of Charlevoix and the United States Soil Conservation Service. Under a project agreement signed October 29, the SCS will pay for materials estimated at $21,773 and the city will provide labor and machinery estimated at an equal amount.

By using a CETA work crew, however, the city is making out even better on the deal since the CETA workers are paid federally and not from the city's budget.

Seeds of the renovation project were sown in 1974 when the Charlevoix Women's Club first proposed that something be done about the deterioration of the park caused by uncontrolled foot and vehicular traffic and natural forces of erosion.

Originally conceived as a Bicentennial project for the club, it has since become a five-year labor of love for at least two Women's Club members, Mrs. Julia Baer and Mrs. June Cross.

"Many of us had walked the beach so often," said Mrs. Cross, "We just thought something ought to be done about the erosion, the damage done by motor bikes and people walking off the trails and the garbage that was thrown all around."

As with any civic project involving sizeable cost, the going was not always easy in the early stages.

A December 3, 1975 Courier headline stated "Council Cool on Park Project".

The accompanying story told of the misgivings expressed by some city council members at that time of the project's cost to the city and the strings that would be attached to any federal funds they might receive.

Later that year, in April, the Courier ran a story saying that the project was "standing on thin ice" along with two other federal grants being sought by the city. It read, "There are indications that an application made by the Charlevoix Women's Club through the City of Charlevoix to beautify Park Avenue beach along Lake Michigan will not be approved."

To get the ball rolling, the Women's Club donated $2,000 in 1975 for the first step, a topographical survey of the seventeen acre park which would be necessary for any future planning.

The club's plans for getting some funding through a joint Bicentennial program sponsored by the [illegible] Women's Club and Sears Roebuck and Co. were thwarted when they received a nice certificate for their efforts...but no money.

Eventually the city went along with the idea and submitted a request to the Northwest Resource and Development District for matching funds and technical assistance for the project.

According to Mrs. Cross, some helpful cooperation in Washington on the part of Senator Donald Riegle was instrumental in the obtaining of the federal funding of the project.

She remembers distinctly the day in 1979 when an aide to Riegle, Jacob Deegan, visited Charlevoix to inspect the site and learn more about the project. Mrs. Cross gives much of the credit to Deegan for the eventual inclusion of the erosion control project in the federal Land and Water Conservation Fund.

City Manager James Brinker points out that Charlevoix was especially fortunate to line up federal funding at the time since the budget out of which it came was in the process of being severely cut back.

The 17-acre parkland just south of the pier has been preserved in a basically [illegible] when [illegible] and Ellen Fox donated the parcel to the city with the stipulation that it remain as a park and not be subdivided or developed.

Mrs. Cross explained that the erosion control project is aimed at preserving the natural beauty of the park while [illegible]

She said that some [illegible] such as picnic tables and grills will probably not be put in the park so that it will retain its atmosphere of quiet solitude.

She also said that [illegible] have used the area in the past for various nature studies and have expressed interest in expanding use of the park as an educational facility.

Charlevoix Yesterday

Several area people attend 4-H Awards banquet

Approximately 125 people attended the Annual Fall Awards Banquet of the Charlevoix County 4-H Club on Oct. 27 at Whiting Park.

A potluck dinner preceded the distribution of many awards in the forms of pins and certificates, horse trophies, and blankets and [illegible].

A report showed that more than 180 County children under the age of 19 were enrolled in 30 different project areas during the two 1980 project years which made up calendar year 1980. One hundred and 20 pins were awarded to mark the accomplishments of these children. Each project year is climaxed by an Achievement Day at which the members show the projects that they have raised, made, grown, sewed, or learned about. Spring Achievement is accompanied by Judging and Fall Achievement by Evaluations of the children's efforts.

According to 4-H Program Assistant Leah Green, this year 26 leaders, two of whom received pins for five years of volunteer service and two for 10 years, taught and helped in the projects pursued by members. The volunteer leaders, some of whom come to 4-H as experts in their field and some who learn along with the children, are the backbone of the informal education system of "learning by doing" that is the hallmark of 4-H all across the United States and in many foreign countries, Mrs. Green explains.

Ten young people received recognition for their accomplishments in the 4-H Horse Program, some of whom competed in the State 4-H Horse Show. In addition, horse members chose one of their own, ten-year-old Derek Smith of Boyne City, to receive a sportsmanship trophy.

Twenty-six friends of 4-H were invited to share in the banquet and program and received certificates as a gesture of appreciation for the consideration they had shown over the year to the 4-H Program.

4-H is open to all children and young people under 19 without charge or discrimination. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Green at [illegible].

SMOKE ALARMS

Everyone's talking about something that's sweeping the country and being featured in newspapers, magazines, and on radio and television. To look at one, a person might wonder what the excitement is all about, because it's rather small and unobtrusive. But fire protection and public safety officials are hoping every dwelling will have one or more installed.

It's called a smoke alarm, and it offers a measure of protection out of all proportion to its low cost, efficiency, and ease of installation. Considered the best form of fire warning for a family, a smoke alarm "discovers" a fire in its earliest stages. Smoke will be evident from a fire much sooner than heat, and will trigger the alarm waking sleeping occupants. [illegible]

Two types of alarms are available. One is called the ionization detector and the other the photoelectric detector. Information on which to use and where to install them can be obtained from fire protection groups, fire departments, and consumer organizations. So join the rest of the country in a massive effort to reduce injuries and fatalities from fires. Install smoke detectors in YOUR home!

Bloodmobile falls just short of quota without Mesquite crew

The recent Bloodmobile visit to Charlevoix was one of the most successful in recent years with the event falling only one short of the quota of 150 pints of blood Mrs. David Fowler, spokesman for the Bloodmobile committee reported following the clinic held Tuesday at the United Methodist Church.

"I don't know what the magic formula was... whether it was the weather, the location (which was changed from the American Legion hall to the church), the fact that it was election day and people were out or whether people just saw the need and responded to it. What ever it was, it resulted in a very successful clinic" Mrs. Fowler said.

"Had the men from the U.S.C.G.C. Mesquite been able to donate as they had planned we would have gone over the top. Only six crewmen who missed the ship when it was called out Monday night were able to give" she mentioned.

The officers and crew of the ship had been scheduled to give at the Bloodmobile between 1 and 2 p.m. Tuesday. However, the ship which had been called to the assistance of the tanker Amoco Wisconsin late Monday when it lost its power source off the Leelanau peninsula enroute to Traverse City with a load of gasoline did not return to port until well after 1 p.m. Tuesday. When the men did report they were not accepted because of the long hours they had been without rest.

A total of 167 residents kept appointments including 20 first time donors. However, 18 were deferred for various reasons.

"We are very appreciative of all those who responded to the request for blood, especially O-negative and O-positive types. Apparently people realized the urgent need and were generous in their response" Mrs. Fowler added. She also expressed the gratitude of the committee to all of those who assisted at the Bloodmobile while it was here.

Unless there is an emergency, the next Bloodmobile will be held in the spring.

Several city and township officials in area survive Election Day

By [illegible]

When voters marked their ballots last week, they started with presidential candidates, went through candidates for Congress and the State Legislature, chose members of four state boards of education, voted for county officials, and finally came to the names of those who would serve them at the level closest to home – township or city.

All of the local contests were quiet, in fact there were no contests in many areas, but the results are important. Those elected were:

Bay Township: Carl Skornia, supervisor, over Walter Boese; Margaret E. Smith, clerk; Larry Bergmann, treasurer; Harold Johnecheck and William H. Ohle, trustees.

Boyne Valley Township: Joseph Tymoc, supervisor, over Joseph T. Topolinski; Louise Magee, clerk; Jane DeNise, treasurer; Junior Hunt and Meta Denise over Kathleen Wilson, trustees.

Chandler Township: Dennis Howard, supervisor; Mary Peters, clerk; Phyllis Penfold, treasurer; Meredith Banes and Lila Magee, trustees.

Charlevoix Township: Oscar Stroud, supervisor; Jo-Ann Elzinga, clerk; Rose Bergmann, treasurer; H. Dale Glass and Donald R. Smith, trustees.

Evangeline Township: Bessie Van Dorn, supervisor; H. Anne Thurston, clerk; Betty M. Pinney, treasurer; B. J. Ellis and Elizabeth E. Houser, trustees.

Eveline Township: David Willson, supervisor; Eric Beishlag, clerk; Linda Hilderbrandt, treasurer; Wayne Saunders and John B. Smith, trustees.

Hayes Township: Lee Sneathen, Jr., supervisor; Sandra Somerville, clerk; Shirleen Tripp, treasurer; Leah G. Green and Lloyd Kuebler over Gwen Bascom, trustees.

Hudson Township: Ronald Czinski, supervisor; Merry Webb over Bonnie Sparks, clerk; Joan Wasylewski, treasurer; Doris E. Glazier and John Sevenski, trustees.

Marion Township: Michael Bonar, supervisor; Tracy Curtis, clerk; Doris Johnsoin, treasurer; William L. Dietrich and Ed Mann over Dawson Way, trustees.

Melrose Township: Larry A. Fineout, supervisor; Willis E. Planck, clerk; Gary L. Green, treasurer; Kay V. Bills and Robert H. Peck over Bruce G. Contache, trustees.

Norwood Township: Richard A. Fochtman, supervisor; David W. Parsons, clerk; Ruth Ann Campbell, treasurer; William R. Carey and Nancy Lord, trustees.

Peaine Township: Edward Palmer, supervisor, over write-in Stan Floyd; Joseph B. Martin, clerk; Rose Connaghan, treasurer; Albert Dudzik and Bonnie Wagner, trustees.

St. James Township: John W. Gillespie, supervisor; Vivian Visscher, clerk; James L. Wojan, treasurer; Kevin G. McDonough and Timothy J. McDonough, trustees.

South Arm Township: Joel Evans, supervisor; Helen Cherry, clerk; Anna M. Olstrom, treasurer; Robert E. Cummins and Robert J. Walker, trustees.

Wilson Township: Raykmond W. Guzniczak over Harvey Crozier, supervisor; Linda Nelson over Bob Hermann, clerk; Jo Ann Baker, treasurer; Hilbert O. Hardy and Louis Fall over Gerald Mercier and Jeffrey W. Argetsinger, trustees.

Archie Nemecek was elected mayor of East Jordan, Russell B. Gee was elected alderman of the First Ward, Darwin Morris was elected alderman of the Second Ward over Sanford Sweet, and Calvin Gotts was elected alderman of the Third Ward over Bonnie Thomas.

There were no city contests in Boyne City.

Sam Supernaw was elected mayor of Charlevoix, and Deanne Balch was elected clerk. Raymond V. Wood was elected councilman from the First Ward, James F. Block was elected councilman from the Second Ward over write-in candidate Melvin P. Renaud, and Shirley J. Roloff was elected councilman from the Third Ward.

Some precincts were "renegades"

The final count of ballots cast in Charlevoix County last week was 9,674. Of these, 5,053 went to Ronald Reagan, 3,896 to Jimmy Carter, 516 to John Anderson, and the remainder 115 to the lesser candidates.

So, Charlevoix County went down the line with the state of Michigan. Also, all of the state proposals were defeated in Charlevoix County as they were in the state.

Those were the similarities, but there were some differences in voting patterns throughout the county: Jimmy Carter carried five precincts and tied in one, Proposal B (drinking age) passed in four precincts and tied in one, and Proposal D (Tisch) passed in three precincts and tied in one.

The "renegade" precincts were:

Boyne Valley Township: Carter 232, Reagan 190. Proposal B [illegible].

Chandler Township: Carter 46, Reagan 26. Proposal B 30 to [illegible].

Hudson Township: Carter 114, Reagan 47. Proposal B 93 to 79.

St. James Township: Carter 64, Reagan 64. Proposal B 78 to [illegible].

Wilson Township: Carter 206, Reagan 204. Proposal D 225 to [illegible].

Marion Township: Proposal D 237 to 218.
Bay Township: Proposal D 177 to 152.
Boyne City Dist. I2: Carter 184, Reagan 155.

Melrose Township: Proposition D 243 to 206.

Boyne City Dist. II: Proposal B 229 to 223.

Elsewhere in the county, the voting went like this:

Charlevoix Township: Carter 186, Reagan 318. Prop. A 112-403; B 244-286; C 157-353; D 240-290; E 195-324; G 182-338; H 210-[illegible].

Norwood Township: Carter 86, Reagan 153. Prop. A 80-88; B 86-167; C 67-180; D 131-134; E 72-183; 79-174; H 99-144.

Marion Township: Carter 141, Reagan 283. Prop. A 83-380; B 157-291; C 108-326; D 237-218; E 137-312; G 152-286; H 162-267.

Peaine Township: Carter 37, Reagan 48. Prop. A 35-53; B 38-61; C 30-63; D 41-60; E 48-43; G 31-59; H 37-52.

DSS: "Report all abuse cases"

The Charlevoix County Department of Social Services is reminding area residents that it has the responsibility of receiving and investigating complaints of possible abuse or neglect of adults.

Cases of neglect may occur in an older person's own home, in a licensed adult foster care home, a home for the aged, or a nursing care facility, and may be as minor as an inappropriate meal schedule to as serious as physical abuse.

The Department of Social Services investigates all complaints to determine if they are valid and decides what action should be taken to correct any undesirable situations.

Any person having knowledge of possible abuse or neglect of an adult is urged to contact the Department of Social Services at 547-4471. After hours (5 p.m. to 8 a.m.), and on weekends, the 24-hour hot-call number is 547-[illegible].

Ski and Shore held their annual Pumpkin Contest again this year and announced the winners a week ago Friday, Halloween night. The winners, shown above, included, in the age four to six category, Laura Kelly, 1st, and Kelly Heck, 2nd; in the age seven to nine group, Craig Swanson took 1st and Chrissy Dillon, 2nd; in the age 10 to 12 group, Scott Kelly was 1st and Owen Phillips, 2nd. First place winners received prizes valued at $10 and second place finishers $5. Some of the winning pumpkin designs are shown below

It's that time

Deer season opens this weekend so when you hear the distant thunder at daybreak Saturday, don't wait for it to rain.

This is one of those rare years of convenience for businesses, wives and truant officers. Opening Day, November 15, falls on a Saturday thus fitting nicely into the routine of the civilized world.

Though reports downstate are that resident license sales are up by over 25 percent, local spot checks showed little evidence of any significant increase in the hunting pressure to be expected in the Charlevoix area.

As a rule, not much of the downstate horde finds its way this far north. Those that do, according to a couple of lodging establishments I talked to, usually have their own cabins and bring most of their own vittles so the local economy apparently doesn't benefit to any great extent from deer season.

If the situation is anything like Wisconsin, and I think it is, any deer hunter who really wants meat on the table is foolish to hunt the north country [illegible] gives a definite advantage to the prey. It's in the mid-state counties where smallish woodlots are full of corn-fattened deer and there is enough hunting pressure to keep them moving that the success rates are highest.

Of course, when you hunt those parts, be ready to see an orange cap behind every other tree. To many, that's no fun.

I'll miss my deer camp this year in Northern Wisconsin's Vilas County which is only a holler from the U.P. border. It's a seven-hour drive from here and my wife thinks that's too far to go just to sit in the woods.

Can't argue with that.

Our camp has not been very successful the past few years. About the only effect we have had on the deer population where we hunt is to cause it some temporary discomfort when we chase the buggers into the cedar swamps on Opening Day and wait the rest of the season for them to come out.

Actually, though, DNR reports for this area point to some pretty good hunting conditions for the weekend. Wildlife biologist Bob Strong in Gaylord has proclaimed the local deer population healthy thanks to a couple of mild winters. Forester M.J. Kovera of the Boyne City station says the fire danger in the woods is minimal though some snow cover before Saturday will help. Warden Jim Genc will have five units patrolling his three-county area and is expecting a "good season."

The DNR figures that caught my eye, though, are those that say we can expect 1.8 to 2.9 bucks to be shot in a given square mile of Charlevoix County. Know what that means? Say there are 1.8 bucks in a given square mile and one is shot. That means that some poor hunter, who went out looking for an eight-point buck, will have to come home with a point-eight one [illegible].

Editorial

The big test is still coming

When the last fence is put up and the final grooming done on the trails, the stiffest test will begin for the erosion control project at the city park beach. Much credit should be given to the Women's Club, the City Council and the City Manager for getting the project going and keeping it alive over the past five years. That alone has indeed been a monumental challenge to everyone involved.

Soon new trees will replace some whose roots have been bared by decades of stiff northwesters off the lake, above right; the fragile vegetation of the park, below right, will receive the protection it requires; the gnarled trunks of weathered trees, below left, will provide a unique and welcome respite as well the beach, left, for walks along the surf.

But the real test will be how the public treats this special place when all the improvements are completed. These days, public property is all too frequently the target of reckless abuse such as littering and destruction. We hope that as many Charlevoix residents [illegible] and enjoy it's newfound charm. We also hope that people treat it with pride and respect so that those who come after us can enjoy it, too.

Bob Clock

The body of Robert Tisch's tax-cutting proposal was scarcely cold in its grave last week before state [illegible] began clicking off a list of proposed tax increases for the long-suffering citizens of Michigan.

Defeat of the Tisch proposal by a narrow margin apparently is being viewed in some quarters as an indication that masochistic Michigan residents not only enjoy being taxed, but demand to be taxed.

I, for one, saw the vote as a strong signal that unless our lawmakers begin to practice a modicum of fiscal responsibility, Tisch III will be a shoo-in two years hence.

The vote actually might come much earlier. The sponsor says he intends to ask for a re-vote on Tisch II within 90 days on grounds that the administration illegally used state funds to campaign against the proposal.

The state, as you know, is up against the budgetary wall this fiscal year, thanks to inflation, the lingering [illegible] reduced revenues from various sources. The shortfall is estimated at between [illegible] and $275 million — give or take a few million.

If a private industry found itself in this predicament, a thorough housecleaning would be in order: Dead wood would be pruned from top to bottom; a freeze would be imposed on hiring; fat would be trimmed at every corner.

But then private industry doesn't have (or didn't have until Chrysler went on the dole) a willing electorate standing by ready to fork over money.

At a special meeting of the House Taxation Committee Thursday, the administration released a list of income, business, nuisance and sales tax increases which would help the state raise the needed $275 million.

Douglas Roberts of the state budget office stressed the list included only possible measures and that no decision has been made on what to recommend to the Legislature — which returns to Lansing today (Wednesday) in an effort to find a path through Michigan's fiscal wilderness.

The list includes a cigarette tax hike and a lifting of sales tax exemptions for newspapers, radio, television and cable TV, advertising and movies, and tightening of exemptions on agriculture and industrial processing.

House Taxation Committee Chairman George Montgomery, who was defeated last week, says the new taxes don't have a ghost of a chance in the Legislature. Instead he prefers a 0.6 increase in the state income tax.

Of all of our elected officials in Lansing, Gov. William Milliken is among the few who appears to be reading the Tisch message correctly. He wants to shy away from tax increases — period — and try to make up the mounting deficit through budget cuts.

The governor already has proposed about $770 million in reductions in the state's 1980-81 budget which would eliminate 3,000 jobs, reduce grants to public schools, colleges and universities and trim welfare and Medicaid payments.

In addition he is temporarily closing his Detroit and Upper Peninsula offices and reducing activities of the governor's office at the Capitol.

So far, he is on the right track. But his proposals will be meaningless unless our elected lawmakers also take the Tisch message to heart.

Liberals in both the House and Senate simply do not seem to understand that without prompt and substantial tax relief their budgetary problems will only multiply.

The private sector simply is no longer able to meet the demands of its impetuous and insensitive mistress in Lansing.

Perry Whiting continues "Experience of a Pioneer" with stories of old times

This is the fourth in a series of excerpts from the book, "Perry, Experiences of a Pioneer" by Perry Whiting, who came to Charlevoix County in 1870. In [illegible], he gave the land his father, [illegible], homesteaded, to Charlevoix County for a park. Whiting Park, on the south shore of Lake Charlevoix, is still an integral part of the county's recreation system. The book was written in [illegible].

"By the time I was nine (1877) Charlevoix County had had a wonderful development. Four or five saw mills had been built at different locations around the lake, cutting from ten to fifty thousand feet per day each.

"Thus the settler, when clearing his land, could cut the trees into logs, haul them to the saw mill and get two dollars (in trade) per thousand feet. (That is, sufficient logs to make one thousand feet of lumber, which was about as much as a team could haul.)

"They had imported from the 'outside', as they used to say, horses, cows, oxen, etc., until the country was quite well supplied.

"There was an Indian settlement at Horton's Bay, down and across Pine Lake (Lake Charlevoix) from Harvey Porter's grist mill. In the winter when the ice on Pine Lake had frozen sufficiently thick to hold the weight of their ponies, squaw, papooses and grain on a one-horse sleigh, they would drive over to Advance to get their grain ground. While this was being done, his squaw with a papoose tied to her back and her hands full of baskets she had made, would try to trade them at the store. If not successful, she went around from house to house as far as one or two miles from the mill to trade for money or something the white people had, and that the Indian wanted or could use.

"The settlers hired a good many Indians. They received seventy-five cents per cord for cutting wood, or the same per 1000 feet of logs. I had an Indian boy playmate one winter who taught me quite a little of their language. He gave me a little canoe, just large enough to carry we two. About two months afterwards, it disappeared. I found he had come and taken it home.

"One time that summer I counted from our dooryard, nine ships on Pine Lake loading lumber, cord wood, hemlock, tan bark, cedar fence posts, etc., which were all shipped to Chicago. These were all small sailing vessels, only carrying about three thousand feet of lumber or three hundred cords of wood.

"Many times when we saw a vessel come up the lake, I would milk a pail of milk, get in the skiff (boat), row up, down, or across the lake and trade the milk for a chunk of cornbeef for Mother.

"The Captain soon recognized me and my skiff in the distance and would head up to the breeze and slow down or stop, as they knew I had a pail of fresh milk for them and they wanted that as badly as we wanted their cornbeef. One of the sailors gaved me a dog, but if I did not keep him tied up every time that vessel was in port, he would jump on board and make a trip to Chicago, before I saw him again. The last trip of the vessel in the Fall, I think the sailors hid him on board, for after the vessel sailed, I could not find my dog.

"I used to pack a bushel of tomatoes, row across the lake three miles to Boyne City, which consisted of one store and six or eight houses, and trade the tomatoes for one dollar's worth of groceries.

"I started to work in the lumber woods at eight years old. The men chopped down small cedar trees for fence posts. It was my job to take one horse, lead him around through the woods, hitch him to the cedar tree, then drag it out through the brush and trees, to the road, where the men would put one end of several of them onto the sleigh, then drag them to the lake. There they were cut to seven-foot lengths and piled up ready for the vessel to take them to Chicago.

"The Fall I was nine we moved to Advance, and Mother boarded the help for the new saw mill, which was built and operated by Godfrey Van Platteda. The laborers were mostly green Germans from Germany, and could not speak or understand one word of English. They would put their hand on some article and make me understand that they wanted to know what we called 'that'. I would tell them in English and they would tell me what it was in German. I became quite a mascot to them.

"I soon became the drayman of the village. By this time, there was a beautiful little steamer called 'The Gazelle', that made two trips per day from Charlevoix around Pine Lake, carrying freight and passengers. We had a bay mare that had the heaves, which is the same as asthma in a human being. With this mare hitched to an old one-horse wagon, I met the 'Gazelle' at the wharf, took the freight up to the store, for which I received ten to fifty cents. I was ten years old at this time.

"With this old horse, I plowed the village gardens for fifty cents to one dollar each, and did other odd jobs. So I think I was the only boy in town that always had a little money. This work I speak of was done before and after school, and during vacations. My stepfather being educated, knew the value of an education, and insisted that I go to school, whenever there was school to go to. Consequently, at eleven I was quite proficient in 'reading, writing and arithmetic.'"

Evening of barbershop coming up at East Jordan

The Jordan Valley prospective chapter of the Sweet Adelines will present an evening of barbershop singing on Saturday, November 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the East Jordan High School auditorium.

The concert will feature the Sweet Adeline chorus with members from Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City and other area communities, East Jordan's Four-in-a-Chord Quartet, the Snow Belt Chorus, Charlevoix's Pine River Four quartet and a surprise quartet.

Admission will be $[illegible] for adults, $[illegible] for senior citizens and students or $[illegible] for a family.

Diabetes testing set at Charlevoix Area Hospital

A free diagnostic testing clinic for diabetes — the third leading cause of death in the United States — will be held at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, November 19 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The clinic at Charlevoix Area Hospital is part of Diabetes Detection Week — a national effort to identify people with previously undiagnosed diabetes. The clinic is not for people who already know they are diabetic.

Charlevoix Area Hospital laboratory technologists will draw small blood samples so the glucose (sugar) level may be tested. The blood tests will be sent to the Michigan Chapter of the American Diabetes Association in Detroit, where they will be analyzed. If blood sugar is found to be at diabetic levels, individuals will be notified by the Diabetes Association and urged to see their physicians.

To take full advantage of the free tests people should eat a full meal, rich in carbohydrates, starches and sugar two hours before coming to the hospital.

"The meal should be eaten within a 15 minute period," Ralph Cowin, Chief Laboratory Technologist explained.

Dr. Dennis Joy, Charlevoix Area Hospital Chief of Medical Staff said these tests are particularly important for people who do not see a physician regularly.

He also explained that undetected diabetes is more frequent in people over [illegible] and people with a family history of diabetes.

Undetected diabetes can be dangerous, because diabetes increases the risk of blindness, kidney disease, vascular disease and heart disease, according to the physician.

The diabetes association estimates there are 200,000 persons in Michigan with undetected diabetes.

"A lot of diabetes can be managed through diet," the physician said.

The American Diabetes Association states that insulin dependent diabetes is most frequent in children and young adults. It is characterized by the sudden appearance of constant urination, abnormal thirst, unusual hunger, and rapid loss of weight, irritability, obvious weakness, fatigue and nausea.

Diabetes not requiring treatment with insulin usually occurs after the age of 30, according to the association. Warning signs are drowsiness, itching, a family history of diabetes, blurred vision, excessive weight, tingling, numbness in feet, easy fatigue and skin infections and slow healing.

While uncontrolled diabetes can be dangerous, people with controlled diabetes can lead normal, active and productive lives.

People whose tests are positive for diabetes will be notified within four to six weeks.

Charlevoix Area Hospital urges people to take advantage of this service, November 19 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Girls win two more over Grayling, Rogers City

By [illegible]

In action last week the Charlevoix teams defeated Grayling [illegible] and Rogers City [illegible].

In the first game Teresa Noirot took over the scoring duties, dumping in 18 for the game, as Charlevoix led 13 to 8 at the quarter; 28-14 at halftime and by a 10 point margin, 43-22, going into the final period. Mel Kerridge added 14 points. Liz Raderbaugh of Grayling.

On Friday night, Charlevoix led the visiting Rogers City Cagers 14-12; 24-16 and 36-25 by quarters behind the scoring of Melinda Klooster who had 20 points for the game. Kerridge came through with her consistent 14 points to account for the major part of the Rayder scoring. Claire Smart had 14 points for the visitors.

The Rayder Junior Varsity squad, coached by Henry Wagner, split, defeating Rogers City 41-24 and losing to Grayling by a slim 34-33.

Going into Tuesday's game, Charlevoix has an 11-1 record in league play and a 13-2 overall record for the season.

...And now the showdown

The Charlevoix girls basketball team will be put to their greatest test of the current season Tuesday when they host St. Ignace with whom they are tied for first place in league standings and the only team to defeat the local team earlier in the season.

Charlevoix will close out its season at Boyne City Thursday.

In their first meeting with the Saints, the Rayders team fell victim of their press and later the Saints' stall once they took the lead. Since then the local team has been practicing defense to avoid such a situation happening again.

Coach Tom Feiter, speaking of the forthcoming game, said "I think we're ready. The kids have wanted that game ever since we played at St. Ignace. We're not planning anything special. We're just going out and play our normal game".

GEMWISE
TIGER, TIGER [illegible]
Ask a well educated jeweler about a tiger's eye, and he'll tell you great tales. He won't show you an animal's head mounted on the wall, but he will show you a wildly striped item [illegible].
Tiger's eye is a member of the quartz family. Actually it is a form of asbestos called crocidolite which has been replaced with quartz particles while retaining the silky structure of the original material. Crocidolite is greenish blue while tiger's eye is warm brown and golden yellow. This happens when the iron in the crocidolite oxidizes during its transformation. (Some crocidolite turns to quartz without oxidizing — this is called hawk's eye.)
Tiger's eye is currently very popular in both men's and women's jewelry. It has a bold, rich color softened by a shimmering glow. Its alternating bands of golden yellow and rich brown move with the whims of its wearer, since the phenomenon is caused by the reflection of light off the gemstone's fibrous structure.
Tiger's eye beads and tubes are strung into necklaces, often accompanied by gold beads and pearls. The gem is also a favorite for watch faces, men's rings, cuff links and tie tacs. It's even carved into ornaments and chess pieces.
As American Gem Society jewelers we've received a thorough education in the nature and history of gemstones and precious metals. We're always eager to share our fascination with the public, so feel free to ask us to show you tiger's eye or another gem that strikes your fancy. By the way, if you don't like tigers but are partial to their domestic relative, I'll talk about cat's eye next time.

"A" basketball league starts

The [illegible] League sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department launched its 1980-81 schedule Monday with three games after obtaining a sixth team to round out the league over the weekend Dwight Boss, city recreation director, has announced.

The league will have games on Mondays for the first three weeks and, after Thanksgiving, will be playing on Thursday nights unless the Charlevoix Middle School gymnasium is needed for a school event, Boss said.

Teams in the league and their managers are V.I.P. (Village Inn Pizza), Jim Withers, manager; Great Lakes Energy of Boyne City, Tony Williams; Kadens, Boyne City, Robb Spencer; I.D.C., Ellsworth, Larry Taylor; Townhouse, Leroy Buchanan; B-League All-Stars, Ike Boss.

Monday Nov. 17 will find V.I.P. meeting Townhouse at 7:00 p.m.; B-League All Stars playing I.D.C. at 8:00 p.m. and Great Lakes Energy vs Kaden's at 9:00 p.m.

Eastern Star Chapter No. 72 holds installation of officers

Charlevoix Chapter #72, Order of the Eastern Star held their annual Installation of Officers, Friday, October 24, 1980 at the Masonic Temple.

Retiring Worthy Matron, Nancy Wood, welcomed members and visitors and introduced honored guests: Alice Bellinger, Past Grand Adah; Mildred Hiller, Past Grand Ruth; Opal Hastings, Past Grand Electa; Janada Rehkopf, Grand Committee Member; Grand Representatives; Meguzee District Association officers; and area Chapters Worthy Matrons and Patrons. The retiring officers were introduced and Mrs. Wood was presented with a gift from the 1979-80 officers. Ray Wood, retiring Worthy Patron was presented with a mallet and was given a membership in the Master Club of Mich.

Alice Bellinger presided as the Installing Officer. She was assisted by Grant Hastings, Mark Chapter #275, East Jordan, Installing Marshal; Opal Hastings, Mark Chapter #275, Installing Chaplin; Natalie Crawford, [illegible] Chapter, Mancelona, Installing Organist; and Ginny Woods of Charlevoix as Soloist.

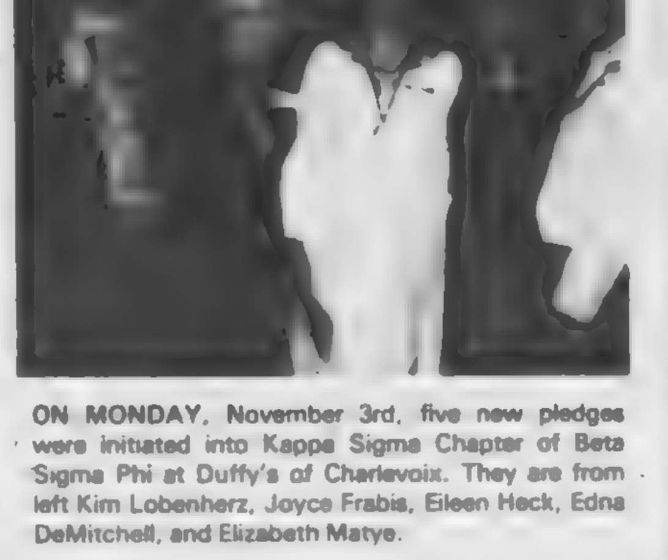
The new Worthy Matron and Patron introduced their respective families and extended greetings to all members and visitors. Mrs. Plum explained her aim for the Chapter is to have better sideline attendance and to encourage new membership in the Order.

She has chosen to honor the station of Adah; the emblem is the Open Bible; The colors are Blue and Yellow; The flowers are the yellow rose and the white daisy; the Motto is "Love never lets you down. Friends are Priceless."

Mrs. Plum was presented with a bouquet of roses and a gavel from her family, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Plum; Mr. and Mrs. David Plum; Mr. and Mrs. Merrit Clark and her husband, Marvin Plum.

After the installation ceremony a social hour was held and refreshments were served in the dining room.

Charlevoix Chapter #72 meets the third Wednesday of each month (except January and February) at 8:00 p.m. at the Masonic Temple. Local and visiting members are encouraged to attend.



ON MONDAY, November 3rd, five new pledges were initiated into Kappa Sigma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi at Duffy's of Charlevoix. They are from left Kim Lobenherz, Joyce Frabis, Eileen Heck, Edna DeMitchell, and Elizabeth Matye.

Church of Nazarene to present award-winning film

"No Longer Alone", winner of three film-industry awards, will be shown November 16, at Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene, US 31 N & Waller Rd. The showing, open to the public free of charge, is scheduled to begin at 7:00 p.m.

The film, a true story, takes a close look at a woman who was searching desperately for love and acceptance, but whose cries went unheard by those who surrounded her.

Originally released by World Wide Pictures in commercial theaters, the film is now one hour in length in preparation for its eventual presentation as a television special.

"No Longer Alone" was filmed in color on location in London, and stars Belinda Carroll, Wilfrid Hyde White, James Fox, Samantha Gates, and Gordon DeVol. Simon Williams, who has one of the leading foles in the BBC production, UPSTAIRS, DOWNSTAIRS, also stars in the film. The title song was performed by the popular recording artist, B.J. Thomas.

Obituaries

PEARL M. PARTRIDGE

Mrs. Pearl M. Partridge, 90, of Cheboygan and formerly of Charlevoix, died Nov. 9 at the Community Memorial Hospital in Cheboygan. She was born May 15, 1890, in Sheboygan, Wisconsin. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Michael Egle. She married Francis C. Partridge in Michigan City, Indiana on January 16, 1912.

Following their marriage she moved to Sleeping Bear Point in Michigan where her husband was keeper of the Coast Guard Station. The following year they moved to Charlevoix where he again was keeper of the Coast Guard Station until his retirement in 1925. For the past nine years she has made her home with her son in Cheboygan.

Survivors include one son, Rev. Francis C. Partridge in Cheboygan, three daughters, Mrs. Peter (Alice) Skeberdis, of Imlay City, Michigan, Mrs. Maurice (Dorothy) Hinckley of Kalamazoo and Mrs. George (Marjorie) Smith of Charlevoix; 11 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren; and one brother, Harvey Egle of Michigan City, Indiana.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Cheboygan at 11 a.m. with Rev. Francis Partridge officiating. Burial will be in Brookside Cemetery.

MOLLIE PREVOST

Funeral services for Mrs. Mollie Prevost, 93, who died Thursday at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility where she had been a patient for six years, were held Monday at the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Carl Gunn, interim pastor, officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born in Prestonburg, Ky., Sept. 22, 1887, the former Mollie Alley was married to Newton Hall at Prestonburg in 1905. She came to Charlevoix 25 years ago and in 1956 was married to William Prevost who preceded her in death in 1963. She was a member of the First Baptist Church.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Bernie (Mae) Ward, Sr., of Charlevoix; two sons, Jack Hall of Thousand Oaks, Calif., and Kenneth Groth of Jeffersonville, Ind.; 10 grandchildren, several great and several great-great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the First Baptist Church.

Boyne City native is published author

A native of Boyne City, Sylvia Rothenberger Miller, is the author of a picture diary of her many trips throughout the world.

Titled "A Pictorial Memkoir", the 120-page book contains 141 full color photographs taken in 100 countries, with emphasis on nature, people, and art.

A former school teacher, Mrs. Miller not only took the photographs, but wrote the titles and did the layout work. When the book was ready for publication, she went to a printing company which specializes in color work. The result is a colorful piece of artwork printed on an enamel acid-free paper with an expected 300-year library storage life.

Mrs. Miller is the daughter of the late Kate and Harry Rothenberger. She graduated from Boyne City Higfh School in 1919 and shortly after that was employed by the Charlevoix County State Bank in Charlevoix for some time. Mrs. Miler now resides in Romeo, but her sister, Arlene Rothenberger, still lives in Boyne City

Further information about "A Pictorial Memoir" may be obtainedd from the Literary News Center book store.

Kidnap-rape suspect captured in Charlevoix County deer camp

A Royal Oak man was apprehended near a hunting trailer in South Arm Township Thursday afternoon by Charlevoix County sheriff's deputies and Petoskey police officers on charges of kidnapping and raping a 17-year old girl last Wednesday.

William Edgar Clark, Jr., 33, is presently lodged in the Emmet County jail facing a preliminary examination [redacted].

Clark is alleged to have abducted the girl at about 8 p.m. Wednesday, November 12, from the K-Mart parking lot in Petoskey. When she returned to her car after shopping, she discovered a flat tire on her car and as she was repairing it, a van pulled up next to her

Police reports state further that a large male subject then got out of the van and forced the girl into the van despite the efforts of at least one onlooker, an unidentified Boyne City woman who reported the struggle to others at the scene. They then followed the van out of the parking lot and trailed it long enough to note the license [redacted].

The girl's parents later contacted the police when she called them from a Petoskey restaurant.

By tracing the license number of the van to a Royal Oak name, police [redacted] hunting trip in Charlevoix County and was staying in a trailer near East [redacted].

Further checks led the investigation to the Charlevoix County jail where the owner of the trailer, Edward Krisco, was being held for failure to appear in court on a traffic charge.

Krisco gave officers directions to the location on Flagg Road in South Arm Township and permission to search the trailer. When several Petoskey officers, Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater, Undersheriff Byron [redacted] Wheat arrived at the location early Thursday afternoon, the suspect was observed standing outside of the trailer [redacted].

When the two subsequently drove off in the van, they were stopped and taken into custody. They reportedly offered no resistance to Petoskey police detective Ken Burke and Sheriff Lasater who made the arrest.

The second individual accompanying the Clark was released after officials questioned him and were satisfied he knew nothing of the Wednesday incident. A large cache of weapons was found in the van including two shotguns, an M-1 carbine, a revolver and several knives

Bond was set Friday by District Court Judge David Fershee at a total of $60,000, or, $20,000 for each of the charges lodged against Clark.

Clark has been officially charged by Emmet County Prosecuting Attorney John Salan with kidnapping, first degree sexual assault and possession of a firearm during the commission of a felony. His preliminary examination is scheduled in District Court this Wednesday afternoon.

City to have 'natural' look this season

The Christmas look in downtown Charlevoix this season will be a coordinated natural one following action Monday night by the City Council to purchase live cedar garlands to wrap around the downtown light poles.

The purchase by the of $500 worth of greenery to decorate the poles was [redacted].

According to representatives of the association attending Monday night's council meeting, the garlands will "give Charlevoix a natural, pretty setting for the holiday season."

The cedar garlands will replace Christmas trees used in the past as downtown decorations by the city. The garlands will be wrapped on light poles south from Dixon and Petoskey to the top of the Bridge St. hill.

Association spokesman said that the downtown merchants have agreed to decorate their individual stores with the cedar garlands and would like the city to likewise coordinate their decorations with the natural theme. Lights on the garlands will be provided [redacted]

Council approval of the request was unanimous.

Increased boating accomodations on city-bordered waters was a topic of [redacted] no less than three separate plans involving marina-type development in the area.

Acting as the Board of Appeals, the council unanimously granted a variance to Craig Tallberg for the construction of a boat storage building on Ferry Avenue.

A site plan was also reviewed and accepted for the construction of a [redacted]

Yellow ribbons to help us remember

Almost all the trees in the Charlevoix area have been barren of any color for weeks. One, however, on the grounds of the Charlevoix V.F.W. Post No. 1153 remains brightly adorned with 52 crocheted yellow ribbons strung by the V.F.W. Auxiliary as reminders of the American hostages held captive in Iran. The ribbons were hand crocheted by Mrs. Russell Dohm and Mrs. James Whitley. They were tied onto the tree two weeks ago as the Auxiliary members participated in a district and state project commemmorating one year of captivity for the hostages. The local Auxiliary post has also sent several letters of encouragement to the [redacted]

Reibel answers charges of professional misconduct

[redacted]

Charges of professional misconduct filed against Charlevoix Attorney Arthur R. Reibel earlier this year were the subject of an eight-hour public hearing at Gaylord Friday.

Reibel, who is also owner of Castle Farms Music Theatre in Charlevoix, is accused by the state Attorney Discipline Board of mishandling $1,200 given to him February 21, 1979 by D. Erin Arvilla of Petoskey to post bond for Ms. Arvilla's brother, Joel, who was in the Leelanau County Jail at the time.

In his testimony before the three-member Attorney Discipline Board 46th Circuit hearing panel, Reibel said that he understood the money given to him by Ms. Arvilla, which totalled $2,600, as consisting of a retainer fee of [redacted]

[redacted] told her in a telephone conversation Tuesday, February 20, 1979 that a $1,200 bond would be required to free Joel [redacted]

Joel Arvilla, formerly of Charlevoix, had been jailed in Leland on three [redacted] an additional $1,400 would be required [redacted] have to be brought to him in cash by the morning of Wednesday, February 21, 1979 before he would accept the case.

Reibel justified his request for cash saying that the Leelanau County magistrate had told him no checks would be accepted as bail bond money.

Attorney Donald Jennings of Manistee, who represented the Attorney Grievance Commission at the hearing, pointed out that if Reibel had considered the $1,200 a portion of his fee from the beginning, Reibel's contention that the money had to be in cash for bail bond purposes did not make sense.

One point not contested by Reibel's attorney Michael Gibbons was that Reibel improperly posted the bond money for Joel Arvilla. Michigan law prohibits attorneys from posting bail [redacted] for their clients. Jennings agreed [redacted] Gibbons that the infraction was minor and that Reibel made the mistake unknowingly.

Jennings did introduce as a major piece of evidence, however, a statement from Reibel sent to Joel Arvilla on March 17, 1979 for $2,500 in legal fees. Reibel had been given the $2,600 by Erin Arvilla almost a month previously.

Jennings pointed to another discrepancy in Reibel's testimony in which he said he called Erin Arvilla Friday, February 23, 1979 to tell her that the bail had been posted, fines and other costs paid and that Joel had been [redacted]

Ms. Arvilla testified, however, that Reibel did not call her and that, in fact, she was not even in the state on that [redacted]

The $2,600 given to Reibel by Erin Arvilla, who is a medical education consultant in Petoskey, was the total of $800 of her own money, $300 from another brother and $1,500 from her mother, Mrs. Lyla Arvilla of Charlevoix.

In March, 1980, Reibel returned $643.32 to Erin Arvilla after receiving a personal opinion from a lawyer investigating the case for the Attorney Discipline Board that he return [redacted] his fees, costs and other documented expenditures.

Buying and Selling Real Estate by Gene Steele

HOME BUYER PSYCHOLOGY

Buyers buy homes by comparison. The average buyer is no slouch. He'll shop a particular neighborhood and home type. He'll rarely buy the first one he visits. It's too big an investment to be nonchalant. He will then compare prices against comparative value. He'll quickly throw out any obviously overpriced homes.

If the buyer really likes one of these overpriced homes, he may make a counter offer at a lower price closer to its true value. But history shows that he'll probably make his offer for one already realistically valued.

A local Realtor can save the home seller much chagrin in the area of comparative pricing. He knows what similar homes are selling for and which homes are not selling due to overpricing. He can help you select the proper selling price - one that will bring the best [illegible] in the shortest time. It makes sense to work with documented facts instead of guesswork. Who knows, you may be planning to sell your home for less than it's worth. Why not drop in and find out. We have the facts!

CHIP Counseling Center opens several offices

The CHIP Counseling Center has announced the opening of its offices in Emmet, Charlevoix and Antrim Counties.

The new offices will administer the three-county Substance Abuse Programs, the Alcohol Highway Safety Programs and serve as referral centers for family and individual counseling.

In Emmet County, counselors Robert O'Brien and Sally Davies staff the office at 436 East Lake Street, Petoskey in the old Penn Dixie Building, across from the former city-county building. The office will be open weekdays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The telephones are 347-[illegible] and 347-[illegible].

Three offices in Charlevoix County serve both Substance Abuse and general mental health counseling.

In Charlevoix, at 723 Park Avenue (by the Charlevoix Area Hospital), phone 547-6551, CHIP Director/Counselor Oren Schroeder, and counselors Bob Sell and Terry Smith are available five days a week.

In Boyne City, Terry Smith holds office hours, Thursdays and Fridays, at the Boyne Valley Medical Clinic, telephone [illegible].

In East Jordan, Bob Sell sees clients Mondays at the East Jordan Family Health Center, phone: 536-2206.

In Antrim County, Counselor Dennis Priess can be seen weekdays in the Mills-Forgrave Building at 210 E. Cayuga, room 203. His phone is [illegible].

CHIP Counseling Center became the administrator of the three-county Substance Abuse Programs this fall.

The counselors in each CHIP office will also assist persons seeking family, individual and general mental health counseling.

The CHIP Center, which began in 1976 in Charlevoix, will continue to offer a range of counseling services and mental health programs to the people of the area. The Substance Abuse Program is viewed by CHIP Director Schroeder as an important addition to CHIP's services.

Fees for all counseling through CHIP are based on a sliding scale, determined between client and counselor, during their first meeting, and based on ability to pay.

New county dept. to assess property

If it's all legal, Charlevoix County will set up a department for the purpose of assessing property for local units of government which cannot handle the job on their own.

The County Board of Commissioners last week voted to add an assessing department to its list of services, but Commissioner John Haggard immediately asked that the Prosecutor determine whether or not such a resolution would take precedence over a resolution passed several months ago which, in effect, took the county out of the assessing business.

Oscar Ward, a member of the Equalization Committee which co-sponsored the resolution, abstained from signing the resolution and instead presented a strong minority opinion in which he charged that the county was violating the constitutional rights of of the people by setting up an assessing department within the framework of county government. He, too, has asked the Prosecutor for a legal opinion.

If the resolution is declared legal, the County will take immediate steps to hire the necessary number of assessors to do the requested work. At the present time, Boyne City and East Jordan, as well as Chandler, St. James, and Peaine Townships are in line for the service.

The resolution stressed that the assessing department would be self-supporting.

Both Commissioners Haggard and Ward voted against the resolution, as did Commissioners Ralph Harmon, Delbert Ingalls, and Clyde Cunningham.

Sails are furled as the November sailors enter the Pine River Channel.

Some would rather sail

Story and Photos
by SARA GAY DAMMAN

Eight intrepid yachtsmen and friends celebrated the 10th Anniversary Alternative-to-the-Opening of Deer Hunting-Season and braved the cold damp day to sail from Harbor Springs to Charlevoix for lunch, Saturday.

The sail down was uneventful, except for occasional light snow squalls, according to the event's founders, David Irish, Harbor Springs and Charlevoix Marina owner, and James Dilworth, general manager of Nubs Nob Ski Resort, near Harbor Springs.

The two skippers began the event 10 years ago, when they realized that most of their employees had taken the day off to go deer hunting.

"We just decided we might as well do our thing, too," Dilworth explained. "So we got a few friends together and sailed to Charlevoix. Each year more people have joined us."

Eight sailboats started from Harbor Springs this year—the greatest number yet—and two (Cliff Biddick's KAGAN and Gary Gleasons RAAMATAZ) went out from Charlevoix to meet them and escort them back. More than 60 sailors were involved.

"It was the finest weather we've had in the 10 years we've been doing this," said Irish, when he got home. "A little snow in the morning and then the sun came out in the afternoon."

Local students fare well on state assessment tests

By FRAN MARTIN

The results of the State Assessment Tests administered to students in the Charlevoix Public Schools earlier this fall have been received and show that Charlevoix students scored well on the tests according to school officials.

The graphs comparing this year's results with past years show an upgrading in all but fourth grade math. In fact, the scores have consistently improved. The drop in the fourth grade math is attributed in a choice of objectives that fourth grade students had not had in their local program.

A spokesman for the school who attended a meeting of counselors and teachers who had administered the tests said that state officials advised them that every school would likely see a five to 10 per cent drop in the grades because of the decision to include objectives the marjority of schools had not finished at the time of the tests. It was explained that the objectives are included later in the fourth grade math program rather than at the start of the school year.

At this time, test scores have been sent home for parents' study with the exception of fourth grade [illegible] which will be made available this week officials said.

The scores are the combined results of classes of students that range from 90 in the fourth grade to 107 in the seventh grade and 132 in the tenth grade. The looking at the grades it is important to remember that the final total represents the capabilities of a group rather than individual students; in other words, the combined average of the total that can included the full range of the intellectual scale.

Each total is broken into four categories, it was explained.

The results of Fourth grade reading tests show that 77.8 per cent of the 90 students mastered three-fourth or more of the objectives while 12.1 per cent mastered one-half to three-fourth of the objectives in math, 73.7 per cent mastered three per cent mastered three-fourth or more of the objectives and 12.1 per cent half to three-fourth of the total with the remainer, or a small percentage falling into other two categories.

Seventh grade: Reading: 86 per cent mastered 3/4th or more 5.6 per cent one-half to 3/4th; Math: 83.2 per cent mastered three-fourth or more; 9.3 per cent mastered one-half to three-fourth.

Tenth grade: Reading: 76.5 per cent mastered three-fourth or more; 17.4 per cent one-half to three fourth of the total: Math: 63.6 per cent mastered three-fourth or more of the objectives and 22.7 per cent, one-half to three-fourth.

The state averages which would allow comparison with those students in the same grades throughout the state will not be available until some time early in 1981. Meanwhile, it is necessary to compare the tests results with those of the same grades in the Charlevoix schools. "In doing this, we find that in all categories, the overall percentages had improved except in the tenth grade math were there was only a slight increase and in fourth grade math where school officials were warned there would be from a five to 10 per cent drop." It was explained.

How Charlevoix students compare with the state averages will be made available when the state assessment averages are made known, school officials said.

Reading programs begin in Chx. schools

"We are zeroing in on the reading programs in both the Charlevoix Middle School and the high school in an effort to follow through on the program initiated in the Elementary School" Nancy Nagurka, reading co-ordinator, said this week.

She went on to explain, however, that there are no finances to employ the instructors needed in this "one to one" situation so is asking for volunteers from the community to assist in the program in the middle and high schools."

"We are especially interested in having parents participate in this program. However, we will accept other volunteers", Mrs. Nagurka said, adding that what this will mean is tutoring for one hour per week.

Anyone interested in this program is asked to call the middle school, 547-4407 and leave their name so she may get in touch with you.

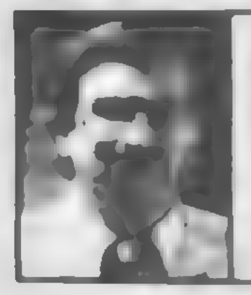
Opinion



Knight on the Town

Some of my favorites

With the Holiday Cookbook included in this week's Courier, I could not resist adding to the collection a few of my own favorite recipes.

If nothing else, they are tried and tested.

TOAST EBONY

Take two slices of bread and put them into a toaster on which the timer does not work. If such an appliance is not available, an oven broiler will work just fine. Turn on the heat and go out to get the paper.

Just about the time you get to reading the sports page, you will notice a pungent smell coming from the kitchen and perhaps a wisp of smoke curling into the living room. This is a foolproof sign that the toast is done.

Handling it extremely gingerly, grab each slice with the thumb and forefinger and throw it to the nearest counter. Caution: much of the character of this recipe is lost if the toast hits the ceiling or the floor.

Scrape to taste, butter and serve.

Note: This recipe should not be used in households equipped with sprinkler systems.

ECO-SALAD

Take one five-gallon pail and find a vacant lot covered with exotic wild plants growing profusely. At our house, the back yard suffices.

Pick the juiciest, tenderest, most edible-looking stems and leaves you can find until the pail is full. Note: In some areas you may need an Environmental Impact Statement.

Take your salad home and spray it thoroughly with a garden hose before bringing it into the kitchen. If the salad is to be served for company, be especially careful to remove all insects.

Serve in wooden bowls with a dressing of apricot-flavored Vitamin E.

Yield: six servings or one compost heap.

THREE-FOOT PANCAKE

This is extremely simple and much fun to watch being made. A real hit for breakfast around the campfire.

All you need is a large griddle at least three feet in diameter and any regular pancake recipe. When mixing the ingredients, add twice as much water as the recipe calls for. Or, half as much flour.

Using a large ladle, scoop the batter onto the griddle. It will hiss and bubble as it races for the edges of the griddle. These pancakes are much more exciting to watch than the slow, lethargic batter of normal pancake recipes. Of course, they are a little harder to flip. A snow shovel works best.

Serves two humans or four raccoons.

CAFE CRUDA

Into the filter of a drip coffee maker spoon: 17 teaspoons of any commercial drip grind coffee. Pour into the water reservoir: three cups water.

Plug in coffee maker.

When perking mode is completed, coffee should be ready. To test for doneness, pour coffee into a cup and insert a tablespoon into the middle. If the spoon stands up by itself without falling to one side of the cup, the coffee is done.

Great recipe for those cold winter mornings when you need an excuse to call in sick. Also great for patching driveway potholes.

DEVILS FOOD SOUP

Another unique variation of a commercially available recipe passed down through generations.

Start with a devils food cake mix and follow the instructions on the box right up until the part where you pop it into the oven.

Stick your index finger into the batter, remove it and lick it.

Taste good?

Go ahead, take another lick. In fact, lick the beater blades. Getting better? Go on...get a spoon.

Nobody's watching! Pour some into a soup bowl and enjoy.

The great thing about this recipe is that as soon as you get sick of the batter, you can put what's left into the oven.

In other words, you can have your cake and heat it, too.

Bob Clock

Shopping with Bob

Late Saturday afternoon, the Clocks found themselves "doing the malls" in a distant city.

However, after 15 minutes of examining yard goods and "designer" jeans, my enthusiasm began to flag.

"Look," I said to Judy. "We haven't done our grocery shopping yet. I think I'll wander down to the Hamady's and pick up a few things."

Judy, who doesn't exactly enjoy having me underfoot while she is examining yard goods and "designer" jeans, was agreeable. We made arrangements to rendezvous at the car sometime that evening.

The supermarket was crowded but I found a shopping cart and proceeded to make my rounds. I have a pretty good idea what things cost in Charlevoix, so I was careful to pick up only what I considered genuine bargains.

Then suddenly I found myself at the mouth of what appeared to be a "wine aisle" — an whole section devoted to the fermented juice of various fruits, principally grape. I abandoned my half-filled cart on the main concourse and threw myself headlong into this splendid heaven where sparkling displays of clarets, burgundys and ports demanded my immediate inspection. I even discovered one species of Mogen-David that is packaged in medicine bottles.

"How appropriate," I mused, since I had just read an article on how a little nectar every day tones up the heart and blood vessels.

I have no idea how long I spent in the wine aisle, but I left without deciding on a single purchase and returned to the spot where I had left my cart.

It was gone. I looked up and down the main aisle. There were lots of carts, but all of them were being pushed by plump housewives or their lackeys.

"Judy and the kids came while was occupied in the wine section," I told myself. "They are teaching me a lesson for being so interested in alcoholic beverages."

I started looking for sneaky children peering at me from around walls of soda cracker boxes and pyramids of canned pineapple. But there wasn't a familiar face in the store.

Finally I decided to canvass the premises and check every cart. I knew I could recognize my own, because I had two big boxes of powdered milk, two giant loaves of french bread laced with [illegible] and two mesh bags of tangerines and McIntosh apples.

The first two aisles produced no results, although I was the recipient of many curious glances as I examined the contents of a dozen carts. Then in the third aisle I spotted a cart standing alone. I raced up to it and discovered it was mine.

But while it was missing someone else had helped me do my shopping. In addition to my original purchases the wire basket contained several unfamiliar items: A half-gallon of orange juice, a bottle of salted sunflower seeds, a package of hardtack and a box of Knorr's beef-barley soup.

I was on the verge of trying to find where all of the unwanted items belonged when I decided I had had enough grocery shopping for one day. I headed directly for the check-out line and paid for the whole cartload, sight unseen.

When we got back to Charlevoix Saturday night, I was the most popular fellow in town. The bottled orange juice — an unexpected delight — disappeared before we went to bed.

The hardtack and sunflower seeds also went over very well and probably will become staples in the Clock diet.

Meanwhile, my original purchases are languishing in the pantry, the refrigerator and the bread box and I am beginning to wonder if we all aren't creatures to habit when it comes to doing our weekly grocery shopping. Of the tens of thousands of items on sale, we normally buy no more than two dozen, and always the same brand.

If you like Knorr's beef-barley soup, we'll expect you for supper tonight.

There's got to be a better way

A single action by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week has set off a controversy that may rage for some time.

It all had to do with a single appointment — an appointment to fill an expiring term on the County Planning Commission.

However, action surrounding the appointment may set precedents for future appointments in two undesirable ways.

First, the appointment was apparently made because the appointee had proper Republican political credentials while the person she was appointed to succeed — and who was willing to continue in the job — had fallen from grace by not going all out in supporting some Republican candidates.

Second, the County Board of Commissioners deferred to the Commissioner from the District in which the retiring Planning Commission member lives because "it is his appointment".

Specifically, Dorothy Custer of Charlevoix Township was appointed to succeed Donald Smith, also of Charlevoix Township, on the recommendation of John Haggard, County Commissioner representing Charlevoix Township.

The appointment had been hanging fire after the Board of Commissioners failed, by a tie vote, to confirm it at their Oct. 14 meeting. At that time, the appointment of Smith was also under consideration and was being supported by the Planning Committee of the Board of Commissioners and other members of the Board.

Through the years, it has been the practice of the Board of Commissioners to re-appointment members to such commissions if the members desire re-appointment and if their service has been satisfactory.

Without reporting all the maneuvering last week, let it be said that the Planning Committee withdrew its recommendation of Smith, saying it had "no recommendation", thus leaving the way open for the appointment of Mrs. Custer.

There is no doubt the new Planning Commission member will do a good job. What is bothersome is that Smith was so unceremoniously dumped and did not even receive a "thank you" for serving his county through many long technical night meetings.

The fact that Smith was recently elected Charlevoix Township trustee on the Republican ticket was never mentioned in the squabble about his party loyalty. He must not only have party loyalty but quite a following of party members.

As for the appointment belonging to the Commissioner representing Charlevoix Township is concerned, no mention was made of the fact that when Smith was appointed to the Planning Commission, it was to succeed David Stolt of Bay Township, who had resigned.

There is no Bay Township resident on the Planning Commission now — nor any from Hayes, Evangeline, Chandler, Hudson, Wilson, Eveline, Marion, or Peaine Townships. If the thinking of last week's appointment prevails, residents of these townships will never be considered for Planning Commission appointments. And this could be true for all appointments to county commissions and boards. It could mean appointments from the same areas over and over again.

Perhaps it is time for the Board of Commissioners to devise a sensible method of making appointments. Petty political bickering and jealous grasping of "my" privileges is not the way.

Enjoyed photo

Dear Editor:

It was a pleasant surprise to get the Oct. 29 Courier and find in it the picture of my fifth grade class in Charlevoix. By this time some of my former classmates—there must be a dozen of them still living there—may have identified the teacher for you. She was Pauline Secord, who was one of the best teachers I had in Charlevoix schools. Her home was in East Jordan, and as I recall this was her last year of teaching in Charlevoix. She went to a downstate city to teach, and later was married.

In the identification of the students, there were a few errors which may have been typographical but which I'd like to correct. On the back of my copy of the picture—which incidentally was taken in the spring of 1930—they are listed as follows, left to right: Back row—Dorothy Howe, Richard "Big" Bergmann, Edward Hansen, Bruce Withers, Annette Livingston, Mildred Withers. Second row: Mary June Nyman, Julia Norton, Clare Gleason, Richard Hull, William "Bud" Gebeau, Dorothy Russell, Gladys Barnhart, John Martin, Beatrice Beardsley, Doris Howe, Frank Beeman, Lee Brower, Emil Krchak. Third row: Alice Meyer, Louis Sharrow, Bernice Cook, June Kibbe, Harold Chew, Miss Secord, Henry Reist, Marguerite Young, Anna Higman, Betty Ross, Edyth O'Neil. Front row: Albert "Tubby" Gill, Lee Smith, Robert Wood, Jeanne Campbell, Franklin Ochs, Lyle Ross, Charles Richardson, Mildred Sharrow, James Hiller, Ormiston Bergeon, Raymond Nowland, John Curtis, Clarence Goldstick, George Bissell, Clifford Mayhew.

We've been gone from Charlevoix over 20 years and many of the new names and faces are unfamiliar to us, so we do enjoy seeing the pictures of years past—do keep on printing them!

Not renegades

To The Editor:

Even the Patriarch of the County Republican Party would not say it.

Bob Clock would be exiled to his Never-Never Land and forced to sit at the end of the bar if now—or when he [illegible] the helm of the Courier—he had printed such a misnomer.

I am referring to the caption—"Some Precincts were "Renegades"" which was used by one of your neophyte reporters (He or She) to outline the "differences" of voter choices for President and selected proposals in the November 4 election. The article appeared in your Nov. 12 issue. A quick reference to any dictionary reveals a "Renegade" to be an apostate (a forsaker of one's party), a traitor or a deserter.

I for one feel that the voters of Charlevoix County—whether they be a Republican or Democrat—have the Constitutional right to cast their ballot as they see fit and not have to be branded a "Renegade" just because some reporter has attempted to make a story about the strange 'voting pattern' in the various precincts.

I have been a Democrat for fifty years—and on very few occasions have I voted a straight ticket. Am I to be condemned as an Aaron Burr and tried for treason because I deserted my party to vote for some very competent Republicans who were seeking office?

Don't you feel that this reporter should delve into his or her vocabulary and come up with some other caption for these voters so as to remove the stigma of being labeled "Renegades"?

[illegible]
Chairman

Reporter Peg Ohle replies:

One of the definitions of "renegade" in Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary is "having rejected tradition — unconventional". This is the way the Courier used the word in describing election results in some areas of the county — those areas in which the electorate did not vote the way the county as a whole voted. It really isn't a stigma — more likely a sign of free thinking.

Liked flowers

To the Editor:

This last summer was made especially colorful because the Charlevoix merchants planted and maintained attractive floral boxes, etc. on the premises of their business.

It was delightful to the eyes of Charlevoixans and tourists alike. They helped make "Charlevoix The Beautiful" come true.

Thanks to each of you from the Charlevoix Area Garden Club members.

Thanks for votes

To The Editor:

Another election has passed and I'm grateful to the many people of the [illegible] District who saw fit to return me to Lansing to work for them in the House of Representatives.

The opportunity to serve has been extremely rewarding. I truly enjoy my many contacts and friends and will continue to meet the day to day challenge of legislative life with enthusiasm.

As with any job, though, some burdens accompany the joys. The negative commentaries and untrue criticism of challengers seemed to permeate the political scene, especially this year, from the Presidency on down through the State House races — even to local campaigns. I found my campaign to be no exception. However, I tend to take such criticism in stride because the strong support I have always received is the real measure and proof of my performance.

Let me take this moment to personally thank you for giving me the opportunity to once again represent you in the Michigan Legislature for the next two years. Your confidence in me is greatly appreciated.

Log jams, river stories spice Whiting's memoirs

This is the fifth in a series of excerpts from the book, "Perry, Experiences of a Pioneer" by Perry Whiting, who came to Charlevoix County in 1870. In 1923, he gave the land his father, Ryerson Whiting, homesteaded to Charlevoix County for a park. Whiting Park on the south shore of Lake Charlevoix, is still an integral part of the county's recreation system. The book was written in 1930.

"In the early spring of the first summer, 1882, I worked for Uncle Melbourn, when I was 14. he took a contract to float everybody's logs down Deer Creek to the Jordan River, then to Porter's Mill at East Jordan. This sounds easy, but I assure you that many times it was very difficult. Deer Creek was comparatively a small river, and in the summer the water was so shallow that the larger logs could not be floated in it. This made it necessary to do this work with a rush, while the snow was melting off in the spring and the water was deep in the river.

"During the previous winter, the logs had been hauled on sleighs and rolled up into great piles along the river bank. As soon as the ice had been broken up in the river (there usually was a foot or more of snow on the ground at that time of the year), all these logs were rolled into the water and started downstream. However, they would not float very far before one of the logs would lodge against the root of an old tree, or on the bank or a curve in the river. Other logs would stop against this one and fill the channel so that the river, for a fourth of a mile upstream, would be full of logs. This was called a 'jam'. Where the water was running swiftly, the pressure of the water and logs against the jam would be so great that the logs at the jam would pile up five or six feet deep, the ends sticking out of the water in every direction. This dam being formed by the jam would raise the level of the river back of the jam from two to six feet, while in front of the jam the water would not be one foot deep. Then it became necessary for the 'river drivers' to break the jam.

"Usually an experienced man could pick out the 'key log'. By prying or rolling this one in the right manner, the whole jam would go rushing, rolling, and tumbling downstream. Breaking these jams was quite dangerous, and many a river driver was drowned or crushed between two logs. Invariably, the drivers would have to go to the center of the jam to break it, and when it gave way and started, it meant life or death to get to shore.

"After one of these jams was broken, the water above receded like the tide of the ocean, and many logs would be left high and dry on the bank, then the drivers had to roll them back into the water, which was very hard work.

"In order to keep the logs moving and avoid jams, two men worked together; that is, each on opposite sides of the river. They walked up and down rolling out logs when they got stuck, to prevent a jam, or breaking a jam, when it formed. Farther up and downstream were other men doing the same, so that in this manner if a contractor employed sufficient men, he could keep the logs moving the whole length of the river.

"The bunch Uncle 'Meb' had were inexperienced. Five men and a boy were not sufficient, so he hired ten more, mostly experienced French-Canadians. They were a tough bunch and brought 'graybacks' with them, and as we all slept in the same bunkhouse, we soon had our quota of livestock. Every Saturday night they would go to town, get a jug of whiskey and celebrate until Sunday night. They insisted on me drinking with them; I did not like the taste of the stuff and would not drink it. I was mascot with them, and they had lots of fun at my expense.

"I never enjoyed a job so much in my life; there was something doing every moment. A jam to break, an argument, a fight, a song, someone in the river, something that made the day seem short and interesting."

Ferry to run until Dec. 15

The Ironton Ferry will remain in operation until Dec. 15 of this year if weather permits.

This decision was reached by the County Board of Commissioners last week after a discussion with members of the Road Commission and Fred Welch, engineer-manager of the Road Commission.

Welch estimated that by the time the ferry shuts down for the year, it will have carried approximately 40,000 cars across the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix. This compares with [illegible].

Mrs. Bernie Aydlott of Royal Oak was the recent winner of the East Jordan Cooperative Nursery School $50 grocery giveaway. The groceries were donated by Shook's Market of Ellsworth. Shown above are some children from the school including Jennifer Whitten who drew the winning ticket and Dick Shook of Shook's Market.

Derek Smith among served cited at 4-H Awards Banquet

Ten year old Derek Smith, a sixth grader from Boyne City was the recipient of a sportsmanship trophy stemming from his participation in the Charlevoix County 4-H horse program in 1980. Derek, son of Rick and Reneta Smith of Wildwood Harbor Road, was a first year member of the Range Riders 4-H Horse Club led by Shirley and Harvey Croser of Deer Lake Quarter Horse Farm. This was presented at the Annual 4-H Fall Awards Banquet attended by 125 people held at Whiting Park on October 27.

Members of the various Charlevoix County horse clubs voted to choose the one among them who they felt had shown the greatest sportsmanship during last summer's series of county 4-H horse shows.

The program following the potluck dinner was highlighted by a series of award presentations including 120 pins given for achievement earned by many of the 160 children enrolled in 30 Charlevoix County 4-H programs over the last calendar year. Several leaders, Beverly Walker of Peninsula Road, East Jordan, Lucy Stolt of Stolt Road, Petoskey, Nancy Brooks of R#2, East Jordan and Bonnie Fox of R#3, East Jordan received pins for 10 and 5 years of volunteer leader service. In addition to the sportsmanship trophy, other trophies, horse blankets and belt buckles were awarded to 10 horse club participants who earned points for the state 4-H Horse Show.

Twenty-six friends of 4-H, individuals and businesses who has shown consideration to Charlevoix County 4-H in 1980, also received certificates of appreciation. Children under age 19 are eligible to participate in the great variety of 4-H programs available without charge or discrimination. Any Charlevoix County resident wishing to inquire about participation in 4-H may call Leah Green, Charlevoix County 4-H program assistant at 582-6232 for information.

County bus system is still in the red; future funds shaky

By [illegible]

The Charlevoix County Transit System, which started operation in mid-July, had 15,130 riders through the end of October.

Director Art Saworski presented a report to the Board of Commissioners last week which also indicated that expenses to that date (not including salaries of CETa employees and Director Saworski) amounted to $39,[illegible].

These expenses average out to $2.61 per rider. Fares collected amounted to $6,792, or an average of 44.8 cents per rider. The net cost of transporting each rider, therefore was $2.16, or an operating loss of $32,759 for the three and a half months.

The Charlevoix County Public Transit System is entirely funded from state money derived from gasoline sales taxes and license plate fees. The contract entered into by Charlevoix County calls for this 100 percent funding to continue two years, dropping to 75 percent the third and final year.

The budget set up by the state for Charlevoix County provides for payment of funds amounting to a maximum of $197,540 for the first year of operation, $209,050 for the second year of operation, and $213,600 for the third year of operation. This is in addition to capital and set-up expenses of $205,500.

Commissioner Cass Toton asked Saworski last week if he had heard that the funding might be cut next year because of the state's poor financial condition, but Saworski said he had not. Toton said the word was that Emmet County had decided not to apply for Transit System funds because of that possibility.

Commissioner John Haggard requested that a "complete report of operating expenses" be presented after the first of the year, so the Board of Commissioners will have full financial information in case state funds are cut.

The Transit System is operated by the County Commission on Aging, which also provides other services to senior citizens, including low cost meals. Senior citizens accounted for 4,875 of total rides on the Transit System buses, according to the recent report. In addition, there were 4,564 handicapped riders, most of whom were clients of the Bergmann Center in Charlevoix.

The Commission on Aging fell heir to the Transit System after the two-bus senior citizen and handicapped bus system which it had operated ran out of funds.

While figures show that over half of the Transit System's customers are senior citizens and handicapped persons, the thrust of promotion at the present time is toward getting regular daily commuters to and from their jobs, Saworski says.

To date, no study has been made to determine how many separate individuals are using the bus system. A person who rides back and forth to work each day could account for 20 or more rides a month.

The Transit System has six buses in operation most of the time. Two are headquartered in Charlevoix, two in East Jordan, and two in Boyne City. There is also a "spare" available in case of breakdown. Although the System started out operating six days a week, Saturday service has since been discontinued because of little demand.

Headquarters of the Transit System are in Boyne City. Buses serve the entire County and [illegible]

Kraft named transit system supervisor

George Kraft, who has been working as a bus driver for the Charlevoix Transit System, has been made supervisor of daily operations of the Transit System.

Kraft will continue as a bus driver but will have the added duties of supervising other drivers and dispatchers, preparing log sheets and keeping records pertaining to operations, and in general seeing to the proper operation of the System.

Kraft, who has been working under the CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) program, now becomes a regular employee of the County.

docking complex on Ferry Avenue at Eaton Avenue. The proposed Northwest Marina Yacht Basin, consisting of a corrugated steel breakwall and cement docks, will provide a total of 66 slips.

The council stipulated in its approval of the plan that the base of Eaton Avenue would remain a city-owned right-of-way. They also received assurance from the developer that a sewage lift station would be included in the project.

A site plan for the renovation and expansion of dock space at the Le Harve Condominium on Belvedere Avenue was tabled until questions surrounding the ownership of Alice St. and an outstanding Le Harve account on city books can be answered.

In other action, the council:

-Authorized the sale of $460,000 worth of water improvement bonds to build a new water tower.

-Set a December 15 hearing on new ordinances regulating bicycles on Bridge St. and prohibiting diving off bridges.

GEMWISE

John Reusch

IN THE TWINKLING OF A CAT'S EYE

A number of gemstones exhibit an interesting effect that looks like the eye of a cat -- a good one even appears to open and close -- and it's aptly named [illegible].

The cat's eye phenomenon, also called chatoyancy after the French chat meaning cat, is caused by the reflection of light off minute, parallel tubes which run through the stone. The finer the tubes, the sharper the eye. These fine, oriented tubes are also called silk. If you ever studied a spool of silk thread under a bright light, you'd see a similar reflection running perpendicular to the direction of the threads. In order to exhibit the cat's eye effect, a gem with the proper internal structure must be cut in a dome shape, called a cabochon.

The finest cat's eye occurs in the gem mineral chrysoberyl. A honey yellow color is the most highly prized, with greens, browns and other yellows following. [illegible] the finest cat's eye. A fine gem should be as transparent as possible considering the silk within the stone. The eye should also be straight and sharp.

The cat's eye phenomenon also occurs in quartz, tourmaline, diopside and apatite -- in that order of importance.

This is just one of the wonders of the gem world. There are many more. Reusch Jewelry is a member of the American Gem Society. AGS jewelers are required to study the science of gemology and keep up with the latest developments so they can keep the public informed. We're at your service.

With 1,321 career points, Melinda Klooster sets school record

by [illegible]

When she tossed in her 21st point against Boyne City Friday night, Melinda Klooster ended the 1980 regular season with a career total of 1,321 points, a school record to which no one has even come close.

In fact, according to Coach Toni Felter, no Charlevoix girls basketball player even broke 1,000 before Melinda whose career total would probably exceed 2,000 today had she not missed nine games last year due to injury.

The 5'11" senior who anchored a poised, tightly-knit varsity squad this year was one reason the Rayder girls' cagers finished on top of the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference with a 13-1 record.

Their title did not come, however, without a thorough scare last week from the St. Ignace Saints who dueled Charlevoix evenly through regular time and one overtime before bowing in the second overtime half.

"St. Ignace has always given us tough games," said Melinda, "I have played against these same girls for four years now. Sandy Halberg and Barb Pemble are probably two of the best players we have had to face."

Watching Klooster battle under the boards against St. Ignace, one would hardly guess that a year ago her athletic career was seriously threatened by a knee injury five games into the season.

It was in a game against Rogers City last year that Melinda went high for a rebound and was undercut by an oposing player. The lateral force against her right leg severely hyperextended the knee tearing ligaments and tendons in the process.

After wearing a removable cast for weeks following the injury, Melinda still felt considerable pain in her right knee and traveled to Lansing for some expert advise. In the field of sports medicine in Michigan, there is no more respected expert than Dr. Lannie Johnson in Lansing who lists several Detroit pros among his clients.

Said Melinda, "Dr. Johnson took one look at the knee and said I should have surgery right away. Before then, I didn't even know that the tendons and ligaments had been damaged."

Following surgery last winter, Klooster worked out on the knee extensively and today wears a heavy brace. "It's still not quite 100 percent and sometimes it gives me trouble. But I don't think it has affected my playing too much this year," she says.

Melinda Klooster's interest in basketball dates back to her years in Middle School where she was first exposed to

An intense Coach Felter directs her team from the bench.

Girls win it all!

By FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Girls Basketball team, under the tutelage of Toni Felter, wrapped up the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference title last week with victories over St. Ignace and Boyne City.

It marked the team's first championship since 1975 and the third since the sport was introduced in 1970. The Rayders also shared the title with St. Ignace in 1978.

"It was a fantastic season. The kids played as a team; the comradarie on the floor was excellent and it paid off for them when the going got rough. They learned that this is what they had to do to win and they did it. They worked hard and it brought them the title" Coach Felter said of the title and the season.

The game with St. Ignace here Tuesday was the title game. The teams were tied with 12 win-one loss records....Charlevoix's had been to St. Ignace who, in turn, had lost to Cheboygan.

However, the victory over the Saints was not an easy one. Coach Felter had said before the game that St. Ignace was a team you didn't dare let take an early lead so the Rayders, with this in mind, jumped to a 14-8 first period advantage, increased it to 24-17 at halftime only to have the Saints trim the lead to three points, 30-27 going into the final period. As time ran out, a shot by St. Ignace put the Saints ahead 34-32 but a field goal by Theresa Noirot knotted the score 34-34 to send the game into overtime.

In the first overtime Sandy Halberg put the visitors ahead 36-34 before Mel Kerridge connected to tie the score 36-36 to send the game into a second overtime.

In the second overtime, [illegible] Klooster scored a field goal followed by a second by Noirot. As the Saints attempted to gain possession of the ball which was being handled by Noirot, she was fouled repeatedly and capitalized on the trips to the charity line by connecting on four of six attempts to wrap up the game and share of the title.

Halberg had 12 points for St. Ignace.

The game had given Klooster 10 points to bring her career total to 1300 points.

The team still had to meet Boyne City on Thursday. Though Charlevoix had defeated the Ramblers once, this is and old rivalry and anything can happen in this game. "We knew we couldn't count the game as won until the final buzzer" Coach Felter said.

However, the Rayders jumped to a 14-8 lead and were never headed as they led [illegible] at halftime and 47-28 going into the final period.

The win gave Charlevoix the title and a record of 13 wins and one loss in League play and 14-2 for the season.

Klooster had a total of 21 points to bring her total to 1321 and Lisa Pischner came through with 14 points for the game.

Becky Amesbury had 15 and Lori Paquette 11 for Boyne City.

The Rayders will now move into the district tournament against Onaway at Onaway Thursday night.

In the preliminary games, Charlevoix won over the St. Ignace JV squad 30-28 and lost to Boyne City 44-36 in a triple overtime game.

Ski Club sets swap meet

The Charlevoix Ski Club will conduct its annual ski swap, the largest in the north, on Sunday according to Mike Bonello, [illegible].

The event will be held at the high school cafeteria from 1 until 5 p.m. Sunday.

Members of the ski team and the coaching staff will be present to handle the sales, Bonello said.

Bonello went on to say that the swap will not be limited to skis but will include all types of winter sports equipment and clothing. The merchandise will also include new merchandise from manufacturers and shops as well as used clothing and equipment.

The swap is open to everyone who has something to swap Bonello said. All items will be sold on a consignment basis with the seller pricing his own items and paying 20 per cent of the price as a donation to the ski team to underwrite the cost of practice sessions at some of the larger hills in the area.

Equipment/clothing may be brought to the cafeteria on Friday until 5 p.m. and on Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The swap is one way of keep good used equipment/clothing including boots in circulation Bonello said, adding that it is also a good way to outfit a [illegible].

Anyone unable to transport their merchandise to the swap may call 547-5124 or 547-6491 for assistance.

Reibel faces misconduct charges investigating attorney from Fremont, testified that when he talked with Reibel on the telephone last winter, Reibel had indicated that he did not consider the $1,200 part of his fee.

Said Springstead at Friday's hearing, "I'd say it's a misappropriation of her (Ms. Arvilla's) money."

Gibbons argued for the defense that the sole basis of misconduct charges against Reibel was Erin Arvilla's dissatisfaction with the amount of money she got back and that by pursuing action before the Attorney Discipline Board she thought she could get more money.

Gibbons also said, "Mr. Reibel is merely getting a transfer of Ms. Arvilla's hostilities toward her brother Joel. This whole thing should have been settled when Mr. Reibel paid her the $563.32 earlier this year."

Two motions to dismiss the case made by Gibbons in the course of Friday's hearing were denied by the panel. Panel members included Attorneys Michael H. Dettmer and John M. Senger of Traverse City and James C. Cotant of Gaylord.

In his summary statements, Jennings hammered at the lack of "internal consistency" in Reibel's testimony saying that his versions of conversations with Erin Arvilla and her brother were not consistent with their versions which were related separately on the witness stand.

Jennings accused Reibel of "wrongness compounded by perjury."

He also produced a letter to Reibel from Joel Arvilla dated January 23, 1979 which, Jennings claimed, indicated that Joel had already paid Reibel some money previous to that time.

Reibel, who said he received the letter some months after it was mailed because he was out of state, testified that Joel had mistakenly dated the letter January 23 and that it actually had been written February 23, 1979 and that the money referred to was the $1,200 paid by Erin Arvilla.

Jennings further said that the defense position that the case had been mishandled by the Attorney Grievance Commission was immaterial.

"Nothing other than what happened that week of February 21 has anything to do with whether Mr. Reibel is guilty of professional misconduct."

The hearing panel has thirty days to issue a decision though panel chairman James Cotant said that a ruling would most likely be announced much sooner.

HIRING MILLIONS OF PEOPLE TO WORK ON UNITED WAY WOULD NOT BE EFFICIENT.

GETTING THEM TO WORK FOR NOTHING IS.

The big reason why United Way can do so much for so many is that a lot of big hearted Americans contribute countless millions of hours every year. Free of charge. Volunteers do everything from collecting money to deciding how it will be used in their local communities. So administrative costs are low, and more can be spent on needed services.

And that's how United Way works. And why.

Klooster hopes team won't need tickets to final organized girls' competition. From that point on she has received much help and encouragement from her father, Robert Klooster and [illegible]

Even her mother, Eloise, has been known to take a few shots out on the driveway court with Melinda.

Other than her high school coach, Toni Felter, though, Melinda can think of no one who has helped her more than her teamates. In order to score points, Klooster acknowledges, one must have the ball and she points to the Rayders' skilled backcourt duo of Mel Kerridge and Teresa Noirot as primarily responsible for her impressive point total

"Mel and Teresa deserve all the credit for my success. They gave me the points," said Melinda

At this point, Melinda's plans for next year are in the formative stage. She has not ruled out playing basketball on the college level but is concerned that her knee may not be able to withstand the rougher competition.

According to Coach Felter, the skill is there. Says Felter, "It is a real pleasure to watch someone like Melinda play because she knows the game so well."

For now, the memories of a satisfying high school career are enough to savor. Actually those memories are not quite over as Melinda and the girls' team head to Onaway this week for the first tournament games.

The team is planning on going to the state finals. In fact, they have already bought their tickets and will go as a group. Of course, they would love to not have to use those tickets.

Thanksgiving

...a time to reaffirm our faith in freedom and our determination to preserve and cherish it. A Holiday to enjoy the warm traditions of our Heritage ... a day and opportunity that our great land holds for us. Also, to express our Thanks for the loyalty and confidence you have placed in us as a friend and patron. Truly ... we have much to be thankful for, mostly the chance to serve you. May your Thanksgiving be joyful and festive.

Holiday Cookbook

Supplement to Charlevoix Courier
November 19, 1980

[illegible]

[illegible]

On the following pages we offer to our readers one of the most extensive collections of locally favorite dessert recipes ever compiled in this area.

Some of the best cooks in the Charlevoix County area and points beyond have contributed their expertise to the Holiday Cookbook making it something you'll want to keep in your recipe files for many holiday seasons to come.

The key to any project such as the Holiday Cookbook is participation and there was no lack of that in this case. In less than a month, over 160 recipes were received in the Courier holiday recipe contest. They came from as far north as Alanson and as far south as Southfield.

The five categories offered were breads, cookies, pies, candies and special desserts. Five judges including a restaurant chef and home economics experts screened all the entries to come up with three finalists in each category.

Those fifteen individuals were then each contacted and asked to prepare their recipe for a final judging session at the Courier office last week. When the judges had observed and tasted all the dishes, they came up with a winner in each category, to whom went a $10 cash prize, and the Grand Prize winner of $100 in groceries courtesy of Edwards IGA in Charlevoix and Boyne City.

Mrs. Gayle Popa's Orange Butter Coffee Cake, the winner in the Breads category and the Grand Prize winner, was a near-consensus choice by the judging panel.

Mrs. Popa and the other finalists are shown on the following pages with their prize entries. The attractive corn-shuck wreath arrangement in the photos was generously lent for the occasion by Country Place-Wickerville Station in Charlevoix's Market Mall.

The Courier extends its gratitude to its panel of judges, all of whom were last reported dieting, to the many area cooks who participated in the contest and to the advertisers who made this Holiday Cookbook possible.

Orange Butter Coffee Cake

1 pkg. dry yeast
¼ C. warm water
1 C. sugar
1 t. salt
2 eggs
½ C. sour cream
½ C. melted butter
2¾-3 C. flour
1 C. coconut, toasted
2 T. grated orange rind

Soften yeast in warm water in mixing bowl. Stir in ¼ C. sugar, salt, eggs, sour cream and 6 T. butter. Gradually add flour to form a stiff dough, beating well after each addition. Cover; let rise in warm place until light and doubled, about 2 hours. Combine ¾ C. sugar, ¾ C. coconut and orange rind. Knead dough on well-floured surface about 15 times. Roll out half of dough to a 12" circle. Brush with 1 T. melted butter. Sprinkle with half of sugar-coconut mixture. Cut into 12 wedges. Roll up, starting with wide end and rolling to point. Repeat with remaining dough. Place rolls, point-side down, in 3 rows in a well greased 13x9" pan. Cover; let rise in warm place until light and doubled, about 1 hour. Bake at 350° for 25-30 minutes until golden brown. Leave in pan. Pour glaze over hot coffee cake. Sprinkle with ¼ c. coconut.

Orange glaze.
Combine in saucepan:
¾ C. sugar
½ C. sour cream
2 T. orange juice
¼ C. butter
Boil 3 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Other finalists in the Breads category were...

JOAN KRISER
INDIAN RIVER

LEMON BREAD

1 C. white sugar
½ C. vegetable shortening
Grated rind of two lemons
2 eggs, slightly beaten
1 t. baking powder
1½ C. flour
½ C. milk
¼ C. fresh lemon juice
1 t. vanilla

Cream sugar and shortening. Add lemon rind and eggs; blend well. Add sifted dry ingredients alternately with milk and lemon juice, add vanilla and blend well. Bake at 350° for one hour. While loaf is hot, spoon mixture of ¼ C white sugar and juice of 1 lemon over top. Freezes well. 15-20 servings.

MRS. JOHN TJAPKES
CHARLEVOIX

HOLIDAY FRUIT BREAD

1 lb. seedless raisins
2¾ C. water
1 lb. dates, chopped
4 T. soft shortening
2 C. sugar
2 eggs, beaten
16 maraschino cherries, quartered (may be ½ red, ½ green, for holiday effect)
5¼ C. flour
4 t. baking soda
1 t. salt
1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple, drained
1 t. vanilla
1 C. nutmeats, coarsely chopped

Boil raisins with water 15 minutes. Drain, saving the liquid, and let cool. Sift flour with soda and salt. Combine raisins, dates and nuts, and mix with 1 cup of the flour mixture. Cream shortening with sugar, add eggs, vanilla and crushed pineapple. Add remaining flour mixture alternately with liquid from raisins. Fold in cherries last. Fill No. 2 cans, well greased, one-half to two-thirds full (makes 10 or 11 cans) and bake at 350° for 1 hr., or until toothpick inserted comes out clean.

This moist, delicious bread can be stored for weeks – without freezing. Wrap each loaf in foil and place in refrigerator. Your holiday callers will be delighted with a slice of fruit bread and a Christmas cooky, along with a cup of coffee or hot chocolate.

BREADS

MRS. ROGER (BRENDA) WARNER
[illegible]
BEER BREAD

3 C. self-rising flour
3 T. sugar
1 Can (12 oz.) warm beer

Stir all together till ale is moistened. Put into 9x5x3 greased bread pan. Bake at 350° 50-60 minutes. Knife inserted comes out clean.

DAWN SPEIGL
CHARLEVOIX
100 WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

2 Cakes compressed yeast or 2 packages granular yeast
½ C. lukewarm water
1 T. sugar
2 C. milk scalded
1 T. salt
½ C. brown sugar
6 C. unsifted whole wheat flour
2 T. melted butter

Soften yeast in lukewarm water with 1 tablespoon sugar. Scald milk, add salt and the ½ cup brown sugar and cool to lukewarm in a 4 quart mixing bowl. Stir in softened yeast and half the flour, until thoroughly combined. Then stir in the melted butter, add the remaining flour and stir until thoroughly mixed. Dough will be very soft and sticky, but do not add more flour, for the softer the dough the more tender, light and moist the bread will be. Cover bowl and set in warm place (about 85°) to rise 1 hour.

Leaving dough in bowl, knead it for 5 minutes until smooth and somewhat stiffened; do not use additional flour. Again cover and let rise for ½ hour. Divide dough into 2 portions and place in buttered pans 9x5x3 inches, pressing into corners and smoothing surface with buttered hands; dough will probably be too soft to shape into loaves before placing in pans. Cover pans with cloth and let loaves rise for ½ hour. Then bake in a moderately hot oven (400°F) for 10 minutes; reduce heat to moderate (350°F) and continue baking 50 minutes longer. Turn out immediately onto cake coolers and cool before slicing.

Makes two (2) loaves.

MRS. JANICE TUBMAN
SAULT STE. MARIE
CARAMEL BUNS

Thaw 2 loaves of frozen bread. Break one up in bottom of greased 9x13 pan. Melt:
1 stick oleo (or butter)
1 C. brown sugar
1 Large-regular (not instant) vanilla pudding
2 T milk
½ t. cinnamon

Mix together these ingredients and pour on broken up bread. Then break up second loaf on top of mixture. Let rise 2 hours only. Bake at 350° for 30 minutes. Let set 5 minutes. Then dump upside down.

LUCILE RAMBOW
LEVERING
REFRIGERATOR ROLLS

2 Packages dry yeast
½ C. warm water (110 to 115°)

Sprinkle yeast over warm water, stir until dissolved. Set aside.

1½ C. warm water (temp. as above)
½ C. sugar
1 t. salt

Mix together and add the dissolved yeast.

1 Egg
½ C. soft shortening

Add to above mixture, mix well.

6½ to 7 C. sifted white flour.

Add flour 1 cup at a time, using electric beater at first, and beating well. When dough becomes too stiff for beater, use a spoon. Then finish with your hands until all the dough is mixed in. Gather into a well rounded ball, place in large bowl. Grease the top of the dough well, cover with aluminum foil, over which put a damp towel. Place in refrigerator overnight. In the morning, punch dough down, shape into desired rolls, and let rise, covered until light. Bake in med oven (400) for about 15 min. Yield: 3½ doz. rolls.

MRS. WALTER THOMPSON
PELLSTON
APPLESAUCE
NUT BREAD

1 C. sugar
1 C. applesauce
⅓ C. cooking oil
2 eggs
3 T. milk
2 C. flour
1 t. soda
½ t. baking powder
½ t. cinnamon
¼ t. salt
¼ t. nutmeg
¾ C. chopped pecans
Topping
¼ C. brown sugar
½ t. cinnamon
¼ C. chopped pecans

Combine sugar, applesauce, oil, eggs and milk. Sift together the flour, soda, baking powder, cinnamon and nutmeg. Add to the applesauce mixture and beat well. Stir the ½ cup of pecans into mixture. Turn into a 9"x5"x3" greased pan. Combine topping ingredients and sprinkle evenly over batter. Bake at 350 1 hour. To prevent excessive browning cover loosely with foil the last thirty minutes of baking. Cool ten minutes. Remove from pan and cool completely on rack.

JEAN GIFFIN (MRS. R.E.)
CHARLEVOIX
POINSETTIA BREAD

Milk, ½ C. or half evaporated milk and half water
½ C. sugar
1 t. salt
½ C. butter or oleo
½ C warm water
1 pkg. (active dry yeast or 1 compressed cake
3 well beaten eggs
2 t. grated lemon rind
5-5½ C. all-purpose flour
¾ C. fruit-flavored gumdrops, cut in small pieces
½ C. chopped walnuts
Icing.
2 T. milk
½ t. vanilla
1½ C. sifted confectioner's sugar
Red sugar and additional yellow gumdrops.

Scald milk; stir in sugar, salt and butter, cool to lukewarm.

Pour water into large bowl (cool to lukewarm for compressed yeast); sprinkle or crumble in yeast and stir to dissolve. Add milk mixture, eggs and lemon rind; mix well. Add 2½ cups flour and beat until smooth. Add remaining flour to make soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead until smooth and elastic. Place in greased bowl; brush top with melted butter. Cover and let rise in warm place until double in bulk, about 1½ hours. Punch down and turn out on lightly floured board; knead in gumdrops and nuts. Divide dough and put ½ back in bowl. Keep covered while shaping first half. To shape a poinsettia, cut off piece of dough about size of small egg; round into ball and place in center of greased baking sheet; flatten with fingertips. Form remainder of dough into roll 12 inches long and cut into 12 equal pieces. Roll each piece into strip 4 inches long and set on cookie sheet radiating out from center. Use fingertips to flatten and shape each to look like a petal. Cover and let rise in warm place until double in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake in moderate oven (375°) for 15 to 20 minutes. Frost while warm with icing made by adding milk and vanilla to sifted confectioner's sugar; beat until smooth. Sprinkle with red sugar (To make your own, shake granulated sugar in a jar with a few drops red food coloring.) Decorate centers with small yellow gumdrops.

SODA MUFFINS

4 C. all purpose flour
1 t. salt
3 t. double acting baking powder
1 t. baking soda
¼ t. ground nutmeg
4 T. butter or margarine
1 C. seedless raisins
½ C. chopped pecans (optional)
1 egg
2 C. buttermilk

Combine all dry ingredients except raisins. Thoroughly cut butter into dry ingredients. Mix in raisins until well coated. Beat egg slightly and combine with buttermilk. Stir into dry ingredients to form a thoroughly moistened but very thick batter. Fill lightly greased muffin cups about ⅔ full. (do not use paper liners). Bake in preheated oven (on center shelf) at 350 degree F. for 35-40 minutes or until uniformly golden. Makes 18 2-¾" muffins.

CARDAMON
CHRISTMAS RINGS

1½ C. milk
1 C. sugar
1 t. salt
½ t. cardamom
2 t. grated lemon rind
2 pkg. active dry yeast
½ C. warm water
8 C. sifted all-purpose flour
1 C. butter or margarine
2 eggs or 4 egg yolks
1 C. seedless golden raisins
½ C. blanched almonds, chopped

Scald milk. Stir in sugar, salt, cardamon and lemon rind. Cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in warm water. Sift flour and measure into a large mixing bowl. Add butter and blend in with pastry blender or fork until mixture resembles fine crumbs. Add yeast to milk. Add eggs. Add this mixture to flour-butter mixture. Mix well and beat until dough does not stick to the sides of bowl. Cover with a towel and let rise in warm place until double in size, about 1 hour. Add raisins and almonds. Knead thoroughly until dough is no longer sticky.

To Make Rings:
Divide dough into two equal portions. Shape each as follows: Divide into thirds and roll each into a slim rope at least 24" long. Place 3 ropes at one side of a cookie sheet and loosely braid into a circle tucking ends under securely. Cover with towel and let rise in warm place until double in size, about 40 minutes. Glaze, to apply before baking: Beat 1 egg yolk with 2 tablespoons water. Brush over surface of braids. Bake in moderate 350° oven 20 minutes or until done.

Mix together in glass bowl with wooden spoon. Bake 50 minutes in 375 degree oven. Raisins or nuts may be added.

MRS. PAUL ANDREWS
ALANSON
SWEDISH RYE BREAD SUPREME

¼ C. brown sugar
¼ C. light molasses
1 T. salt
2 T. shortening
1½ C. boiling water
1 pkg. active dry yeast
¼ C. warm water (110 to 115°)
2½ C. rye flour
2 to 3 T. caraway seeds
3½ to 4 C. sifted all-purpose flour

Combine brown sugar, molasses, salt and shortening in large bowl; pour on boiling water and stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool to lukewarm. Sprinkle yeast on warm water; stir to dissolve. Stir rye flour (stir before measuring) into brown sugar--molasses mixture, beating well. Stir in yeast and caraway seeds; beat until smooth. Mix in enough of the all-purpose flour, a little at a time, first with spoon and then with hands, to make a smooth soft dough. Turn onto lightly floured board; knead until satiny and elastic, about 10 minutes. Place dough in lightly greased bowl; turn dough over to grease top. Cover and let rise in warm place until dough is doubled, 1½ to 2 hours. Punch down; turn dough onto lightly floured board and divide in half. Round up dough to make 2 balls. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Shape into loaves and place in 2 greased 8½"x4½"x2½" loaf pans. Cover and let rise in a warm place until almost doubled, 1½ to 2 hours. Bake in moderate oven (350°) 25 to 30 minutes, covering with sheet of aluminum foil the last 15 minutes if loaves are browning too fast. Turn onto wire racks to cool. Brush loaves with melted butter while warm if you like a soft crust. Makes 2 loaves. Excellent for those holiday buffets.

ORANGE MARMALADE BREAD

2 large oranges
2 C. sugar
1 t. butter
1 C. milk
1 egg
3 C. flour
1 T. baking powder
1 t. salt

Grind the rind of 2 large oranges (or whiz in the blender with a little water). Just cover with water in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Add the sugar, and stir until dissolved. Boil slowly until it's thick, like marmalade, maybe ten to fifteen minutes; the foam goes away. Turn off the heat, and add butter. Cool a little. Add milk, egg, and beat well. Add flour (the finer the better; Wondra works very well) with baking powder and salt. Beat very well. Pour into pans that have been well greased. Bake at 350° F for about an hour. This makes two small loaves or one large.

CHRISTMAS CAKE

¾ C. granulated sugar
¾ C. milk
¾ lb. butter
4 eggs, room temperature, slightly beaten
8 C. flour, measure, then sift
2 yeast packages, dissolved in ½ C. lukewarm water

Filling:

3 lbs. shelled walnuts, medium ground
1 C. sugar
1 t. vanilla
1 t. cinnamon
1 15 oz. box white raisins, rinse in warm water, then drain
3-6 T. water, or enough to make mixture hold together slightly

Topping:

3 lbs. powdered sugar, mixed with enough cold water to form thick frosting, frosting may be tinted with food coloring, red and green sugar sprinkles.
6 oz. jar maraschino cherries, halved or quartered

Scald milk, add sugar and butter, stir till melted, cool mixture till warm. Add above to flour, also yeast and eggs. Mix well, then knead dough till smooth and satiny (dough will cling away from hands and bowl). Cover bowl, let dough rise till double volume, in warm place. Divide dough into 8 equal parts, roll out on unfloured surface to approximately 14"x10" Divide filling into 8 equal parts - spread filling on dough - roll tightly. Place on greased cookie sheet (4 rolls will usually fit on 1 sheet). Prick rolls with fork, cover, let rise 30 minutes. Bake at 350° oven, 20-30 minutes till golden. Remove and place on cooling racks, immediately decorate with frosting, sprinkles and cherries. When cool wrap in Saran, then tin foil, freezes beautifully.

Q:
Why do more women buy their clothes at Daisy L than anywhere else in Northwest Michigan?

A:
Here's why: Daisy L has more clothes than anyone to see, touch, try on and fall-in love with up through size 50.

Here's why: Whether you spend $20 or $200 you can be confident you are getting more quality, more fashion, more value, more personal and qualified service for your money at Daisy L.

Here's why: You are paying too much for your clothes unless you buy it at Daisy L Fashions.

TART LEMON MERINGUE PIE

Filling:
3 C. sugar
⅔ C. cornstarch
½ t. salt
8 egg yolks, slightly beaten
4 T. margarine
⅔ C. lemon juice
4 T. grated lemon peel

In heavy saucepan combine cornstarch, sugar and salt. Gradually stir in 3 cups water. Over medium heat, bring to boiling, stirring constantly with wooden spoon. Boil one minute. Mixture will be thick and translucent. Remove from heat. Stir some of this into egg yolks, mix well. Pour egg yolk mixture back into sugar mixture. Add grated lemon peel. Stir constantly over medium heat to boil, boil one minute. Remove from heat. Add butter, stir to melt. Gradually add lemon juice, pour in pie shells, let cool while making meringue.

Meringue:
10 egg whites, room temperature
½ t. salt
½ t. cream of tartar
1½ C. sugar

With mixer at high speed, beat whites just till foamy. Add salt and cream of tartar. Beat to blend, add sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating well after each addition. Beat till stiff and shiny peaks form. About 5 minutes. Place meringue on pie and spread to edges to seal. Cover filling completely. Bake 12-15 minutes at 375° or till lightly browned. Cool on racks away from drafts. Serve as soon as possible.

NEVER FAIL PIE CRUST:
4 C. flour, spooned into cup
1 T. sugar
2 t. salt
1¾ C. vegetable shortening (not oil, oleo or lard)
½ C. water
½ T. cider vinegar
1 large egg

In bowl, mix flour, sugar and salt. Mix in shortening till crumbly (I use electric mixer). In small bowl mix water, vinegar and eggs. Add to dry mix. Mix all till moist. Divide in 4 balls and chill ½ hour. Roll out and bake 12-15 minutes at 375° for shells. Can be kept in refrigerator 3 days or can be frozen for 1 month. Also can be handled and rerolled and not get stiff or hard.

½ t. salt
1 T. sugar
½ C. corn flake crumbs
⅓ C. vegetable oil
3 T. cold water

Combine flour, salt, sugar and crumbs. Add oil and water. Stir with fork until well mixed. Press firmly into 9-inch pie pan with back of tablespoon. Prick bottom and sides with fork. Bake in a 400° oven for 10 minutes or until lightly brown. Cool completely. Before pouring berry mixture in pie shell, add 1 cup of non-dairy whipped topping. Chill for 3 hours or longer. When serving, put a dollop of whipped topping on each serving. Add a red maraschino cherry and green marshmallow leaves.

MAY BE MADE WITH:
2 pkg. (10 oz.) quick frozen raspberries thawed – Simmer 3 minutes.
6 T. sugar
3 T. cornstarch
½ t. cinnamon
⅓ C. water

Combine. Add to berries. Boil for 1 minute.

CANDIES

[illegible] ELLSWORTH BUCKEYES

1 Lb. butter or good [illegible]
3 C. peanut butter
3 Lbs. confectioners sugar

Mix thoroughly. Form into balls about 1¼" across. Place on ungreased cookie sheet and refrigerate for 1 hour.

12 oz. package of chocolate chips
½ bar of [illegible] paraffin

Melt chocolate chips and paraffin in top of double boiler. Take a fork and dip balls into chocolate mixture and replace on cookie sheet. Refrigerate again for about 15 minutes. When you removed candy from cookie sheet a small portion of the chocolate will come loose from the bottom making them look like a buckeye nut. They taste a lot like a peanut butter cup.

No place on Beaver Island suitable for dump says DNR

By [illegible]

You can't get away from government bureaucracy. Not even if you live on a 71 square mile island in northern Lake Michigan.

That's what John Gillespie, supervisor of St. James Township on Beaver Island, found out last week when he received a communication from the Resource Recovery Division of the Department of Natural Resources.

The DNR was reminding Gillespie that just a year ago he had been told that the sanitary landfill (dump) on the Island was in violation of the State's Solid Waste statutes.

The DNR further noted that since that time, they (the DNR) had received a geologist's opinion that the land in the area is not suitable for a sanitary landfill because of its permeable sandy soils overlaying clay.

"The landfill poses a potential hazard to the groundwater in the vicinity of the site," the letter said, with the recommendation that "you take immediate steps to investigate other alternatives to solid waste disposal on and for Beaver Island."

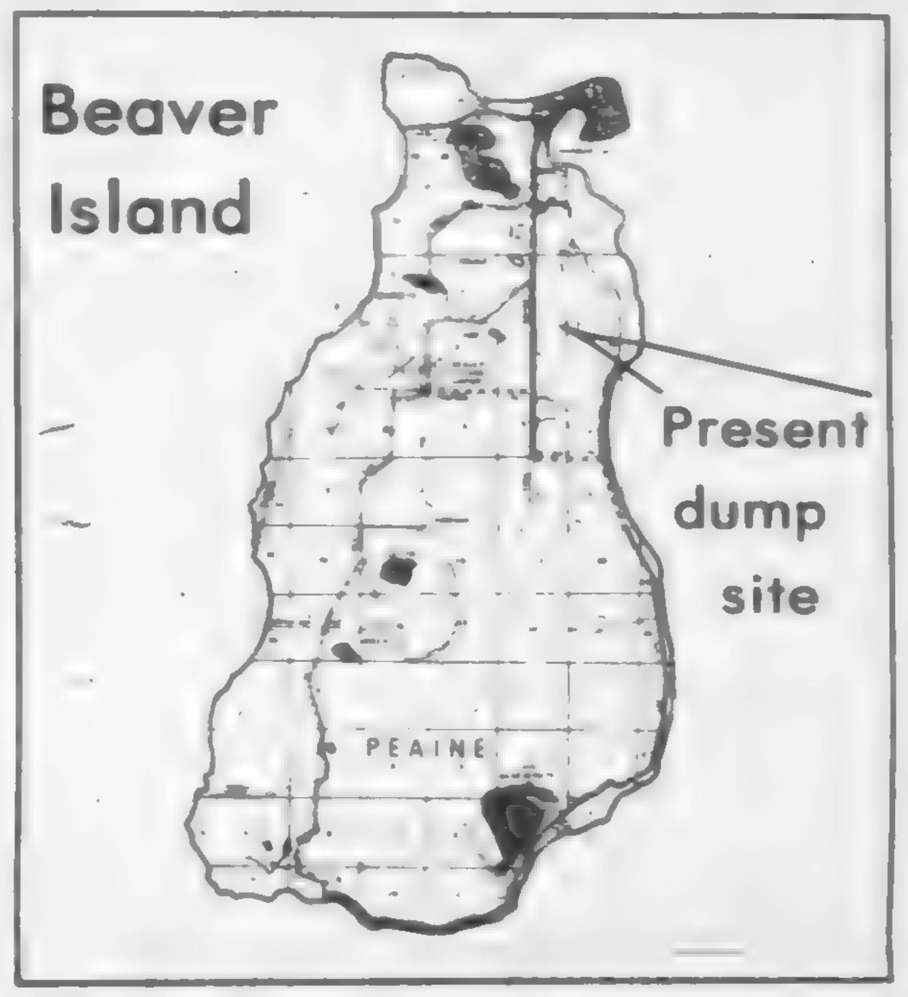
Those alternatives would send shivers up and down the spine of the supervisor of the largest township in the state, let alone a township that has to add the population of its neighbor to come up with a combined year-around Island population of more than [illegible].

Here they are:

"Containerizing all refuse and shipping it by barge to the mainland for transfer to a nearby approved disposal area.

"Incineration of refuse on the Island in an approved incinerator, with possible recovery of energy from the refuse.

"Establishment of a re-cycling center to re-cycle iron, aluminum, copper, other metals, boxboard, clean paper, glass, rubber, and [illegible].



"Building and licensing a sanitary landfill in a more suitable location on the Island. It is doubtful that you have areas on the Island which would meet current landfill siting guidelines in natural soils."

The Charlevoix County Planning Department, under the direction of Planner John Hess, recently began the preparation of a Solid Waste Disposal plan for the entire County, which it is estimated will take at least two years to complete. The DNR suggested that Gillespie contact Hess about the Beaver Island problem.

Hess has already asked the DNR for help in checking out how the islands in Puget Sound in the State of Washington dispose of their solid waste. He believes their problems would be similar to those of Beaver Island.

As far as the above suggested alternate methods of solid waste disposal for Beaver Island are concerned, Hess pointed out several drawbacks:

Even if another suitable landfill site were to be found on the Island (and the DNR doubts that it could be), the cost of building one to today's specifications would be prohibitive.

"Before they threw in their first bag of trash, they would have one million dollars invested exclusive of land," Hess said.

A million dollar dump on Beaver Island?

As to "containerizing and shipping", Hess reminded that the waste would have to be stored somewhere for weekly, or perhaps monthly, transportation to the mainland. This would invite flies and odors. "And when they get it over here, they would have to unload it and take it to a licensed landfill."

Incineration? Hess says that an incinerator would "start at about a quarter of a million dollars". He also says that the Environmental Protection Agency has such high standards that operators of an incinerator would have to monitor it constantly, and they would still have complaints.

In order to set up a re-cycling center, there would have to be enough solid waste to make it worthwhile. "It is doubtful that even in the summer, when the Island's population reaches two or three thousand, that this would be the case," Hess stated. Re-cycling doesn't get rid of everything. Some waste would still have to be disposed of in another way.

According to Betty Martin, wife of Joseph Martin, Peaine Township clerk, it has been costing about $4,000 a year to operate the present landfill. The difference between that figure and the cost of any of the suggested alternatives would be astronomical. That's why John Gillespie and all the other residents of Beaver Island are concerned.

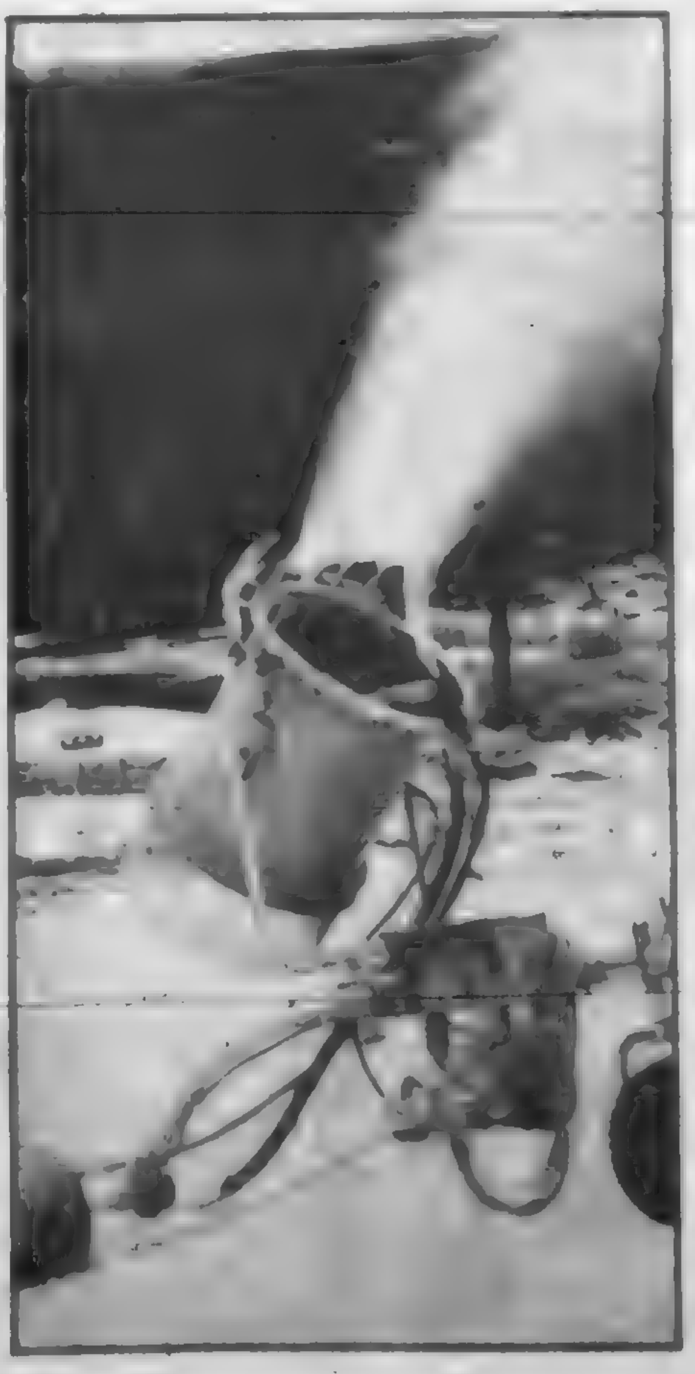
Area ski industry busy preparing for big season to make up for last year



Snowmaking equipment at Boyne Mountain has been running for weeks.

By TOM [illegible]

If preparations and enthusiasm count and the weather cooperates the coming ski season should be among the best experienced during the past decade, a spot check of ski resorts from Traverse City to Mackinaw City indicates.

For one thing, all ski resort managers say they have expanded and improved their artificial snowmaking apparatus so that if the weather is cold they will have plenty of snow whether there is natural snow or not.

Six major ski resorts from Sugar Loaf, in the Traverse City area to Nubs Nob, outside Harbor Springs, have been making snow on their slopes for the past two weeks.

Of these, Boyne Highlands, Boyne Mountain, Hilton Shanty Creek at Bellaire, Schuss Mt., at Mancelona, and Sugar Loaf on the Leelanau Peninsula hope to open for Thanksgiving. Jim Dilworth, General Manager of Nubs Nob says he thinks there aren't enough people around yet, "to justify opening for Thanksgiving."

Operator's say they wouldn't be able to determine whether they can open then until early in the week. It will depend on whether enough consecutive nights, temperatures remain below freezing.

However, Ann Coughlin, spokesperson for Boyne Mt. and Boyne Highlands says that the company's private meteorologist predicts the first significant heaven-sent snow will fall on Thanksgiving.

Meanwhile, motel owners in Charlevoix, Petoskey and Mackinaw City say that advance reservations are as good, and in some instances better than last year.

Kjell Johannsen at The Weathervane Terrace says, for example, that the motel is already ahead of last year in reservations for ski packages.

"We have five groups from Chicago alone," he said. "It looks very very good."

Jack [illegible] of the Lodge is a shade less optimistic.

"Christmas week is filling up well, he said. "It all depends on the snow. I'm sure we'll have snow. Last year was a fluke."

A spokesperson for the Villa Moderne said that motel is booked solid for Christmas week.

Maxine Harrold of the Petoskey Area Chamber of Commerce, reports that surveys conducted at the ski shows held recently in Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago indicate that skiers in those cities intend to make one ski trip to eastern slopes and the rest to Michigan. This is a decided departure from the past patterns which always included trips to the ski slopes of Montana, Utah, and Colorado. It is probably due to the economy and the rise in air fares, but is encouraging news for northern Michigan's important winter tourist industry, Mrs. Harrold suggests.

Patty Savant, spokesperson at Hilton Shanty Creek reports that bookings for rooms during the all important Christmas Holiday at Shanty Creek and Schuss Mt. (Under the same management) are a little ahead of last year already.

Finishing touches are being made this week on new snowmaking equipment for Charlevoix's own Mt. McSauba. Reports are that the machinery will be tested this weekend and, if the weather cooperates, snowmaking will commence on the municipal hill soon. A full report is planned for next week's edition.

Hal Van Sumeren, Grand Traverse Chamber of Commerce, says "there are still some vacancies for the Christmas Holidays, but there are more rooms available to begin with than there have ever been before, because there are more motels."

"Everything we have any control over is going very well," Van Sumeren said in a telephone interview. "It looks like we may have a repeat of the unexpected tourist boom we experienced last summer. We are encouraged."

The irony is that the weather up here in ski country isn't as important as the weather down below, resort executives say.

"When it snows in Detroit or Chicago, people down there begin calling up here for reservations, even though it may not be snowing up here," James Dilworth said. "After the heavy snows in Illinois and Indiana early in the week, they began ringing our phone off the hook. I just had a call from a fellow in Decatur, Ill., wanting reservations for eight people during the first week of January. He said it had been snowing like fury down there."

One Traverse City ski hill uses dual snow guns atop 40-foot towers to lay down a foot of snow per hour.

Buying and Selling Real Estate by Gene Steele

NEVER ARGUE WITH SUCCESS

There is a sound philosophy based on the premise: "Never argue with success." If you have the urge to invest in real estate, listen to what some of the most successful investors have to say about it.

Andrew Carnegie: "Ninety percent of all millionaires become so through owning real estate. More money has been made in real estate than in all industrial investments combined. The wise young man or wage earner invests his money in real estate."

Marshall Field: "Buying real estate is not only the best way, the quickest way, and the safest way, but the only way to become wealthy."

John D. Rockefeller: "The big fortunes in the future will be made in real estate."

John Jacob Astor: (He's a little more specific.) "Buy on the fringe and wait. Buy land near a growing city! Buy real estate when other people are trying to sell. Hold what you buy."

Luncheon set

The Guild of Lutheran Women will hold its annual salad casserole luncheon and Christmas bazaar at Bethany Lutheran Church, 601 Bridge st., on Thursday, Dec. 4, Mrs. Bertha Sternaman, general chairman, has announced.

The luncheon featuring a wide variety of salads and hot casseroles in addition to rolls, dessert and a choice of beverage will be served from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Mrs. Virginia Cunningham will be in charge of the dining room; Mrs. Milo Smith, the Christmas bazaar which will feature many unusual as well as practical items and the bake sale and Mrs. Sternaman, the kitchen.

It was longer ago than yesterday that the northwest corner of Bridge Street and the Pine River Channel looked like this. That's the Charlevoix Roller Mills in the lower right foreground, on the spot now occupied by the Weathervane Inn. The Fountain City Hotel was located where the Weathervane Terrace now stands. MESC offices reschedule

All Michigan Employment Security Commission offices (MESC) across the state, will be closed for the Thanksgiving holiday, Thursday and Friday, November 27 and 28, MESC Director S. Martin Taylor announced today.

People whose reporting schedules for unemployment benefits fall on those days are currently being rescheduled to report on Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday, November 24-26, when offices will be open from 7:15 a.m. until 6:00 p.m., Taylor said. Job Service operations will be open from 8:15 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Those filing new unemployment claims may do so on the Monday after Thanksgiving.

Little Traverse Choir and Orchestra to present Williams' Hodie

On Sunday, December 7, the [illegible]5-voice Little Traverse Community Choir and 40-member Orchestra, under the sponsorship of the Petoskey Ministerial Association and the Crooked Tree Arts Council, will present Ralph Vaughn Williams' Christmas cantata "HODIE" (Hoh-dee-ay).

The performance will be presented at the new United Methodist Church of Petoskey at 7 p.m.

Written in 1954, "Hodie", which means "This Day", is under the direction of Gig Stewart and features three soloists and a 25-voice Youth Choir.

Soprano soloist, Karen Smith, has sung extensively throughout the Mid-West, most recently touring in Northern Michigan with the Northwood Symphonette. Waldie Anderson, well-known for his oratorio and concert work throughout the United States, will sing the tenor role. Jay Thompson, instructor of voice at the Interlochen Arts Academy and National Music Camp, who also has had extensive concert and oratorio work, is [illegible].

The Youth Choir, made up of young people in the 4th through 8th grades from this area, acts as the Narrator, singing the traditional story of the birth of the Christ Child. The Youth Choir is under the direction of Mrs. June [illegible].

Composer Ralph Vaughn Williams draws not only from Biblical texts for the words of "Hodie" but from the works of Milton and contemporary poets. His music in "Hodie" ranges from Mary's Eternal Lullaby with soprano solo and women's voices to the dramatically exciting final "Epilogue" with the entire orchestra, soloists and choirs.

The public is invited to attend this first performance of "Hodie" in Northern Michigan presented by the Little Traverse Community Choir and Orchestra on Dec. 7 at 7 p.m. This will also be the first major concert in the new Petoskey United Methodist Church. Donations will be accepted at the door to help defray concert expenses.

Hospital staff using new radio-paging system

Charlevoix Area Hospital has recently completed installation of two radio communication systems enabling communication with on-call staff, ambulances and other hospitals.

The hospital became part of the HEAR radio system--The Hospital Emergency Administrative Radio--a federally mandated program which gives hospitals ability to communicate with ambulances and other hospitals on a nationally designated, clear channel, medical emergency frequency.

Administrator Richard Krueger expressed gratitude to Northern Michigan Hospitals Inc., which helped Charlevoix Area Hospital acquire the radio originally located in the former emergency room at Lockwood-MacDonald Hospital.

The second communications system is a radio paging system for doctors and other on-call staff. Charlevoix Area Hospital and the East Jordan Family Health Center each purchased transmitters enabling both facilities to contact their staff anywhere in Charlevoix County.

Prior to the establishment of these two radio systems the hospital used the Charlevoix County Sheriff's department as its radio link with ambulances and on-call staff.

With the hospital using the sheriff's radio the police, ambulance, fire and hospital were all sharing the same frequency, a potentially over-crowded and confusing situation.

The HEAR system for radio communication between ambulances and hospitals is exclusive. Each hospital in the state using the HEAR communication system has its own access code to activate its receiver. During an emergency any ambulance with the radio system can communicate with the nearest HEAR-equipped hospital.

In this area the Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan ambulances are all equipped with HEAR radios.

In addition to Charlevoix Area Hospital and Northern Michigan Hospitals in Petoskey, Munson Hospital in Traverse City, Otsego Memorial Hospital in Gaylord and the Cheboygan Community Memorial Hospital are part of the HEAR system.

Barney Roeters, Charlevoix Area Hospital General Services Manager, who has coordinated the efforts to establish the two radio systems, explained that because federal government funds were involved in the original purchase of the HEAR system the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners took actual ownership of the radio from the City of Petoskey when the radio was transferred from Lockwood-MacDonald.

The paging system is an important addition to the hospital's communication systems because it, too, relieves the congestion on the sheriff's radio. Previously to reach a doctor on call, the sheriff's department had to be telephoned with a request to "flip a switch" according to Roeters, so the hospital could page on-call staff.

The new paging system, which is entirely separate from the HEAR system, Roeters explains, enables the hospital to send either a beep code or voice message to a staff person who wears a pager on his or her belt.

Roeters explains that while the system is one-way, hospital to staff, it has the potential for two-way communication in the future.

In one of the first winter-weather related traffic mishaps of the season, Mrs. Betty Henne, 37, lost control of her car on the Boyne City-Charlevoix road last Thursday morning when a light frost had glazed area roadways overnight. Mrs. Henne's car rolled over while she was driving with her three year-old son Paul. The two were transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital where Mrs. Henne was treated and released. Her son was not injured.

Thanksgiving '80

Time was that Thanksgiving was a winter holiday. Or at least a wintry one.

The drive to Grandmother's would be slow and careful on icy highways. Room in the old Ford station wagon would be at a premium with seven children bundled to the teeth looking like little white Eskimos.

Deer hunters always seemed to have their tracking snow by this time. We would see them tramping into the woods or catch sight of a bit of red plaid at the end of a corn row as we drove [illegible].

When the rutabaga simmered in Granny's kitchen, the steam would freeze in snowflake patterns on the window panes. Menfolk were never too far from the football game on television which invariably was played in some arctic environ like pre-dome Detroit.

Guess things have changed, though.

Last Saturday, six days before Thanksgiving, Lake Charlevoix sparkled under a warm sun and the 50 degree temperatures even gave the squirrels pause to wonder if they had their seasons right.

Unless something climatically drastic happens by Thursday, Thanksgiving this year will have little resemblance to those of more snowy, predictable times.

In fact, Thanksgiving is different this year in other ways, too.

For one thing, hard times have bitten into the prosperity we salute each year at this time. No doubt many American families will make do with a little less on the Thanksgiving table than last year - even though it will probably still cost them a little more.

The "Holiday Season" begun officially on Thanksgiving is meant to be a blissful month of gaiety, good will and lots of shopping. To those out of work, such frivolity will be hard to justify.

Emotional patriotism is another part of the Thanksgiving tradition. No Thanksgiving blessing would be complete without mention of the very roots of the observance. It was freedom, both religious and political, for which the pilgrims were most grateful when they bowed their heads some 400 years ago.

We are led to believe today, however, that Americans are troubled about their system, about their stature. We have listened for the past year to advocates of change telling us that the country will teeter on the brink of disaster unless things are done differently.

The vast majority of us went along with that premise and acceded to change. We can only hope that the decision was right.

Well, so what if it's Indian Summer instead of Michigan winter for Thanksgiving this year?

We'll have plenty of bluster to look forward to before spring - you can count [illegible].

And so what if we have a ten-pound turkey instead of a 14-pound one on the table this year? We are lucky to have [illegible].

And so what if democracy is a tough machine to keep running smoothly.

We've weathered worse storms in 200-plus years.

Some of the trappings of Thanksgiving '80 are different but the meaning remains the same. Here's hoping that we never lose sight of that [illegible].

P.A.C.: A working link between parents and school

By ANNE KELLY

Some parent-teacher organizations don't work. Charlevoix Elementary School has one that does. After three successful years and nearly halfway into its fourth, the Parent Advisory Council is going strong.

Focusing attention on supportive action rather than socialization, meetings are not a time to banter about your child's progress or even for parents and teachers to get better acquainted. They are discussion and planning sessions aimed at understanding and improving the educational experience of the children.

Elementary principle Ralph Raymer is present. One or more teachers may be invited to explain a new program or assist in directing discussions on enrichment experiences for the children during the year. But primarily the Parent Advisory Council (P.A.C.) is a parent organization whose purpose is fourfold in lending a helping hand to the school, the teachers and the community in general:

- to establish a sense of community [illegible]
- To be supportive of the educational [illegible]
- to incorporate parent participation
- to plan special, financially beneficial events, the proceeds of which are donated to the school in the form of equipment and supplies.

"The P.A.C. has been a real positive organization," comments Mr. Raymer. "Without their help we would never have been able to assemble all the new playground equipment a couple years ago."

The benefits of a fine parent organization at work have been evident ever since. As a result of two Christmas and one Spring Bazaar, the Parent Advisory Council has been responsible for the purchase of cross-country ski equipment to outfit forty or fifty students and has made it possible to seat about 325 students on bleachers in the gymnasium for special shows and assemblies. Another successful endeavor was a Family Photograph project which netted in the vicinity of $900.00. P.A.C. also sponsored the R.I.F. (Reading Is Fundamental) program in the lower elementary grades. In the spirit of making reading a skill which is both enjoyable and accessible for all, students were given books to keep and enjoy at the end of the year.

Current discussions concern: the successful Kindergarten volunteer aide project which has scheduled parents of Kindergarteners to help teachers with projects and individualized instruction, special enrichment programs to be presented to the students during the year, playground safety, Title I reading and math special instruction, involving senior citizens in our schools, and a possible sponsoring of a ski-swap.

The next meeting, according to Council president Shirley Roloff will hopefully feature a presentation and discussion of Drug Abuse and its implications on our community. The meeting is scheduled for January, date to be announced later. All parents of elementary students are welcome and encouraged to participate in an organization which is both worthwhile and productive for our children.

Fourth Wednesday Forum

The Fourth Wednesday Forum is a monthly feature in the Courier. It is an opportunity for people to express their feelings about nuclear power and its relationship to the Charlevoix area. The next deadline for letters to appear in the Fourth Wednesday Forum is Friday, December 19. The policy toward articles submitted to the Forum is the same as that for Letters to the Editor; all letters must be signed but authors' names will be withheld if the author has a valid reason.

This year, nuclear protest turned away from nuclear power plants, to focus attention on nuclear governments. In mid-September, half a dozen people started to "Walk Against a Radioactive Michigan" (WARM) from the Big Rock nuclear plant. A dozen other people walked from other nuclear plant sites around the state. Our immediate goal was to talk with people about nuclear power, so it would be fresh on their minds when their representatives came home to campaign. Einstein said facts about nuclear power should be discussed in village squares, all across America. Einstein was a radical, long-haired nuclear protester from out-of-town. One of our longer-range goals was to talk with Consumer Power officials in Jackson. This goal will have to wait, because Consumers Power's president and vice-presidents refused to talk with us.

We talked with several people in mid-Michigan who thought we need nuclear power, for various reasons they had heard on TV, or read in big news magazines.

They thought nuclear power replaces oil. Fact is, nuclear power makes electricity. Oil makes fuel for cars, trucks, trains & planes; it makes plastics and asphalt, but does not make much electricity. This rumor was promoted by big oil companies that own uranium fuel supplies. Unless you sail in a nuclear submarine, you will probably never ride in a nuclear-powered vehicle.

They thought nuclear power produces a significant portion of our electricity. Fact is, it only makes about 10.5% of electricity in this state. At any given time, there is at least 29% more electricity being produced than is being consumed. In other words, three times the juice the nukes make is wasted. If all the nuke plants in this state were shut down this moment, we would not even suffer a brown-out, let alone a blackout.

They thought investor-owned utility companies, like Consumers Power Co., have the public's interest in mind. Fact is, electric utilities in Michigan are monopolies that get a guaranteed profit, no matter how they make electricity. So, they spend rate-payers' money like it's going out of style, and the only people's interest they have in mind is their [illegible].

They thought nuclear power epitomizes the free-enterprizes system. Fact is, without government subsidies, like federal energy budgets that, for several years, put more than 50% of energy research money into nuclear power, government-approved "safe" levels of radioactivity, and the Price-Anderson Act, which would limit liability for severe nuclear accidents to 2 or 3 cents on the dollar of claimed damage, nuclear would not be competitive with other means of harnessing energy.

Of course, these people also thought there are no viable alternatives to nuclear technology. They had been told that coal plants churn out more radioactive particles than nuke plants. They had not been told that coal stack scrubbers and [illegible] remove most particulate debris from coal smoke. Nor had they been told that the radioactive contaminants from nuke plants are man-made particles that get absorbed in human tissue (Strontium-90, Iodine-137, and Plutonium-239, for example), and cause genetic damage that leads to leukemia, cancer, and birth defects.

They had been told that solar, wind, alcohol, geothermal, ocean-thermal, and biomass technologies will not be feasible for another twenty years. Just pick up a copy of Mother Earth News, Mechanix Illustrated, or Popular Science. You will see that they are feasible now, and cheaper to use, in the long run.

Who told Michigan people these lies? Network TV and big news magazines brainwash people with pro-nuclear radiation every day, because it pays them to lie. NBC, for example, is owned by Westinghouse, which builds nuclear reactors. Networks, including "Public" TV, depend on money from Exxon, Mobil, Arco & Gulf, all giants of the nuclear fuel industry. Time Magazine is owned by Chase Manhattan Bank, "The Family Bank" of the Rockefeller Family. Newsweek and the Washington Post are owned by Morgan Guarantee Trust.

Most big business is owned by Chase-Manhattan, Morgan Guarantee, First National, or a few other international banks. These institutions support an organization called the "Trilateral Commission", headed by David Rockefeller of Chase-Manhattan. This nuclear government persuades state and national governments to back capital-intensive over labor-intensive technology, by tightening or loosening credit. Nuclear technology consumes enormous amounts of capital (Consumers' Midland plant, for instance), but employes relatively little labor, compared with alternative technologies. Nuclear power legitimizes this illegitimate government by building a social pyramid in which only a few people know what's going on. The rest of us either follow orders, or we get arrested. It's a modern Tower of Babel.

The Trilaterial Commission is so scared of competition, that three Commission members ran for the top U.S. executive posts: Jimmy Carter, John Anderson, and George Bush. One thing the Commission, the energy cartel, monopolistic utilities, and other nuclear governments fear more than anything else, is people telling other people facts about nuclear power.

When Consumers heard we were coming to Jackson, they hired extra guards to meet us. Even though we had written and requested a meeting a month before, they sent public relations people out to stop us on the road, and tell us to get off their property. When it became evident we were getting nowhere, we gave a signal to Tim Ransom. Wearing a black raincoat and gas mask, Tim parked a pickup truck, rolled two sealed trash barrels marked "Danger: Radioactive Waste" onto their manicured lawn, dumped out road trash, hot water and dry ice (steam), and yelled, "Take it back! We're sick of it!" We told them, "We are the consumers! We have the power!" They had six of us arrested; Tim for littering, five more for disorderly conduct when we tried to get into the "Customer Relations" (Pay-Your-Bill-And-Leave) front of CP's office building downtown.

In the long run, the strategy that holds most promise of shutting down nukes is massive rate strikes. Ratepayers are already striking in Kalamazoo, Ann Arbor, and maybe Flint. But until consumers rebel against Consumers, and other nuclear governments, by organizing consumers' unions, and until they attempt collective bargaining sessions, as we did, they will continue to pay producers to keep on killing them. [illegible]

In a letter printed by the Courier in May of this year, I wrote that an NRC study gave odds of a serious nuclear accident happening within the next 20 years, due to control rods malfunctioning. I mistakenly said the study covered the probability of all rods in a reactor failing to work, in an emergency, to cause a serious accident. An example of control rod failure happened a few weeks after my letter was printed, during a routine test at the Brown's Ferry Plant in Alabama.

St. James

Bob Clock' No money, no homes

I would like to see a show of hands of everyone who could afford to buy the house he presently is living in at today's prices.

Hm. A few hands out there, but not many.

Now I'd like everyone to stand up who could afford to buy a new, medium-priced ($80,000) home with a 12 percent mortgage.

Come on, there must be someone. Ah, there's a fellow in the back of the room. What's your name, sir? ... I couldn't quite catch that. Rocke...Rocke... [illegible]

Michael Sumichrast, chief economist for the National Association of Home Builders, reported last week that with high interest rates and high unemployment, only seven percent of all American households can afford to buy a home today.

"It's going to be a very cold winter for housing and for the economy in general," Sumichrast lamented. "You cannot have a general economic recovery without housing doing reasonably well, and housing will not be doing reasonably well. For us, it's simply the [illegible]."

All of which is a devastating indictment of the Carter Administration's hands-off policy in the nation's economic affairs, which have been allowed to drift out of control for the past four years.

We have waited in vain for positive action to put the lid on prices, wages and profits until the economy cools. But Carter and Co. won't hear of it.

We would even have settled for a little jawboning — a la Lyndon Johnson and Jack Kennedy — to keep the price of basic commodities from soaring out of sight.

But Carter has refused to take anyone to task for the horrible state of the nation's economy — least of all the powerful moguls of big business and big labor.

Of all our problems, the prohibitive price of housing is the sorriest.

If Americans are not allowed to own their own homes on their own little corner of Mother Earth, then the Great American Dream has turned into the Great American Nightmare.

Home ownership has been so fundamental to our way of life for so long that its alternative — renting — has almost acquired a foreign flavor in some quarters. It's OK when you're young, so long as you acquire property in your middle years to support you in your dotage. You certainly can't survive long on Social Security if you are still paying rent.

I was in Bay's Restaurant in Petoskey for lunch a few days ago when a little old lady came in looking for work — any kind of work.

"I just got my first Social Security check," she explained. "And it won't cover half my rent. I'm going to have to go back to work."

Unfortunately, jobs aren't all that plentiful for 65-year-old women this time of year in Petoskey. I don't see any solution to this woman's problems unless she moves into a furnished room and lives out her days on soda crackers and tea.

The question now is whether any action by the White House or Congress will be able to help. We just might have slipped so deeply into the mire of recession and inflation that a devastating economic crash is inevitable.

The stunning GOP victory Nov. 4 was not so much a vote for Ronald Reagan as it was a mandate for change.

Bold, immaginative steps to halt and reverse inflation, to reduce interest rates and to put America back to work must be taken immediately by the new president or the darkest days of the American Republic lie just ahead.

Clayton Healey's family ties go back to early area settlers

Meet Charlevoix

By [illegible]

Clayton Healey of Eveline Township is a descendant of one of Charlevoix County's earliest pioneers. His great grandfather, Charles Healey, came here from Lapeer in [illegible], took up a homestead, built a log house, and cleared the land. This week, the Courier talks with Clayton Healey about his family and about his own interests and activities.

COURIER: Do you live on the old family homestead?

HEALEY: No. Dennis Colighey owns that property now. It's in the back of Whiting Park. I live on Loomis Road, which is a little further west.

COURIER: Who were your ancestors after Charles Healey?

HEALEY: My grandfather was John Healey and my father was Charles Edgar Healey. I had a brother John, who lives in Muskegon, and a half sister. We have two sons – Terry lives in Bay Township, and Fritz lives in Eveline Township. Our daughter, Patricia Racignol, teaches in McBain.

COURIER: How many grandchildren do you have?

HEALEY: Seven. Terry has two girls, Fritz has a boy and two girls, and Pat has a boy and a girl.

COURIER: Are you the only Healey family in the area descended from Charles Healey?

HEALEY: No, there were two other families. Clarence, who lived in East Jordan, had four daughters and a son. His daughter, Rhea Thomas, lives in Bellaire. Will Healey lived in Boyne City and had a tire repair shop there. He had two sons, Billy and Wade. Billy runs the Gamble store in Boyne and Wade is retired.

COURIER: Then you're the only part of the family that continued working the land?

HEALEY: Yes, right now we're raising corn, wheat, and hay. We had cattle up until a while ago. We used to process and bottle milk on the farm. We used quare bottles with black lettering and when they were filled with milk, they looked great. I would like to find some of those old bottles, especially half pints. There must be some in someone's barn somewhere. I used to start out at 5 or 6 in the morning to deliver the milk in Boyne City. Our advertising slogan was "Good, better, and Healey's". Paper bottles put us out of business. We would have had to [illegible] needed a business of at least 10,000 quarts to do it.

COURIER: What have been your outside interests through the years?

HEALEY: We've always been interested in soil conservation. I was on the Soil Conservation Service Board for 29 years and Terry was serving at the same time. We were the only father and son team on a Soil Conservation Board in Michigan.

COURIER: You've also been on the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School board for some time, haven't you?

HEALEY: About 25 years, I guess. I was chairman for 15 years, but there's so much pressure these days that this year I asked to be relieved of the chairman's job. I have two more years left on the board.

COURIER: What other boards have you served on?

HEALEY: I graduated from East Jordan High School and served on the East Jordan School Board for some time. During that time, I handed each of our three children their diplomas.

COURIER: Any other interests?

HEALEY: I've been an active member of the Farm Bureau for 25 or 30 years.

COURIER: And you're still County Drain Commissioner?

HEALEY: Yes, I was just re-elected for a second term. It's not a very time-consuming job, but it's important that the necessary work is done.

COURIER: Have you been busy as Drain Commissioner?

HEALEY: No, we've had so little rain that we've had fewer complaints. The groundwater is down and the fields aren't muddy. Last winter we didn't have much snow, either. I hope we have a good snowfall this winter, not only for farmers, but for lawns and other purposes.

COURIER: What do you do for recreation?

HEALEY: We like to put the camper top on our pickup and go camping. Last year we went to Florida for a couple of weeks.

COURIER: We ran across the Healey name while reading about Perry Whiting, who gave the land for Whiting Park. It seems that his mother was a Healey.

HEALEY: That's right. She was my grandfather's sister. I remember Perry Whiting back in the 1920's. He used to come back to Charlevoix County from California about every two years for a big picnic at Whiting Park. He would have oranges shipped from California so that all of the 500 or more people at the picnic could taste California oranges. They always barbecued an ox, too. Sometimes it was half raw.

COURIER:: In his book, Whiting kept stressing how tough things were around here in the early days. Did your father and grandfather talk that way?

HEALEY: Yes. My father told us about how hard he had to work. He only went through third or fourth grade in school because he only went when there was nothing he had to do at home. He went to the Advance school. If there was a

Stop the Great Heat Escape!

Window Quilt™ cuts window heat loss up to 79%

If you're serious about home heating efficiency, you already know that far more heat escapes through windows than walls, roof or doors. You can pack your walls with thick insulation, install tight fitting storms or double glazing. Even so, you'll most likely loose more than half your precious winter heat through your windows.

Window Quilt™ multi layered thermal shades can eliminate up to 79% of winter heat loss through single glazed windows, as much as 66% through double paned glass.

Window Quilts fit tightly on all four sides, sealing warm air in and cold air out. They're easy to install and operate, easy to live with, far more efficient than ordinary shades or insulated drapes.

The secret of Window Quilt's amazing efficiency: A 4-ply [illegible] surrounded by layers of insulating fiberfill with polyester covers, all quilted by ultra sonic stitching.

- Fit almost any size window, even 8' wide sliders
- More than twice as effective as storms, better than 4 glazings (R value 4.25)
- In snow country, with double glazing one sq. ft. saves 1 gal. oil per year
- Helps keep summer heat out — saves on air conditioning
- Attractive quilted design and neutral bone-white color enhance any decor

Thanksgiving

...a time to reaffirm our faith in freedom and our determination to preserve and cherish it. A Holiday to enjoy the warm traditions of our Heritage ... a day and opportunity that our great land holds for us. Also, to express our Thanks for the loyalty and confidence you have placed in us as a friend and patron. Truly ... we have much to be thankful for, mostly the chance to serve you. May your Thanksgiving be joyful and festive.

Students from St. Mary's Elementary School participated in a special Thanksgiving service at St. Mary's Catholic Church last Friday in which the children all brought gifts of food to be donated to needy families in the area. Some of the gifts are shown above being placed in front of the altar as Father Dale McGoon looks on. On Sunday, the junior high students of the St. Mary's CCD classes observed the Thanksgiving holiday at 10:30 Mass with special readings, offerings of food for the poor and a rendition of the "Our Father" in [illegible].

Legion Auxiliary to prepare holiday baskets

The Auxiliary of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, will again prepare Thanksgiving baskets of fruit for the patients at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility it was decided at a recent meeting of the group.

Annually for many years the Auxiliary has packed these baskets and presented them at Thanksgiving time. This year the president, Mrs. William Farkas, Mrs. Florence Dundas, Mrs. Lester Smith, Mrs. Louis McKenzie, Mrs. Harry Pearsall, Mrs. George Lochner and Mrs. Gertrude Holt will meet at the post home at 1 p.m. Tuesday to pack the baskets. The baskets will be delivered to the 101 patients at the facility by Auxiliary members on Wednesday.

Plans were also made for the annual Christmas party to be held at the post home on Sunday, Dec. 21. The potluck dinner will be held at 1 p.m. for American Legion and Auxiliary members and their families. Santa will be present to meet the children.

Members were advised that the next meeting of the American Legion and Auxiliary of the Lower 11th District will be held in East Jordan Sunday, Dec. 14. It will open with a 1 p.m. dinner. business sessions will follow.

Rene' Russell, Vicki Falting and Sue Smith who attened Girls State at Mt. Pleasant in June told of their experiences, said they had learned a great deal about government and felt better prepared for college and adult government as a result. They will meet with the 1981 candidates to Girls State at the annual seminar. The Auxiliary, [illegible] and the Kiwanis Club financed their attendance at Girls State.

The group voted to donate $20 to the Chapel of Four Chaplains.

Mrs. McKenzie and Mrs. Clarence Goldstick served refreshments at the close of the business session.

The Dec. 8 meeting will be the Christmas meeting. Members are asked to bring a $2.00 gift to exchange. Mrs. Farkas, Mrs. Lester Smith and Mrs. Lillian Hull will be hostesses for the meeting.

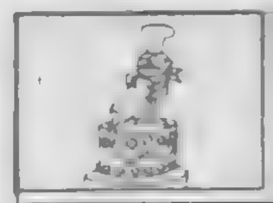
Mrs. Josephine Bindi, Community Service chairman, reported that 18 cards for shut-ins had been signed and readied for mailing.

Cunningham Anniversary

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin 'Hap' Cunningham will hold an open house honoring their parents' golden wedding anniversary on Saturday, November 29 at the American Legion Hall in Charlevoix. Hosting the event will be the Cunninghams' daughters and their families including Mr. and Mrs. Bill (B.J.) Steffens of Petoskey, Mr. and Mrs. Deano (Joyce) Davenport of Big Rapids and Mr. and Mrs. Dale (Judy) Suomela of Flint. Also present will be the Cunninghams' 12 grandchildren.

Hap and the former Norma Moore were married in the Baptist parsonage in Charlevoix on November 26, 1930. They have always resided in Charlevoix. Hap worked at the Charlevoix Oil Company for over 35 years previous to his retirement in 1969. During the war years he worked in Detroit for three years at the Packard Co.

Both are members of the Charlevoix Methodist Church, the IOOF and the Rebekah Lodge. They both grew up in Charlevoix and now live at 1028 May St. They are still active vegetable gardeners. The Cunninghams will greet guests from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. All their friends and neighbors are invited to attend the open house.



Weddings

Huntoon-Duke

The United Methodist Church in Marlette was the site of the wedding November 15 of Marilyn Huntoon and Thomas Duke, Jr. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Huntoon of Marlette and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Duke of Charlevoix. Marilee Atkins, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor while Teri Linenger, LuAnn Nepper and Nancy Driggs, sister of the groom, served as bridesmaids. Bob Rock was bestman and groomsmen included Jeff Groomes, Terry Sever and Ted Huntoon, brother of the bride. Acolytes were Susan Duke, sister of the groom and Tracy Miller, niece of the bride. The bride's gown was white with long sleeves and a fitted waist. The gown and veil were trimmed with Brussels lace and had cathedral trains. Miss Huntoon carried a bouquet of white orchids and white miniature roses with some peach miniature roses. The bride's attendants wore peach long sleeve dresses with peach lace yokes gathered at the waist with cummerbunds. The mother of the bride wore a peach floral georgette dress with long, full sleeves while the mother of the groom wore a light beige dress with a chiffon top. The reception was held by the parents at the St. Elizabeth's Parish Hall. The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner on Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Duke, Jr. will be residing in Farmington.

Fascinating Facts About Gold
by John Reusch

We all know about gold jewelry, but gold has many other uses as well. Gold is so soft and malleable that one ounce can be stretched into a wire fifty miles long or hammered into a sheet so thin that it covers 100 square feet.

Gold also seems to be virtually indestructible since it does not rust, tarnish, or corrode, and stands up to most acids, alkalis, oxygen, water and weather.

Gold's toughness makes it ideal for outdoor decorative purposes. Throughout the world the domes of many of the most famous cathedrals, state houses, and other public buildings are decorated with gold leaf. Gold leaf is also used for the lettering on [illegible].

Most people know how gold is used in dentistry, but there are other medical uses as well. An organic gold compound, Disodium aurothiomalate, is used in treating some forms of rheumatoid arthritis.

Of course, one of the major uses for gold is in coins. The first known gold coin was struck in the 6th Century B.C. by King Croesus of Lydia. That coin, called a Stater, was of 98% purity and weighed less than half an ounce. There have been more than 20,000 types of gold coins struck in the centuries since King Croesus. The most popular gold coin today is the Krugerrand. The Krugerrand contains exactly one troy ounce of pure gold. Many people who wish to invest in gold buy Krugerrands because they are easy to buy, easy to store, and easy to sell when their value has gone up.

Everyone who uses a camera uses gold. Small amounts of gold [illegible] both black and white and color films. The gold increases the film's sensitivity making available light photography possible for everyone.

V.F.W. hosts joint membership dinner

The Charlevoix V.F.W. Post No. 1153 and its Auxiliary held their joint membership dinner at the post home recently with 56 members and guests in attendance.

Joseph Seidel, Colonel, U.S. Army, (Ret.) addressed the gathering briefly, warning the members not to be lulled into a false sense of security because this country has not yet been attached by enemies. He also encouraged the continuation of the Civil Defense program and advised that provisions be set aside for such an emergency. He had opened the program with a prayer for peace and for the safe return of the 52 American hostages.

Mrs. Charles Barger, 13th V.F.W. District President of Traverse City, spoke of the increased membership of both the V.F.W. and its Auxiliary to aid in the service commitments. She also spoke of the American hostages and asked that members wear a yellow ribbon in remembrance of them.

She was advised by Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, Auxiliary president, that the local organization was, indeed, remembering the hostages by "tying yellow ribbons, perhaps not to an old oak tree, but to a tree, one for each of the 52 hostages."

The 'ribbons', lovingly crocheted by Mrs. Russell Dohm and Mrs. James Whitley so they would last longer, have been tied to a tree adjacent to the V.F.W. post home by Mrs. Dohm, Mrs. Whitley and Mrs. Goldstick.

Lyle King, Post Commander, asked for a moment of silence in remembrance of deceased members and the hostages before introducing Gregory A. Shadko and Ernest Goode, World War I veterans who were present and naming other veterans who were unable to attend because of illness. He also read the names of veterans who had been members of the V.F.W. for 30 years or more and mentioned, especially, Sam King, only remaining charter member of the post.

Mrs. Donald White, Auxiliary membership chairman, presented pins to members for continuous years of service and a pin and corsage to Mrs. Albert Russell, only charter member present. Three other charter members were unable to attend.

Mrs. Goldstick then reported that the benefit dance sponsored by the V.F.W. and Auxiliary for the family of the late Jack Warner was very successful and presented a sizable check to Mrs. Warner to be used for hospital and medical expense.

Mrs. Warner then presented Commander King and President Goldstick with a copy of the citation signed by Gov. William Milliken, Rep. Ralph Ostling and given to her commending Mr. Warner for his service to family, church, veterans organizations and to his community. The citation will be displayed at the post home.

The post home was decorated in a patriotic motif for the dinner.

New wall hanging donated

Mrs. Edith Gilbert, above, displays a multi-color wall hanging by artist William Joseph that has been donated to the Charlevoix Public Library in the name of Joseph's daughter, Elizabeth Joseph Nelson. Joseph, left, is a Cincinnati artist who has spent several summers in Charlevoix. The hanging will join another similar work by Joseph in the library as well as an aluminum sculpture. The brightly colored hangings are the result, says Joseph, of an Indian influence on his work gained from a 1978 trip to that country.

Sororities hold Rosebuddy

Kappa Sigma and Xi Epsilon Gamma sororities held their annual Rosebuddy Party on Monday evening, Nov. 17, at LaCroft condominium. Secret sorority sisters for the previous year were revealed and gifts exchanged. New Rosebuddies for the coming year were chosen.

The program was presented by Kappa Sigma's sponsor, Mrs. Julius Gilbert. She narrated a slide program detailing the many varied projects and cultural programs sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

Both groups held a brief business meeting, with mention made of the members who contributed to the November Bloodmobile Canteen. "Thank you's" were offered to Oleson's, Glen's, Edwards, and Crown Drugs for their contribution of cookies and juice.

Kappa Sigma will again sponsor a Santa Luncheon for local school children. It will be held on Dec. 13 from 11:30 to 2:30 at the Elementary School cafeteria. Tickets will be available from sorority members and several downtown merchants.

Students from St. Mary's Elementary School participated in a special Thanksgiving service at St. Mary's Catholic Church last Friday in which the children all brought gifts of food to be donated to needy families in the area. Some of the gifts are shown above being placed in front of the altar as Father Dale McGoon looks on. On Sunday, the junior high students of the St. Mary's CCD classes observed the Thanksgiving holiday at 10:30 Mass with special readings, offerings of food for the poor and a rendition of the "Our Father" in unison.

Legion Auxiliary to prepare holiday baskets

The Auxiliary of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 228, American Legion, will again prepare Thanksgiving baskets of fruit for the patients at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility it was decided at a recent meeting of the group.

Annually for many years the Auxiliary has packed these baskets and presented them at Thanksgiving time. This year the president, Mrs. William Farkas, Mrs. Florence Dundas, Mrs. Lester Smith, Mrs. Louis McKenzie, Mrs. Harry Pearsall, Mrs. George Lochner and Mrs. Gertrude Holt will meet at the post home at 1 p.m. Tuesday to pack the baskets. The baskets will be delivered to the 101 patients at the facility by Auxiliary members on Wednesday.

Plans were also made for the annual Christmas party to be held at the post home on Sunday, Dec. 21. The potluck dinner will be held at 1 p.m. for American Legion and Auxiliary members and their families. Santa will be present to meet the children.

Members were advised that the next meeting of the American Legion and Auxiliary of the Lower 11th District will be held in East Jordan Sunday, Dec. 14 It will open with a 1 p.m. dinner. business sessions will follow.

Rene' Russell, Vicki Falting and Sue Smith who attened Girls State at Mt. Pleasant in June told of their experiences, said they had learned a great deal about government and felt better prepared for college and adult government as a result. They will meet with the [illegible] candidates for Girls State at the annual seminar. The Auxiliary, Medusa Corp. and the Kiwanis Club financed their attendance at Girls State.

The group voted to donate $30 to the Chapel of Four Chaplains.

Mrs. McKenzie and Mrs. Clarence Goldstick served refreshments at the close of the business session.

The Dec. 8 meeting will be the Christmas meeting. Members are asked to bring a $2.00 gift to exchange. Mrs. Farkas, Mrs. Lester Smith and Mrs. Lillian Hull will be hostesses for the meeting.

Mrs. Josephine Bindi, Community Service chairman, reported that 18 cards for shut-ins had been signed and readied for mailing.

Cunningham Anniversary

The family of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin 'Hap' Cunningham will hold an open house honoring their parents' golden wedding anniversary on Saturday, November 29 at the American Legion Hall in Charlevoix. Hosting the event will be the Cunninghams' daughters and their families including Mr. and Mrs. Bill (B.J.) Steffens of Petoskey, Mr. and Mrs. Deano (Joyce) Davenport of Big Rapids and Mr. and Mrs. Dale (Judy) Suomela of Flint. Also present will be the Cunninghams' 12 grandchildren.

Hap and the former Norma Moore were married in the Baptist parsonage in Charlevoix on November 26, 1930. They have always resided in Charlevoix. Hap worked at the Charlevoix Oil Company for over 35 years previous to his retirement in 1969. During the war years he worked in Detroit for three years at the Packard Co.

Both are members of the Charlevoix Methodist Church, the IOOF and the Rebekah Lodge. They both grew up in Charlevoix and now live at 1028 May St. They are still active vegetable gardeners. The Cunninghams will greet guests from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. All their friends and neighbors are invited to attend the open house.

Weddings

Huntoon-Duke

The United Methodist Church in Marlette was the site of the wedding November 15 of Marilyn Huntoon and Thomas Duke, Jr. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Huntoon of Marlette and he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Duke of Charlevoix. Marilee Atkins, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor while Teri Linenger, LuAnn Nepper and Nancy Driggs, sister of the groom, served as bridesmaids. Bob Rock was bestman and groomsmen included Jeff Groomes, Terry Sever and Ted Huntoon, brother of the bride. Acolytes were Susan Duke, sister of the groom and Tracy Miller, niece of the bride. The bride's gown was white with long sleeves and a fitted waist. The gown and hat were trimmed with Brussels lace and had cathedral trains. Miss Huntoon carried a bouquet of white orchids and white miniature roses with some peach miniature roses. The bride's attendants wore peach long sleeve dresses with peach lace yokes gathered at the waist with cummerbunds. The mother of the bride wore a peach floral georgette dress with long, full sleeves while the mother of the groom wore a light beige dress with a chiffon top. The reception was held by the parents at the St. Elizabeth's Parish Hall. The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner on Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Duke, Jr. will be residing in Farmington.

Fascinating Facts About Gold
by John Reusch

We all know about gold jewelry, but gold has many other uses as well. Gold is so soft and malleable that one ounce can be stretched into a wire fifty miles long or hammered into a sheet so thin that it covers 100 square feet!

Gold also seems to be virtually indestructible since it does not rust, tarnish or corrode and stands up to most acids, alkalis, oxygen, water and weather.

Gold's toughness makes it ideal for outdoor decorative purposes. Throughout the world the domes of many of the most famous cathedrals, state houses, and other public buildings are decorated with gold leaf. Gold leaf is also used for the lettering on many fire engines.

Most people know how gold is used in dentistry, but there are other medical uses as well. An organic gold compound, Disodium aurothiomalate, is used in treating some forms of rheumatoid arthritis.

Of course, one of the major uses for gold is in coins. The first known gold coin was struck in the 6th Century B.C. by King Croesus of Lydia. That coin, called a Stater, was of 90% purity and weighed less than half an ounce. There have been more than 20,000 types of gold coins struck in the centuries since King Croesus. The most popular gold coin today is the Krugerrand. The Krugerrand contains exactly one troy ounce of pure gold. Many people who wish to invest in gold buy Krugerrands because they are easy to buy, easy to store, and easy to sell when their value has grown.

Everyone who uses a camera uses gold. Small amounts of gold salts are added to the silver bromide emulsions in both black and white and color films. The gold increases the film's sensitivity making available light photography possible for everyone.

V.F.W. hosts joint membership dinner

The Charlevoix V.F.W. Post No. 1153 and its Auxiliary held their joint membership dinner at the post home recently with 56 members and guests in attendance.

Joseph Seidel, Colonel, U.S. Army, (Ret.) addressed the gathering briefly, warning the members not to be lulled into a false sense of security because this country has not yet been attacked by enemies. He also encouraged the continuation of the Civil Defense program and advised that provisions be set aside for such an emergency. He had opened the program with a prayer for peace and for the safe return of the 52 American hostages.

Mrs. Charles Barger, 13th V.F.W. District President of Traverse City, spoke of the increased membership of both the V.F.W and its Auxiliary to aid in the service commitments. She also spoke of the American hostages and asked that members wear a yellow ribbon in remembrance of them.

She was advised by Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, Auxiliary president, that "the local organization was, indeed, remembering the hostages by "tying yellow ribbons, perhaps not to an old oak tree, but to a tree, one for each of the 52 hostages."

The 'ribbons', lovingly crocheted by Mrs. [illegible] and Mrs. James Whitley so they would last longer, have been tied to a tree adjacent to the V.F.W. post home by Mrs. Dohm, Mrs. Whitley and Mrs. Goldstick.

Lyle King, Post Commander, asked for a moment of silence in remembrance of deceased members and the hostages before introducing Gregory A. [illegible] and Ernest [illegible], World War I veterans who were present and naming other veterans who were unable to attend because of illness. He also read the names of veterans who had been members of the V.F.W for 20 years or more and mentioned, especially, Sam King, only remaining charter member of the post.

Mrs. Donald White, Auxiliary membership chairman, presented pins to members for continuous years of service and a pin and corsage to Mrs. Albert Russell, only charter member present. Three other charter members were unable to attend.

Mrs. Goldstick then reported that the benefit dance sponsored by the V.F.W. and Auxiliary for the family of the late Jack Warner was very successful and presented a sizable check to Mrs. Warner to be used for hospital and medical expenses.

Mrs. Warner then presented Commander King and President Goldstick with a copy of the citation signed by Gov. William Milliken, Rep. Ralph Ostling and given to her commending Mr. Warner for his service to family, church, veterans organizations and to his community. The citation will be displayed at the post home.

The post home was decorated in a patriotic motif for the dinner.

New wall hanging donated

Mrs. Edith Gilbert, above, displays a multi-color wall hanging by artist William Joseph that has been donated to the Charlevoix Public Library in the name of Joseph's daughter, Elizabeth Joseph Nelson. Joseph, left, is a Cincinnati artist who has spent several summers in Charlevoix. The hanging will join another similar work by Joseph in the library as well as an aluminum sculpture. The brightly colored hangings are the result, says Joseph, of an Indian influence on his work gained from a 1978 trip to that country.

Sororities hold Rosebuddy

Kappa Sigma and Xi Epsilon Gamma sororities held their annual Rosebuddy Party on Monday evening, Nov. 17, at LaCroft condominium. Secret sorority sisters for the previous year were revealed and gifts exchanged. New Rosebuddies for the coming year were chosen.

The program was presented by Kappa Sigma's sponsor, Mrs. Julius Gilbert. She narrated a slide program detailing the many varied projects and cultural programs sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

Both groups held a brief business meeting, with mention made of the members who contributed to the November Bloodmobile Canteen. "Thank you's" were offered to Oleson's, Glen's, Edwards, and Crown Drugs for their contribution of cookies and juice.

Kappa Sigma will again sponsor a Santa Luncheon for local school children. It will be held on Dec. [illegible] from 11:30 to 2:30 at the Elementary School cafeteria. Tickets will be available from sorority members and several downtown merchants.

Girls advance to Class C district finals

[redacted] night when the Charlevoix girls [redacted] Boyne City (18-7) in the finals of the district tournament at Onaway.

[redacted] in the tourney after defeating Onaway 77-31 in the opening game Thursday and Rogers City in their second appearance by a score of 58-45 Saturday [redacted].

Boyne City won over East Jordan 66-57 Friday night.

Of their game with Rogers City Saturday night, Coach Tom Felter said "It was a good game. They (Rogers City) made us work for everything we got. I might add, we've played better games."

Regarding their game with Boyne City Tuesday Coach Felter said "The rivalry between these two schools goes back many years. Though we defeated them twice during the regular season, I know they won't mean a thing when we play at Onaway Tuesday. We are going to have to play heads-up ball if we hope to win. You can't rest on your laurels in a tournament."

In their game with Onaway, Charlevoix jumped to an early 18-2 first period lead, doubled their margin 37-18 at halftime and outscored their opponents 16-0 in the third period for a 53-25 advantage going into the [redacted].

[redacted] field goals and hit on seven of 24 free throw attempts while committing only 10 personal fouls. Onaway had 14 from the [redacted] line while collecting 19 personal fouls as they fought for the ball.

[redacted] for 24 points; Teresa Noirot, 21 and Mel Kerridge 12. K. Ball had nine for Onaway.

In the game with Rogers City, Kerridge took over the scoring duties with 21 points with Klooster and Noirot adding 12 points each.

The Rayders had 23 field goals and 12 of 16 from the line while rolling up 16 personal fouls. Rogers City had 20 field goals six of 13 free throws and 13 personal fouls.

In this game, Charlevoix got off to a slow start and trailed 10-7 at the end of the first eight minutes. The second period saw [redacted] lead.

[redacted] lead by a 30-30 margin at the three-quarter mark and [redacted] the final period for the win.

Rogers City lost the services of their top scorer, Kathy Furtaw early in the second quarter with an ankle injury. She saw action again at the opening of the second half and during the final period but was unable to put her team out of the [redacted].

Clare Smart scored 19 points and Sharon Losinski 10 for [redacted].

In the game between Boyne City and East Jordan, Boyne City jumped to a 16-0 first period score only to see underdog East Jordan close the [redacted] third period saw the Ramblers forge to a 51-44 lead as the game went into the final period when both teams scored 13 points.

Boyne City lost Becky Amesbury via the foul route late in the third period. The team, however, stayed abreast [redacted] collected 13 points in the final [redacted].

Lori Paquette had 25 points for the victors with Michelle Russell adding 13 and [redacted] 11.

Coleen Thompson, a senior had 16 points and 22 rebounds and two sophomores, Joelyn Ingalls and D'Ett Looze, 14 and 13 points respectively. Looze was brought up from the JV squad for the tournament.

depression today and people had to work that hard, the United States would be in chaos. Then it was a way of life

COURIER What other great differences do you find between today and yesterday?

HEALEY The prices of things today never stop amazing me. I don't see how young people are supposed to get started in life. A new car costs $9,000. We used to be able to buy a farm with equipment on it for that price. Now, unless a young person has family backing, there is no way he can go out and buy a farm and equipment. I also object to the Arabs buying up our land. Are we selling out to them?

COURIER What changes in the area impress you most?

HEALEY The growth during the last 10 or 15 years. Industry has brought people up here and made for year-around work. It used to be that people could only work in the summer. More people means all kinds of changes, like the street lights all the way from Boyne City to Whiting Park. It used to be pitch dark along there, now it's like a city all the way. And the stretch between Boyne City and Boyne Falls is almost all built up, like a continuous city. Before long, I suppose it will be that way all around Lake Charlevoix. People are bringing back so many old things, too. A while ago, we got rid of all the hydro-electric dams. Now Kircher recently re-activated the one on the Boyne River. The DNR has approved it. Also, the dam at Elk rapids has been re-activated, and they're talking about re-activating the one at Bellaire. These are all small, but together they can create quite a bit of electricity from otherwise wasted energy. Sometimes I wonder why we don't try to harness Tahquamenon Falls

Warrants obtained against Browe

An October 15 truck-bicycle accident that sent two local boys to the hospital has resulted in two warrants obtained this week against a [illegible].

Ronald E. Browe, 22, 1018 May St., has been cited by Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Scott Beatty for reckless driving and having an open container of intoxicants in his vehicle at the time.

Charles F. Witthoeft and Andrew T. Harper, both nine, were riding their bikes home from downtown on [illegible] Rd. on the evening of October 15 when they were struck by a pick-up truck driven by Browe.

The two warrants against Browe followed an investigation of the incident by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

Illegal firewood cutting on rise

A rash of complaints lately of illegal cutting of firewood on private property has prompted Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater to issue a warning to area residents.

[illegible]

"In most instances it does not take many trees before the replacement value is over $100 which makes the offense a felony under state statute," said Lasater.

The Department of Natural Resources, he pointed out, does issue permits for the cutting of firewood on state land and that those with a need for wood should obtain such a permit.

Lasater also issued a plea for information from anyone with knowledge of illegal cutting going on.

Council suspends city policeman for 30 days; requires tests for reinstatement

by DAVE KNIGHT

Officer Patrick R. Martin, an 11-year veteran of the Charlevoix Police Department, received a 30-day suspension by the City Council Monday night and was ordered to undergo physical and mental examinations to determine his fitness as a police officer before returning to the force.

Martin had been discharged from his position by City Manager James Brinker November 18 following an initial suspension by Chief of Police [illegible].

Union procedure dictated a grievance hearing for Martin before the council last week in a closed session where testimony was taken for over five [illegible].

At this week's regular council meeting, the council acted favorably on Brinker's recommendation to affirm the findings of last week's closed session as fact but stopped short of supporting Brinker's discharge of [illegible].

The 30-day suspension without pay was dated from November 20 thus giving Martin until December 20 to complete the physical and mental tests ordered by the council. If he does not test successfully by that date, the suspension will continue until the tests are completed to the council's satisfaction.

Despite a request from the Courier, [illegible] discharge and current suspension of Martin were not revealed by the council which cited Martin's right to privacy.

Contacted Monday night, Martin would not discuss the case either. He [illegible].

Several supporters of Martin attended Monday night's council meeting with more than one alleging that Martin's firing was the result of a [illegible].

The demand was also made by at least two speakers from the audience that the council make public its findings of last week's hearing and explain its handling of the case.

Mayor Sam Supernaw refused saying, "We are not going to release any information without the individual present."

Following nearly an hour-long discussion, the council's options boiled down to two decisions: whether four points of fact presented by Brinker based on testimony of the November 24 [illegible] Brinker's discharge of Martin was warranted by those facts.

On the first question, the council voted unanimously to affirm the [illegible].

On the question of punishment, however, the council voted 5-1 to overturn the discharge. Only Alderman Jeff Porter voted to sustain Brinker's [illegible].

Said Alderman Shirley Roloff, "I feel that all the charges against Martin are true but I don't feel the charges warrant his firing. He should be suspended; we made a mistake in firing him."

A subsequent motion outlining the 30-day suspension terms passed 5-1 with Porter again casting the dissenting [illegible].

Martin still has the option of requesting binding arbitration though indications were that such a step would have only been taken if the discharge had been upheld by the council.

In other action, the council rezoned property at 319 Antrim Street from Single Family Residential to Two Family Residential to accomodate plans by Joseph R. Etienne to remodel the home on the site into two apartment [illegible].

Despite objections from some neighbors present to lack of parking spaces, the council approved the rezoning request and went on to also approve a variance request for the project. A variance was requested by Etienne from the ordinance requirements for lot area for two-family dwellings.

In an effort to crack down on delinquent bill payers, the council established a 1.5 percent monthly interest charge to be applied to bills due the city after 60 days. The interest, which will go into effect January 1, 1981, will be in addition to the five percent service charge already applied to past due utility bills.

In a related action, the council decided unanimously not to file any more claims with Medicare for ambulance service since some previous claims filed with the agency were not [illegible].

Under the new system, the city will bill individuals directly for ambulance service.

City Manager Brinker reported that borings at the site of the controversial May St. Apartments drainage pond revealed a heavy layer of clay about nine feet beneath the surface. He said further, that the apartment ownership

State puts squeeze on schools

by [illegible]

In the state's effort to recover funds [illegible] such as Charlevoix's could be the big losers Vincent Olach, school district business manager, told the Board of [illegible].

To date, the Charlevoix School [illegible].

However, should two bills presently being considered receive approval by the legislature, the local district could lose as much as $1,765,259 or as little as [illegible].

The Charlevoix School District, because it receives no state aid, is known as an "Out Formula" district. As this type of district, Charlevoix could lose what would amount to 50 percent of its local taxes plus categorical aid which, at the maximum, would amount to $1,655,711.

Senate bill 1331 deals with current services. Under the bill the school district would pay the state's portion of retirement or five percent of the salary and the state's portion of Social Security or 6.5 percent. After it is paid by the school district, the state proposes to reimburse the district for that amount.

Here is where the problem arises. It is estimated that the payments made by school districts would total $247 million. Available resources, however, total only $157 million. As a result, the school district would absorb approximately $90 million or 43 percent [illegible].

In the Charlevoix school district, if all the bills pass and the maximum is recouped by the state, it could cost the district $1,765,259 or if all the bills pass and the minimum is recouped by the state, the figure could be $253,292.

Olach would say no more but he did indicate that with the state in its present financial crisis, there is no doubt that the local districts stand to lose a great deal more than they have recently been accustomed to.

Guess who's coming for dinner if Soviets attack

by DAVE KNIGHT

From its vantage point in stable orbit high above the Soviet Union, a United States spy satellite reveals a massive [illegible] Moscow and other large Russian cities [illegible] alerted by the White House and the world prepares for war. In the brief but lethal nuclear exchange that follows, hundreds of millions of American [illegible] on the most densely populated areas of the country. Similar attacks on Russian [illegible] casualties are relatively low because the target areas were evacuated in time. If mere survival is the determining factor of who wins a nuclear war, the Soviets have won.

The above scenario, long the [illegible] quite a bit. Even in Charlevoix County

As part of a nationwide effort to plan more realistically for nuclear attack, Charlevoix County has been designated as a "Host" area for up to 58,000 evacuees from Hamtramck in Wayne County in case of nuclear war.

The Charlevoix County Commission has until January 1, 1981 to authorize the relocation plan submitted last month by County Emergency Services Director F. Earl Muma.

[illegible]

According to Muma, emergency relocation plans have been, or are in the process of being, established for all high risk areas in the country. The effort is aimed at putting U.S. nuclear preparedness on a more equal basis with Russia's. The Soviet Union, said Muma, is vastly more prepared for war with extensive relocation plans and several large, well equipped civil [illegible].

"High risk" areas as designated in the relocation plan are those metropolitan belts with many industrial plants and a dense population. Twenty-two such high risk [illegible].

With a resident population of about 18,000, Charlevoix County is considered low on a possible list of target areas and thus has been designated as a host area to provide shelter for people evacuated from Hamtramck, which is in the Detroit high risk area.

[illegible]

A total of 41 buildings have been identified in Charlevoix County that could provide temporary shelter in case of an evacuation. They include churches, schools, meeting halls, car dealerships, armories and other large buildings.

[illegible] City of Charlevoix has 29 buildings that can accomodate an estimated 2371 [illegible].

[illegible] in Boyne City for [illegible] persons and East Jordan has seven buildings for an [illegible].

[illegible] Charlevoix County would be able to provide shelter for 6011 in an [illegible].

What happens to the other 51,000 from Hamtramck who have been assigned to [illegible]?

Said Muma, "The estimates given for capacity in many of the buildings we have identified can be stretched considerably. We know that, in a real emergency, we can get hundreds more people into these buildings if we have to."

He also mentioned that past experience in weather-related disasters have shown that many residents in a community will take evacuees into their homes. The relocation plan states, in fact, that "Charlevoix County Host Area residents would be requested to take evacuees from the Wayne County Risk Area on a volunteer basis into private dwellings."

Muma pointed out the 58,000 figure will also be substantially reduced by people who seek refuge with family or friends in other parts of the state.

[illegible] bedding and clothes, special medicines and nonperishable food for at least the first three days.

The emergency plan assures that the Federal Governments will provide enough relief assistance to bear the [illegible].

In the event of, any, a nuclear attack, Washington will initiate the chain of events by notifying state emergency offices to implement large-scale, crisis relocation.

[illegible]

In Charlevoix County's case, [illegible] expected to start arriving within 12 [illegible] I-75, US-31 and M-32. Approximately 12,000 vehicles can be expected in each of the county's three cities plus 150 [illegible].

Reception centers for the evacuees will be established at the Boyne Falls School and at the East Jordan High School. Upon their arrival at one of these stations, each family will be registered, assigned to permanent shelter and possibly asked to help with [illegible].

[illegible]

A traffic control and counting station will be established at US-31 and M-32 by police. Highway rest areas in the county will be utilized as centers for medical aid, minor vehicle repair, information and gasoline facilities.

Food and supplies for the massive influx of people will be delivered to existing retail outlets. These supplies [illegible] mass feeding establishments based on evidence of need provided by the Shelter Operations Officer.

Equipment to detect radiation will also be distributed if neccessary. The plan acknowledges that there is not nearly enough shelter from nuclear fallout available in the county and [illegible] actively assist in the upgrading of non-residential buildings that could be used as fallout shelters.

The crisis relocation plan for Charlevoix County was discussed briefly by the County Commission at their meeting last week. Because only [illegible] draft, no action was taken toward its approval.

Approval is expected sometime this month, however, after which the plan will be incorporated into the county's comprehensive emergency plan.

MOVING EXPENSE TAX DEDUCTIONS

Prior to 1970, your moving expense tax deduction was limited to the cost of transporting your household goods and family transportation costs for the move (including food and lodging).

Little by little, other expenses of making the move were added to the deductible expense list. Now they have been liberalized even more with the most current tax reform updates. Here is how the current law reads.

You can deduct up to $3,000 for the cost of real estate commissions, mortgage costs and similar items incurred in buying or selling your home or settling a lease. Of this $3,000 total - one half (or up to $1,500) - may be deducted for expenses incurred for pre move house-hunting expenses as well as temporary living expenses for up to 30 days at your new location.

These benefits apply to the self employed as well as employees. In order to qualify for this moving expense deduction, the reason for the move must be a job change and the new job site must be at least 35 miles away.

Choir, ensemble prepare "Messiah"

A 75-voice choir and a 12-piece chamber ensemble will present the moving Handel's "Messiah" under the direction of Miss Ellen Addington at the Community Reformed Church at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 14.

The choir and ensemble have attracted voices and instrumentalists from Central Lake, Bellaire, Ellsworth, Gaylord, Boyne City and Petoskey as well as Charlevoix Miss Addington said.

The presentation will also feature Douglas [illegible] of Grand Rapids, tenor; Jay Thompson of Traverse City [illegible], Moerland of Charlevoix, soprano and Carol Summers of Central Lake, mezzo soprano, appearing in solo roles.

Miss Elizabeth [illegible] will accompany the choir on the piano. Kevin Parkhurst of Charlevoix will be the trumpeter.

The production is being sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association which will receive the offering to further its work in the area.

Grandvue costs reported to County Commission

It cost $[illegible] to operate Grandvue Medical Care Facility from Jan. 1 through Sept. 30, 1980.

During the same period of time, revenues amounted to $783,137.

These figures were included in a recent report to the County Board of Commissioners from the Department of Social Services, which operates the Medical Care Facility.

The highest expense figure shown in the report was $332,867 for nursing care, followed by $140,065 for administration, $101,576 for dietary, $81,137 for plant operation, $56,182 for housekeeping, $37,230 for laundry, $17,663 for diversional therapy, and $13,020 for physicans' fees, and several lesser amounts for other services.

The greatest share of revenue – $407,030 – came from Medicaid, while private payments accounted for $142,562 of the revenue. Other revenue came in smaller amounts from sources such as co-insurance, Medicare, CETA grants, private [illegible].

With Equi-Loan, your home's equity works for you.
If you need money now for college tuition, home remodeling, a family vacation, an investment opportunity — or any other use you think important — Equi-Loan could make it possible. This special loan lets you use your present equity as collateral to borrow money at a reasonable "Simple" interest rate and with liberal repayment terms.

EQUI: LOAN

An Equi-Loan is not a remortgage.
An Equi-Loan is a second mortgage. It will not alter your present mortgage interest rate.
The amount of equity in your home is the difference between its appraised value and your first mortgage, if any. This equity provides the basis for borrowing a substantial amount of money with the maximum loan size being determined by the size of your equity.

An Equi-Loan can save you interest charges.
The earlier you pay back your Equi-Loan, the less you'll pay in interest charges. So every time you make an early payment, or an additional payment, you reduce the amount of interest you pay on the loan, and this can amount to significant savings over the life of the loan.

How much can you borrow?
Each transaction is different and subject to credit approval; however, we are flexible in our lending policy. In general, you can expect that the total of your first and second mortgages will amount to 80% of the valuation of your home. For example:

Appraised Valuation	$30,000 ×80%
Total Loan Value	24,000
1st Mortgage Balance	12,000
Available for 2nd Mortgage	$12,000

School Board passes new discipline code

by FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education, at its regular meeting Monday night, took action on several issues and listened to several reports at its first meeting since early November.

Approval was given to an updated policy relating to student discipline. This included spelling out the responsibilities of the student, parent, teacher, administrator and the board of education in regard to discipline. The primary object of student discipline is to produce a school environment in which complete attention may be directed to instructional activities. The new code of student conduct outlines this in greater detail than in the past and pinpoints responsibilities of the above persons and the board. Copies of the new code are available to anyone requesting them.

The board followed the recommendation of the library advisory board in denying the use of the library as a day care nursery. The need for such a nursery school was recognized but, since the ground floor had been finished to permit it to be used for a variety of purposes, the feeling was that it should not be leased as a day care center.

In other action, Charles Wright, an elementary school teacher, was named freshman basketball coach.

Approval was granted to Mrs. Toni Felter, girls basketball coach, to take the team to the state basketball finals on December 13.

Spt. Gordon VanWieren was designated as the representative of the school district in applying for federal aid under Public Act 874 for the current school year. These are also known as impact funds which are available as the result of children of the military enrolled in the school system and low rent housing within the district.

The proposed sale of a 1973 four-wheel drive International truck was approved. The board was advised that the vehicle required so many repairs that it was more feasible to sell it.

Renewal of Visa and Mastercharge contracts was approved. Vincent Olach, business manager, explained that since credit cards are now considered a form of promissory note, it is [illegible] because it was a more practical manner to operate than having individuals reimbursed in cash for monies spent on school business.

A discussion on the school calendar resulted in no change. A number of people had questioned the time of spring vacation. It was explained that the Char-Em Intermediate School District tries to arrange a common calendar because so many programs in the district are dependent on each other.

Sandra Fassett of the Professional Studies committee said that since the community-wide surveys resulted in up to 87 percent of participants stating they felt some kind of test should be given to determine life role competencies before students graduate, efforts were being made to determine what should be included in such tests.

The first questionnaires relating to personal and family management are now being completed. Others relating to civil and social areas and a third to employability and occupational skills will be completed by the end of the school year. It will be possible then to determine if students are learning the material that would be included in such a test which would then be made available.

Vandalism to school property was discussed at length. Vane H. Smith, high school principal, said that four out of the past five weekends there had been extensive damage to the high school, storage building, bus garage and buses amounting to a large amount of money. Smith said police agencies have been advised of the problem.

Nancy Nagurka, reading coordinator, reported on the reading programs in the schools. She outlined the various areas that had been expanded and how new methods were being used to help students in middle school and high school.

Mrs. Chris Bentley, in charge of the Learning to Read Better program initiated earlier this fall, reported that the program is working.

Zednicek racing team logs successful season

For most people, summer weekends are a time to leave the car in the garage and relax around the house. For the Zednicek family of Charlevoix, however, those are the few times when the car comes out of the garage.

Theirs is not just any car, though.

On any given weekend between Memorial Day and Labor Day, Ron Zednicek, his father, sons and friends can be found at either a drag strip or car show with their pride and joy, a sleek, navy blue machine that is as dazzling standing still at shows as it is screaming down a race strip at nearly 150 miles an hour.

The car is a replica of a 1932 Bantam Roadster. Its fiber glass body, which weighs all of five pounds, sits on a husky 427 Chevy engine that has been modified and prettified with high performance accessories and touches of chrome.

Although Ron owns and drives the car, he receives able assistance from his father, Frank, his sons, Mike and Jeff and friends Dave Paules, Mark Wuerth, Bob [illegible]. The car's major sponsor is the George Krcbak Heating and Installation Company of Charlevoix which gets top billing on the car's door panels.

Some of this year's accomplishements by the Zednicek team include both the Peoples' Choice and Participants' Choice awards at the St. Ignace Car Show, Peoples' Choice at the Petoskey Car Show and second place at the Traverse City Auto Show.

In racing, the car set the low elapsed time at the Manistee County Dragway and was a semi-finalist at the [illegible] Championship at Central Michigan Dragway.

According to Mike Zednicek, the car has attained speeds of up to 140 m.p.h. in [illegible].

CHARLEVOIX residents, from left, Barbara Berlage, Cissy Bickersteth, and Debbie Rohe show off some of the "A to Z" items donated to the Crooked Tree Arts Council at the Council's recent open house. The Council is busy furnishing its new headquarters building in Petoskey, so the easel, adding machine, and stock pot will all come in handy. Donations of useable items are still being solicited.

Supplies sought for Council

The Crooked Tree Arts Council's project to furnish its new headquarters building in Petoskey is well under way, but many more items are needed to complete the project.

That's the word from Council member Edith Gilbert, who has been active in lining up donations from the Charlevoix area.

"Our greatest need is for a large quantity of matching flatware and china for use in the Community Room," Mrs. Gilbert said.

"The Community Room will be used by many different organizations for dinner meetings, so we will need service for at least 100 persons. We're hoping some restaurant or restaurant supplier will fill this need."

The Council is also looking for a grand piano, to be used in musical productions. According to Mrs. Gilbert, a fund has been set up for the piano.

Other needs include large size pots and pans and bowls for the kitchen, art supplies, office machines, especially a copier, and other items too numerous to mention.

Recent donations to the Council include a cottage full of hand-painted cane furniture from Mrs. D. D. Walker of Charlevoix, a desk from Judge Edward H. Fenlon, an adding machine, an upright piano, and a kiln.

Part of the Council building, the former United Methodist Church, is being remodeled into a little theater which is scheduled to open next spring with a production of "Oliver". Many of the items now being collected by the Council will be used as props in "Oliver" and other future theater productions.

All donations to the Crooked Tree Arts Council are tax deductible. Further information is available at 347-4337.

Funding for third year of transit system is on but less than first planned

Funding for the third year of operation of the County Transit System is still being planned by the State Department of Transportation, although it will be less than originally planned.

[illegible] (Kip) Grimes, manager of the Bus Development Section of the DOT, told the Courier last week that the funding will probably amount to between 60 percent and 70 percent of the cost of operation rather than the 75 percent originally promised.

Funds have already been appropriated for the first two years from "old" money, according to Grimes, but the third year appropriation has yet to be passed by the legislature.

Funds for the bus system come from gasoline sales taxes and the sale of license plates. Gasoline sales (gallons) are down about 11 percent, Grimes says, which will make less money available for local bus systems.

About those poles

What do you think about the downtown Christmas decorations?

To me, the concept is excellent. Bridge Street transformed into a coniferous cosmos with live greenery gracing both store fronts and light poles.

The simplicity of nature is in this year. Neon Santas are out.

The downtown merchants as a group have done an exceedingly tasteful job of decorating their storefronts. The use of garland and little white lights by almost everyone has allowed for some individual creativity while drawing the whole downtown together in an attractive theme.

To be perfectly honest, though, we have a problem.

It's our light poles.

Again, it was a wonderful idea to complement the storefront decorations with garlands on the downtown light poles as well.

But what a string of cedar garland does to a quaint, little storefront, it does not neccessarily do for a light pole.

Consider this product of the Auto Age. It looks like a giant, metal bean sprout.

From a stark, silver shaft as true as a gun barrel, the top awkwardly reaches out over the street with its pod-shaped vapor light.

Functional maybe.

Beautiful it is not.

If we could have bought tons more garland and literally hid the light poles with greenery, we might have gotten away with it.

As it is, I'm afraid the spindly garland wound sparingly around the light poles looks kind of like a parasitic growth.

The little white lights are almost too subtle and too temperamental for this purpose. Many of the strings are not working and those that are can hardly be seen from a passing car. Nice in a living room or storefront but too teeny for decorating 30-foot light poles.

By no means should this "Bah Humbug!" critique reflect on the Chamber of Commerce committee that worked hard to coordinate the evergreen theme and even succeeded in wringing $500 out of the City Council to buy the greenery for the poles. That in itself is a Christmas miracle.

Any committee who can get such cooperation out of its constituency - and the council - deserves a lot of credit. By the way, the light pole garlands reflect a lot more of an investment than the $500. Several business people put in a lot of time stringing lights and preparing the garland.

A better idea? I knew you'd ask.

Aside from tearing them down each Thanksgiving and replacing them with Christmas trees, I'm not sure there's anything we can do with our light poles. They just don't have much inherent "Christmasness".

Going on the assumption that greenery is still better than plastic, maybe we can figure out some way to present the theme more forcefully next time.

Maybe big, live wreaths with red bows on each light pole would be nice. Or Christmas trees made out of pine boughs.

What do you think?

Talk among some Chamber members is that next year permanent decoration material might be purchased to avoid an outlay every season. Now is when the ideas and input should flow because ordering must be done many months in advance.

Guess we shouldn't be worrying about next year, though. This Christmas season has only just begun and, light poles notwithstanding, the holiday spirit is very much alive on Bridge St. Remember, it is a short shopping season this year so get to it!

Schools should be last to cut

Like long tendrils, the effects of the State of Michigan's current financial crisis are gradually being felt at the local levels as legislators search desparately for expenses to cut and incomes to develop.

Such effects include the ominous signs that school programs may be fair game in the inevitable budgetary scramble in Lansing.

A proposal to shift the payment of retirement and social security benefits from the state to the local districts could alone result in the loss to the Charlevoix District of over $1 million.

Though the state gives assurances that funds taken over by the local district will be reimbursed, everyone knows how much blood can be squeezed out of a turnip.

Of all the budgetary items at the local government level, educational programs are some of the hardest to cut without hurting someone.

We have seen other school districts faced with financial problems of different source but similar magnitude forced to severely curtail good and worthwhile activities for students, in and out of the classroom.

These are opportunities lost to the student forever.

If and when the state's financial desperation results in the substantial losses to the local school districts that have been estimated, we hope it will be only after a thorough examination of all the alternatives.

Cutting education is cutting our strongest ties to the future.

Lets change Thanksgiving date

Now that the last of the turkey soup has subsided to a mild case of indigestion, I would like to make a modest proposal that the powers-that-be change Thanksgiving to a more convenient date on the fall calendar.

Why, for example, must we celebrate Thanksgiving on a Thursday?

For my money, you couldn't pick a worse day — with the possible exception of Wednesday.

If memory serves, the Pilgrims celebrated Thanksgiving over a three-day span, and there is a 50-50 chance that Thursday wasn't one of them.

Having the holiday on Thursday simply means that workers in the private sector have a strange day off in the middle of the week, since most of them have to return to their jobs on Friday.

Young single folks who want to spend the holiday with their families often are pressed into driving hundreds of miles on sometimes treacherous roads in 24 hours just because the holiday-makers don't leave them with much time.

If Thanksgiving were celebrated on Friday, literally millions of workers would be given a three-day weekend instead of a one-day mid-week holiday. Tradespeople, of course, would have to be back at their posts on Saturday to launch the Christmas shopping season — but the change would be a boon for most of us.

Many government workers are given the day after Thanksgiving off and wind up with a four-day vacation. If the holiday were celebrated on Friday, there would be no valid excuse for the extra day of paid vacation and our local, state and federal governments (including schools) would save millions of dollars every year by eliminating that one paid holiday.

Think about it. Private sector taxpayers are forking over a ton of money for work that never gets done.

Furthermore, I think it would be wise if Thanksgiving were moved up a month — to late October or early November — so that holiday travelers wouldn't have to contend with winter storms.

For some reason, driving is seldom very good over the traditional Thanksgiving Day holiday.

Canadians, with the wisdom that comes from living in a brisk, invigorating climate, have long celebrated Thanksgiving on the second Monday in October. They reason that Thanksgiving is really a harvest feast, so why not celebrate it during the harvest season.

Of course, the harvest in Canada usually ends long before it does in the United States, but I refuse to believe it is written in the stars that Thanksgiving must not be celebrated until the last pumpkin is plucked or until the last ear of corn is in the crib.

I have heard that the Canadian government also took weather and road conditions into account when it established Thanksgiving in early October.

(If you are bridling at the thought that Canadians also celebrate such an all-American holiday as Thanksgiving, remember it is one of the oldest festivals on the North American continent — celebrated on both sides of the St. Lawrence River and the Great Lakes long before that unpleasantness with King George III.)

I propose that Thanksgiving be moved up to the first Friday in November — midway between Labor Day and New Years — giving us almost two whole months to get ready for Christmas.

Volunteers are better

Dear Sir:

When I heard the amount of money lost by the new bus service in the county, I was surprised at how small the loss was. When I read the article in your paper for myself, I realized that labor costs were not included in those loss figures. In that type of service labor should be the largest expense. I would also be surprised if depreciation of the equipment was included in the loss figures.

From your article it sounds like a democratic solution was used by a basically republican group, ie. if one bus was not doing the job economically of transporting the aged get seven buses to do it.

From your article they hope to find more riders. If they do it on a one on one [illegible] it will only increase the losses. You will have people calling for an individual ride because it is cheaper than driving their ten mile per gallon car...and a five or six mile per gallon bus, with a driver will take then for less then it would cost them for the gas alone.

It seems what the county is looking for are mile miles of riders when what they need are more riders per mile. It will not solve the problem, but one suggestion is to go where the action is, ie. have regular runs to and from Charlevoix/Petoskey three or four times in the morning and three or four times in the afternoon with one round trip about noon. This would give the buses more of a chance to carry more passengers per mile, be of more service to more people and be fuel efficient.

It is a nice thought to supply transportation below cost to the citizens of the county. It simply should not be a function of government. The losses that have been shown are just the beginning. They have not operated through a winter and they have been operating new equipment. The fact that the state is funding this losing operation for the first few years does not help, we the taxpayers cannot afford this expense any more at the state level then we can at the county level. The fact remains, state or county funds, it is still the taxpayers money.

If the transportation is a real need for some in the county it would be better served through church groups in the area with volunteers serving those that are in true need for transportation.

The recent election showed that people want less government and more opportunity to do things for themselves, including helping others.

How about Kerridge?

To Whom It May Concern:

After reading your Charlevoix Courier on the coverage of the Girls Basketball Team - am wondering just how many games your Sport Writer has attended.

You have three girls (namely Klooster, Noirot and Kerridge) that have played together for Charlevoix for five years. Last week against St. Ignace they played their last ball game on their home floor. The editorial and picture on Klooster and Noirot were great, but where was Kerridge.

For a girl that has been chosen by her teammates to be captain or co-captain for four years, also in the top ten in scoring for Michigan Huron Shores - seems like one littler corner of the paper could have recognized her.

As a team, they are great and we are behind them 100%. Let's go all the way Rayders.

A few Rayder Fans.

City Council

will be digging through the clay to install a rock drainage system that should prevent water from collecting in the pit.

With the drainage problem solved, said Brinker, the matter will be out of the county's hands thus leaving it up to the city and the ownership to work out an arrangement on what to do with the dry pit.

In other action, the council:

-Approved a site plan proposed by LeHavre Condominiums on Belvedere Ave. for a dock renovation project.

-Granted licenses to Rowe Enterprises, owners of the Weathervane Inn, for the serving of beverages on their outside decks and for the showing of movies inside.

-Accepted the resignation of Ralph McRae from the Compensation Commission.

Charlevoix County 4-H Notes

by Leah Green

I have an important goal. Like most people I have many, but the most important just at the moment concerns 4-H. Big deal, you say. Bear with me. My goal is for every person in Charlevoix County to be aware that 4-H is alive and well and in our midst. Now, that may seem quite unimportant to a good many of you, but actually there's a good reason behind it. Read on.

Let's all guess the reason. It is:

a) Charlevoix's Program Assistant needs to look good on a report?

b) All of us need to have to our lives [illegible]?

c) 4-H is a service for which you have already paid and about which you have a right to know?

d) Someone is trying to talk us into signing our lives away?

Now for the results of our little quiz. Answers a) and d) were wrong, wrong, wrong! It is nice to look good, but that's not the main idea. As for d), of course I would love to sign up lots of leaders and kids for 4-H, but it's not a pressure situation and all commit themselves only to projects they want for the length of time they are happy with. (More about that another time.) Choice b) is one that is true for many people in one area or another, and 4-H can be very useful to them.

However, in and of itself that's not the point at the moment either. Finally, if you choose c) you are insightful and perceptive. (That's the same as real smart.) Did you know that 4-H comes to you in all its glory – prepaid? We all pay taxes, right? (Come now, no tears).

Some of that tax money comes back to states as funding for the Cooperative Extension Service.

4-H is one arm of that service. (Actually it has three arms - that should get anyone's attention.) It all revolves around the idea of informal education. Informal it is and truly educational as well. The informality makes it possible to pretty much tailor 4-H to the individual leader and member. It is a learning by doing kind of things.

What does the money do? The tax dollars returned to Michigan and every other state are funneled through a land grant university - in our case Michigan State University. The part that they use supports the people who specialize in dozens of learning areas. These folks write booklets, pamphlets, manuals, guides, tip sheets, notebooks, etc., that are ultimately printed and placed in every county for individuals to use. The same people conduct workshops for leaders, giving assistance with specific problems, and generally are responsible for the stream of information that never stops.

They look for and find things that need to be done to make 4-H more responsive to all of us as times change.

Just one example of that is the great emphasis on stress today. All of us are subject to it and it can be identified in everyone's life. "The Stress Connection" for kids, with a guide for adults to use in helping them, is the result.

Financial input comes from each county's Board of Commissioners. The county keeps the Extension Office, including the 4-H section going. This is in itself a big thing. That allows 4-H a place to house their materials, and gives people interested in 4-H a place to call or come when they need something or want to know something.

The university and the county together support your program assistant who deals directly with Charlevoix County 4-H people. What I'm getting at is that 4-H is a public service that you ought to know about. There are no strings attached and there is no catch.

Obviously something is asked of the folks who use the service. The ultimate benefit goes to kids, but what of the adult volunteer? I'm sure you can see that what is asked is time. (Aha, there's the rub! It finally came out.) Luckily, each person decides just how much of that time he or she will give. And they give it to the kids, not to an organization.

In order to get a look at some of these people who don't feel they have made such a bad exchange, and who really care about young people, I hope to bring you in the coming months a short visit with each of the leaders now active in the Charlevoix area. Meet some of the current 4-H members and see what they are doing.

If you are interested in sharing with us as a leader or learning as a member, please talk with me at the Extension Office, 582-6232.

GEMWISE
JEWELRY FASHIONS FACTS FICTION

THE DECEMBER GEMS

If you were born in December, your official birthstones are turquoise and zircon.

Turquoise is one of America's great resources. As a matter of fact, the American Southwest is the world's major source of this lovely stone.

An even, slightly greenish-blue is the favored color. However, some people prefer more greenish stones or those that possess the interesting "spider web" matrix (dark veins of the host rock running through the stone).

You should let your taste be your guide for the most part in choosing this stone, but you need a knowledgeable jeweler's help in pointing out the most durable stones. Turquoise varies in porosity, and the denser stones are more resistant to breakage and straining and take a better polish. Turquoise was once considered a protection against injurious falls and the Evil Eye.

Zircon is available in many colors, the blue probably being the best known. Before sophisticated diamond substitutes appeared on the market, colorless zircon was a reasonable alternative. The use of zircon can be traced to buried civilizations. The ancients believed it would protect them against plagues and injuries and bring wealth and acceptance.

If you're shopping for a gift for a December birthday, you might consider a piece of jewelry set with one of these. At Reusch Jewelry we can provide you with a free pamphlet on the December birthstones to enclose with your gift. This will make it even more special.

Weddings

Wolf-Marsh

Mary P. Wolf of Charlevoix and Toledo became the bride of Robert E. Marsh of Toledo at a ceremony solemnized at the Little Flower Catholic Church in Toledo Nov. 22 in the presence of 100 guests.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Howard R. Wolf of Charlevoix and the late Mr. Wolf and Mrs. Delores Marsh of [illegible], MI.

The Rev. Patrick O'Grady performed the double ring service before an altar graced with arrangements of blue and white carnations and baby's breath and lighted candelabra. Joan Bradner of Toledo was the organist and Fred Singer of Columbus the soloist.

The bride chose a gown of white chiffon, tulle and lace for her wedding. Made by the bride, it featured a mandarin collar, empire bodice, puffed sleeves with wide lace bands at the wrists and A-line skirt that ended in a long train. A comb covered with lace roses secured her lace-trimmed veil accented with lace medallions. Her bridal bouquet was of silk blue and white carnations, white daisies and yellow roses made by her mother.

Mrs. Kyle Mengel of Kodiak, Alaska, as matron of honor and Carole Wolf, sister of the bride, and Kris Leugers of Hamilton, Ohio, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaids, wore powder blue lace gowns styled with mandarin collars, long puffed sleeves and A-line skirts, all made by the bride.

Robin Mullins of Fairbanks, niece of the bride, and Jill Leugers of Hamilton, cousin of the bride, wearing powder blue gowns trimmed with lace, were flower girls. Jayson Mattimo of Toledo was ringbearer.

Bob Mattimo of Toledo assisted the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were the bride's brother, Howard Michael Wolf, and Bruce King of Toledo.

A reception, hosted by the bride's mother, followed at the Hillcrest Hotel. Mrs. Deborah Mullins of Fairbanks, sister of the bride, assisted.

After the northern Michigan wedding trip the couple will live in Columbus.

The bride is a student at Bowling Green University and is employed in the accounting department at Kmart. The bridegroom is employed at Toledo Scales.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the bridegroom's home Friday evening.

Schmidt-Porath

Barbara L. Schmidt and William L. Porath were married on Saturday evening, Nov. 22, in the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix.

The double-ring candelight ceremony was performed by the Rev. Austin Regier.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schmidt of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. John McVay of Chattanooga, Tenn.

The bride's gown featured a high neckline and long lace sleeves with imprinted roses and seed pearls. Her maid of honor, Lisa Michael of Charlevoix, wore a royal blue gown, and the bridesmaids, Karen Elzinga and Sally Geer, also of Charlevoix, wore cream colored gowns.

Richard McVay served the bridegroom as best man, and Joe Schmidt, brother of the bride, and John Robinson were ushers.

Katie Prior of Grand Rapids, a cousin of the bride, served as flower girl, and Grant McVay of Ypsilanti, a nephew of the bridegroom, was the ring bearer.

Wedding guests came from Detroit, Marquette, Lansing, [illegible] as well as Charlevoix.

Edwards cite 61st

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Edwards, lifelong residents of Charlevoix, will observe their sixty-first wedding anniversary at a small family gathering at their home Wednesday, December 10. The couple is spending the winter months at 109 [illegible] Avenue.

Joining them for the observance will be their sons and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Edwards and Louis Edwards, their two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mr. Edwards and the former Rena Cram were married in a quiet ceremony at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Brown, in the midst of a severe snowstorm. Serving as their attendants were Mr. Edwards brother, E.J. Edwards and Helena Bates, a teacher in the Charlevoix County Normal School located here until 1922.

Mr. Edwards, who served in the Navy as a telegrapher, was associated with Edwards' Florist, a business established by his father, Albert E. Edwards, Sr., until it was sold in 1961. At that time it was also a truck farm that furnished fresh produce to area residents. During the 1960s the couple lived in California for several years and, until the past two years, always spent the winter months in Florida. Mr. Edwards, a railroad buff, always made certain their place of residence in Florida was located near a rail terminal. Both are members of the United Methodist Church.

Both were born in Charlevoix, Mr. Edwards on September 10, 1896 and Mrs. Edwards on April 30, 1899.

Marshalls observe 50th Ann.

Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Marshall, former residents now living in Mt. Pleasant, observed their golden wedding anniversary recently.

Joining them in the observance of the memorable occasion were their son, Robert, also of Mt. Pleasant and close friends.

Mr. Marshall and the former Marguerite (Peg) Sutton were married in Charlevoix Nov. 28 1930, and resided here until moving to Mt. Pleasant in 1950. Mr. Marshall operated the water treatment plant here until accepting a similar position with the city of Mt. Pleasant. He retired in 1971.

Mrs. Marshall was born in Strongs in Michigan's Upper Peninsula and came here as a child. She was graduated from the Charlevoix High School and the Charlevoix County Normal School and taught at a rural school in the area prior to her marriage. Mr. Marshall was born in Charlevoix and also a graduate of the Charlevoix high school and attended school in Lansing before returning here.

She is a life member of the Charlevoix Lodge No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star. Mr Marshall is a member of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M.

Boyne City can't deny Rayders Regional title

After capturing the Class C District title at Onaway Tuesday night, the Charlevoix girls basketball team will advance to the Class C regional tournament at Grayling Wednesday.

Charlevoix is scheduled to meet Lincoln-Alcona on the Vikings floor at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Finals will be at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

It was the Lincoln Alcona aggregation that stopped Charlevoix in the regional tournament in 1978 and Boyne City last year.

In speaking of the forthcoming tournament, Coach Toni Felter said "We'll just play our game. I think we're a well balanced team and at the present time we do not expect to change our game plan".

To win the Class C District title, the Rayders were pitted against their arch enemy, the Boyne City Ramblers, a team they had defeated twice during the regular season.

The Rayders, however, found themselves going to the free throw line to defeat the Ramblers 55-53 in a game that saw Boyne City demolish a 17-point lead to come within two points of Charlevoix at the buzzer.

Playing cautious ball early in the game, Charlevoix trailed 14-13 at the end of the first period but came from behind to knot the score 24-all at halftime.

It was in the third period that the Rayders forged to a 17-point spread which the Ramblers closed to 42-31 going into the last period.

The Ramblers, seeing the game slip from their grasp, came back strong in the final period and, as time ran out, scored several quick baskets as the Rayders gave them a comparatively free hand to avoid fouling them Coach Felter said.

Boyne City's final bucket was scored at the buzzer.

Melinda Klooster paced the game with 20 points; Teresa Noirot had 19; Mel Kerridge, six; Lisa Pischner and Lisa Sandahl, four each; and Holly Tager, two. Wendy Baker also [illegible].

Everyone contributed to the victory Felter said of her players.

Becky Aimesbury with 20 points and Lori Paquette 12 for Boyne City.

The Charlevoix box follows: Kerridge 3 0/1 3 6, Noirot 8 3/6 1 19, Tabler 1 0/1 0 2, Pischner 2 0/4 4 4, Klooster 7 6/12 1 20, Sandahl 2 0/0 1 4, Baker 0 0/0 1 0 Total: 23 9/24 11 55

Boyne City: Aimesbury 10 0/1 4 20, Russell 1 0/1 5 2, Paquette, J. 2 3/5 0 7, Scott 3 0/0 5 6, Paquette, L. 5 2/2 4 12, Smith 1 0/0 0 2, Sturm 2 0/0 1 4 Total: 24 5/9 19 53.

Charlevoix had defeated Onaway 77-31 and Rogers City [illegible] to advance to the finals.

Charlevoix now has a 17-2 record for the season.

Chili dinner set

An all-you-can-eat chili dinner with all the "trimmins" will be offered by the Charlevoix Sports Boosters prior to the first home basketball game Friday, Dec. 12.

In addition to home-prepared chili and dinner will feature salad, rolls, dessert and a choice of vegetables.

The chili dinner will be served from 5 until 7:30 p.m. at the recent enlarged high school cafeteria.

Donations for the dinner will be $3.00 for adults, $1.50 for chilren 12 years and under and a family ticket, $15.00.

The game will feature Charlevoix hosting Cheboygan in the Rayders' first Michigan-Huron Shores Conference game of the season.

Big Rock Point Fixed Nuclear Power Facility

A Public Meeting has been scheduled from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. on December 15, 1980 at the Holiday Inn, U.S. 131 South, Petoskey, Michigan. Subject to be discussed are State and local off-site plans for responding to any potential emergency situation connected with the Big Rock Point Fixed Nuclear Power Facility. The purpose of this meeting shall be to acquaint the public with the contents of these plans and to answer questions about them. Public comment is [illegible].

Plans may be inspected at Charlevoix County Emergencies Services, 1000 Grant Street, Charlevoix, Michigan. Emmet County Civil Defense Office, 460 Bay Street, Petoskey, Michigan. And the Federal Emergency Management Agency, Regional Advisory Committee - Patrick H. McCollough Chairman, Federal Center Battle Creek, Michigan.

Hanukkah is this week

There aren't many Jewish families in this part of Michigan, but those who do live here will be celebrating Hanukkah this week along with other Jewish families throughout the world.

According to Rosalie Goldstick, a member of Temple B'Nai Israel in Petoskey, Hanukkah is the Festival of Lights, celebrating the rededication of the temple which had been destroyed by conquering Syrian tribes under King Antiochus in 165 B.C.E. (before the Common Era).

The theme of everlasting lights is perpetuated each year by the lighting of a candle each night for eight consecutive nights during the Hanukkah season. Gifts are also distributed throughout the eight days, rather than all being given on one day as with Christmas.

The dates of Hanukkah are based on the lunar year. This year the first day is Dec. 2, which Mrs. Goldstick says is quite early in December. The dates are usually nearer Christmas and sometimes coincide with Christmas.

The members of Temple B'Nai Israel will celebrate Hanukkah with a dinner party on Sunday, Dec. 7, when there will be a program and exchanging of gifts.

Families from all over northern Michigan will participate in this Hanukkah celebration, according to Mrs. Goldstick. They will come from Sault Ste. Marie, St. Ignace, Cheboygan, East Jordan, Walloon Lake, and Harbor Springs, as well as from Charlevoix and Petoskey.

[illegible] of Walloon Lake is head of the Temple B'Nai Israel Congregation this year, and Mrs. Leonard Levine of Petoskey is president of the Sisterhood. Mrs. Dan Rockman of Petoskey is in charge of the Hanukkah party.

Eveline Twp. Clerk

Ohle to address Hist. Soc.

"The Men and Women of Michilimackinac" will be the subject of the December meeting of the Charlevoix Historical Society.

William H. Ohle of Horton Bay will be the speaker, reciting the exploits of the early pioneers on Mackinac Island and surrounding territory.

Refreshments will be served following the meeting, which is scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 2, at 8 p.m. in the Harsha House on State Street.

This will be the final program meeting of the season, although the Society will continue to meet monthly for business and social purposes.

V.F.W. plans Christmas potluck dinner party, gift exchange

Plans for the annual Christmas potluck dinner party to be held on Saturday, Dec. 13, and attended by members of Charlevoix Post No. 1153 and its Auxiliary and their families were made at a recent Auxiliary meeting.

The event will be held at the post home at 6:00 p.m. A $2.00 gift exchange among the adults will be followed by a visit to the children by Santa. Members are asked to bring a dish to pass and their table service.

At the meeting, Mrs. Burr Blanchard was accepted as an Auxiliary member.

It was announced that gifts valued at $[illegible] had been sent to the Traverse City State Hospital.

A donation of $89 to the Auxiliary's Cancer Fund was made through the redemption of Glen's cash register tapes which members were asked to save. Mrs. Kenneth Staley is local Cancer Chairman.

In the report on the recent V.F.W. Auxiliary Pow Wow held at Boyne Mountain Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, president, said that the National President, Jeanette Frank had attended the meeting attended by 875 Auxiliary members from throughout the state. Mrs. Frank's theme for the year is "Power through Patriotism". She spoke of the many ways members can serve their communities. "We have been given the gift of life for which America stands through the battles fought for it. It is now our duty as Americans to keep democracy alive", she said. A plaque, signed by Governor Milliken, was presented to Mrs. Frank in recognition of the Auxiliary's work and service by Steven Andrews, Representative from the 108th District.

Mrs. Ruth Smith, state Auxiliary president, said her project for the year was to aid the blind and to increase membership which now stands at 17,000 with the 13th District in first place. She also announced that the state auxiliaries have contributed $[illegible] to cancer research this year and that during the PowWow $3,500 was raised through the sale of hand-made items made and donated by members.

Attention was also called to the yellow ribbons crocheted by Mrs. Russell Dohm and Mrs. James Whitley and tied to a tree at the post home in remembrance of the American hostages.

Area cross country skiers await early snow... ...For rallies, ski-ins, races, night skiing at Windmill Farms

"Let it snow. The sooner the better," says Nelly Hiehle

As soon as the snow flys, Charlevoix's Windmill Farms, on the Boyne City Road, is ready for cross country skiers. The proprietors of Silent Sports North, Nelly and Tom Short, the ski staff, and other cross country skiing enthusiasts have been marking new and old trails, for the past several weeks

As of December 6, 15 miles of new trails will serve as links, loops and embellishments of the possibilities of the 20 miles of established trails, running through the area's woods and across the rolling hills.

In addition to the new groomed and marked trails, graded for beginners to expert, there will be clinics, night skiing, "Ski-Ins," special events, and trail side warming huts.

Weekend skiing will really start Thursdays with what Nelly has dubbed "Ski-Ins."

"Ski-Ins" are her way of proselytizing the sports she loves.

On Thursday "Ski-Ins" there will be reduced rates and free mini-lessons. There will be night skiing, cross country ski clinics and movies, Thursday nights.

Night skiing will be repeated Saturday nights, with moonlight tours of the "warming-hut-in-the-woods."

Windmill Farms, owned by Stewart and Susan Boal, is a campground by summer. In winter the office is converted to a complete ski and gear rental center, with informal rooms where skiers may relax before or after skiing.

Warming huts – one about 1 kilometer from the office at the side of an easy trail, the other at the edge of "telemark hill" on an intermediate to advanced trail – are equipped with small wood stoves and wood.

The Great Wooden Ski Rally (The Second Annual), February 10 will be the first special event at Windmill Farms, this winter. Participants, on wooden skis, of course, will compete for authenticity and costuming prizes.

Nelly, who grew up in the Netherlands, feels strongly that cross country skiing is a sport for everyone, of every age and ability.

The Great Wooden Ski Rally is her message that the sport should be fun.

Last year, skiers wore elaborate costumes, including antique wooden skis and appropriate dresses or knickers.

The Tandem Cross Country Ski Race – 4 skiers on 2 pairs of skis – is the finale of the rally. Two very long pairs of Fjelltroll skis support two sets of bindings for two skiers per ski. The race is run in timed heats, in which neither style nor grace are considered, although both help, Nelly admits.

The Annual Charlevoix Winter Cup Festival, February 21-22, includes U.S.S.A. sanctioned cross country races at Windmill Farms, February 22. Serious racing skiers, as well as the less serious "citizen tourers", of all ages, race over courses of varying lengths, according to age and ability groups.

It's an opportunity for non-racing skiers to see some of the [illegible] best racers exhibit the sort of form that carries them [illegible] kilometers in less than [illegible] minutes.

And those who want to compete on a less arduous level can enter the timed events for "tourers".

Trail names, such as Beaver Island Lookout," a spot from which a skier can see the Beaver and Fox Islands, on a clear day, are part of a theme. There are trails named Charlevoix, Petoskey, Harbor Springs and Ironton Ferry, for reasons skiers can try to discover. There are also trails more obviously named – Bye Pass, The Big Chute, Compromise, and Telemark Hill.

B.I. Schools awarded grant

Beaver Island Community Schools have been awarded a $1925 grant from the State of Michigan. The money will be used to adopt the Career Development Centered Curriculum, (CDCC), developed in the Coloma, Michigan school system.

Barbara Rakowski, principal of the K-12 school, applied for the grant last spring. She said, "Since career education was being required at the secondary level as of the autumn of 1980, the faculty felt that the secondary program could only be strengthened by a program at the primary level. Gail Weimer, the curriculum resource consultant of the Char-Em ISD directed us to this innovative career education program which aims at the K-6 levels."

The entire Beaver Island staff was in-serviced in the CDCC on Friday and Saturday, November 21 and 22 by Lee Downey, director of the Coloma school program.

The house moving entourage makes its way onto Bridge St.

Old house moved to new site

In a tedious process that brought the north side of Charlevoix to a halt, neighborhood by neighborhood, a three story house was moved last Thursday from it's original foundation on W. Dixon Ave. to a new site on Old Orchard Road in Charlevoix Township.

The move was originally scheduled for Tuesday, December 2 but the first major snowstorm of the year delayed the project for two days. The Hudson Moving Company was contracted to move the house by owner Charles Poser who plans to completely revitalize the structure at its new location.

The lot on which the house stood originally is owned by the Weathervane Terrace and will be used for a planned expansion of that building.

Poser, who estimates the house to be from 75 to 98 years old, said his intentions were to preserve the stately architectural styles of the turn of the century rather than see the home demolished which is what happened to another house next to the one moved.

Crews from the city utility department, Michigan Bell telephone company, Lake Charlevoix Cable TV and Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Co-op were needed to take down and replace cables lower than the approximate 33 foot height of the building as it moved north on Petoskey Ave., west on Burns and north on McSauba Rd. to Waller Rd. to Old Orchard. Periodic outages in power, phone and cable TV service resulted throughout the day in the north side neighborhoods affected.

Several overhanging tree limbs also had to be cut back to let the house get through, many on McSauba and Waller Roads. Township supervisor Oscar Stroud said, howevr, that he was pleased that no trees had to be cut down completely and that the move went as smoothly as can be expected in his opinion.

The house was estimated to weigh about sixty tons and required numerous local and state permits to move. When questioned about the cost of the move, Poser would only say that amounted to "several thousand dollars a mile."

(See more photos of the move on page three.)

The Kelly family works on this year's model.

Want to cut your own tree this year? Good luck!

by ANNE KELLY

There is probably no Christmas tradition so beautiful, so fragrant, so enchantingly seasonal as that of the Christmas tree. Be it humble or elegant, Christmas is not Christmas until the tree is trimmed.

Thus the annual question: Where to find the perfect tree. Or at least where to find one that doesn't have a crooked stem or a dearth of branches on one side like last year's model.

Perhaps those like my mother who merely shakes an artificial spruce out of a plastic bag each year won't understand the urgency of the annual quest for the perfect tree. But there are others to whom the fragrance of fresh pine in the house is the elixir of the season.

If you have been reading about the latest "cut your own" rage downstate, be prepared to modify your goals here in the Northland.

Local retailers either grow their own to sell, get permission from the Department of Natural Resources to cut trees off state swamp land or buy trees from a supplier for distribution. There are remarkably few [illegible].

As a matter of fact, a telephone survey of greenhouses and nurseries as well as Chambers of Commerce in Charlevoix and surrounding communities yielded little encouragement to the cut-your-own [illegible].

Two concrete suggestions were Bernard Kondrat's on Shop Rd. in Boyne Falls and Bosma's on Pleasantville Rd. in Harbor Springs. Hoover Flower Shop in Harbor Springs will allow you to cut some blue spruce trees but only by appointment.

Some word of mouth recommendations directed the tree hunter down the typically winding back roads of the north woods on the lookout for unmarked turnoffs in seemingly uncharted territory. These tips require more navigational prowess than most of us can muster.

Those who see nothing wrong with buying their Christmas tree downtown can do so and help a good cause, too by purchasing a tree from the Charlevoix Lions Club stand in the Captain's Corner shopping center. Proceeds from the tree sale all go to the local Big Brothers-Big Sisters program. Trees will go on sale Saturday, December 13 through December 23. Club members will be on hand evenings until about 7:30 p.m. also.

There are no local tree plantations as such, the closest being in Cheboygan and Bellaire. These supply trees to downstate and out-of-state markets where the demand is greater.

For those who cannot get into the Christmas spirit by shopping for a tree downtown under strings of colored lights, here are some suggestions for cutting your own.

1. Buy an acre of pines last summer.
2. Make friends with someone who [illegible].
3. Consider sacrificing the spruce on your tree lawn.
4. At least simulate the experience by taking an axe along when you go downtown to buy your tree.

Plans for Park St. condos announced

By PEG OHLE

Another condominium may rise in Charlevoix.

Two downtown business men, Marvin H. and Jerome Bookstein, have entered into an agreement to purchase the property at 711 Park Avenue from Olive L. Moyer, with the intention of building 31 condominium units on the property.

The property is in Charlevoix Township and is zoned Residential-1. It would have to be rezoned to Residential-4 before a condominium could be built. Also, the Booksteins' agreement of purchase and sale is contingent upon rezoning.

Local attorney Thomas D. Pointner, representing the Booksteins, has made application to Charlevoix Township for the rezoning and has furnished each member of the Township Zoning Board and the Township Board with supporting documentation. He has also delivered copies of the application and supporting documentation to members of the County Planning Commission.

According to Pointner, the agreement of purchase and sale imposes time limits within which the rezoning must be secured. He "hopes" that the matter can be considered at the January meetings of the Township Zoning Board, the Township Board, and the County Planning Commission.

The Township Zoning Board will hold a special meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Township Hall, which is being advertised as a public hearing on the matter.

Local architect H. Jack Begrow has prepared plans for the condominium, which is being called "Boulder Park Condominium". His specifications indicate that the total area of property involved is 3.927 acres, on which 31 units and one apartment would be built. The house now on the property would remain and also become a condominium.

The total area covered by buildings would be 25,400 square feet, or 14.8 percent of the acreage. Each living unit would consist of 1,414 square feet.

As for utilities, city sewer and water would be utilized, with units below a 600 foot elevation using a lift station.

"The project is planned to save as many existing trees as possible and will use Earl Young type architecture," Begrow says.

Big Rock brings home good report card

On the whole, the Consumers Power Big Rock nuclear generating plant near Charlevoix performs "above average" compared to other nuclear plants in the Midwest.

This was the finding last week in a Systematic Appraisal of Licensee Performance, (SALP), announced by the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission Region III office in Chicago.

The evaluation covered the operation of the plant from September 1, 1979 to September 30, 1980. It was the first such comprehensive evaluation to be conducted at Big Rock though the SALP program will now become an annual [illegible].

Only in the area of radiation protection did the Big Rock plant receive a below average rating.

Routine inspection and surveillance procedures were rated average while the areas of operational performance, security and cooperation with NRC directives and inspections were all rated above average.

According to NRC Region III spokesman Jan Strasma, the overall rating for Big Rock was above average compared to the 19 other Midwestern nuclear plants in Region III.

The evaluation was made by a panel of nine NRC staff members representing different departments of the agency. Information for their report was taken from inspections carried out over the course of the year as well as special inspections made for the evaluation.

Santa to make appearances here

Area children wanting to make a personal request to Santa Claus before Christmas will have no trouble as he is planning several appearances in Charlevoix over the next two weeks.

This Friday, December 12, Santa will be at the Charlevoix County State Bank to attend the eleventh annual day-long Christmas party there. From 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. he will be available for visits from children and will have a photographer with him if parents wish to record the event. The kids are also invited to a free movie at Cinema III Saturday at 1 p.m. Tickets for "Santa Conquers the Martians" are available at the County State Bank which, with Cinema III, is sponsoring the event for parents who plan on shopping downtown Saturday.

Merchants in the Market Mall are also sponsoring visits from Santa. He will be in the Mall from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Fridays, December 12 and 19 and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturdays December 13 and 20. Again, his photographer will be along to take pictures of the children with Santa if parents so desire. Special thanks to the Charlevoix Coast Guard Station were extended by the Market Mall for making Santa's visit possible.

For the third consecutive year, the Kappa Sigma Sorority is sponsoring a lunch with Santa at the Charlevoix Elementary School on Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. There will be entertainment for children and parents and pictures with Santa will be available. Tickets are $2.50 per person and are avialable at Captain's Kids, Apple Tree, Wildwood, Burnsides and Circus Shop in Charlevoix and at the Country Star Market in Boyne City.

Basketball winners!

Dan Trojanek of Deer Lake Rd., Boyne City and John Thurman of Burnett Rd., Charlevoix both had only one wrong in the first Courier Basketball Contest. The tie breaker box untangled the tie as John had the closer guess of the total score in the Petoskey-River Rouge game. He wins a $10 gift certificate for first place and Dan wins the $5 gift certificate.

GEMS OF THE MONTH

The reasons why particular gemstones were assigned as birthstones to each month of the year remain a mystery. There may not be any satisfying explanation. One [illegible] is that whoever was responsible for the assignments wanted everyone covered by adequate talismanic powers as I discussed in my last two articles. If a gem was short on power, a second was added. Therefore, some months carried more than one birthstone.

A number of birthstone lists sprang up over the centuries, so to eliminate the confusion the National Association of Jewelers drew up an official list in 1912. Over the past 25 years the Jewelry Industry Council, Jewelers of America and the American Gem Society have modified the list. The following is the current official list recognized by these top jewelry trade associations:

January garnet
February amethyst
March bloodstone or aquamarine
April diamond
May emerald
June pearl, moonstone or alexandrite
July ruby
August peridot or sardonyx
September sapphire
October opal or tourmaline
November topaz or citrine
December turquoise or zircon

If you would like to know more about any of these gemstones, our store passes out brochures on them free of charge. These brochures are published by the American Gem Society for increased consumer knowledge.

PRINTED FORM FOLLY

In any real estate transaction you'll normally find printed forms used in the area of sales contracts, deeds, mortgages, and leases. Ever wonder why any layman can't use printed forms himself and save the fees of an attorney, Realtor, or lending institution?

A typical legal stationery store will have dozens of varieties of leases, deeds and mortgage forms, but which is the right one for your situation. These printed forms are only a starting point. It's what goes into the blanks, what's crossed out, and what's added that gives you the value, security, and protection that you are paying the experts for.

Believe me, some of the largest financial losses and legal hassles have resulted from printed forms being incorrectly used. About the only safe one an amateur can depend on is a marriage license.

Four soloists to heighten "Messiah" production

Music lovers in the Charlevoix area will receive a rare Christmas gift this year...a presentation of the Christmas portion of the famous oratorio, the "Messiah" by Georg Friedrich Handel, on Sunday at the Community Reformed Church.

The production will feature not only a choir of 75 voices and a chamber ensemble, but also four talented soloists according to Ellen Addington, the director. The most familiar passage in the score is the powerful "Hallelujah Chorus" which, like the oratorio itself, has become a Christmas tradition.

Featured as soloists will be Jay Thompson, baritone, Douglas Bonjernoor, tenor, Carol Sommer, mezzo soprano and Helen Moerland, soprano.

Thompson is currently coordinator of the Vocal Department and instructor of voice at the Interlochen arts Academy and the National Music Camp. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan with a Master of Music degree in voice and has studied with many eminent teachers. As a recipient of the National Federation of Music Clubs first international scholarship, he has studied in London. He was also a district winner in the Metropolitan Opera auditions and a finalist in the Federation of Music Clubs Young Artists auditions. He has performed with the London Opera Center, Dallas Civic Opera Company, Kansas City Lyric Opera Company and the Philadelphia lyric [illegible].

Bonjernoor, a popular Grand Rapids tenor, is a former music teacher who is now an English instructor in Wyoming Junior High School and choir director at Hope Reformed Church in Grand Rapids. He is a graduate of Calvin College and appeared for six seasons in principle roles in the area's Gilbert and Sullivan productions. He has also performed with the Grand Rapids Symphony Orchestra and appeared with the West Michigan Opera Association and the Calvin College Symphony Orchestra.

Mrs. Sommer who, with her husband, is a director of the Pleasant Valley Bible Camp and organist at the Bible Baptist Church, was a voice student of Blanche Branch in Chicago. Currently she is coaching with Elizabeth Humphrey at Ellsworth.

Mrs. Moerland, of Charlevoix, studied with Dr. Elwyn Carter at Western Michigan University and with widely known teachers in Grand Rapids where she was soprano solist at Westminster

Knight on the Town

"Imagine all the people...living in the world as one."

An entire generation did just that. If only for a little while.

That is why the untimely death of John Lennon, who wrote the above words, will have an intensely personal effect on many people this week and perhaps for long after.

Not everyone will mourn his passing with as much emotion. Other generations, both younger and older, cannot relate to Lennon any more than the 25-35 year-olds can relate to Frank Sinatra or [illegible].

That makes it difficult to describe the sense of loss.

Lennon's death, in itself, would have been a tragedy. Within the context of other recent events, it becomes an even more stark reminder of social changes [illegible].

Jerry Rubin takes a job on Wallstreet... Bernadine Dohrn, William Ayers, Abby Hoffman all turn themselves in... Congress refuses to back federally ordered busing for school integration... An infiltrator tells of a heavily armed, strongly committed Ku Klux Klan network growing... Liberal arts courses go unfilled at colleges and universities while business and engineering courses overflow... A television evangelist claims major credit for delivering the presidency and thus exacts his due reward... George McGovern cannot even get elected to the Senate...

It is a litany of changes that were probably inevitable. And certainly they are not all bad.

But for the people who remember things when they were changing the other way a decade ago, it is hard to understand.

In those volatile but strangely exciting times, the vision of the future was much different than what it turned out to be.

When John Lennon said "Imagine...", many people went beyond that and tried to make what they were imagining really happen.

Little by little, through the self-conscious Seventies, even the most angry of activists lost interest in Lennon's dream world and went about the business of raising families and [illegible].

Perhaps it was that fading idealism that kept John Lennon quiet for the past six years or so.

I am very critical, though, of those who say the spirit and emotion of the late Sixties are dead. Many positive changes resulted from that period. The spirit and emotion of the time lives within them even today.

But John Lennon is dead and with him goes a certain part of everyone who, at one time ten years ago, "Imagined..."

Letters: Don Smith bids fond farewell

The following letter was submitted to the Charlevoix County Planning Commission last week by Don Smith, who was recently replaced on the Commission by Dorothy Custer. It is reprinted here with his permission.

Dear Planning Colleagues,

I would like to take this opportunity to let you know how much I have enjoyed working with you during the past three years. The experience of serving on this board has been very gratifying and enlightening. In leaving I can't resist the opportunity to share a few thoughts that hopefully you will keep in mind during future deliberations.

First and most important, keep your vision of the future firmly in place. One's ideals may have to be modified to meet present realities, but remember that it is the future generations that will benefit from good planning and wise land use.

Economic growth is of utmost importance, but don't allow it to become all important. In Charlevoix County we can afford to be selective, as we strive to attract "clean" industries to our area. We are blessed with a beautiful natural environment and it is everyone's responsibility to preserve it. Northern Michigan tourism needs not only promotion, but protection as well.

Solid waste planning is similar to the situation of finding one's self caught between a rock and a hard place. The present solid waste plan needs to be both environmentally and economically acceptable. We can't afford to make garbage disposal so expensive that people are forced to dump their garbage along roadsides or in the back forty. A long range solution might be a recycling process that might need a start-up subsidy from local governments. Changes in our present packaging and retailing process may be called for where consumers are asked to sacrifice some convenience for conservation. Another caution would be to encourage continued competition among solid waste haulers in the county. Finally, since our county has just one DNR approved landfill, we must have viable alternatives when this one is totally consumed.

On zoning and land use matters, I always like to think in terms of the effect on the neighborhoods. In some cases this may be shortsighted, but it is a good place to start.

Every effort should be made to protect our county's productive farmland. I feel that re-development projects in our urban areas should be supported with enthusiasm. After all, the facilities are already in place to serve residential, commercial, and industrial growth.

In regard to the Farmland and Open Space Act, I think Charlevoix County farmers most certainly deserve the tax relief they are entitled to under this act. Caution should be used in designating land as Open Space, unless it can be shown that the public will be allowed to use and benefit from the land in question.

Keeping up the various master plans for the county is an important responsibility. It was gratifying to me to see how important the county's recreation plan was in Charlevoix Township's successful grant for our tennis court project.

In closing, I would like to say that I feel that this board represents a good cross section of the great people of Charlevoix County. Serving with you has been rewarding and pleasurable in many ways. Please give Dorothy Custer a warm welcome and give her a hand with the terminology; A-95's, EDC's, Act 641, Act 288, etc...

Don Smith, Charlevoix Township

Peanut squeeze

I called my kids into plenary session around the dining room table Saturday afternoon.

"I don't know how to break this to you," I said, "but because of last summer's drought the nation is facing a peanut butter crisis. Unless President Carter is able to import peanuts from other countries, the peanut butter sandwich may go the way of shrimp cocktail and scalloped oysters."

Faces around the table went white.

"But they can't take away our peanut butter," Jennifer wailed. "I have a peanut butter sandwich for lunch every day."

"And peanut butter cookies!" Katie chimed in. "They're my favirite."

"Mine, too," I admitted. "But you kids are just going to have to learn that there are other sources of protein aside from the lowly peanut."

"Like what?" demanded Allison, the eternal skeptic.

"Well, there's cheese," I explained. "That's a pretty good source of protein. And eggs. You all like eggs. We might even buy a little meat from time to time."

"What's meat?" asked Dan, who was born about the time meat prices began to escalate.

"Well, meat isn't as tasty as peanut butter," I admitted, "but you can make sandwiches out of it in a pinch. There's bologna and salami, and liverwurst, and pickleloaf. My favorite is headcheese."

The four kids made wry faces.

"It's particularly good on rye with a little mustard," I continued. "So I think we'll manage to survive somehow. We'll just have to change our lifestyle, pull in our belts and show Jimmy Carter what we're made of. Meeting adjourned."

LATER THE SAME DAY I ran into a neighbor filling up her cart in front of the half-empty peanut butter section at [illegible].

"I hope you don't think I'm hoarding," she explained sheepishly, "but I have these kids who dote on peanut butter. So I'm going to give them a jar of peanut butter for Christmas."

Which is an excellent idea. I can't think of a better way to work the Christmas Club money into the grocery budget.

REGARDLESS of the cause of the peanut crisis, you can be sure that peanut butter never again will be one of those items you buy when you can't afford anything else. It has happened with coffee, sugar and other staples. There's a shortage – either real or manufactured – and the price goes up. Then the shortage miraculously ends, but the price – in total defiance of natural law – never comes down again.

It's the American Way.

AN IMPORTANT thing to remember in the continued manipulation of the nation's money supply by the Federal Reserve Board is that Chairman Paul Volcker's economic medicine to cure inflation doesn't work.

In recent weeks, Volcker and Co. have nudged up the discount rate at which banks borrow from the Fed, and banks, in turn, have boosted the prime rate for their very best customers to close to 20 percent.

All of which means the financing of homes and cars is clearly beyond the means of most Americans.

The Federal Reserve Board tried the same gimmick last spring, with very little effect on the inflation rate and very devastating effects on the nation's economy.

I can't for the life of me see what the Carter Administration and the Federal Reserve have against mandatory ceilings – not only for wages and prices but also for interest rates.

Of course, any type of regulation is anathema to the American free enterprise system. But when the economy runs wild, temporary controls certainly are preferable to total chaos.

Volcker wants to keep the horse in the barnyard by starving him. I'd just as soon build a better fence.

Centennial farms cited by new Michigan Dept. of State program

There is a sense of history in owning land for a long period of time, and when the same family owns a farm for 100 years, it is time for recognition.

That is why the Michigan History Division of the Department of State inaugurated its Centennial Farm Program in 1948.

Since settlement of Charlevoix County and the surrounding area did not begin in earnest until the early 1870's, the number of Centennial Farms in the area is still small, although one of them dates back to 1857.

In September, 1980, Patrick and Rose Bonner of Peaine Township on Beaver Island received Centennial Farm designation of their property. Their application noted that John Bonner acquired the farm in 1857 from James and Nancy Farrell and that it had been in continuous possession by the Bonner family since that time.

Archie M. Murphy and Georgia I. Murphy of South Arm Township received Centennial Farm designation of their property in November, 1967.

A. Michael Murphy, father of Archie, purchased 80 acres from the United States government in 1867. He was a native of the Province of New Brunswick in Canada and had lived in Maine before coming to Michigan. His occupation was listed as "lumbering and river driver".

The farm of William J. and Muriel L. Zoulek of South Arm Township was certified as a Centennial Farm in November, 1976.

Records indicate that Zoulek's grandfather, John Jacob Hilmowsky, a native of Bohemia, purchased approximately 40 acres from the United States government in October, 1876 for $8 an acre. In 1910, the farm was taken over by John J. Lenosky, Jr., an uncle of Zoulek, and in 1933, by Zoulek himself.

Perry E. Looze of Eveline Township is the third generation to own and operate the Looze farm, which was designated a Centennial Farm in 1979.

His grandfather, John Baptis Looze, purchased 40 acres at $1 an acre in September, 1874. Later, John's son, William Henry Looze, took possession of the farm, and finally Perry Looze and his wife, Frances.

According to the application, John Looze was born in Brussells, Belgium, and came to the United States in 1853. He served with a Wisconsin regiment during the Civil War, and after the war took up the homestead in Charlevoix County.

The Ralph Josifek farm in Jordan Township, near East Jordan, dates back to 1870, when Ralph's grandfather, Anton Jozifek, made application for an 80-acre homestead. He had immigrated from Moravia to Racine, Wisconsin with his wife and five children.

The Josifek farm was designated a Centennial Farm in November, 1970. Between Anton and Ralph Josifek, the farm had been owned by Anton Jozifek, Jr., Ralph's father. A maple hewn log house was built on the property in 1879 and was occupied by the family until 1922. It was also used for Catholic church services from 1879 to 1885.

Rex Lee Murray and his wife, Betty, received Centennial Farm designation in September, 1976 for their farm in Echo Township, Antrim County.

Rex's grandfather, George Murray, took up a homestead of 80 acres in September, 1876. He had come from Canada, and after taking up the homestead, engaged in logging for some time.

Between George Murray and Rex Murray, Rex's father, Clarence Murray, owned the property.

Raymond Murphy of Echo Township had been only the second owner of his farm property when he applied for Centennial Farm designation in March, 1978.

His father, John W. Murphy, came from New York State in 1869, to take up an 80-acre homestead. He was a Civil War veteran, and like many veterans, had chosen a homestead rather than a solder's pension.

George W. Stanek's farm in Jordan Township was designated a Centennial Farm in August, 1978. His grandfather, John Stanek, took out a homestead of 80 acres of land, which is part of the present farm, in 1878.

John Stanek was born in Austria and lived in Wisconsin for two years before coming to northern Michigan. The deed to the homestead wa signed by President Rutherford B. Hayes.

John's son, Frank, who was also the father of George Stanek, was the second owner of the farm, and in 1910 built the house that the family lived in for many years.

Owners of all farms designated Centennial Farms receive a certificate carrying the Great Seal of the State of Michigan and signed by the governor, the secretary of state, and the members of the Michigan Historical Commission.

Metal markers, provided from funds contributed by the Detroit Edison Company and Consumers Power Company, are also available to mark Centennial Farms.

In order to have a farm certified as a Centennial Farm, the owner must submit a notarized application indicating (1) The farm consists of 10 acres or more, with an estimated sales of $50 a year; or if less than 10 acres, gross sales of $250 a year. (2) Ownership has been in the same family 100 years. (3) Relationship of the present owner to the owner 100 years ago.

Application forms and other information on Centennial Farms may be obtained from Centennial Farm Program, Michigan History Division, Department of State, Lansing, Mic. 48918.

Chx. farms eligible for loans

Farmers in Charlevoix, Emmet and Cheboygan Counties who suffered production losses because of this summer's drought conditions are now eligible to apply for emergency loans through the Farmer's Home Administration.

In order to qualify, a farmer must have suffered losses in production of at least 20 percent, and must be unble to obtain sufficient credit from local commercial sources.

This announcement has been made by Duane L. Reid, local County Supervisor for the Farmer's Home Administration. Applications for assistance should be made at the FmHA office, 822-C Charlevoix Ave., Petoskey. The deadline for filing applications is Aug. 26, 1981, according to Reid.

New! Exciting! (and pleasantly old-fashioned)

With our new Money Mart at 838 Petoskey Ave. in Charlevoix, Michigan Bank-North has simplified getting a low interest bank loan right here in your area.

We sit down with you without the sometimes cold and crisp atmosphere of many banks and discuss your loan needs. Together, we fill out the paperwork in comfortable, informal surroundings, then send it to the bank, and that's it. In a very short time, your loan money will be available.

Our Money Mart isn't big or imposing.

We don't try to impress or overawe you. But we do provide a very private, confidential service without the usual tension you might have known when applying for loans in the past. You'll talk to one person whose only job is to help you.

Shop for a loan on the basis of terms, not just from the only game in town.

One of the important facts about Money Mart is that the loans you apply for are at low Simple Interest bank rates. And over the life of any loan, lower interest rates can save you important dollars. Best of all, you're no longer forced to feel that you have to deal only with a very few loan sources. Now, thanks to Money Mart, you can shop and compare. We may also surprise you with the amount of the loan we can arrange for you. Try us, and see!

We'll even custom tailor our office hours to fit your schedule.

Need to see us at 7 in the morning? Or maybe 8 at night? Call ahead, and we'll be there to serve you at your convenience. After all, you're our reason for being and not the other way around!

Waffle Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Medrick Waffle of Loeb Road recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversery with a reception at the American Legion Hall hosted by their daugher and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald [illegible].

Medrick Waffle and the former Rose O'Brien were married Oct. 25, 1930 in Hastings. They have lived in Charlevoix ever [illegible].

Garden Club meeting notes

Mrs. Orval Hicks will present a program entitled "Give a Living Legend to Christmas Plants" when the Charlevoix Garden Club meets Tuesday with Mrs. Paul Santek for its December meeting.

There will be an ornament exchange at the Christmas meeting to be held at 1 p.m. Mrs. J. O. Crawford will be the co-hostess.

At a recent workshop meeting of the club held at the Charlevoix Public Library, hosted by Mrs. Woodrow [illegible] the members worked on two projects. Mrs. Frank Webb headed a group that made scarecrow dolls of corn husks, burlap and colorful gingham while a second group, headed by J. J. Kang made small trees of pine cones and dried flowers as Christmas tray favors at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

During the fall, the civic beautification, especially the Petoskey Avenue garden, underwent a complete clean-up. A total of 150 tulip bulbs were planted in this garden in the island at the intersection of Michigan and Petoskey Avenues.

The Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, Inc. has adopted as its prime project for the year the Grass Lake Conservancy. The Charlevoix Garden Club is a member of the federation and anticipates being involved in this project.

The club opened its year with a meeting at the home of its president, Mrs. David [illegible]. Mrs. Don [illegible] was the co-hostess.

Suzanne Dye of the Little Traverse Conservancy told, with the aid of slides, of the Ransom Nature Preserve located in Hayes Township. Pamphlets showing trails on the property were distributed for the benefit of members who were planning visits to the area.

Members were also informed of the Tip of the Mitt Water Shed Council and the grass Lake Conservancy.

Other officers for the year are Mrs. Homer Brady, first vice president; Mrs. Crawfor, second vice president; Caroline Christiansen, recording secretary; Mrs. Jack Beatty, corresponding secretary and Mrs. Dorothy [illegible], treasurer.

Eastern Stars welcomes new members, sets plans

The November meeting of the Eastern Star was taken up with welcoming new members and announcing plans for December.

A School of Instruction will be held on Friday, Dec. 12, at 7:30 p.m., preceeded by a potluck dinner at 6 p.m. All members and visiting members are invited to attend.

On Tuesday, Dec. 16, the Chapter will serve refreshments for the Masonic Installation of Officers, and at their regular meeting on Wednesday, Dec. 17, they will have a Christmas party and $2 gift exchange.

Shut-in members will be remembered at Christmas with a gift assortment of cookies. Those members wishing to donate cookies are asked to take them to the home of Beverly Plum, at 212 West Hurlbut Street on Dec. 18 so the packages can be distributed before Christmas.

Member Opal Ingalls reported that Margarite Marshall of Mt. Pleasant received her Life Membership in the Charlevoix Chapter on her 70th birthday, which day was also her 50th wedding anniversary.

VFW Auxiliary to meet early for preparation

The auxiliary of Charlevoix V.F.W. post No. 1153 will meet at the post home at 8 p.m. Thursday, a week earlier than usual, to prepare the hall for the annual Christmas party and potluck for members of both organizations and their families.

At the Dec. 11 meeting, members will decorate the hall, trim the Christmas tree, and fill candy bags for Santa, who will pay a visit to the children during the potluck supper and Christmas party scheduled for Saturday, Dec. [illegible].

Members are asked to bring a dish to pass and their own table service and a $2 gift to exchange. Gifts and candy for the children will be distributed by Santa.

At the recent business meeting, Mrs. Donald White, membership chairman, urged members to pay their dues during the month of December in order that the Auxiliary may have a 100 percent membership registration in the district contest.

Plans for serving several catered dinners were discussed and the purchase of new equipment for the kitchen planned. Members were urged to write to Legislators regarding veterans' bills. Members were also urged to save Glen's Market green tapes for the cancer fund.

The next meeting of the Auxiliary was set for Thursday, Jan. 15, because of the Jan. 1 holiday which would be the regular meeting date.

Mrs. Kenneth Staley and Mrs. Edna Woodard served refreshments at a table decorated in a holiday motif.

Budget hearing set

Residents of Charlevoix County who are interested in County finances will have an opportunity to comment on the 1981 County budget on Tuesday, Dec. 23.

A public hearing on the budget is scheduled on that date at 2:30 in the afternoon in the Court House Annex in Charlevoix.

A copy of the budget will be available for public inspection at that time in the office of the County Clerk.

Ditlow engagement

Kari B. Ditlow and Craig D. Stewart have chosen next Valentine's Day for their wedding.

They will be married on February 14 in the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ditlow of Charlevoix, and the intended bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Stewart of Ellsworth.

Miss Ditlow is a 1979 graduate of Charlevoix High School and also attended Petoskey Beauty Academy. Mr. Stewart is a 1979 graduate of Ellsworth High School. He is presently employed as assistant manager of the Holiday Station Store in Charlevoix.

Knight named

Jim Knight of Charlevoix has been named the recipient of an Olivet College Honor Scholarship.

The scholarship, in the amount of $1,000, is given for scholastic ability and scores on the National ACT test.

The award was presented to Jim Sunday morning at the Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene by his father, Pastor Earnest Knight. Jim is a senior at Charlevoix High School, a member of the football team, and active in church activities. His future plans center around pre-med training.

Olivet Nazarene College is a denominational liberal arts college located in Kankakee, Ill.

Senior Citizens bazaar set

The Charlevoix County Senior Citizens bazaar will be held December 13 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the East Jordan Senior Citizen Center. Many hand made craft items will be offered for sale in time for Christmas presents.

Boys win big in opener

It is always risky to make any predictions about the rest of the season based on the [illegible].

But, if nothing else, Friday night's season opener was a good omen for the Charlevoix Rayders who won their first season opener in five years at Kalkaska with a 62-41 victory.

Charlevoix's dominance was especially evident under the boards where the Rayders outrebounded Kalkaska [illegible].

The Rayder offensive attack was led by Craig Klooster with 18 points and Ross Carey with 15.

Charlevoix led all the way in the ballgame. They went on top early and had established a 28-19 margin over Kalkaska by half time.

That lead was stretched to 44-29 by the third quarter allowing Rayder Coach Dave Moyer to freely substitute and give at least ten players some playing time.

After Klooster and Carey, scoring was balanced with Gary Drury and Paul Hoffman each scoring eight, Dave Buday, seven, Scott Kelly, four, and Jeff Drury, two.

Both teams' execution showed some early-season raggedness as a total of 59 turnovers were committed. Charlevoix actually led in the turnover category with 27 to [illegible].

Moyer attributed the offensive mistakes to first-game jitters and said that mistakes will hopefully decrease as the team progresses into its schedule.

Other statistical results showed Charlevoix ahead in assists 22-12, shooting percentage 47 percent to Kalkaska's 40 percent and free throw percentage, 36 percent to 30 percent.

The junior varsity Rayder team also came away with an easy victory in the first match of Friday's card topping the Kalkaska JVs [illegible].

For the Charlevoix JVs, Jeff Trimper had 13 points, Chris Putman 12, Tim LaBlance 10 and George Schmidt and Fred [illegible].

The Rayder varsity and junior varsity squads play this week Tuesday at Gaylord and then open at home Friday against Cheboygan with the JV tipoff scheduled for 6:30 [illegible].

Rayder sports fans are reminded of the all-you-can-eat chili supper sponsored by the Sports Boosters in the high school cafeteria preceding the Cheboygan game.

Dave Farmer goes for an escape.

Wrestlers drop one to Petoskey; take one 1st at tourney

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestling team opened its 1980-81 season Thursday against Petoskey and lost by a [illegible].

Coach Greg Bryan said the team did well against an experienced opponent. The Rayders have a group of enthusiastic freshmen, said Bryan, who lack valuable experience but put in a commendable effort against Petoskey.

Charlevoix's [illegible] their matches by pins. Gregg Whitley, wrestling at 145, pinned Pennell at 1:25 in the first period; Alan Bergmann at 167 pinned Galmore at 3:40 in the second period; Scott Golovich at 185 pinned Hudson in 35 seconds and heavyweight Ken Wojan stopped Baerwolf with a pin at 3:12 in the first period.

At 98 pounds, Jim Herriman lost to Walker by a pin in the first period; Dave Umlor (105) also lost by a first period pin to Pemberton; Mike Steele at 1[illegible] lost in a second period pin by Gibes; Rick Gallant was pinned in the first period by Pemberton; Mick Beify lost a [illegible]; Dave Farmer lost at 132 by a first round pin by Stradling; Tim Bruce at 138 lost to Schwartzfisher by a third round pin; Jeff Landon dropped an 11-4 decision to Ball and Petoskey's Scott won a forfeit at 190.

Four Charlevoix wrestlers made it to the finals in the Cadillac Invtiational tournament Saturday. Only Gregg Whitley, however, captured a first place as the Rayders finished near the bottom of the pack according to Coach Greg Bryan.

Whitley, wrestling at 145, won his ribbon in by a 6-3 decision in a scrappy finals [illegible].

Scott Golovich lost a 6-4 decision to place second in the 167 pound class; Alan Bergmann, who usually [illegible] took second at 185 losing 11-0 in the finals. Heavyweight Ken Wojan lost a close decision to Getzinger of Rogers City in the finals. Bryan said that these two will [illegible] during the season and should develop an interesting rivalry.

Bryan also praised [illegible] Jim Herriman at 98 and Mike Steele at 1[illegible] for good [illegible].

Mens' basketball results

In A-League action last week Village Inn Pizza cooked on Great Lakes Energy 82-63 after falling behind early in the game. Five V.I.P. players hit double figures in scoring including Jerry Skippergosh, 21, Vince Left, 18, Clint Bertage, 14, Bryan Van Loo, 11 and Larry Skippergosh, 10. For G.L.E., Al Lucas led the scoring with 23, Tony Williams [illegible].

The B-League All Stars shot past [illegible]. Jim [illegible] had 18 for the Stars along with Dale Buss who had 16 and Barney Way, 10. Dean Hicks hit 21 for the losers while Ron Spencer had 10.

The Townhouse took no prisoners in a 73-34 rout of I.D.C. Leading scorers for the winners were Dan McKenzie, 18, Steve Dunnetberg and Dave Strawbridge, 13 and Rick Leslie, 10. For I.D.C., Tex Dreuth had 13 points.

In B-League action December 3, Kit Carson dismantled Alray Cottages 70-33 with four players hitting double figures in scoring. They were Barney Way, 20, Larry Breck, 14, Mike Crain, 12 and Dale Buss, 10. For Alray, Tom Morrison had 12 and Steve McClellan 10.

Wojans shut down Medusa 64-53 led by Dave Moyer with 25 and Don Ward with 13. Jim Parrish hit 20 and Dave Swanson 12 for the losers.

First State Bank walked over Carey's Boat Shop 56-37 as Carey's could manage only three points in the first quarter. Steve Mathieu led the Bank with 19 points while LeRoy Buchanan and Roger Gowell had 13 and 10 points respectively. For Carey's, Aaron Brock and Pat Shedler each had nine points.

Girls eliminated in OT

By [illegible]

It took an overtime by the Lincoln-Alcona quintet to eliminate the Charlevoix girls basketball team from competition in the Class C Regional Tournament by a 40-34 margin at Grayling last week.

This marks the third time in as many years that Lincoln-Alcona has stopped a Regional bid for Charlevoix and Boyne City.

The Raydens, who gave the Tigerettes from across the state a close game all the way, lost in an overtime that [illegible] could not agree on a call that was thought to be a jump ball following a rebound but ended up sending Alcona to the free throw line.

In the overtime, Traci Aspey scored two field goals and Mindy Matuzak one for the opportunity to go against Reed City in the finals.

The game was played to an eight-eight tie in the first quarter. In the second period, however, Alcona outscored Charlevoix 10-6 to take an 18-14 halftime lead.

Going into the final period, Charlevoix took [illegible] lead and the score was knotted at 34 apiece when the final buzzer sounded.

Melinda Klooster, who has received All-State honors, closed out her prep career with 16 points in the game as Charlevoix shot a poor 20 percent from the floor. Coach Toni Felter had praise for the team, however, saying that they played outstanding ball. She singled out senior Mel Kerridge for playing a particularly good game.

"We lost to a good team," said Felter.

Lincoln-Alcona hit 17 field goals and six of 11 free throws while collecting 20 fouls. Charlevoix had 16 baskets from the floor and two of 10 free throws. The team had 15 personal fouls. Matuzak had 20 points and Aspey 10 for Alcona.

The game was the last for Charlevoix seniors Klooster, Kerridge, Teresa Noirot, Lisa Sandahl, Wendy Baker, Shari Jones and April Meadows.

The Rayders finished the season with an outstanding 17-3 record, the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference title and a Class C district title.

Stop the Great Heat Escape!

Window Quilt™ cuts window heat loss up to 79%

If you're serious about home heating efficiency, you already know that far more heat escapes through windows than walls, roof or doors. You can pack your walls with thick insulation, install tight fitting storms or double glazing. Even so, you'll most likely lose more than half your precious winter heat through your windows.

Window Quilt™ multi-layered thermal shades can eliminate up to 79% of winter heat loss through single glazed windows, as much as 66% through double paned glass.

Window Quilts fit tightly on all four sides, sealing warm air in and cold air out. They're easy to install and operate, easy to live with, far more efficient than ordinary shades or insulated drapes.

The secret of Window Quilt's amazing efficiency: A thin foil layer is surrounded by layers of insulating fiberfill with polyester covers, all quilted by ultrasonic stitching.

- Fits almost any size window, even 8' wide sliders
- More than twice as effective as storms, better than 4 glazings (R value 4.25)
- In snow country, with double glazing one sq. ft. saves 1 gal. oil per year
- Helps keep summer heat out — saves on air conditioning
- Attractive quilted design and neutral bone white color enhance any decor
- Payback is 2-5 years

Obituaries

MRS. PHILLIP FRANKIE

Committal services for a former resident, Mrs. Phillip Frankie, 79, were held Thursday at Barnard Cemetery. Rev Dan Minor of the East Jordan United Methodist Church officiated.

Funeral services for Mrs. Frankie were held Wednesday at the Leonard A. Purewski Funeral Home in Detroit.

Mrs. Frankie, the former Margaret Smith, died Dec. 1 at her Detroit home.

Born in Marion Township on May 16, 1901, Margaret Smith attended Charlevoix schools and was later employed in Detroit where she was married to Mr. Frankie October 24, 1928. They always made their home in Detroit. She was a member of St. Andrews United Methodist Church.

She is survived by her husband, one son, Dr. Richard Frankie of Washington, D.C. and a brother, Frank A. Smith of Charlevoix.

MABEL R. SPENCE

Funeral services for Mabel Richards Spence, 93, of London, Ontario and Charlevoix, were held Dec.1 at Logan's Funeral Home in London, Ontario. Interment will be in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery, London, Ontario.

Mrs. Spence died Nov. 26 at St. Joseph's Hospital in London, Ontario.

She had been a resident of London, Ontario most of her life and was the widow of William N. Spence. For the past three years, Mrs. Spence resided in Charlevoix with her daughter, Mrs. Edwin A. (Maurine) Loop.

In addition to her daugher, Mrs. Spence is survived by four grandchildren, including Jeannine Wallace of Charlevoix and eight great-grandchildren including Rebecca Wallace of Charlevoix and Maurine Wallace of Petoskey.

The family suggests memorials to the Arthritis Foundation, care of the First State Bank of Charlevoix.

BERNIE WARD, SR.

Funeral services for Bernie Ward, Sr., 76, were held Tuesday, Dec. 9, at the Winchester Funeral Home with the Rev. Carl M. Gunn, pastor of the First Baptist Church, and the Rev. James J. Plackner, pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church, officiating. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Mr. Ward died Thursday, Dec. 4, at St. Joseph Hospital in Port Charlotte, Fla., after he had been stricken at his [illegible], Fla. home.

Born in Essex, Michigan, March 27, 1904, Mr. Ward came to Ironton with his parents as a child. On Nov. 30, 1926, he was married to the former Maeoma Hall at Toledo, Ohio. They always made their home here. He was an agent for the Metropolitan Insurance Co. until he and his brother, Archie, established the Ward Brothers Boat Livery. The business also included a commercial fishing operation and charter boat service. Since retiring from the business after 45 years, Mr. Ward had spent the winter months in Florida. He was a member of the First Baptist Church and the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Surviving are his wife; a daughter, Mrs. Harry (Joan M.) Goldberg of Grand Rapids; two sons, Bernie, Jr. of Charlevoix and William J. of Farmington; nine grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Kenneth (Nellie) Krulik of Charlevoix and Mrs. Todd (Ethel) Baker of Port Charlotte, and a brother, Oscar W. Ward of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorials to the First Baptist Church.

ROSE H. WESTON

Mrs. Rose H. Weston of Cincinnati, Ohio and a frequent visitor to the Charlevoix area, died November 25. Services were held November 28 at the Spring Grove Mausoleum Chapel in Cincinnati. She is survived by her husband, Eugene, three sons, Donald, Alan and Paul, a sister, Edith Laprow of Kennebunk, Maine and nine grandchildren.

October building takes dip

The coming of winter was noted by the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection in November, when the number of permits issued dropped to 41 from 80 in October.

Only eight permits were for new residences, with 12 for residential additions and remodeling, five for residential outbuildings, two for garages, and two for decks and porches.

In the commercial category, three permits were issued for new buildings, three for commercial additions and remodeling, and two for commercial outbuildings.

In addition, one permit was issued for a demolition and one for a house relocation.

Construction costs covered by permits issued in the County during 1980 now exceed $10 million -- $10,302,120, to be exact.

November permits included 13 for construction in the City of Charlevoix, five for Hayes Township, four for Bay Township, three for Wilson Township, two for Charlevoix Township, two for Eveline Township, two for Hudson Township, two for Melrose Township, two for Boyne City, two for East Jordan, one for Boyne Valley Township, one for Marion Township, one for Peaine Township, and one for South Arm Township.

Names In The News

Army ROTC Cadet MARK A. REISING, son of Paul J Reising of Ann Arbor and Marilyn J. Reising of Charlevoix, was presented the Air Assault Badge upon graduation from the Air Assault School at Fort Campbell, Ky. Trainees learned to rapidly and safely exit a helicopter from a variety of difficult situations. Cadet Reising is a student at Michigan State University at East Lansing.

Ballots bearing the names of candidates for four upcoming vacancies of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce board of directors were mailed last week to all 190 members of the chamber, Jacque Merta, executive director of the chamber, has announced.

Candidates for the four vacancies are PHILIP KLUCZYNSKI, LOUIS METTLER, SUE REIS, GEORGE RICHARDSON, RICHARD SAYWARD, JEANNINE WALLACE and PETER PACE.

The terms of CLEMENT WAGNER, JACK UHRICK, LARRY EDWARDS and Pace will expire Dec. 31. Pace, who was named to fill an unexpired term, can be a candidate at this time. Ballots must be returned by Dec. 31

Postmaster says use zip, return address

Charlevoix Postmaster Joe Schwartzfisher has announced that the Charlevoix Post Office will be kept open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, December 13 and Saturday, December 20 to accomodate heavy sales of Christmas stamps and holiday mailings.

Schwartzfisher also reminded area customers to include zip codes, return addresses and proper postage to get the best service on their mailings. He urged people to double-check Christmas mailings for the correct address and said that by putting a return address on each card, it helps those who receive the card to keep their records current on the sender's address.

If the family to whom a card is sent moved more than a year ago, it cannot be forwarded, said Schwartzfisher. The post office also has labels available for the sorting of mail into local and out of town bundles. By using these labels, cards will not have to be sent to Gaylord for sorting.

Davis aide sets county office hours

Congressman Bob Davis' District Representative, Charles P. Goddeyne, will be in Charlevoix County next week.

On Tuesday, Dec. 16, he will have office hours in East Jordan at the City Hall Council Chambers from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. On Wednesday, Dec. 17, he will have office hours in Boyne City at the City Hall from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m., and in Boyne Falls at the Village Hall from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. He will also have lunch with the Senior Citizens in Boyne City from 11:15 p.m. to 1 p.m. at the City Hall Auditorium.

Any person wishing to discuss a matter involving federal, state or local government or their agencies is invited to visit with Goddeyne. No appointment is necessary.

Big-Little Brothers-Sisters: A Gift Of Friend Ship Counts!!

Call Nancy Wood 616-547-6314

What is a Little Brother or Little Sister?

A Little Brother or Little Sister is a child needing friendship, affection, advice, and guidance. He or she may have problems at home or school, and may be deprived of on or both parent

A Little Brother or Little Sister is a child whose life would be richer and happier if he or she had a special adult friend to whom to turn

A Little Brother or Little Sister is between the ages of 8 and 17

Little Brothers and Sisters are referred by their families, schools, social service agencies, clergymen, relatives and courts

A Little Brother or Little Sister is a child waiting to return a Gift of Friendship

He stooped to help one small boy

Snow swirled along the sidewalks, spinning against the gutters as Irwin Westheimer glanced out the window of his Cincinnati office building.

It was February; 1903 had just begun its second month

Westheimer would have turned once more to the stack of papers on his desk in the offices of the family liquor business, except his attention was caught by a small figure. Looking closer, Westheimer could see it was a child and a small dog being battered by chill winds

The child seemed unaware of the storm around him as he lifted the lid of a garbage can and peered into the container

Westheimer watched as the child began rummaging through the garbage can, pawing at the refuse eagerly. He chose some bits and pieces carefully, rejecting others.

When Westheimer could stand it no longer, he wrapped himself in his topcoat, pulling his muffler snuggly around his neck and dashed into the street

The child looked startled to see the man in the flapping coat sail toward him. He stopped his garbage can treasure hunt and seemed poised for flight as Westheimer drew near

Before the child could run, Westheimer called to him.

"Hey, you, what are you doing there?"

"Nothing, sir. Only trying to find something to eat," came the reply. The child, a boy, could have been eight years-old but his eyes made him appear much older.

Westheimer's hand, placed gently on the youth's shoulder, could feel the bones beneath the tattered coat

"Would you like a bowl of soup, my boy?" asked Westheimer

They trudged to a nearby restaurant and settled themselves into a quiet corner. The meal the lad ordered could have satisfied a field hand. Not a crumb remained when he finally leaned back in his chair, a smile beginning to bloom.

That was Westheimer's first meeting with his young friend, but it was not his last. Before long, Westheimer, then age 23, and several of his friends began to meet regularly with young men who needed friendship and support. That's how the first chapter of Big Brothers was formed.

In 1908, the first Big Sisters organization was formed in New York City. The two organizations merged in 1977 and were chartered by Congress

Today, 385 agencies, including Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Charlevoix County, Inc., serve more than 130,000 youngsters.

Working with school-age boys and girls, the Big Brothers and Big Sisters provide friendship and support at a time when it is most needed

The goal of the organization is to encourage positive inner and outer changes in young people, including a strengthened sense of self-worth and improved relations and performance at home, in school and in the community

And the benefits to the volunteer adults are as rewarding as to the children.

But what of Irwin Westheimer? What became of him?

He still lives in Cincinnati and celebrated his 100th birthday September 19. On that day, a plaque was placed in the heart of Cincinnati on the Skywalk overlooking Fountain Plaza. On it is Westheimer's personal philosophy:

"No man ever stands so straight as when he stoops to help a boy."

Purposes -- Fun Trips and Picnics

One winter 75 Little Brothers and Sisters, and their adult friends, joined Hilton Shanty Creek's annual "Irish Shanty Holidays."

Racing down the hills in over sized inner tubes, learning to cross country and downhill ski, spinning across the snow on flying saucers, left the kids and adults with indelible memories

That was just one of the five annual outings that Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Charlevoix County host for their members

One summer the group visited Beaver Island. In the spring they had spent a day riding horses at Sogonosh Stables in Harbor Springs. In December they ice skated at Boyne Mountain. And a hayride at the Mike Kiteley farm was enjoyed this past year too! One of the favorites each winter is swimming in the heated pool at The Holiday Inn.

Whether playing games, taking leisurely hikes or enjoying the hot dog roast picnics that are always part of the day, the children and adults have a chance to meet each other, to share ideas and experiences

"These occasions are especially important for the kids, who discover they are not the only ones with Big Brothers or Big Sisters," Nancy Wood comments

Getting to know each other and having fun are the only requirements on these trips.

What is a Big Brother or Big Sister?

A Big Brother or Sister is an average person who thinks he or she can be a friend and guide to a child seeking help

A Big Brother or Sister has friendship and companionship to offer.

A Big Brother or Sister is a volunteer

A Big Brother or Sister is a person, over 18, who understands and appreciates the art of friendship

Friendship Has Many Faces

When Joey was eight and his sister Anne, five, their father was sent to prison. Both children had been victims of abuse. While their mother worked full time, their alcoholic father lost job after job, taking his frustrations and anger out on the child. He was eventually arrested for robbery.

Joey and Anne were referred to Big Brothers/Big Sisters by the Charlevoix County Health Department

Joey's Big Brother was a young man who worked an early shift, so he met Joey after school. In the winter they bowled, talked, went to games, or worked on Joey's school problems. Summers they spent their time together pursuing the Big Brother's favorite sports -- fishing and motor boating

They were Big Brother - Little Brother for nearly ten years. Today they are still close friends

Joey is a sophomore at Michigan State University, studying biology -- an interest he credits to his Big Brother and the summers they spent on the water

Anne's Big Sister is an older woman who still finds time to call at least once a week to chat with her Little Sister. She has helped Anne obtain a number of part time jobs and has listened sympathetically as Anne talked of her problems growing up.

Today Anne is in high school, doing well, and considering a career as an executive secretary

The Board of Directors is actively seeking members from the Boyne City and East Jordan and Charlevoix areas. To be a member of the Board of Directors one need not necessarily be a Big Brother or Big Sister. People interested in serving on the Board of Directors should call or write Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Charlevoix --547-6314.

Ask Santa to Bring a Big Brother

Jim, a friendly, bright, eight year old, hopes Santa Claus will bring him a Big Brother. His own father died when he was nine months old

Jim's mother, too, hopes a Big Brother will come along for him. She is an older woman who finds that the age difference between her son and herself makes communication increasingly difficult. She knows he is somewhat coddled by not having a man with whom he can roughhouse, play and learn.

Jim needs a patient and kind Big Brother.

Report warns of rough fiscal waters ahead for city

by DAVE KNIGHT

Just as they do with almost every other level of government lately, fiscal problems face the City of Charlevoix according to City Treasurer Robert D. Muma who submitted a financial report on three quarters of 1980 to the City Council Monday night.

In the city's general fund, an estimated net short fall of $7679 was reported by Muma who attributed a total general fund shortage of $22,679 to a loss of $12,034 in state funding, over-expenditures of $5906 at the Municipal Golf Course and under-receipts of $4738 at the golf course.

On the plus side, $2000 less than had been budgeted was spent on parking enforcement through lower wages and no maintenance, $8000 was saved in wages for the Parks Dept. by use of CETA employees and $5000 was saved in the motor pool because of low bids received on equipment last year.

The city's street funds are endangered, said Muma in the report, by an increasingly lower amount of State Shared Gas Tax received by the city. Recent trends toward conservation have reduced the use of gasoline statewide and thus the gas tax collected by the state.

If the trend continues, according to Muma, the budget for work on local streets could fall as much as $4000 short and that for major streets as much as [illegible].

Both Muma and City Manager James Brinker mentioned that a mild winter such as last year's will help stretch the street funds but that some layoffs in street crews may be neccessary if the fiscal and climatic conditions both [illegible].

City residents can expect a serious discussion by the council on raising water rates after the first of the new year if they follow the recommendation of Muma.

In the report he states, "I feel we need a (water) rate increase, we are the lowest in the area and have not had an increase since 1973."

Muma goes on to say, however, that an increase should not be enacted without an independent study by an outside party.

Two consent agreements were authorized by the council Monday night settling out of court two long-standing legal disputes involving the city.

The deteriorating stone and cement wall on the west side of Bridge St. between Antrim and Hurlbut will be repaired by the city, in a settlement with William P. Kusina. As the other part of the agreement, Kusina will accept ownership of the wall and be responsible for any future [illegible].

The cost for repair of the wall has been estimated at about [illegible].

In another settlement, Welke Aviation of Charlevoix will pay $7500 owed the city by the charter flying firm. The city, in return, will put that amount toward an addition to the existing terminal building at the Charlevoix Airport which will then be available to Welke Aviation for use as a fixed base. A deadline of December 31, [illegible] was set for completion of the addition.

In other matters relating to the airport, the council discussed at length the agreement on fees and insurance drawn up for McPhillips Flying Service which was awarded the fixed base operator's concession by the council earlier this fall. Also discussed was the proposed Airport Manager's contract which did not satisfy the designated manager, Joseph McPhillips.

No action was taken on either matter until further information is obtained by council members.

With labor negotiations coming up involving two employee unions, the council opted to retain the professional negotiating firm of Jacobs and Ward from Kalamazoo to handle the city's side in the talks.

Aldermen also voted unanimously to establish ordinances banning all bicycles on Bridge Street sidewalks downtown and prohibiting the jumping or diving off any bridge in the city.

Fire destroys Norwood home

The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Bellinger in the village of Norwood was completely gutted by a fire of undetermined origin last Thursday. The one hundred year-old house was first noticed buring by a neighbor at about 2 p.m. The Bellingers were not home at the time. Firemen from the Charlevoix City Fire Department responded to the call with assistance from Charlevoix Township units. By the time firemen arrived, however, the blaze had consumed most of the home's interior and was threatening the roof and garage. Gusting winds fanned the fire but kept it away from the garage which was undamaged.

Bomb threat prompts HS evacuation

A bomb threat phoned into the Charlevoix High School last Thursday caused the immediate evacuation of the building and the cancellation of classes for that afternoon.

An anonymous call was taken at about 12:25 p.m. Thursday at the school. The caller said a bomb would go off in the school that afternoon but gave no other details.

After meeting with Superintendent Gordon Van Wieren and Police Chief Jack Mol, Vane Smith, high school principal, ordered the evacuation of the building, sending those students who don't ride the bus home and directing bus riders to come back at 2:30 p.m.

A 55-minute search of the building turned up no sign of explosives. Participating in the search were personnel from the city police department, fire department and sheriff's office.

Two more winners!

Two more winners will take home gift certificates this week as the Charlevoix Courier Basketball Contest goes into its third round. Russ Carey, 104 Upright, Charlevoix, was this week's big winner guessing all but two of the winners. Russ will receive a $10 gift certificate for first place. John Thurman, Barnett Rd., Charlevoix, is the second place winner and will receive a $5 gift certificate for his efforts. This week's games for the contest can be found on page 12 of today's Courier.

Chx. County eligible for emergency farm loans

Gov. William G. Milliken announced last week that Charlevoix County is one of six Michigan counties designated for federal emergency loans due to losses caused by adverse weather conditions. Other counties named by the Farmers Home Administration of the U.S. Department of Agriculture were Benzie, Cheboygan, Emmet, Huron and Menominee.

Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet counties suffered from severe drought between July 1 and August 31, 1980. Freezing temperatures and high winds caused damage in Benzie County during April, 1980. In Menominee County, hail storms and high winds cause damaged crops on July 21 and 22, 1980 and excessive rainfall was responsible for crop losses in Huron County throughout the summer.

Farmers in the six counties who believe they are eligible for emergency loans should contact their county Farmers Home Administration offices before August 26, 1981.

Lake six inches down: Corps

The elevation for Lake Michigan (and Lake Charlevoix) at the end of november was about six inches below what it was one year ago and about five inches below one month ago.

This information is contained in a recent Water Levels News Letter put out by the Detroit District U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The Corps forecasts that the lakes will be above the long-term average level during the next six months.

However, the seasonal decline will continue into February. By the end of December, the elevation will be about three inches below that at the end of November.

At the end of May, 1981, the lakes are expected to be one inch below what they were at the same time in 1980. The May mean would be above the long-term average for that month, but 17 inches below the all-time high mean for May, [illegible].

Bob Miles, local photographer and historian, furnished the above picture and the following commentary:

"In the early nineties, a wooden observation tower we built on top of Mt. McSauba as a commercial venture. For 25 cents, one could climb to the top of the 60-foot structure and enjoy, on a clear day, the most magnificent view in all of Michigan. To the southwest, Grand Traverse Bay; to the west, the Manitou Islands, the Foxes; northwest, the Beavers; north, Cross Village and the great sand bluffs; northeast, Harbor Springs on Little Traverse Bay; east, Petoskey on the south shore of Little Traverse Bay; east, Lake Charlevoix (then called Pine Lake) at the far end of which could be seen Boyne City; southeast, East Jordan at the end of the South Arm; to the south, Charlevoix-the-Beautiful, like a crown of green velvet surrounding a blue sapphire. County board extends life of transit system for at least another 33 months

By [illegible]

The Charlevoix County Transit System will operate for at least 33 months unless the County or the State Department of Transportation advises the other party to the contract of its intent to cancel at lease six months prior to desired cancellation date.

A resolution passed by the County Board of Commissioners last week called for 33 months of operation beginning January 1, 1981 and continuing through September 30, 1982, with "financing as stated in the contract agreement"

The original contract with the Department of Transportation calls for 100 percent funding for the Transit System for two years and 75 percent for the third year. However, Commissioner John Haggard reminded the Board of Commissioners that the Board is on record with a statement that any local funding (25 percent for the third year) would be put on the ballot for public approval before being approved by the Board of Commissioners.

Since 100 percent funding will end on December 31, [illegible], a decision on continuing the service after that date will have to be made by June 30, 1981.

While the formal resolution did not mention a dollar sum, Marvin Loding, head of the Commission on Aging Committee, noted that total funding would amount to $640,000.

Babies born at the Charlevoix Area Hospital during this Christmas season will go home in a warm stocking. Sewn by the members of the Hospital Guild, the new-born size Christmas stockings have been a long standing tradition at the hospital.

More phones cause rate hike for Walloon

There are now more telephones in Walloon Lake's local calling area than there are in many nations of the world.

Because of growth in telephones in Walloon Lake's local calling area, Michigan Bell asked last week for the state Public Service Commission (PSC) to reclassify the exchange to the next higher rate group.

Reclassification will mean that residence customers in Walloon Lake will pay 41 cents more a month for one-party flat rate service and 31 cents more for two-party flat rate service.

Suburban service wil cost 32 cents more a month. There will be no change in rate for two-party measured service (Budget Service).

One-party flat rate business service will be increased 91 cents a month and PBX flat rate business service will go up $1.36 a month.

Business customers with suburban service will pay 60 cents more a month.

The telephone company asked for reclassification of the Walloon Lake exchange from group "A" to group "B" because the number of phones in the local calling area has remained above the 12,000 upper limit of "A" exchanges for the past 12 months.

Rate group "B" consists of telephone exchanges with between 12,001 and 36,000 main phones.

Under PSC regulations, when the number of telephones in an exchange's local calling area moves above or below its rate group limits for a period of 12 consecutive months, the exchange is reclassified to its proper rate group.

Rate group classifications are based on the number of main telephones in the local calling area because as the number of telephones increases, explained Michigan Bell local manager E.W. "Mike" Reid, so do the opportunities for local calling. This means that Walloon Lake residents can call more than 12,000 business and residence phones now in their local calling area by dialing a seven-digit number, said Reid.

Michigan Bell has sent written notification to Walloon Lake residents affected by the reclassification request. The PSC must approve the company's request and set the effective date for the rate changes.

Ten years ago, there were about 7,700 in Walloon Lake's local calling area, said Reid, which means that the number of telephones in the Walloon Lake local calling area has increased by 56 percent since 1970.

Recall proceeds for four EJ Board members; three others exempt

By [illegible]

County Clerk Jane Brannon has verified the form of the recall petitions for four members of the East Jordan School Board and turned them over to the East Jordan City Clerk and the township clerks in the East Jordan School District for verification of signatures.

The petitions ask for the recall of Mary Jason, Tom Galmore, Bob Sherman, and Herb Griffen, stating "He (she) has improperly exercised the prerogatives of his (her) office and failed to act in the best interest of the East Jordan Public Schools by not listening to and acting upon the will of the citizens of the School District as it relates to granting employees binding arbitration for their grievances."

Three other board members, Ed Drenth, Shirley Bauer, and Dan Nachazel, were exempt from the recall because of a state law that requires elected officials to serve for six months before they are subject to recall. These three were elected last June.

If the signatures on the petitions are verified, the question of recalling Mrs. Jason, Galmore, Sherman, and Griffen will be put to a vote at a later date.

Binding arbitration has been the chief point of difference in negotiations between the School Board and [illegible].

Knight on the Town

Dear Santa...

[redacted]

First, I want to make sure you know [redacted] that you have my change of address. I submitted it some time ago because I know these things take time. I hope you don't have the same type of address change system as National Geographic - if so, I'll look for you around Easter.

You are probably looking through my file right now so I want to explain a couple things before you get the wrong [redacted]

Yes, I did kick the dog a few times but he likes that. Really! The experts call that tactile communication and generally agree that it helps strengthen bonds between pet and master. Some people pet their animals, some pat them. I happen to like using my foot. Especially when the living room carpet is involved.

[redacted]

You've also probably got something in there from a waitress claiming I only tipped her a quarter after a five dollar meal. Honest, Santa, she didn't give me a chance to explain.

That was not just any quarter. If she would have looked at it more closely before throwing it she would have noticed it was a '67 " D" which, my inside sources tell me, will some day be a real collectible. Besides, if the pecan pie in that joint wasn't so danged expensive I would have had more left over to give her.

Oh, and I suppose you are wondering about that Mobil Oil bill that went a couple months last summer. That's easy to explain.

I figured that with the terrible press the big oil companies were getting about their profits being up 400 percent and so forth, it was my duty as an American to help slow down their cash flow a bit until the storm blew over.

You will notice that I sent the check right after the quarterly OPEC meeting so that our boys can keep that exploration going.

Before you get to the part about my language on Thanksgiving Day, I want to point out that, over the year, my cussing has been way down. I am mellowing out, Santa, really.

I realize that Thanksgiving, of all times, is not the time to talk like I did but by any chance did you see the Lions game that day? If ever there was a case of justifiable foulmouth, that was it.

And the fact that I may have slipped again last weekend is unfortunate but you know how I feel about the Vikings. I have mentioned on a separate sheet what I hope the all the Vikings get for Christmas and I also hope they have enough Cruex on hand to take care of it.

Didn't mean that, Santa.

While we are on the subject of sports, I think you know me well enough, Santa, to know that I did not trip that guy on purpose in the Northport soccer game last fall. I was making an honest attempt at the ball and could not help it if the goon didn't know I was going to stick my foot out in the process. Besides, he didn't hit any rocks when he fell so there was no real harm done.

The second time, I had a sudden muscle spasm in my upper thigh and was completely helpless. You will note that the third time, even though he took a swipe at me when I tried to help him up, I didn't hit back. Restraint and good sportsmanship; that's me all over, [redacted]

I hope you realize what a tough year it has been to keep a clean record. Seems like there are more temptations every day. Sometimes I have to sit back and wonder if being a good person is really worth the trouble.

If my wife and I keep eating hamburger, will the mortgage rates really come down? If I help an old lady up after she falls, how do I know I won't get sued for wrenching her back? If I skip a cigarette now and then will I really tack on five or ten years to hang around? If I keep praying for the hostages, will the Ayatollah ever know [redacted]

It's been tough, Santa.

But it's on the record now and I realize that there's nothing I can say or do at this point to sway your opinion. By the way, if you have any questions on my file, I can be reached at home where I'll be helping my wife with the laundry or giving the dog a bath or cleaning up my desk or watching "Little House on the Prairie" or...

Bob Clock

Days will lengthen soon

MY FAVORITE day in the whole [redacted] celestial solstice Dec. 22, the first official day of winter.

No, I haven't suddenly joined the [redacted] Quite the contrary. To us sunworshipers, the winter solstice simply means that from now on the days will be getting longer.

The changes will be miniscule at first, with a few more seconds of sunlight at the beginning and ending of each day.

But seconds have a way of turning into minutes and minutes into hours. By the summer solstice next June 21 we'll have more daylight than we know what to do with.

Of course, it late April we'll switch back to Daylight Saving Time, which will tack another hour of sunlight to the end of the day.

[redacted] the human race living in the Northern Hemisphere have held festivals in late December since the beginning of time in celebration of the winter solstice.

Others go so far as to claim that Christ's birthday celebration has been incorporated into winter solstice festivities. Since we don't have a precise date for Christ's birth, it is entirely possible.

In any event, it's a glorious time of year — regardless of what you are celebrating.

THE WIND Saturday night was enough to drive a body bananas, with some unofficial "wind watchers" clocking gusts of up to 80 miles per hour in the Charlevoix area.

The big maples around our house creaked and groaned all night and I half expected one of them to drop in as an uninvited house guest. Fortunately, they all held their ground — although damage would have been quite severe if they had still been in leaf.

None-the-less, in the morning there were enough tree limbs down in the street and yard to feed our parlor stove the rest of the day.

Mother Nature has a way of squaring accounts — but sometimes I wish she would do it with less gusto.

THE WIND, incidentally, played havoc with Charlevoix's downtown street decorations. Sunday morning every lamp pole had at least part of its garland swaying from the yardarm — almost as if Old Man Winter were planning a necktie party.

Store decorations on Bridge Street, by the way, have never looked better and shop windows are fairly bristling with attractive merchandise. Most merchants reportedly would appreciate a little more foot traffic, but I haven't [redacted]

Of course I am sorry to see those vacant shops south of the bridge — but the promised upturn in the economy next year should help find some new [redacted]

I SEE BY the papers that ChryslerCorp. needs another hand-out from the federal Loan Advisory Board. I have had qualms about the Chrysler loans right along — then I remember that small businesses have been benefitting from the largess of the federal government for years via the [redacted]

The austere New York Times believes Chrysler Corp. has earned a second chance because of its performance in the past few months. The equally austere Wall Street Journal thinks it is time to put Chrysler out of its misery.

On this one, I'll have to go along with with New York Times. If Chrysler folds in the end, we all will have learned a good — albeit costly — lesson.

Letters: Sporny was great

To the Editor;

The Dave Sporny Jazz Clinic and Concert held at the high school on Thursday, December 11 was a resounding success. About 200 students participated in the afternoon clinics and a large crowd was on hand to hear the Big Band perform in the evening.

Many thanks go to the high school custodians and to the following merchants for ticket sales and publicity: Charlevoix Camera, Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, Dockside Pharmacy, Harbor Harware, Central Drug, Carey's Boot Shop, Liebermans, Bahnhof, Appletree, Edwards IGA, Crown Drug, Captain's Kids, Charlee's; Wynn Office Supply and the Medicine Chest in Petoskey and the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce.

A special thank-you to the Crooked Tree Arts Council for their financial support and help with publicity.

Stenberg brings colorful background in industry, college sports to Charlevoix

[redacted]

Meet Charlevoix

Robert E. Stenberg, a leader in the field of personnel management and employee relations, has moved to [redacted] consulting firm with offices in [redacted] Street. This week the Courier [redacted] with Stenberg about his new business venture, about his long career with the Ford Motor Company, and about [redacted]

Robert E. Stenburg

COURIER: What is your consulting firm called?

STENBERG: Stenberg Associates, Personnel [redacted]

COURIER: What type of service will you provide to business and industry?

STENBERG: Specialized consulting service in the personnel management areas involving equal employment opportunity and personnel [redacted]

[redacted] Give us some [redacted]

STENBERG: Business and industry people have to deal with an ever-increasing and more complex variety of equal employment opportunity issues ranging from government mandated affirmative action plans to complicated and difficult employee relations problems. I feel we can provide or supplement the expertise which is required to meet these business problems and challenges.

COURIER: What particular expertise do you have that would be useful in providing such consulting service?

STENBERG: First and foremost, I have extensive experience as a business person, which provides me with an understanding of management problems generally. Secondly, I was Ford Motor Company's Equal Employment Planning Manager on its Corporate Personnel and Organization Staff for a number of years and became involved in the rapidly evolving EEO field as early as August, 1968, when Title VII of the Civil Rights Act and Executive Order 11246 began to impact employers considerably. Accordingly, I have extensive experience with Federal Government Compliance programs, civil rights complaint handling and affirmative action planning for a major corporation...experience which I believe can be useful to business people.

COURIER: Is it true you might be called upon by the Reagan administration to serve as a White House consultant or advisor to the Senate Labor Committee concerning equal employment opportunity matters?

STENBERG: I have indicated my interest in assuming that type of role, but I have no indication as yet that I will be asked to take on such an assignment. I believe I would find such an assignment interesting and challenging....nothing official on this as of now, I hasten to [redacted]

COURIER: We recently read that Ford was involved in a mult-million dollars settlement of a long-standing Equal Employment Opportunity Commission charge of discrimination. [redacted]

STENBERG: I cannot comment for Ford on this matter, as I am sure you understand. However, I believe it is common knowledge that under its agreement with the EEOC, Ford will spend about 23 million dollars to carry out special hiring, promotion, training and other affirmative action programs for minorities and women. The agreement spans a five-year period and probably will begin no later than early 1981, when business conditions improve. You are probably aware that the EEOC brought charges against several major companies in 1973, including General Motors, Sears, and [redacted]

COURIER: Can you comment on the status of the other charges?

STENBERG: I understand the charge against GM is still pending and it is a matter of public record that Sears is the defendant in some lawsuits brought against it by the EEOC, which for the most part have their genesis in their 1973 charge. Beyond that, you will have to check with GM, Sears, or the EEOC.

COURIER: Are these tyes of charges unusual?

STENBERG: No. Many companies have to deal with charges of this type, but usually they involve individual facilities rather than the corporation as a whole. On the other hand, the AT&T case and the Steel Industry settlements of a few years ago were broad in scope and impact.

COURIER: Would your consulting firm be able to help a company facing charges of this type?

STENBERG: Yes, I believe we would be able to be of [redacted]

COURIER: How did you get started in personnel work?

STENBERG: After I got out of the Marine Corps in 1946, I was hired by Ford in their personnel department. Through the years I worked my way up through a variety of industrial relations and personnel professional and executive positions.

COURIER: Where did you go to college?

Women's Club hears director of Women's Resource Center

Jan Mancinelli, director of the Women's Resource Center in Petoskey which serves the Northern Michigan area, was the guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Area Hospital. She spoke on the facility which she heads, told of the services it offers what the needs are.

A recent Christmas workshop was held at the home of Mrs. Annabelle Webb at which wreaths and other decorations were made for use at the hospital during the holiday season. The hospital was decorated Nov. 28 for the season.

It was announced that the pre-Christmas showing by the Guild gift shop, the Showcase, grossed $1700 in two days. Profits from the event will go toward the Guild's pledge to the expansion and renovation [illegible]

The next meeting is scheduled for Feb. 9 at which time Richard Krueger, hospital administrator, will [illegible]

Ed Rebman

Rebman retires

Ed Rebman is retiring as Cooperative Extension Director for Charlevoix County after more than 35 years on the job.

Rebman told the County Board of Commissioners last week that he will relinquish the post on May 1, 1982. At that time, he will have served for 35 years and eight months, making him the oldest in years of service of any Extension Director in Michigan.

A native of Copemish, where he grew up on a farm, Rebman graduated from Michigan State University with a degree in farm management and math, in 1940. Later on, while working as Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Director, he earned a master's degree in extension work.

Rebman and his wife, Virginia, have lived in Boyne City during his entire career as Extension Director. They have three grown daughters and one grown son.

Following retirement, Rebman will have more time for his hobbies of fishing and hunting, and perhaps even for barbecuing chicken, an avocation at which he is particularly good.

John W. Campbell

Campbell named bank director

G.R. Wellman, president of the Charlevoix County State Bank, announced this week that John W. Campbell was elected to the bank's board of directors at the board's December 13 meeting.

Campbell is president of Site Planning Development, Inc., an outgrowth of Site Planning Design and Development, a landscape design and construction firm originated by Campbell in 1971.

Prior to 1971, Campbell was a teacher in the U.S. Department of Defense in Germany and France and a teacher in the Grand Rapids public schools. He is a graduate of Middleville High School, Middleville, Michigan and a graduate of Michigan State University with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Special Education, Science and Mathematics and a Bachelor Degree in Landscape Architecture. He is also a graduate of the School of Urban Planning and Landscape Architecture.

Campbell is a registered landscape architect and a licensed residential builder. He lives at 309 E. Dixon Ave. with his wife Mary Lee and four daughters. He is a member of the Congregational Church and serves on the board of trustees.

MONEY MART
New! Exciting! (and pleasantly old-fashioned)

With our new Money Mart at 838 Petoskey Ave. in Charlevoix, Michigan Bank-North has simplified getting a low interest bank loan right here in your area.

We sit down with you without the sometimes cold and crisp atmosphere of many banks and discuss your loan needs. Together, we fill out the paperwork in comfortable, informal surroundings, then send it to the bank and that's it. In a very short time, your loan money will be available.

Our Money Mart isn't big or imposing.

We don't try to impress or overawe you. But we do provide a very private, confidential service without the usual tension you might have known when applying for loans in the past. You'll talk to one person whose only job is to help you.

Shop for a loan on the basis of terms, not just from the only game in town.

One of the important facts about Money Mart is that the loans you apply for are at low Simple Interest bank rates. And over the life of any loan, lower interest rates can save you important dollars. Best of all, you're no longer forced to feel that you have to deal only with a very few loan sources. Now, thanks to Money Mart, you can shop and compare. We may also surprise you with the amount of the loan we can arrange for you. Try us, and see!

MONEY MART

We'll even custom tailor our office hours to fit your schedule.

Need to see us at 7 in the morning? Or maybe 8 at night? Call ahead, and we'll be there to serve you at your convenience. After all, you're our reason for being and not the other way around!

Engagements

Renick-Hall

Mr. and Mrs. James Renick of Eudora, Kansas announce the engagement of their daughter, Debra Lynn, to Lt. Frank Hull, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hull of Trenton and North Point, Charlevoix. Miss Renick is an executive secretary and administrative assistant for the Lawrence, Kansas Division of Curtis 1000, a corporation selling business supplies. Lt. Hull, an airborne ranger, is a 1979 graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point. He is now a member of the Army's Rapid Deployment Force serving with the 35th Field Artillery stationed at Ft. Stewart, Georgia. The couple plans to be married December 20 at the United Methodist Church in Eudora, Kansas.

Grandvue residents named for gift-givers

There is nothing more heartbreaking than being forgotten at holiday time.

In order that the residents of Charlevoix County may remember friends and former neighbors who are now confined to the Grandvue Medical Care Facility, the Courier is publishing the names of the patients who are in the area for skilled nursing and those who are in the recently opened Supervised Residential Residential Care unit.

A Christmas greeting would brighten the day of any patient and a personal visit would be considered a real Christmas gift.

If you would like to give a gift, especially of food, it is advisable to call the facility and check with the staff for many patients are on restricted diets for one reason or another.

Patients and their home communities are:

Boyne City: Florence Bryan, Grace Lee, [illegible] Bussing, Jessie McCutcheon, Alfred and Beryl Dietz, Lauretta Speltz, Mattie Ferris, Mildred McPherson, Earl Brotherston, John Chipman, Ivy Robinson, William Behling.

Others from Boyne City are Martin Wicker, Herbert Gould, Leonard Nelson, Ruth Fogarty, Eva Erfourth, Donna Dean, Florence Watson, Mabel Griffith, Erma Close, Adeline Copeland, Estella Gould, Pearl Thompson, Eva Maul, Beatrice Sumner, Lucy Gray, Lena Griffin.

East Jordan: Albert Johnecheck, Cyril McKenny, Vern Whiteford, Gale Groesser, Joseph Kraemer, Alfred Kast, Nancy Dressner, Marie Mosher, Virginia Decker, Leola Blanchard, Gladys McKinnon, Anna Kolin, Carrie Burbank.

Other East Jordan residents at the facility are: Lottie Bartholomew, Mabel Addis, Helena Weaver, Lucille Halliday, Gladys Davis, Nettie Robinson, Irene Sturgell, Helen Bartholomew, Dora Frank, Olive Graves, Mary Hajek, Agnes Woodcock, Jeanette Harris.

Charlevoix residents at the facility are: Lillian Hampton, Marian Bridge, Phil Howe, Estella Lehman, Anna O'Brien, Josie Alexander, Rita Hebert, Mary O'Leary, Bertha Schmidt, Clair Hays, Myrtle Ditlefsen.

Anna Czerkis is the only Boyne Falls resident at the facility.

Gaunts cite 65th

Mr. and Mrs. William Gaunt, Sr., of rural East Jordan, recently celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Gaunt live on a farm near East Jordan that is nearly 100 years old. Mrs. Gaunt attributes their good health to their garden from which they get fresh food and many canned goods. Mrs. Gaunt also bakes her own bread in a wood stove. The Gaunts met at a home square dance 65 years ago and remember their first dates in a horse and buggy.

Shapton Post plans Christmas party

Members of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 228 and its Auxiliary and their respective families will gather at the post home at 1 p.m. Sunday for their annual Christmas party.

Santa will be present to distribute gifts to the children. All families planning to bring their children are asked to call Mrs. Ray Wood at 547-9447 or Mrs. Louis McKenzie at 547-6475 with the names and ages of the children. Members are also asked to bring a dish to pass and their own table service.

The Christmas tree was decorated at a recent meeting of the Auxiliary.

At this meeting, Mrs. George Lochner, Foreign Relations chairman, reported on the state auxilary program for helping Thailand in 1980 and Cambodia in 1981 with financial aid being given through the Auxiliary's donations to C.A.R.E. The local Auxiliary has participated in this program for many years.

Planning to attend the Lower 11th District meeting at East Jordan Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pearsall, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wood and Mr. and Mrs. Lochner.

Mrs. Pearsall, energy chairman, reported on the recent meeting at Midland and asked members to conserve energy as much as possible. The Auxiliary voted to send a remembrance to their shut-in members at holiday time. Josephine Bindi reported that 16 cards had been signed and will be sent to members who are ill or shut in.

A gift exchange and refreshments served by Mrs. William Farkas, Mrs. Lillian Hull and Mrs. Lester Smith followed the business meeting. Mrs. Bindi and Mrs. Gladys Pellitier were named as hostesses for the Jan. 14 meeting.

GARLIC IN THE WINDOW

Don't step on a crack, or you'll break your mother's back.

Place a clove of garlic in your window frame to ward off the evil eye.

You may be chuckling at these suggestions, but how many of you chucklers nonchalantly walk around a ladder rather than beneath it or are terrified of breaking a mirror?

Although superstitions linger only faintly in American culture, they are still quite strong in many parts of the world. In centuries past, they played a major role in daily life the world [illegible]

Did you know that people were afraid to be without talismans or lucky charms? And gemstones were among the major objects used as such.

For instance, a warrior would wear or carry an agate to protect himself from danger and to ensure victory over his foes. If he was inclined to lose sleep after a day's battle, the agate would cure his insomnia and ensure pleasant dreams.

Amethyst was thought to have a sobering effect—not only on those drunk on alcoholic spirits but also on those drunk with the passion of love.

The emerald was believed to confer the ability to foretell the future and to recognize whether or not a lover was being faithful to his or her vows. Its psychic powers carried over into the realms of memory and logic, so that the wearer of an emerald was assured of eloquent speech.

Gemstones were probably chosen to carry beneficial powers because their mysterious beauty was so spellbinding to our ancestors. More in my next article.

Santa makes the rounds

Santa was a busy man this past week as he made several local appearances to give as many Charlevoix youngsters as possible a chance to relay their holiday wishes. Above left, Chad Essary found Santa in the Market Mall and gave him a big hug. Santa will be back in the Mall this Friday evening from 6 to 9 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday. Santa also found his way to Boyne City last Saturday where he held court, above right, at the Old Railroad Ticket Office. He is scheduled to make appearances in Boyne City this Saturday at 1 p.m. at the Fire Department's Children's Christmas Party and from 2:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the Boyne Chamber of Commerce. Kevin and Kari Balch, right, were two of the many local children who saw Santa at the annual Charlevoix County State Bank Christmas Party last Friday. Charlevoix Elementary School, left, was buzzing midday Saturday when Santa visited a luncheon party sponsored by the Kappa Sigma Sorority

Mitten tree ready for contributions

There's a mitten tree at the First State Bank just waiting to be decorated with your contribution of mittens, a cap or scarf for some youngster according to Mrs. R.J. Murray, president of the Charlevoix Women's Club which annually sponsors the mitten tree.

Mittens, caps and scarves placed on the tree are then given to the Charlevoix Christmas Project, Big Brothers-Big Sisters or wherever they might be needed as gifts to children in the community.

"You can be assured that some child will be warmer because you cared," said Mrs. Murray.

Store-bought mittens, caps and scarves are as acceptable as hand-knitted items, she added.

Louis Hollow, left, president of the First State Bank of Charlevoix, presented Charlevoix Area Hospital administrator Richard Krueger with a check last week for the latest installment of a $15,000 pledge to the hospital made by the bank forthe hospital's building fund. Hollow reminded others who have pledged to the fund that "substantial" tax benefits may be realized by those who pre-pay their pledges before Dec. 31 in most cases. According to Hollow, a ten percent tax reduction is expected next year. The First State Bank pledged $15,000 to the hospital building fund to be paid over a five year period. The hospital construction project is due to be completed by early summer.

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestling team posted its first win of the season last week by a score of 45-24 over Mancelona and later in the week dropped a match to Gaylord by approximately the same margin, 49-21.

There were four Rayder matmen who won their matches at both Mancelona and Gaylord: Greg Whitley at 144, Alan Bergmann at 167, Scott Golovich at 185 and Ken Wojan who wrestled at 198 against Mancelona and heavyweight against Gaylord.

Against Mancelona, Charlevoix posted eight individual victories, including two by forfeit.

Jim Herrman lost to Rich Huffman at 105 pounds by a 1:48 pin in the first period; at 112, Mike Steele won by forfeit; Rick Gallant (119) lost by a pin at 2:42 in the second period to Bart Dalton; Mickey Belfy at 126 won by a pin at 2:22 in the second period over Harvey Ruskford; Dave Farmer (132) lost by a pin at 1:33 of the first period to Neil Mills; Tim Bruce (138) won by forfeit; Whitley pinned Jeff Duerkson in 1:58 of the first period; Jeff Landon at 155 won by a pin in 2:51 of the second period over James Peters; Bergmann (167) won by a 9-2 decision over Dave Derrer; Golovich (185) won by a third period pin over Dave Allen and Wojan won by a third period pin over Greg Molby. Mancelona heavyweight Mark Morris won by forfeit.

The Rayders won only four matches at Gaylord. Dennis Embree (98) won by forfeit for Gaylord; Dave Umlor (105) lost by a 15-1 decision to Paul Kelso; Steele lost by a third period pin to Kip Stewart; Gallant lost by a first period pin to Dave Weber; Belfy lost a 7-1 decision to Harvey Johnecheck; Gaylord won by forfeit in the 132 pound class; Bruce lost by a pin in the first period to Chris O'Connor; Whitley won by a pin in the third period to over Darrin Stewart; Landon lost a 15-1 decision to Brian Charbonneau; Bergmann won by a third period pin over Stephan Madagame; in the 198 pound class Gaylord won by forfeit; heavyweight Wojan pinned Russ Carpenter in 2:51 of the second period.

This week Charlevoix will host Onaway at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

City Rec League Basketball results

In A-League action December 11, I.D.C. edged Kaden's 71-70 behind Tex Drenth who canned 24 points and game scoring honors. Other high scorers for I.D.C. were Brian Farrell with 15, Larry Taylor with 12 and Jim Danbert with 10. For Kaden's, Terry Elzinga and Dean Hicks both scored 18 points while Darryl Tims and Bob Spencer had 13 and 12 respectively

In another high scoring, tight contest, the B-League All-Stars nipped Village Inn Pizza 75-71 with Tim Carey scoring 22, Jim Parrish 20 and Dale Boss 10 for the winners. V.I.P. was led by Jerry Skippergosh with 20, Vince Left with 19, Randy Holecheck, 16 and Clint Berlage 12.

The Townhouse fell on Great Lakes Energy 74-55 with two 26-point individual productions by Rick Leslie and Steve Dunkelberg for the winners. Dan McKenzie had 10 for the Townhouse. Dan Oamer had 14 for G.L.E. whose other high scorers were Al Loose with 12 and Tony Williams with 10.

In B-League action on December 10, Wojan Aluminum robbed First State Bank 63-56 led by Don Ward with 16, Dave Moyer with 12 and Stan Martin 11. For the Bank, LeRoy Buchanon and Ralph Doan both scored 14 and Joe Boss had 10.

Kit Carson shut down Medusa 69-52 after trailing through the first half. Three players, Dale Boss, Mike Crum and Butch Klooster had 16 points for Carson along with Larry Brock who had 11. For Medusa, Jim Parrish scored 26.

Carey's Boot Shop tip-toed past Alray Cottages 43-41 after the Cottages held leads in the first three quarters, including a 13-point margin at halftime. Pat Shaeffer and Bob Harper had 15 and 12 points respectively. Tom Morrison had 12 points for Alray.

Frosh drop first two games

The Charlevoix Rayder freshmen basketball squad, in their first outings of the season, dropped games to Cheboygan and Gaylord last week.

The score of the Cheboygan game was 63-48 and the Gaylord score was 41-35.

In the game at Cheboygan Thursday night, the Rayders lost on the free throw line, both teams having scored 22 field goals each. Charlevoix held a slim 12-11 lead at the end of the first period but slipped to a 23-20 deficit by halftime. They trailed 39-34 going into the fourth quarter and were outscored in that period 24-14.

Bill Tillen paced the scoring with 13 points for Charlevoix while Paul Mitchell had 10. Joe LaCross had 11 and Mike Goggin 10 for Cheboygan.

At Gaylord on Tuesday, the Rayders lost the game in the last quarter when they were outscored 17-7 after leading the Blue Devils 10-7, 18-15, and 28-24 at the quarters. Bryan Gee scored 14 points including 11 of them in the final period to take control of the game. Tillen had 16 for the Raydere.

EDWARD'S IGA STORE

TIE BREAKER BOX

Pick the total number of points you believe will be scored in the tiebreaker game, and write it in the box.

RULES

1. Anyone can enter, except the employees of the paper and their families. Use the entry blank from the paper or make your own, following the same plan. A copy of the Charlevoix Courier will be available at the Courier office to anyone wishing to copy the list of names.

2. Weekly gift certificates will be awarded to the persons naming the most winners. All tie games are considered incorrect unless picked as ties on your entry blank. In case of a tie, persons guessing nearest correct score in the tiebreaker box will win. Insert what you think total score will be of the game in the tie breaker box.

3. Gift certificates are redeemable at any of the participating sponsors on this page only. Entries should be addressed to: Contest Editor, Charlevoix Courier and postmarked by not later than 5 p.m. Friday night. Winners will be announced the following weeks.

4. On the entry form simply draw a circle around the number of the team you predict will win each of the games listed in each of the ads. Then, predict the total on the points "tie breaker" at the bottom of the entry form.

REWARD

Cagers win big at Gaylord but drop home opener to Cheboygan

Charlevoix split last week in Michigan-Huron Shores basketball action but still came away with a 2-1 record on the season.

Last Tuesday's conference opener at Gaylord showed glimpses of considerable promise for the Rayders' season as Charlevoix won convincingly by a 70-55 margin.

Friday night's home opener was spoiled by the Cheboygan Chiefs who came out on top 65-54.

At Gaylord, the Rayders were never threatened as they jumped to a 21-10 lead at the end of the first quarter, led 38-25 at the half and were in control 54-39 by the end of the third quarter.

Ross Carey had a big night for Charlevoix scoring 18 points while Gary Drury and Craig Klooster followed with 13 and 12 respectively.

Statistically, the Rayders were in better shape all around than Gaylord. They hit 27 field goals and 16 of 28 free throws while Gaylord settled for 22 baskets from the floor and 11 of 18 at the line. In personal fouls, Charlevoix committed a total of 19 while Gaylord tallied 21.

In junior varsity action, the Rayders won big also beating Gaylord 66-50.

A bad case of turnover-itis plagued the varsity squad Friday night at their home gym against Cheboygan.

A total of 35 turnovers were recorded in the Rayders' column, many of which, said Coach Dave Moyers, were caused by the quickness of the Cheboygan team.

First quarter action was tight as the Chiefs survived with only a two-point lead, 19-17. Eight points by the Chiefs' Kirk Taylor and six by Ed Goggin in the second quarter, however, put Cheboygan in the driver's seat at halftime by a 43-35 margin.

Both Charlevoix and Cheboygan could manage only six points each in the third quarter making the score 49-41 going into the final stanza. That's when Cheboygan pulled away as they converted six of nine free throws in the quarter and ended up winning by eleven points, 65-54.

Scoring honors went to Chris Hugek of Cheboygan with 17 points. He was closely followed by Taylor with 16.

Charlevoix's offensive attack was balanced if nothing else. Only two players, Mike Loper and Gary Drury, broke into double figures scoring ten apiece. Other Rayder contributors were Ross Carey with nine, Paul Hoffman, eight, Scott Kelly, seven, Craig Klooster, six, Jeff Greene, two and Mark Beaudoin, two.

Other statistics favoring Chaeboygan included rebounding in which the Chiefs led only 37-35 for the game but recorded most of those under the offensive boards thus giving them more scoring opportunities.

Charlevoix actually shot better from the floor than the Chiefs with 22 of 51 for a 43 percent clip. Cheboygan shot 36 percent from the floor but took more shots. Both teams shot made 71 percent of their free throws but, again, the Chiefs had many more opportunities.

The Rayder JV squad salvaged the night, however, as they whipped their counterparts from Cheboygan 73-54. Tim LaBlance popped in 20 points for the Rayder understudies while Chris Putman added 13 and Jeff Trimper ten.

Charlevoix enjoyed a big, 26-point first quarter to establish a lead they never relinquished.

This week Tuesday, the Rayder cage squads entertain Grayling at home and then travel to Rogers City Friday night. In both cases, the JVs start at 6:30 p.m. with the varsity contest following at 8 p.m.

FORFEITURE NOTICE
(Case No. 80-0759-CH)

ARTHUR G. STRAITS
3525 Thorsen's River Drive
East Jordan, Michigan 49727

You are notified that a certain land contract, dated June 1, 1980 between KULSON LAND HOLDING COMPANY, a Michigan Co-Partnership as Seller, party to the first part, and ARTHUR G. STRAITS, as purchaser, party of the second part, concerning the property at 3525 THORSEN'S RIVER DRIVE, Rt#2, EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN, 49727, is in default because of non payment of installments of principal and/or interest.

You have forfeited your rights under the land contract and payment is demanded by KULSON LAND HOLDING COMPANY who holds the land contract as Seller.

The sum of $3,750.00 is now past due in principal and interest under the land contract. The dates upon which payments were due are $3000.00 due on October 1, 1980, monthly payments of $250.00 each, due on September 21, 1980 and October 21, 1980 and November 21, 1980.

The total amount due, or the material breaches of contract, must be cured or paid within 15 days from the date on the service of notice upon you.

If the total amount due is not paid in full within the time stated, or if the material breaches are not cured within the time stated, the land contract will be forfeited, as provided for in the contract, and you will be required to move out and give up the described property without further notice to you.

HAYES TOWNSHIP BOARD
REGULAR MEETING
Dec. 1, 1980

The Meeting was called to order by Supervisor, Lee Sneathen, at 8:05 P.M.

Present, Supervisor, Lee Sneathen; Clerk, Sandra Somerville; Treasurer, Shirlene Tripp; and Trustee, Leah Green. Absent, Trustee, [illegible].

The Clerk's report of the Nov. 1980 Regular Meeting was read and approved.

The Supervisor reported that Mr. Welch, County Road Engineer, met with Mr. Tom Bergmann regarding improvement work on Stephens Rd. The Road Commission can not do any improvement work on Stephens Rd. this winter. Mr. Bergmann will be given a cost estimate on the improvement work later in the year.

A report was received from the Township Zoning Administrator regarding a zoning violation that may have to be turned over to the Township Attorney for prosecution. The matter will be taken up again at the next Twp. Meeting in January.

John Haggard attended the meeting to speak on behalf of some Bay Shore residents regarding the closing of unopened, platted roads in Hayes Township.

A Motion to contact the Hayes Twp. Attorney regarding the role and/or jurisdiction of the Township relative to road closing was passed by the Board.

A Motion to pay the bills of the Township was approved by a unanimous roll call vote of the board. The Total Bills: $40,030.62.

On Motion the meeting was adjourned.

Stenburg tells of days on the U-M gridiron

STENBERG: I attended the University of Chicago for a year, then transferred to the University of Michigan. I majored in economics and later did graduate work in MBA disciplines at Wayne State University and the University of Michigan.

COURIER: From what we hear, you were an athlete at the U of M.

STENBERG: I won varsity letters in football, baseball and hockey. I played football and baseball in 1941, 1942, and 1943, and hockey in 1942 and 1943.

COURIER: What kind of a football team did you have in those days?

STENBERG: In the 1941-1942 season, we were defeated by the University of Minnesota for the national championship. In 1942, we beat Notre Dame, and in 1943 we won the Big Ten championship. We had a real powerhouse in 1943.

COURIER: Are you going to the Rose Bowl game?

STENBERG: No, unfortunately, the doctor won't let me go.

COURIER: Did you play football in high school, too.

STENBERG: Yes, I played both football and baseball at Lane Tech High School in Chicago. I was a member of the Hearst Newspaper-All-Star Football teams in my junior and senior years and played in New Year's Day games in Phoenix in 1939 and Los Angeles in 1940.

COURIER: What else did you do in school?

STENBERG: In high school, I was a member of the National Honor Society. At Michigan, I was a student member of the Intercollegiate Board in Control of Athletics, a member of Sigma Chi fraternity, and a member of Druids Honor Society.

COURIER: What about your military service?

STENBERG: I was a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps and was awarded a Silver Star for bravery on Okinawa and a Purple Heart for wounds received there. While in China, I coached football and basketball.

COURIER: What outside professional activities have you engaged in?

STENBERG: Until my retirement last summer, I served on the Board of Directors and as a member of the Executive Committee of the Washington-based Equal Employment Advisory Council and was an early participant in the Plans for Progress private sector organization which encouraged equal employment opportunity and voluntary affirmative action for minorities and women. I was also active in assisting predominately black colleges and universities representing Ford in The Cluster College-Industry activities for Plans for Progress.

COURIER: You were singularly honored when you retired, weren't you?

STENBERG: Yes. Among other things, my congressman, Carl D. Pursell, noted my retirement and spoke some kind words about me in the House of Representatives. They were printed in the Congressional Record. I also received a letter of commendation from Governor Milliken.

COURIER: Do you have time for any hobbies or clubs?

STENBERG: I like to fish. I have a 22-foot Boston Whaler that is equipped for lake trout and salmon fishing. As for clubs, I'm a member of the University of Michigan Graduate "M" Club for Varsity Lettermen, the U of M President's Club, and the Victors Club. I have been an active recruiter for Michigan's football program for many years and closely associated with Coach Bo Schembechler since he first came to Michigan.

COURIER: How long have you been in Charlevoix?

STENBERG: We bought our condo at the [illegible] in 1976 and moved up here permanently this past summer. We plan on spending part of the year here and part of the year on [illegible] Island on the east coast of Florida.

COURIER: Do you have a family?

STENBERG: My wife, Helen, and I have two married children. Our son lives in Dearborn and our daughter lives in Statesboro, Georgia. We also have three grandchildren.

Extension series shows how family can save money

One dollar may not purchase much these days but it can buy a wealth of information that can help your family cut down on expenses.

"Making Ends Meet," [illegible] to help families survive the financial challenges caused by inflation and unemployment is available from the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service of Boyne City. The newsletters contain practical ideas for easing the [illegible] on family finances in the areas of clothing, foods, and energy for home heating and transportation.

Three issues will give ideas for feeding your family well on a limited food budget. You'll learn when homemade foods are more economical than convenience foods, how to start a food buying club and other hints for stretching food dollars.

How to save money and still meet your family's clothing needs will be covered in a fourth series.

The newsletter about energy will provide a do-it-yourself home energy audit that you can use in determining how to save money on home heating costs.

Fix-it-yourself auto maintenance and repairs to help your car get the best possible mileage per liter of fuel will be covered in the issue on energy and transportation.

"Making Ends Meet Volume 2" was developed in response to requests from the 6,300 families who subscribed to the first "Making Ends Meet" series offered earlier this year.

To receive your copies of "Making Ends Meet" send $1.00 to: Making Ends Meet, Cooperative Extension Service, P.O. Box 129, Boyne City, MI 49712.

Christmas service set

The First Congregational Church of Charlevoix will have two Christmas Eve services, both in the sanctuary. The 7 p.m. service will feature children and youth in scripture reading, carols and presentation of a Christmas drama. Candle lighting will close the worship.

The 11 p.m. worship will be the traditional service of scripture, anthems, a meditation, carols and candle-lighting. Everyone is invited to these services.

The church is participating in the collection of foods, mittens and warm caps for distribution before Christmas to needy children and families through the Charlevoix Christmas Project.

There will be no Sunday School on December 28.

Dear Santa Claus,
How are you doing at the North Pole? Every year I want to stay up and wait for you to come, but my mom won't let me. Did you like the cookies we gave you?
Thanks for all the presents.
My brother wants something that the store is all sold out of. What should I do? I would like to have a new bear. I can't wait until Christmas. How is Mrs Claus? Is she fattening you up? I hope so because whoever heard of a skinny Santa. Well bye now and I'll write back next year.
Your friend,
Shelley [illegible]

Dear Santa Claus.
How are you? am fine
I like playing football but they wont let me sometimes.
How is it at the North Pole?
Its fine down in Michigan.
Dont work too hard. You may get a bad back.
I hope you like milk and cookies
I might get my mom some perfume my dad some after shave, and my sister a baby doll
Thanks for what I got last year.
Are you fat yet, and a little plump?
Thanks for everything.
Love.
Robert Kik

Dear Santa Claus,
I thank you for the nice presents you sent me last year. I still remember the time you sent me a Wonder Woman doll I guess you pulled the wrong present out of your bag.
This year I'm going to remember to hang up my stocking.
Could you send me something to stop my dog from barking, so when you come she won't drive you up the wall. Her bark is bigger than her bite.
Please help my mom and dad at the shop This time of year is really busy. Try to get them a big fat present with a big bow.
Sincerely yours,
David [illegible]

Dear Santa Claus,
How are you, and your reindeer? How cold is it in the North Pole? I was going to write with my new Santa Claus pencil, but the lead keeps on breaking.
Thank you for the moon boots last year, I needed them.
How are Mrs. Claus and the elves? How were the chocolate chip cookies and milk last year? I wish I were you.
How big is your tummy this year? Tell Mrs. Claus I said "hello".
Your friend,

Second Ward Alderman Ivan Whitley was presented with a framed Certificate of Appreciation at last week's City Council meeting by Mayor Sam Supernaw. The meeting was Whitley's last as a council member since he did not run for re-election and will be replaced in January by James Block. The certificate reads as follows: 'This certificate is awarded in appreciation of the outstanding contribution of effort on behalf of the City and devotion to duty in the service of fellow citizens rendered by F. Ivan Whitley as a member of the City Council of the City of Charlevoix, Michigan." See more on Whitley in Knight on the Town, page 4

Medusa shutdown to idle 42

A three-month shutdown of the Medusa Cement Company plant in Charlevoix was formally announced Friday.

The plant will be shut down Sunday, December 28 and, according to a news release distributed Monday, normal production is not scheduled to resume until late March.

Forty-two employees will be idled by the shutdown.

While the plant is down, routine maintenance programs will be carried out along with some "fine tuning" of certain segments of the plant which has recently been converted to a sophisticatred flash calcinating process.

Monday's release also acknowledged the faltering economy as one factor contributing to the extended shutdown.

"Cement demand normally softens in the winter months," according to the company statement. "During the current housing construction slump, cement manufacturers have been rebuilding inventories depleted during the 1978-79 cement shortages. They are also taking the opportunity to implement more comprehensive maintenance programs."

Medusa employs approximately 142 workers directly, 100 of whom will be retained during the shutdown to assist in the maintenance procedures.

B.I. Boat Company nears pact with city; okays Petoskey bid

By DAVE KNIGHT

Following a meeting Friday between city officials and the Beaver Island Boat Company board of directors, indications were that a lease agreement is near for the boat company's docking facilities in downtown Charlevoix.

Negotiations have been ongoing for a five-year lease on the Beaver Island dock and, if the technical language in the lease document can be straightened out, action to approve it may be taken by the City Council as early as January 12.

According to Joseph "Bud" McDonough of St. James, president of the boat company board of directors, the meeting was successful in answering some concerns of board members about the city's proposed lease agreement.

"Before the meeting," said McDonough, "Some of us on the board were discouraged with some of the language of the lease proposed by the city. We thought it forced too many restrictions on us. But I think most of the board members were satisfied with what we heard today and I don't think we will have much of a problem with the lease now."

The proposed lease makes the city dock facilities just south of the Pine River bridge available to the Beaver Island Boat Company for $3600 a year.

In another action Friday, the board approved an agreement with the City of Petoskey to lease dock space there on a one-year basis with options to renew for two more years.

Boat Company manager Eric Kammermann said Monday that all the company needs now is a boat to begin trips from Petoskey to Beaver Island next summer.

Kammermann said that he did not think a Beaver Island route from Petoskey would reduce boat traffic to the island from Charlevoix.

"I think we are looking at a totally different market," said Kammermann. "It will be a much wider market and draw from the many lodging facilities offered by Petoskey."

He emphasized that the boat company will handle only passenger traffic from Petoskey and that all freight and vehicle transportation will continue to originate from Charlevoix. The dock space in Petoskey will be leased by the boat company from only Memorial Day to Labor Day after which, said Kammermann, the boat used there will probably be brought to Charlevoix to be used for the popular autumn color tours and charter groups.

Landing gutted by Saturday fire

The Landing, a well known restaurant at the site of the Ironton ferry was severely damaged by fire Saturday as was a Marion Township residence.

In a fire that routed some customers from the dining room at about 7:10 p.m. Saturday, Charlevoix firemen reported heavy damage to both the downstairs restaurant and the second floor living quarters.

The cause of the blaze was undetermined and no injuries were reported to either firefighters or customers.

At about 8:30 a.m. Saturday, Charlevoix firemen responded to a fire at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Steelman on Marion Center Road about five miles south of Charlevoix.

The Steelmans had reportedly left Friday for a vacation trip to Missouri and the fire was reported by a passer-by. Extensive damage was done to the interior of the home but a cause has not yet been determined for the fire.

Martin refuses tests, future now uncertain

By DAVE KNIGHT

The status of Officer Pat Martin, an 11-year veteran of the Charlevoix Police Department who was suspended from his job in November and remains off the force, was uncertain this week following Martin's failure to report for psychological testing downstate.

According to City Manager James Brinker, Martin is now officially discharged from his duties since he did not keep a December 12 appointment in Southfield for psychological testing as directed by the City Council.

Martin, however, said that he will seek arbitration in the matter and claims the testing ordered by the city was ambiguous and discriminatory.

To date, the circumstances surrounding Martin's original suspension on November 18 have not been made public.

Following a lengthy closed door hearing on November 24, the City Council voted at its regular meeting December 1 to uphold the city manager's finding of fact in the matter but stopped short of discharging Martin at that time.

Instead, the council gave Martin a 30-day suspension during which he was to undergo psychological tests arranged and paid for by the city to determine his fitness as a police officer.

The 30-day period ended December 20.

An appointment was made with Dr. Milton Solomon in Southfield for December 12 for the testing. Brinker said that attempts were made to arrange the tests with a psychologist who specializes in such testing for the Michigan State Police but that recent budget cuts had made him unavailable.

Brinker also indicated to Martin that the city would pay him 22 cents a mile for the trip and pay for a night's lodging.

Martin said this week, however, that he did not keep the appointment because it was not made clear to him what the testing was for and that the city manager would not make assurances to him in writing that he would be reimbursed for the trip.

Said Martin, "A mental exam, as the city manager has called it, can be construed as anything and by publicly stating that I must take a mental exam he is infringing on my rights."

Martin claimed that the normal stress testing undergone by police officers takes about 20 minutes but that the testing he was directed to take by the city would have lasted three hours or more.

"I don't know why I am being singled out," he said.

Martin, who has been represented in the dispute by Local 129 of the Michigan Law Enforcement Union, said that arbitration would be sought to settle the matter and that he will continue his efforts to rejoin the Charlevoix police force.

According to Brinker, his office had not been notified as of Monday of any further action sought by Martin or the union and that, as far as he is concerned, the matter was closed.

A replacement for Martin on the force has not been hired and, according to Brinker, the position will probably not be filled until spring when budget information is more clear.

County unveils 1981 budget with 11.28 percent increase over 1980 version

By PEG OHLE

The 1981 operating budget for Charlevoix County amounts to $2,396,004, an increase of 11.28 percent over the budget for 1980.

New items in the budget include $3,300 to the Halfway Home, $5,000 to Chip Counseling Center, and $9,360 for Youth Diversionary activities.

There were substantial increases in the budget for District Court, for the Prosecuting Attorney, for the Sheriff, and for insurance, and some increases in almost every other department.

Local property taxes will provide $1,372,883 of operating revenue, with federal and state revenue sharing providing another $375,000. The next largest source of revenue will be $76,000 from District Court costs and fees.

The complete budget appears below.

Charlevoix Yesterday

The streets of Charlevoix are bright with Christmas decorations, but there is nothing as big and bright as this tree which graced Bridge St. at the Mason St. intersection in 1933. Apparently Christmas trees were not considered traffic hazards back in those days. (Photo courtesy of Louie Sharrow.)

Season's Greetings

We at First State Bank of Charlevoix would like to extend good wishes for this happy holiday season to all our friends and clients.

May all the joy, the hope, and the wonder of Christmas be yours. May the meaning of the holiday be deeper, its friendship stronger, its hopes brighter now and in the coming new year.

As of January 1, 1981, Lieberman's clothing store in downtown Charlevoix will have a new name and a new management team. Fred DiMartino, left, and Bob Lieberman, right, have incorporated the business which will be known as Trademark Clothiers, Inc. after the first of the year. DiMartino, a Boyne City native, was manager of Kaden's in Charlevoix for six years before joining Lieberman. Bob Lieberman and his wife Jane have owned the store for 16 years having first come to Charlevoix in 1964.

Crooked Tree obtains grant

Senator Donald W. Riegle, Jr. announced last week that he has been informed by the National Endowment for Arts that a $6000 special projects grant has been recommended for the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

The Council, headquartered in Petoskey, has many members and activities in Charlevoix.

Michigan's senior senator, in a tour of Northern Michigan in October, visited the Vrginia M. McCune Community Arts Center - formerly the home of the United Methodist Church - in Patoskey and was requested by M. Louise Herlocher, administrator of the Crooked Tree Arts Council, to support their grant request.

Following Senator Riegle's visit, he made several contacts with officials from the National Endowment for the Arts urging favorable consideration of the Crooked Tree Arts Council grant request.

Riegle said he was called by NEA officials and was informed that a recommendation has been made to the NEA Commission members to award a $6000 special projects grant to the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

Riegle expects commission members to issue a final decision shortly, which he says will be consistent with the staff recommendation.

Jonestown film set

"Deceived" a new film about the Jonestown, Guyana tragedy and other religious cults will be shown at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix on Wednesday, December 31 at 10 p.m. as part of their New Years Eve activities.

The spirit of Christmas was heightened at Charlevoix High School last week by a door-decorating contest in which different class hours decorated doors throughout the schools which were then judged by a panel on Thursday. Art teacher Marty Mathers is shown above with the winning door featuring Rudoplh the Red-Nosed Reindeer in a three-dimensional design

Knight on the Town

Ivan the Care-able

THERE IS ONE on every council. On every board. On every commission.

One member who just can't stand to let an agenda slip by with everybody agreeing on everything. There is something about a meeting that runs like a tea party and gets over early with everyone happy, that rankles him. Somewhere, in some far corner of his constituency, there must be someone with an objection to this proposal or that. To disenfranchise that one, small voice, in his mind, is dishonest, unfair and downright un-American.

It was almost 11 p.m. at last week's Charlevoix City Council meeting and Alderman Ivan Whitley had not cast a "no" vote all night. As the agenda moved from site plans to resolutions, to old business and new, everything passed unanimously. It was as if something was missing; as if the meeting had not been consumated.

Even Ivan could find nothing to disagree with.

Adding to the drama was the fact that last Monday's meeting was Whitley's last as a council member since he did not run for re-election in November. It was unthinkable for his last meeting to be so copasetic.

The situation looked grim as the meeting wound down to one of its last routines, the City Manager's report. Jim Brinker went through his list and, as one of the last items, asked the council's approval to hire a Kalamazoo firm to handle some city labor negotiations.

Aha! Spending more money! Surrendering local control! No more perfect proposal could have been made for the situation. Sure enough, as Clerk Deanne Balch called their names, each [redacted] "yes" to what looked to be a fairly reasonable request.

But when it came to Ivan, he didn't even look up from the pile of bills through which he was leafing.

"No," he said. And smiled.

IVAN WHITLEY REMEMBERS a day, some 30 years ago, when his mother came home from City Hall, sat down at the kitchen table, and cried. What it was that had happened he cannot remember for sure - he thinks she had been turned down again on her request to get city water extended to their house on Wood and Sheridan - but he remembers distinctly the tears of her frustration. Never since has he forgotten the cause of the little man, the working people.

"I am very thankful to have the backgound I had growing up without a lot of money," said Whitley, the second oldest of six children. "And I am very proud of the fact that a boy from the other side of the tracks can one day sit on the city council and try to make things better for people."

Whitley was elected to the council as Second Ward alderman in the spring election of 1975. As far as he knows, he is the only Democrat to have been [redacted] listed on the ballot by their political affiliation. Now the voting is non-partisan for city office.

"They told me I wouldn't make it," he remembers, "But that only made me work harder." And work hard he did, knocking on doors all over town, talking to as many people as possible. The Second Ward voters could hardly have had a more eager candidate; Whitley had been attending council meetings regularly for three years before he even [redacted].

The hard work did not end after the election. For Ivan, it may have been a part-time job but it was a full-time responsibility.

"During the first months I spent on the council, I would spend all day Monday getting up for the meeting and wondering how I should vote on this or that and then I'd spend all day Tuesday worrying whether or not I did the right [redacted]."

ANYONE WHO THINKS it is easy to sit on a small town council and pass judgment on issues involving friends and neighbors has obviously not had the [redacted].

Says Whitley, "I have had many a sleepless night after a tough decision at the council meeting. I used to get pretty torn up inside about it but over six years, I've developed a thicker skin."

The particular issue, six years ago, that prompted Whitley to run for office was the Ferry Beach controversy. He read in the paper that some trees would have to be removed as part of the parking lot construction project at the beach and that didn't sit right with him. He fought city hall, so to speak, and got at least some satisfaction in that the [redacted]

The good feeling one gets when he works hard to accomplish something to make the community better is basically what has kept Ivan Whitley going, even through the tough times.

A born and bred Charlevoixan, he remembers prowling the Round Lake shoreline as a young boy looking for good perch fishing spots. In those days, a couple kids could amble halfway around the lake without having to climb a fence or sneak across a manicured lawn.

"Can't do that today," he sighs. "First thing a condo wants today is a variance for a higher fence."

When Whitley became an alderman, condominiums were popping up around town as fast as mushrooms after a spring rain and with about as much order.

It wasn't the growth he opposed - healthy growth, he acknowledges, is important to the community. It was the total lack of control the city had over such projects that Whitley considered dangerous. The results were zoning laws including the "R-4" classification which applies to multiple unit housing and by which the city can exert significant control over condominiums and other such projects within its boundaries. Whitley considers it one of the council's most gratifying accomplishments and one that he takes personal pride in being involved with.

Aren't those Monday nights going to seem a bit different now at the Whitley [redacted]

"There's no doubt about it. Not being on the council is going to leave a big void in my life," says Ivan, "In fact, For the past few years, the council has been my whole life."

Elaine, his wife, will probably nod to that. Ever since getting into city politics, it seems the Whitleys cannot even take a Sunday drive without Ivan wanting to check out some city property or inspect something that is coming up on the council agenda.

Business beckons, though, and Whitley Floor Covering, opened in 1977 by Ivan and his brothers Ken and Don, demands enough time without council [redacted].

"After six years of fighting, I owe it to my family to put my energies back into the store," said Ivan who wouldn't quite slam the door on city politics forever. "But who knows," he added, "Maybe someday I'll be back."

Anyone want to bet against that one?

BUT WE STILL have not addressed the question of why Ivan is so contrary.

"Don't ask me how I got that reputation," he says, "All I know is that if I don't feel hundred percent right about something, I won't vote for it."

"I suppose it all got started when I began voting 'no' against special interests when I first got on the council. By always speaking for the little man, it's not hard to adopt that kind of attitude."

With the departure of Whitley, the council will lose one of its more eagle-eyed watch dogs. Not much got past Ivan. Even when he would go out into the hall for a cigarette, he would stand in the doorway so as not to miss any of [redacted]

You always know when Ivan really wants to make a point; his eyebrows go up and down on every word. That's why, as his eyebrows danced all over his forehead, I believed him when he said, "The council has been the greatest thing to happen in my life."

And the city has come out pretty well on the deal, too.

Letters: Blackout tips, thank-you

If power goes off, here's what to do

[redacted]:

We are now into the winter season and along with it the possibility of electric outages. Top O' Michigan hopes there will not be any but just incase it does happen we need your [redacted]

The distribution lines running down the road to your home have fuses, just as your home has fuses or circuit breakers. If you have a fuse blow out, you know you have overloaded the circuit. This true with our lines also.

Manager of Engineering and Operations Dan Nelson explained, "The problem is after the fuse has been replaced and we are trying to pick up the cold load - if all the appliances are left on, often the fuse will blow again [redacted] to pick up at one time.

So how can you help? First of all, if you are experiencing an outage, turn off all electrical appliances. If you have electric heat and the heaters have individual thermostats, turn them back as far as possible. Leave one light on to signal when the electricity is back on.

When the power has been restored, turn your appliances back on one at a time, at 10-minute intervals. Do not turn everything on at one time because, chances are, you will be without power again. The fuse will blow!

You should also be prepared for emergencies. You should have supplies stored for use in case of emergency. [redacted] and, of course, a hand can opener. (Those electric can openers have a way of not working when the power is off!) You should have candles, extra blankets, a battery-operated radio and, if possible, a small camp stove, a few jugs of water for drinking purposes and some good books to read.

If you have a freezer, leave the door closed. Every time you open it to peek, you are letting warmer air into the freezer and you have shortened the time your food will stay frozen.

Nelson concluded, "No one likes outages so let's help each other to keep them as short as possible.

No substitutions, please!

It is odd — and a little frightening — how the world suddenly has turned its [redacted]

Not too long ago, children had "Christmas" vacations. And before they left school for the holidays they had "Christmas" programs, at which they sang "Christmas" carols.

Now, ever since the advent of Madelyn Murray O'Hair, "Christmas" is a dirty word.

Kids don't have "Christmas" vacations any more; but they do have an "annual winter break." And they don't have "Christmas" programs. They have "holiday" programs and they probably will sing a few "holiday" songs — innocuous ditties that have little or nothing to do with the spiritual [redacted]

Newspaper people among us also are making a conscious or subconscious effort to appease the non-Christians among us by substituting "holiday" or "yule" for Christmas whenever possible. There is nothing wrong with the word "holiday" itself — but how do we know the writer isn't referring to Thanksgiving or the Fourth of July?

"Yule" is a good word, too, particularly if you are in the business of writing headlines with a tight count. But the connotations of "yule" are closer to winter than they are to Christmas, although the word has come to mean Christmas in some [redacted]

"Xmas" actually is an excellent [redacted] stands for Christ in Greek. But many pastors howl whenever they see the word in print because they equate "X" [redacted]

But if the present trend continues, the words "Christmas" and "Xmas" will be archaic by the turn of the century.

Don't get me wrong. I am a firm believer in the separation of church and state. Our public school teachers have no business promulgating one religion over another — or promulgating any religion at all — particularly when they are being paid to teach arithmetic and [redacted]

However I do think we are being a little silly in our over-reaction to the atheists in our midst. Christ and Christmas are part of the American heritage — even among non-Christians — and to pretend otherwise is folly.

Adherence to the separation doctrine require a modicum of common sense which has been lacking in recent years in our efforts not to offend non-[redacted]

End of sermon. Merry Christmas — to people of every faith.

The price of Christmas trees — like the price of everything else — has skyrocketed this year.

I assume this is why the Christmas tree lot at the Captain's Corner was ripped off last week to the tune of about $1,200.

[redacted] Brothers and Big Sisters of Charlevoix County will have less money during the coming year to perform their good works for 153 county youngsters.

"It's been a desperate year for people," Mrs. Nancy Wood, coordinator of the sale, commented philosophically about the theft.

However, if the stolen trees help make Christmas a little brighter for children who don't understand the ramifications of inflation, high interest rates, dislocated jobs and a [redacted]

Let us hope that by next Christmas petty thievery will not be necessary to enjoy the holidays.

Fourth Wednesday Forum

The Fourth Wednesday Forum is a monthly feature in the Courier that offers our readers a chance to state their views on nuclear power and its relationship to the Charlevoix area. All contributions are welcome though they should be kept as concise as possible. The next deadline for the Fourth Wednesday Forum is January 23.

At the December 11 Energy Conference (League of Women Voters, sponsor) in Traverse City, a Consumers Power representative (Walter Schrock) strayed from the subject of "energy conservation" to comment on a question regarding the controversial Midland nuclear plant now under construction.

He pointed out that if Consumers Power dropped the Midland project now, the company would go bankrupt! Consumers is presently pumping tremendous sums of money into the controversial Big Rock plant also...presumably as a face-saving [redacted] nuclear power or, in fact, Midland.

At this point in time, nuclear power is, as the old saying goes, "All dressed up with no place to go." Energy conservation is acutally hurting many power companies. The projected need and confidence is just not there as it was years ago. The total $2 to $3 billion [redacted] stockholder money and gigantic loans for which the rate-payers cannot be stuck with until the plant is on-line.

Consumers Power may very well become the "Chrysler" of power companies if they unwaveringly continue on the nuclear power trip. Sooner or later, taxpayers and rate-payers pay the tab so a present "blunder bailout" at $1 billion beats two [redacted].

[redacted] contributed $9000 to defeating the October 22 Maine referendum vote (regarding closing a nuclear power plant). Michigan could easily have such a vote in the future. Was this stockholder or rate-payer money they were playing games with?

Guess who gets plugged for decommissioning radioactive Big Rock and its hazardous waste disposal?

A nuclear plant can now be detrimental to real estate development. And for this area, the heartbeat-big money is in balanced, careful and continued real estate development. By professional public relations outreaches, not only are tourists attracted but also people who can relocate non-polluting, off-the-take business as well as buy or build homes. We must demand Big Rock's early decommissioning as its occasional one percent power grid contribution with "evacuation plans", potential health hazards, etc. is not in the least worth the tradeoff involving our rare [redacted].

Conservation, efficiency, balance, creativity and objectivity should [redacted] Michigan development and living.

Martin Biegnowski is newest Chx. County Commissioner

[redacted]

Martin Biegnowski is the new County Commissioner representing District 5, Wilson and Eveline Townships. He won the primary election in August, and because he was unopposed in the general election, on October 1 he was appointed to fill the unexpired [redacted] had resigned. This week the Courier talks with Biegnowski about participation in local government, about his career in real estate, and about himself.

COURIER: Why did you run for the job of County [redacted]

BIEGNOWSKI: It was a challenge. I'm an active and interested person and wanted to become involved. It was suggested that I run for Wilson Township Supervisor, and I thought about that for a while, too. This past year, I have been president of the Antrim-Charlevoix County Board of Realtors. I figure I've spent about 60 days of time during the year on that job. Now I'll have more time for other things, especially the Board of [redacted].

COURIER: Is this your first elected job?

BIEGNOWSKI: Yes. I ran for Councilman in Fraser 10 or 12 years ago. It's a good thing I didn't get elected because I might still be there. Most people say, "Somebody should do something about that." I'm one who does something.

COURIER: Is there anything special you hope to accomplish as a County Commissioner?

BIEGNOWSKI: I don't have any pet projects. There is one thing on my mind, though. It's [redacted] townships and the county. I go to both the Wilson and Eveline Township meetings and people say they're glad to see me there. We (I as a representative of the county and the township officials) ask each other questions. That's good. I believe man's two biggest problems are first, communicating, and second, believing he has communicated.

COURIER: You say County Commissioner is your first elected office, but you've held other appointed job, haven't you?

BIEGNOWSKI: Yes. I was on the Wilson Township Planning Commission and the Wilson Township Board of Review. I helped draft the zoning ordinance. In Fraser, I was on the Planning Commission for five years, three years as [redacted].

COURIER: Do you have any special thoughts about how to approach the work of a governmental body?

BIEGNOWSKI: I do my homework. I don't vote on things I don't understand, or without an explanation. Most of us don't understand about a lot of things – I just stand up and ask. I expect to contribute to the County Commission, not just show up.

COURIER: How long have you been in the real estate [redacted]

BIEGNOWSKI: For 21 years. I've been a broker for 15 years. I came to Boyne City from Fraser nine years ago. We bought out Mark Haines real estate business, and in 90 days I had sold the Fraser business and our house there and settled up here. We arrived on a snowy winter [redacted]

COURIER: How did you get into the real estate business in the first place?

BIEGNOWSKI: I started when I was about 23 years old. A girl I was dating said I would be good selling "big ticket" merchandise. I thought of cars and houses. Cars didn't really interest me but I was fortunate in joining a real estate company with good training programs. I can't think of anything I'd rather be doing now than selling real estate. I really enjoy doing it.

Meet Charlevoix

Martin Biegnowski

COURIER: How large a staff do you have?

BIEGNOWSKI: Right now I have only one licensed associate. I prefer to remain small. However, we have sold property as far away as Munising. We're not grounded to one area. We're licensed to sell throughout the state.

COURIER: What's the difference between a real estate person and a realtor?

BIEGNOWSKI: All real estate people are not realtors. Realtors are a professional group with a code of ethics. The Board of Realtors here is a good group. Most of them really care. Realtors represent private property owners. They're the only group that does. I feel that a realtor has "arrived" when he takes care of his customers. That's what he gets paid for.

COURIER: What is the [redacted]

BIEGNOWSKI: Interest rates are killing us now. Some local mortgatge rates are up to 17 percent. The buying public can't afford that. There's a lot of talk about "creative financing" [redacted] now. That's not new to me. There are all kinds of financing possibilities. Recently we sold some property in East Jordan and [redacted]. There are second mortgages, too. You can write a lot of things into a deal. A deal is like a lump of clay. [redacted] make it into anything you want so long as it remains [redacted]

COURIER: Where did you grow up?

BIEGNOWSKI: On the east [redacted] Tech high school – a seven story building with several [redacted] – quite different from the high schools [redacted]. I was in and out of several colleges taking classes that filled my needs and appealed to me.

[redacted]

BIEGNOWSKI: Oh, Italian, typing, criminology, [redacted] communications, speech, retailing.

COURIER: Where did you [redacted]

BIEGNOWSKI: I spent most of my real [redacted] life in Macomb County. At one time I also worked for a radio and TV parts company. [redacted] after the Korean Conflict, I was a paratrooper stationed at Fort Campbell, Kentucky. [redacted] overseas, though. We were an alert group, on call for [redacted].

COURIER: You have mentioned your township activities since moving to the area. Have you done anything [redacted]

BIEGNOWSKI: As far as Boyne City is concerned, I chaired a meeting to help [redacted] District Revitalization Program, participated in public hearings on the Tannery Project, and assisted the High School Building Trades Program by arranging a purchase of a block of lots. I'm also a director of the Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce. Professionally, besides being president of the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors, I have been a State Director of the Michigan [redacted] been a State Director of the Michigan Association of Realtors and a member of both their Professional Standards Committee and their Public Relations Committee. I'm also a member of the Realtors National Marketing Institute.

COURIER: How many [redacted]

BIEGNOWSKI: Julie and I have four children. Mike is 17, Dave is 16, and twins Susan and Linda are 12. They're all busily involved in school activities. We live on a farm south of town. In the past we've had farm animals, but now we have only cats and dogs. We raise golden retrievers for Leader Dogs. So far, more than 20 of them have been placed with blind [redacted]

COURIER: Do you have anything else to say?

BIEGNOWSKI: Only that I expect to stay in the community a long time.

Hospital Guild initiates new chaplain service

Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild volunteers, in cooperation with the Charlevoix Ministerial Association, have initiated a program to inform hospital patients about available chaplain services or to help patients contact their own clergy.

Mrs. Joanna Gunn, Guild president, explained that while the Ministerial Association provides chaplains for the hospital on a rotating, on call basis, few patients have been aware of the service.

Thus the Guild volunteers now stop by a patient's room the day after he or she is admitted, to drop off reading materials for interested patients and to tell them of the service.

"We ask if they would like to see a chaplain or if they would like someone to let their own minister know they are hospitalized," said Mrs. Gunn. "Patients are free to say they are not interested."

Since the inception of the program several weeks ago, the response has been positive, Mrs. Gunn reports. "We are averaging about two calls for a chaplain each week. Up until now there had been little use of the chaplain service," she said.

She added that many patients welcome the chance to visit with Guild volunteers.

"Quite frequently we meet patients who are lonely and want to talk with someone," she explained. Mrs. Gunn also mentioned that the hospital staff and administration are pleased with the approach.

Artists North names new officers for 1980-81 year

Artists North, an organization of northwestern Michigan artists, elected new officers for the 1980-81 year at their meeting held November 18, at the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center.

Elected president for the group was handweaver Pat Graybiel, from Bay Shore. Graybiel will be replacing Brude Janssen, woodcrafter and owner of the Wood Shop in Boyne City.

Vice-president and program director for the group is Stephen Kendall, a watercolorist from Harbor Springs. New treasurer for the group is Jodie Adams. Adams is from Harbor Springs and does pencil drawings.

Chris Umscheid, a poet from Petoskey, is the new newsletter editor and Steve Bartha who does creative cooking, is the new liaison to the Crooked Tree Arts Council. Bartha is from Harbor Springs.

Elected to two year terms on the board of directors were Ron Graybiel, a woodcrafter and furniture designer from Bay Shore, and Bonnie Staffel, of Staffel's Pottery in Charlevoix. Completing the last year of their two year terms will be Richard Jackson, a photographer from Boyne City, and Jerry Aydlott, a metal craftsman and co-owner of the Jordan Valley Studio in East Jordan.

New publicity director for the group is Kathy Johnson, a writer from Boyne City.

A note in the December 10 issue of the Courier announcing the sale of Christmas trees by Big Brothers - Big Sisters of Charlevoix and the Charlevoix Lions Club implied that all proceeds from the sale went to Big Brothers. In fact, the profit from the tree sale is split evenly between Big Brothers - Big Sisters and the Lions.

Wood is president of Northwest Shriners

Raymond V. Wood of Charlevoix was installed as president of the Northwest Shrine Club at an initiation ceremony held Friday at the Shanty Creek Lodge.

Frank VanderVort of Grand Rapids, Potentate of the Saladin Shrine with which the Northwest Shrine Club is affiliated, was the installing officer. He was assisted by Dr. James Lynd of Grand Rapids, assistant Rabban, and Keith Annear of East Jordan, Oriental Guide.

Others installed with Wood were John Galbraith of Rapid City, first vice president; Vassila Nickita of Rapid City, second vice president; John Borton of Charlevoix, secretary; Herbert Cummings of Central Lake, treasurer; and Dr. John Nichols of Rapid City, sergeant at arms.

Allan Lydle of Kalkaska, retiring president, as master of ceremonies, introduced the officers, their wives and other guests.

Following the installation, the new president presented a check for $[illegible] to VanderVort as the club's contribution to the Saladin Foundation Operation Fund which supports the Shriners' Crippled Children Hospitals.

Otto Yemmans of Charlevoix, a Noble in the club, was presented with a plaque honoring him as the club's Shriner of the Year. A dinner at the lodge preceded the formal ceremonies and dancing followed.

Grapplers lose to Onaway

The Charlevoix Rayder wrestlers bowed to a strong Onaway team here Thursday night by a score of 30-27.

This was the team's last dual meet until the Rayders host Grayling on January 8 after Christmas vacation.

Charlevoix posted four pins and one match by decision to [redacted].

Winners for the Rayders were Mike Steele (112) who posted his first pin in competition in 1:08 of the first period over Jerry Stevens. Other point winners were Gregg Whitley (145) who won a 5-1 decision over Kurt LaLonde; Jeff Landon (155) who went to the third period before pinning Bob Brege. Scott Golovich (185) pinned Joe Winfield in the second period; Ken Wojan (198) pinned Paul Droste in the first [redacted].

There were no entries in the 98 pound class. Brian Janeczek was unopposed by the Rayders in the heavyweight division.

In the other weight classes, Jim Herriman (105) was pinned by Tony Hartfert; Chuck Klooster (119) appearing in his first meet was pinned by David Cowper; Mick Belfy (126) was pinned by Fred Hopkinson; Rick Gallant was pinned by John Mason and Alan Bergmann (167) was decisioned by Frank [redacted].

Charlevoix goes into the holiday break with a 1-3 dual [redacted].

Results from last week's A&B Rec basketball leagues

In A-League action December 15, Al Looze scored 26 points to lead Great Lakes Energy past Kaden's, 70-46. Other high scorers for G.L.E. were Mark Guitare with 12 and Peewee Belford and Kurt Kujaski with 10 apiece. For Kaden's, Dean Hicks had 17 [redacted].

Village Inn Pizza was unneighborly to the Townhouse by a score of 63-56. Jerry Skippergosh canned 22 for V.I.P. while Clint Berlage had 15 and Vince Left, 12. For the losers, steve Dunkelberg scored 23, Bernie Ward, 13 and Steve Smith, 11.

In a perfectly balanced attack, four players each had ten points for I.D.C. enroute to a 57-49 victory over the B-League All-Stars. The four were Tex Drenth, Neil Vanderberg, Jon Nohozzel and Kevin Stewart. For the stars, Don Ward totalled 17, Tim Carey 12 and Jim Parrish, 10.

In B-League results for December 17, Alray Cottages beat Wojan Aluminum 64-60 with Tom Morrison scoring 14 for the winners followed by Jim Marsh, Scott Blanchard and Dennis Dominic each with 12. For Wojan, Dave Smith took honors with 18, Don Ward had 14 and Stan Martin, 10.

Kit Carson completely smothered Carey's Boot Shop 69-29 led by Butch Klooster with 29 points and Mike Crain with 14. Pat Schaeffer managed ten points for the [redacted].

In a tight, see-saw battle, Medusa edged out the First State Bank, 48-46 behind a 24-point performance by Jim Parrish. For the Bank, Kevin Swanson totalled 14, Ike Boss 12 and Roger Gowell, 10.

Rayders edged by Grayling but swamp Rogers City completely

It was another .500 week for the Charlevoix High School varsity basketball squad as the cagers dropped a close one, 59-55, to Grayling on Tuesday but came back to swamp Rogers City Friday night in a 65-40 rout.

It was, again, turnovers and some cold shooting from the floor that plagued the Rayders on their home court against Grayling. Charlevoix turned the ball over 25 times to the Grayling squad which was guilty of only 19 turnovers.

Though neither team was exactly on fire in the shooting category, the Rayders' 36 percent on 22 field goals in 60 attempts was slightly worse than Grayling's 39 percent on 24 for 62 from the floor.

Charlevoix did better on the free throw line from which they made good on 11 of 18 tries for 61 percent. Grayling managed a 50 percent clip at the line with 11 free throws made out of 22 attempts. Twelve of those attempts for Grayling came in the fourth quarter as Charlevoix made an aggressive run for the lead that came up just short.

The Rayders dominated the boards at both ends of the court leading Grayling in offensive rebounds, 15-10 and in defensive rebounds, 28-26.

In a nip and tuck battle for three quarters, Charlevoix actually commanded a 15-11 lead at the end of the first quarter but had fallen slithly behind 23-21 by the half. Grayling still led by only two, 41-39, at the start of the last period, but Bill Roach scored 11 of his game total of 13 points in the fourth to help Grayling hang on for the win.

Balanced scoring for Charlevoix was led by Ross Carey with 11, Craig Klooster with 10, Paul Hoffman with nine, Gary Drury with eight, Jeff Greene and Mike Loper with six each, Scott Kelly with three and Dave Buday with two.

In JV action, the Rayders came through with an easy 55-38 win over Grayling. Though they started slowly scoring but nine points in the first quarter, the JVs caught their stride as the game progressed led by George Smith's 19 points.

Other scorers for Charlevoix were Tim LaBlance and Chris Putman each with 12, Fred Mielke with eight and Steve Schmidt with four. The rout allowed Coach Don Carey to give everybody on the junior varsity squad some playing time.

The Rayders braved some early winter weather Friday night to make the trek to Rogers City and, as it turned out, the trip was well worth it.

Rogers City was never in the game as Charlevoix put together an effective defense, strong rebounding and an improved shooting percentage to dominate throughout.

Coach Dave Moyer was able to clear the bence in the runaway victory and just about everybody on the squad made it to the scoring column. Hoffman had the hottest Rayder hand with 14; he was followed by Gary Drury with eight and Kelly, Jeff Drury, Loper and Van Sloan, all with six apiece. Other scoring included Carey, five, Larry Lemerand, four, Schmidt, three, Tim Louselle, Buday and Craig Klooster with two each and Mark Beaudoin with one.

Statistically, Charlevoix led in every category with 28 of 58 from the floor for 49 percent to Rogers City's poor 28 percent on 18 out of 64. The Rayders' dominance really showed in total rebounds which [illegible].

Even more thorough was the Rayder junior varsity team's shellacking of their Rogers City hosts 64-35.

Charlevoix held Rogers City to single figures in total scoring in two of the four quarters. Putman scored 16 to lead the Rayders; other scorers included LaBlance, 14, Smith 12, Mielke, eight, Jeff Trumper, seven, Schmidt, five [illegible].

Following the holiday break, the Rayders will get back into conference action on Tuesday, January 6 when they host the St. Ignace Saints with junior varsity tipoff set for 6:30 p.m. and varsity action scheduled for 8 p.m.

Frosh lose to HS in fourth

A red hot third period in which the Harbor Springs freshman squad scored 20 points ended in defeat last Monday night for the Charlevoix freshmen by a 42-39 margin.

The Thursday game at St. Ignace was postponed due to bad weather and will be played January 12.

In the Harbor Springs game, the Rayders trailed 9-8 at the end of the first quarter but came back to take a 17-11 advantage at the half. However, the surge by the Rams wiped out the Rayder lead and gave Harbor Springs a 31-22 margin going into the fourth quarter.

Harbor Springs held on in the final period for the 42-39 win.

Bill Tillen led the Rayder attack with 18 points.

MONEY MART
New! Exciting! (and pleasantly old-fashioned)
With our new Money Mart at 838 Petoskey Ave. in Charlevoix, Michigan Bank-North has simplified getting a low interest bank loan right here in your area.
We sit down with you without the sometimes cold and crisp atmosphere of many banks ... and discuss your loan needs. Together, we fill out the paperwork in comfortable, informal surroundings, then send it to the bank, and that's it. In a very short time, your loan money will be available.
Our Money Mart isn't big or imposing.
We don't try to impress or overawe you. But we do provide a very private, confidential service without the usual tension you might have known when applying for loans in the past. You'll talk to one person whose only job is to help you.
Shop for a loan on the basis of terms, not just from the only game in town.
One of the important facts about Money Mart is that the loans you apply for are at low Simple Interest bank rates. And over the life of any loan, lower interest rates can save you important dollars. Best of all, you're no longer forced to feel that you have to deal only with a very few loan sources. Now, thanks to Money Mart, you can shop and compare. We may also surprise you with the amount of the loan we can arrange for you. Try us, and see!
We'll even custom tailor our office hours to fit your schedule.
Need to see us at 7 in the morning? Or maybe 8 at night? Call ahead, and we'll be there to serve you at your convenience. After all, you're our reason for being and not the other way around!

WE AT JML WERE LOOKING FOR THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS PRESENT.....

AND WE FOUND IT.

Dear WJML,
This is a sad time for us, but it could have been worse, and possibly so if it hadn't been for the two special kind people with care and concern in mind for others. We are the parents of the 17-year-old girl who was abducted on the evening of November 12. It's extremely difficult to digest the fact that such a creature comes to our area and inflicts violence on a member of one's family, violating our rights and those of others as well. Sometimes people don't care to get involved for fear of endangering themselves and their families, and it is understandable. There aren't words enough to describe our deep feelings of praise and thanks to Evelyn Chipman and her daughter Brenda Miller of Boyne City; we hope that such an incident never happens again in our area, but if it does, may there be others like Evelyn Chipman and Brenda Miller who will take action for someone else as they did for our daughter. We surely need more people like those two wonderful ladies in this world today.

Sincerely,
A Grateful Mother in Petoskey

A WARM THANKS TO ALL OF NORTHERN MICHIGAN FOR WRITING IN AND LISTENING ALL YEAR. FROM ALL OF US AT WJML

Dear Friend,
We at JML can only imagine the depth of your gratitude to Evelyn Chipman and Brenda Miller of Boyne City for their Bravery and generosity in risking their lives for your daughter...

From the Family,
And from all of us at JML,
A Heartfelt Thanks to Both Women
For Their Brave Generosity.

Obituaries

DUSTIN W. PARSONS

Funeral services for Dustin William Parsons, the two-month old son of Mr. and Mrs. David W. Parsons, were held Monday at the First Congregational Church. Rev. Raymond Giffin officiated. Interment was in the Norwood Cemetery.

The child died unexpectedly at the Charlevoix Area Hospital shortly after admittance. He was born in Petoskey on October 15, 1980.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a brother, Bradley, 2, and two sisters, Maria, 11, and Katie, 10, all at home; his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Parsons of Charlevoix and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Everson of Marquette.

Forest project set

A prime forestland identification project for the thirteen Northwest Michigan counties including Charlevoix is underway. A contract has been signed between the U.S. Forest Service, Michigan Department of Natural Resources Forest Management Division, and the Northwest Michigan Resource Conservation and Development Council to complete the two year project.

Dennis Nezich has been named project coordinator, with office location in the Grand Traverse Soil Conservation District offices at 1222 Rennie Street, Traverse City, Michigan 49684 (phone [illegible]). Dennis will work under the direction of a project steering committee made up of forest-related industry and agency representatives.

RUBY POWER

John Reusch

In my last article I spoke of some of the superstitions attached to various gemstones. This time I'd like to tell you about the high regard the ancients held for ruby and diamond.

The Hindus seemed to value ruby above all other gems. The glowing red color led them to believe that an eternal flame burned within the stone. It was believed that the owner of a ruby would enjoy good physical and mental health because the stone could remove evil thoughts, control amorous desires, drive away "pestiential vapors" and resolve disputes. In a 14th century treatise it was claimed that if a person wore a ruby on the left side of his body, he would live in peace and harmony with all men and all his belongings would be protected.

The diamond has intrigued people for centuries. Most of the beliefs that were built around it stem from its superior hardness or its brilliant transparency. It was thought to bring the wearer great strength, fortitude and courage, so he would be victorious in battle. St. Hildegard believed it drove the devil away. In further support of the tradition of using diamonds in engagement and wedding rings, the gem was believed to increase the love between the married couple.

If people were awed by the beauty of gemstones in times past, they should be even more so now with the developments that have since taken place in the science of gemology. Modern day gem cutters and jewelry artisans know how to cut gems to display their maximum beauty and to set them in artistically molded precious metals.

At Reusch Jewelry we take pride in our jewelry and our knowledge of gemstones.

Most county officials to get salary boosts

Most elected and appointed officials of Charlevoix County will receive an increase in salary in 1981.

Figures released last week by the County Board of Commissioners show a "raise" of approximately seven percent in most instances, although [illegible] will remain the same.

Among those whose salaries will not be increased are members of the County Board of Commissioners, who receive $150 a month; members of the County Road Commission, who receive $1,200 a year; and the County Drain Commissioner, who receives $3,500 a year.

The salary schedule for top officials includes County Clerk, $15,482; Register of Deeds and Abstractor, $14,728; Prosecuting Attorney, $30,978; Civil Defense Director, $11,323; Equalization Director, $18,544; County Treasurer, $16,276; Sheriff, $19,485; Under-Sheriff, $18,114; Building Maintenance Man, $13,240; County Planner, $17,937; Building Code Official, $15,040; and Veterans Affairs Counselor (half time), $5,612.

In addition, the three judges will receive supplements to their state salaries as follows: Circuit Court Judge, $8,605; District Court Judge, $5,015; and Probate Court Judge, $4,022. The Probate Judge also receives an additional $2,820 from the county as part of his salary.

All full-time county employees work 35 hours a week and receive a salary based on that schedule. Those who work less than 35 hours are paid on an hourly basis. Full-time and some part-time employees receive certain fringe benefits, although such benefits are not available to seasonal or short term employees.

County officials receive per diem allowances of either $25 or $35 for attending meetings. The Medical Examiner receives $50 per call in addition to his annual salary of $500.

Automobile mileage allowances are divided into two categories. Department heads and employees utilizing personal vehicles in the course of performing their jobs, i.e., field work, inspection, etc. receive 25 cents a [illegible].

Department heads, elected officials, county commissioners, and employees utilizing personal vehicle to travel to meetings, seminars, conventions, etc. receive [illegible] cents a mile.

Physical examinations are required for all new employees at the expense and direction of the County by the County's designated physician.

Basketball contest winners for this week

Brian Carlson of 10390 Fifth St. in Charlevoix is the big winner this week in the Courier Basketball Contest. Carlson will take home a $10 gift certificate for recording only one wrong guess in the games played last week.

Not far off the pace, however, was LeRoy Buchanan, 224 Maple, Charlevoix, with two wrong. Buchanan receives the second place prize of a $5 gift certificate.

Skiing at Mt. McSauba off to early start this year

The children of Charlevoix were able to ski on their own ski hill Christmas Day.

For the first Christmas ever, Mt. McSauba had enough snow and good enough conditions to bring smiles to all who wanted to try out the skis that Santa had just left them.

And how all this came about is a Christmas story in itself! It started about a year and a half ago when Mike Bonello, local ski enthusiast and coach of the Charlevoix High School ski team, made arrangements to buy a snow-making machine. The Lions Club, Kiwanis Club, and several individual donors had contributed almost enough money to pay for it, and it was hoped that the City Council would make up the difference. However, the project became bogged down in squabbles about money. The Council didn't think it should be spent on Mt. McSauba.

Then another private fund drive was started. This time the City Council agreed to contribute $3,500 to the project if the private fund drive netted an additional $2,000. This all came about, and the snow-making machine was paid for, installed, and donated to the City in time or Christmas.

Tom Erber, who related the Mt. McSauba story to the Courier, noted the special efforts of such men as John Haggard, Pete Pace, Sam Supernaw, Tom LaBlance, Josh Barnes, Bill Kenifeck, and Bonello. They not only helped raise money for the project, but contributed their own time and labor toward it, labor as basic as laying pipe.

There were others, too, Said Erber, "The City is fortunate in having men like Ed Whitley, the street superintendent, who donated his Saturdays free of charge to help lay line along with Kevin Swanson and Jerry Meggison.

"It really warms the heart to see how individual people and businesses all pulled together along with the City to accomplish this. Anyone who worked to get this thing done should be gratified to see how it worked out so well."

Erber pointed out that if so many individuals had not donated their time and labor, the project could have cost an additional $10,000, which would have been prohibitive.

"They even brought their bulldozers and back hoes," he [illegible].

Mt. McSauba ran into trouble a while back when the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) told the City Council that they would have to improve the lift and lighting at the ski hill. After that, there was no money left for snow-making equipment.

Hoping not leave out a name, Erber listed recent contributors to the Mt. McSauba project as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Witthoeft, William Kenfeck, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Mettler, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bickersteth, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Steele, Dr. and Mrs. Dennis Joy, Dr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Georgi, Mr. and Mrs. John Haggard, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Erber, Mr. and Mrs. John Uhrick, Mr. and Mrs. Tom LaBlance, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Pace, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Maipeli, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. David D. Fowler, Mr. and Mrrs. William R. Sherman, and the Real Estate Place.

Not to be forgotten is the Charlevoix High School ski team, which held several money-raising events to help pay for the snow-making equipment. Incidentally, the new equipment will add about a month and a half to the skiing season at Mt. McSauba.

Gary Michael Fortune, an appropriate name, has the distinction of being this year's Christmas Baby in Charlevoix. The son of Patrick, above left, and Laura Fortune. Gary was born at the Charlevoix Area Hospital at 10:24 a.m. Christmas Day. The Fortune family is from Boyne City. The baby weighed seven pounds, four ounces at birth and was 19 inches long. Ironically, Gary was delivered by another Christmas Baby, Dr. Michael Engle, above right, whose birthday is also December 25. To commemorate the occasion, Gary was given Dr. Engle's first name as a middle name.

First step into the 80s: A review of the year in Charlevoix

Reporter [illegible] dug out a year's worth of Couriers last week and put together a brief overview of some of Charlevoix's most significant happenings in 1980.

What happened in Charlevoix during 1980? There were all the events that make up life in a small town, there was good news and bad news, there was happiness and sorrow. There were even some activities that reminded us we are part of a much larger world.

The year started with the first big snowstorm of the season. Thirteen inches of snow fell within two days and the county had [illegible] due to the weather.

Business-wise, Captain's Corners Shopping Center was sold to a group of local investors, including Richard E. Georgi, Jr., Alyce Lesser, Thomas Reis, Roma Walstrom, Philip Mason, and Victor [illegible].

After 25 years of public service, Charlevoix County Clerk Clarence Rabach announced he would resign.

Wallace Brown announced he would oppose George Lasater in the primaries for Sheriff of Charlevoix County.

The auction to raise funds for high school band uniforms netted over [illegible].

In February, Charlevoix Mayor Sam Supernaw presented petitions signed by 280 residents to the State Boundary Commission, asking the Commission to consider consolidating the City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township.

County Treasurer Anah Potter reported that property owners were paying their taxes on time, despite tight dollars.

The Charlevoix Yacht Club announced it would host the North American 40 Regatta.

Brenda Klooster and Kurt Williams were crowned queen and king of Charlevoix High School winter homecoming.

In March came the first rumors that the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew would leave Charlevoix for another home port.

Charlevoix High School captured the Class C district basketball title.

Deputy County Clerk Jane Brannon was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Clarence Rabach.

The Medusa Challenger opened the 1980 shipping season in northwest Michigan by arriving in Charlevoix March 27.

The Charlevoix Historical Society held its first meeting of the year on April 1 at its new headquarters, the Harsha House at 103 State Street.

Boat service on the Beaver Islander opened two days later than in 1979.

Kristy Mathews was named valedictorian of the Charlevoix High School graduating class.

The City Council agreed to extend a water line to Mt. McSauba so an ice-making machine can be installed.

The Coast Guard confirmed that the Sundew will leave Charlevoix.

The City signed a contract to buy 5.57 acres of land for senior citizens housing.

In May, 17 persons were arrested during a demonstration at Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant.

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Spring Dance was held at the [illegible].

Michigan's first in-the-water boat show was held in Charlevoix.

Jim McCallum announced his candidacy for Charlevoix County Sheriff.

Several thousand persons toured the Medusa Challenger while it was moored in Round Lake. Other activities in the Michigan Week celebration also drew many participants.

On June 4, Len Fuller joined the list of candidates for Sheriff.

All incumbent county officials, with the exception of [illegible] filed for re-nomination.

The Band Boosters turned over a check for [illegible] to the Board of Education for band uniforms. The money was raised through several different projects, including an auction and an open house aboard the Medusa Challenger.

Wayne Chapman announced his candidacy or sheriff.

Steve Maddalena won the 69th Michigan Amateur Golf Tournament at the Belvedere Club.

The First State Bank of Charlevoix celebrated its 75th anniversary with an open house featuring a large cake and other refreshments.

A "fake disaster" was staged at Big Rock to test the County Emergency Operations Plan. The Plan passed the exercises with "flying colors", according to the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

The Charlevoix County Transit System started operations in July with seven buses.

Tammy Helms was named "Miss Charlevoix". Other candidates were Susan Boss, Glenda Farrell, Michiko Regier, Carolyn Loper, Dori Olach, and Julia Ann Rogers.

The Venetian Festival weekend was heightened with the appearance of Alice Cooper in concert at Castle Farms.

Finally, in early August, ground was broken for the senior citizens housing complex.

The Ironton Ferry was used as background for a series of [illegible].

Sheriff George Lasater outpolled all four other candidates [illegible].

Rock Star Bob Seger performed before 15,000 at Castle Farms.

Although he received only 169 votes in the five-way primary contest for Sheriff, Wayne Chapman has declared himself a write-in candidate in the November General Election.

Two area young people and a visitor from Ontario were seriously injured in a two-car accident following the performance of the rock band, The Cars, at Castle Farms.

In September, the Bergmann Center moved into new, larger quarters on Martin Road.

An overall view of the summer indicates it was a good season both business-wise and weather-wise.

The Sundew left Charlevoix for Duluth after making its home here for 22 years. The Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite will soon replace the Sundew.

Equinoxial storms, with winds gusting to 50 knots, played havoc with boats and docks along lake Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix High School band appeared in new uniforms during half-time at the football game early in October.

Michigan Bank North was denied a charter for a Charlevoix branch because the State Financial Institutions Bureau decreed there was no need for a third bank in Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection reported its biggest months of the year in September with [illegible].

A Charlevoix man died of Legionnaires' disease.

Large plantings of steelhead trout, German brown trout, and lake trout were made in Lake Michigan near Charlevoix.

The "fourth Friday count" indicates that Charlevoix school enrollment is down by 34 students.

Men aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite hosted a Halloween party for local children.

A Courier survey shows that one-third of area residents are undecided about whom to vote for in presidential election.

Following the election, county tallies show Reagan received 5,053 votes (53 percent); Carter, 3,306 votes (39 percent), and Anderson, 696 votes (eight percent).

The Lake Michigan Park erosion control plan was in its final stages, with the erection of riprap, fencing, barrier posts, wood chips on trails, rustic steps, and planting of trees and beach grass.

Charlevoix High School basketball player Melinda Klooster ended the regular season with a career total of 1,331 points, a [illegible].

A kidnap-rape suspect was captured in a Charlevoix County deer camp.

Developmental clinics scheduled for 1982 kindergarten candidates

There will be Developmental Screening Clinics held over the next three months for all children who will be entering kindergarten in the fall of [illegible]

These clinics are sponsored by the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District.

The purpose of these clinics is to provide parents with information regarding normal child development, give parents an opportunity to interact with other parents of three year-old children and provide screening to identify in the children any potential learning difficulties which may arise in the school years. These are a free service with appointments made on a first come, first serve basis.

For the Charlevoix School District, clinics are scheduled to be held at the Char-Em Service Center in Charlevoix on January 14 and February 11. For the Central Lake - Ellsworth district, the clinic date is March 11 with the [illegible].

Those interested in attending one of the clinics or who reside in a district other than those mentioned above may contact Joan Smith at [illegible].

A SPECIAL THANKS TO YOU!

One of the greatest pleasures of the holiday season is the opportunity it gives us to say "thank you" for everything you have done for us, and extend our best wishes for 1981.

We hope the days that lie ahead bring you and your loved ones a generous helping of happiness and good health. We hope, too, that we can play a part in making your New Year a rewarding one.

Boyne City, East Jordan up; Charlevoix down

The only two cities in northern Michigan to increase in population from 1970 to 1980 are located in Charlevoix County, according to the United States Census Bureau.

Boyne City increased from 2,969 to 3,352, a change of 12.9 percent, and East Jordan increased from 2,041 to 2,198, a change of 6.9 percent.

At the same time, the City of Charlevoix decreased from 3,519 to 3,309, a change of 6 percent.

The general decrease in city population in northern Michigan is more than offset by the increase in rural population, census figures [illegible].

Charlevoix County as a whole increased from 16,541 to 19,892, a change of 20.3 percent. Antrim County, to the south, increased from 12,612 to 16,166, a change of 28.2 percent, and Emmet County, to the north, increased from 18,331 to 22,792, a change of 24.3 percent.

All 18 counties in the northern part of the lower peninsula showed some population increase in the last decade, resulting in a population increase of 70,713, or 28 percent. Individual counties varied from an increase of only 1,381 in Presque Isle County to 15,523 in Grand Traverse County, although the largest percentage increase was in Kalkaska County, which more than doubled its population, due largely to the oil exploration boom.

Part of the recent holiday festivities at the Charlevoix Middle School included the sixth grade concert held December 18. One number in the concert featured the duet, right, of Beth Maue and Curt McCandless. The students were not the only performers at the concert: the entire elementary teaching staff gathered, above, to sing some Christmas carols for the assembled students and [illegible].

College aid program set

Most parents of high school seniors are concerned about where the money for college will come from.

The underlying assumption in all financial aid programs is that parents have the first responsibility to pay for a college education. However, very few families can afford [illegible].

To acquaint parents and their junior/seniors ons and daughters with the concepts and programs for the 1981-82 school year, the Charlevoix High School Counseling Center will conduct a program on financial aid at the high school study hall at 7 p.m. Monday, Jan. 12.

Cliff Denay, Financial Air Counselor at North Central Michigan College, Gayle Kaczynski and Charles Bentley, counselors at the Charlevoix High School, will present a program devoted to local, state and federal financial aid programs available to Charlevoix [illegible]

Colleges and scholarship programs require that financial aid be based on 1980 income. Consequently, financial aid applications cannot be completed until parents have completed their [illegible].

Combining the computer with an established example of need analysis from the College Scholarship Service, Kenneth Bartley, Mathematics teacher and Bentley have developed a computer program to help parents determine what their expected contribution may be.

Fifteen pieces of information need to be supplied in order to estimate the expected parent's contribution. These are number of parents at home, number of parents working, number of family members attending college, number of family members, wages of father, wages of mother, other income, adjustments to income.

Medical and dental expenses, home equity, real estate equity, net value of farm or business, value of cash, checking or savings accounts, value of stocks, bonds, other investments and age of older parent.

With this information, parents can receive a listing of available income, total assets, asset protection allowance, remaining assets, income supplement from assets, adjusted available income and parent's estimated expected [illegible].

If parents would like to obtain an estimate of what their expected contributions to their child's education might be, they are encouraged to bring the information listed above to the program or contact Mr. Bentley at the Charlevoix High School Counseling Center at 547-2811.

In all cases, confidentiality is assured.

Weathervane Expansion plans announced

Plans for a 36-room expansion of the Weathervane Terrace Motel on Michigan Avenue were revealed last week by Richard Georgi, one of the principals in the Charlevoix Development Company, which plans the expansion.

Georgi appeared before the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners to request that when the proposed County Economic Development Corporation (EDC) is implemented, the County issue bonds for the Weathervane project through the EDC. The County would then acquire title to the expansion project with the proceeds and lease the project to the Charlevoix Development Company.

Georgi stressed that such action would not place any financial burden or other [illegible] upon the County or the citizens. The advantage of this type of financing, simply put, is that financing can be obtained at a lower rate of interest than through conventional channels.

Economic Development Corporations are being set up throughout the country to encourage businesses to locate in certain areas or to expand present facilities, as is the case with the Weathervane Terrace.

The proposed Charlevoix County EDC is being studied by a [illegible] committee consisting of Lee Moerland of Charlevoix, Dennis Jason of East Jordan, and John Kujawski of Boyne City. The EDC matter has not yet been brought before the County Board of Commissioners, and it is not known just when it will be.

The Board of Commissioners told Georgi that they would consider his request and come to some decision on it soon, perhaps at their January 8 meeting.

Georgi and his associate, [illegible] of Boyne City, who accompanied him to the Commissioners' meeting, said they did not know at this time if they would proeed with the expansion plans if the EDC backing does not materialize. They pointed out that present high interest rates could make the project economically unattractive.

Georgi cited the shortage of motel rooms in Charlevoix and said his proposed expansion would add to the business well-being of the community. He also said that the lower level of the motel addition could be developed into space for mini conventions.

The expansion of the motel would create eight new full-time jobs with a beginning payroll of approximately $62,000 a year.

Knight on the Town

Memories of Hogsback

Watching the legions of hobbit-sized skiers creeping up the Mt. McSauba tow rope the other day brought to mind many vivid memories of a craggy old hillside back home where I learned to ski.

Like Charlevoix, my home town had a municipal ski hill though it was not nearly as conveniently located. Ours was a few miles out of town carved out of the woods on a north-facing slope.

During the summer it was planted in corn.

Some time back, the early enthusiasts with their varnished wooden skis, bamboo poles, leather bindings and billowing snow pants tucked into woolen socks had persuaded some farmer to knock a few trees off what came to be known as Hogsback Hill.

They did not create a wide, open thoroughfare so characteristic of modern ski areas but left a few sturdy oaks in place to make things interesting.

In fact, those trees left standing in the middle of the hill were probably more responsible for teaching young skiers how to turn and stop than any teacher or instruction book could have been.

The rope tow consisted of a gnarled two-inch rope slung around wheel rims nailed on trees and a phone pole or two. The whole thing was powered by an ancient tractor engine that chugged so painfully that each stroke sounded as if it could be its last.

Budget pressures closed the hill a few years ago but the last time I looked, that old engine was still there. Wasn't even worth taking to the salvage yard.

For a six year-old on his first skis, the vicious pitfalls of the trip up the hill on the rope tow far overshadowed whatever might happen on the trip down. At least coming down one could shuck the skis and walk if he wished.

Mastering the hold on a tow rope is much like learning to use a clutch in a car. Grab too tight and you get whipped out of your long johns. Too loose and you burn a pair of mittens.

The rope at Hogsback Hill went up a narrow little ridge aside the hill with dense woods on one side and skiers flashing by on the other. The young skier faced some mighty big decisions when the person in front of him fell down in the track. He could either fall into the woods, fall into the path of the other skiers or let the rope run through his hands and hope that the dummy in front got up before his mittens were burned off completely.

With a little practice, my friends and I soon mastered the rope tow and even had some fun with it. Whipping people off was an especially exciting diversion.

This maneuver consisted of hanging onto the rope until the last possible moment while skiing off the track and then letting it go with a massive "TWANG!" The poor soul next in line on the rope would go flying into the woods amid gales of laughter from those watching from the landing.

This type of activity required some degree of discretion. One evening I followed a friend up the tow rope and held on for life when he gave me a super-whip as he got off. I made it without falling off but what my friend did not realize was that another had been on the rope tow right behind me.

She staggered out of the woods a few minutes later and we did not see my friend on the hill any more that night.

Long before we knew what cross country skiing was supposed to be, we would ride the rope tow to the top of Hogsback Hill and instead of coming down the ski slopes we would go down the other side of the ridge via fire lanes, cow paths and anything else vaguely resembling a trail.

This was most fun at night when we would strap flashlights to our heads and set out like a band of skiing coal miners.

The runs on Hogsback Hill were not long but they were steep. Shooting the narrow little headwall was nothing less than suicidal what with the trees, a rock here and there and perhaps a corn stalk hidden by the snow. Of course, we all had to try it once.

Thrills aside, nothing could beat the peaceful silence of a winter's night atop Hogsback Hill with big snowflakes falling on my tongue and the lights from town winking in the distance.

Those were simpler times when the biggest worry in my head was how to get down the headwall without splicing myself to an oak tree.

Condo plan should be closely examined

This coming Tuesday, January 6 at 7:30 p.m., a public hearing is to be held in the Charlevoix Township Hall to consider a proposed condominium complex at the south end of Park Avenue.

"Boulder Park Condominiums", a 31-unit, one apartment project consisting of 25,400 square feet of buildings, is planned by two downstate businessmen, Marvin H. and Jerome Bookstein. Sale of the land by Olive L. Moyer to the Booksteins is contingent upon a rezoning of the property from its present Residential-1 to the condominium category of Residential-4.

Construction of condominiums in some of Charlevoix's most beautiful natural areas has long been a sore topic with some local residents. Others, however, point to the economic progress to be made through property tax incomes, fat contracts for local construction firms and the attraction of more people needing goods and services to the community.

Will a new condominium complex be a plus or minus for Charlevoix as a whole? Many questions have to be answered including how traffic flow will be affected in the Park Ave. area, how the project will affect operation of the newly expanded hospital, how much will the natural landscape of the property be changed and so forth.

Tuesday's hearing should attract the attention of more than just the next-door neighbors of the proposed project. All those in Charlevoix who have been concerned about condominium growth, or the lack of it, should plan on attending.

Snow maker a real community project

For the first time ever, the children who got new skis for Christmas were able to run over to our own Mt. McSauba to try them out during Christmas vacation.

This year's early ski season has been made possible by the new snow making equipment at the hill which has combined with cooperative weather lately to make for some quality skiing right in our own back yard.

Not every community is so lucky to have a ski hill as convenient and not every community is so lucky to have as many interested and cooperative people to obtain and install equipment for the benefit of everyone who uses the hill.

The efforts by all the volunteers who worked on the project, the businesses who donated equipment and the city fathers who backed it deserve much credit.

Letters: Economic freedom a myth under present system

To the Editor:

The individual economic freedoms under the U.S. Constitution have always been in dispute with the kind of conditions created by free enterprise to maintain the general welfare for all people. The performance of monetary economics has a history that pays tribute to lawless, self-serving monopolies and special privilege groups which makes it neccessary to have rules and laws to protect the public welfare.

It is everybody's business to have an opportunity to co-exist in the kind of work and the exchange of values that affect the living standards of all the people.

The creation of products for a profit often pays more to the chain of inflated investment fees for the income values neccessary in organized production by labor. When we have a surplus, people can't stop and enjoy the abundance because they are not equal in the monetary power of ownership. This creates a condition of holding for a profit and a dedicatrion to the power of monetary acquisition by high interest cost in loans to area which is a [illegible] hardship in the midst of plenty and a glaring disregard for human rights.

The political mudslingers call it voodoo economics and are in fact right as to many capital investments are an exercise in something for nothing. This is not free enterprise for the benefit of all the people but rather a dictum by capitalistic standards to achieve social security by monetary accumulation.

This is promoted by manipulative speculation on real estate, stocks, bonds, high-salaried incomes, franchise profiteering, tax exempt bonds, lotteries and income tax loopholes.

The political promoters of capitalistic wealth often point to a successful millionaire but fail to mention the many who tried. As a result we have 60 percent of the people owing all their time to the bank and another 25 percent on welfare and unemployment. This creates a Wallstreet bankers' prosperity by inflation and a capitalistic bureaucracy that has a powerful influence on federal government. The $800 billion national debt is a perpetual dedication to pay tribute by discount and tax exempt bonds for the use of profit accumulated [illegible].

This makes the present federal money policy a conveyor of false values over which it has no control. The federal government has the constitutional power to issue money which is backed by the power of taxation and is the responsibility of all the people.

This is a power of public ownership on behalf of all the people and should be used as a revolving credit for creative needs to fund all public works. The resulting expansion of funds in public and private use must be controlled by a graduated income tax on excessive and speculative values.

We must regain our self respect

The film clips of the American hostages in Iran televised over the weekend carried one resounding message.

President-elect Ronald Reagan's No. 1 priority after taking office must be securing the release of the 52 American Embassy employees held captive in Iran without the payment of one cent in ransom to their captors — even at the risk of expanding the Middle East war.

To be sure, the hostages appeared well fed, well dressed and in reasonably good spirits despite their long ordeal. Conceiveably they could live for additional years in confinement and still retain a modicum of physical and mental health.

But I don't know about the rest of us. The shame, the ignominity of being bullied day after day, week after week, month after month, year after year by the Ayatollah Khomeini and his Islamic fanatics is beginning to take its toll of the American spirit.

Of what possible advantage is there in being a military super-power, a leader in space exploration, medicine and human rights, a pace-setter in industry and agriculture, a benchmark for the world's economies if we are unable to guarantee the safety of our citizens serving in duly-recognized diplomatic posts abroad?

Iran says it is holding the American government responsible for the ills inflicted upon the Iranian people by the late Shah Reza Pavlavi. Which is a lot of malarky. It is true that the United States supported the shah as the head of the Iranian government. But neither he nor his father could ever have occupied the Peacock Throne without the approval of a large segment of the Iranian population.

Iranians must hold themselves accountable for the shah's actions and not try to lay the blame on a foreign nation thousands of miles away.

Within 24 hours of taking office, Reagan must establish a policy concerning the hostages, including a deadline for their release and a list of devastating retaliatory measures the United States is prepared to take if Iran balks — including military action.

One year ago, Jimmy Carter's benign forebearance in the hostage crisis was hailed in civilized quarters as evidence of his statesmanship. Today the course he adopted appears to be little more than pandering and appeasement. And it hasn't worked.

Under the new president, speed in resolving the hostage crisis is essential. Any proclivity toward dawdling will only serve as a sign to the Iranians that the United States may still be willing to pay a price to bring the hostages home.

Iranian assets frozen in this country should be returned, of course. Beyond that, not one penny of tribute should be paid.

Even after the crisis has been resolved, the United States should be wary of re-establishing diplomatic and commercial relations with Iran until the present fanatical regime has been replaced by a more moderate government.

To leave ourselves open to another "hostage crisis" in Iran — or anywhere in the world — would be untenable.

My New Years wish is that Ronald Reagan will be able to re-establish the self-respect Americans once held for themselves and the pride they once held in their country.

Happy New Year

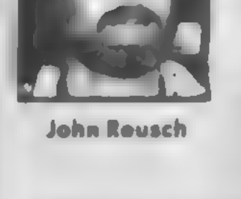
FASCINATING FACTS ABOUT GOLD



John Reusch

by John Reusch

We all know how beautifully gold shines in the sunlight. It's luster has been admired by poets and jewelers for centuries. In recent years scientists have come to appreciate gold's reflective property too. Gold has the ability to reflect up to 98% of incident infrared radiation.

It has been used to reflect infrared rays in space on such U.S. satellites as Discoverer 14, Ranger, and Mariner. One thin layer of gold, .000025 to .00005 inches thick, protected these satellites from extremely high temperatures.

Gold's reflective ability is also useful to builders. The plate glass windows in some office buildings contain a thin film of gold! This film reflects enough of the sun's heat producing rays (infrared) to reduce air conditioning costs substantially.

Gold also has a high degree of electrical conductivity. This makes it useful for electronic circuits such as plate contacts, terminals, printed circuits and semi conducter systems. When high reliability, corrosion resistance and electrical conductivity are required, gold is the answer.

The Krugerrand is the reliable answer for individuals who want to own gold. It contains one troy ounce of pure gold and is easily available at most jewelers. The Krugerrand is useful not only because it's decorative and easy to store, but also because it's easy to sell at a profit when the value of gold goes up.

If gold weren't so valuable, manufacturers would use it in batteries. Gold's high electrical potential, in comparison with led and other metals, makes it ideal for this purpose!

MONEY MART

New! Exciting! (and pleasantly old-fashioned)

With our new Money Mart at 838 Petoskey Ave. in Charlevoix, Michigan Bank-North has simplified getting a low interest bank loan right here in your area.

We sit down with you ... without the sometimes cold and crisp atmosphere of many banks ... and discuss your loan needs. Together, we fill out the paperwork in comfortable, informal surroundings, then send it to the bank, and that's it. In a very short time, your loan money will be available.

Our Money Mart isn't big or imposing.

We don't try to impress or overawe you. But we do provide a very private, confidential service without the usual tension you might have known when applying for loans in the past. You'll talk to one person whose only job is to help you.

Shop for a loan on the basis of terms, not just from the only game in town.

One of the important facts about Money Mart is that the loans you apply for are at low Simple Interest bank rates. And over the life of any loan, lower interest rates can save you important dollars. Best of all, you're no longer forced to feel that you have to deal only with a very few loan sources. Now, thanks to Money Mart, you can shop and compare. We may also surprise you with the amount of the loan we can arrange for you. Try us, and see!

We'll even custom tailor our office hours to fit your schedule.

Need to see us at 7 in the morning? Or maybe 8 at night? Call ahead, and we'll be there to serve you at your convenience. After all, you're our reason for being and not the other way around!

New capability to make snow helps McSauba open earliest ski season yet

by LAURA GLASS

What's big, hums and blows snow all over?

If you are not a skier or do not live near North Point, that may be a hard question to answer.

The answer is the new snow making machine recently installed at the Mt. McSauba municipal ski hill. The machine, along with a little help in the way of low enough temperatures this past month, has been responsible for creating a base of nice white powder on Mt. McSauba and allowing skiers to use the facility earlier than usual.

According to Jim Boss, assistant manager of the hill, Mt. McSauba's ski season was able to start much earlier than other in other recent years because of the new snow making ability.

"We wouldn't be skiing now if we had not started using it," said Boss.

The mechanics of the snow making machine are relatively simple. Drawing from a Charlevoix Township water line laid this past year just for the snow maker, the machine super-cools the water and blows it out in fine droplets which become artificial snow flakes when the air temperature is cold enough.

The machine is powered by electricity and the water pressure.

So far, the equipment has worked fairly well. The only adjustment Boss plans involves the water temperature control.

"It works like the machine at Boyne Mountain," he said, "The only problem we've got is we have to lower the temperature of the water a bit more."

But that minor adjustment has not prevented the hill from opening and the action has been steady over the past [illegible].

Shawn Elliot, 13, of Charlevoix, was on the hill Friday. "This was my first time down the hill. The snow is pretty good but a little icy today but I like it," he said.

Second year veteran Luke LeBlance, 6, of Charlevoix, was also out Friday and thought the skiing was good.

For those who prefer skiing at a more quiet pace, the city recreation department has set up miles of cross country trails around the McSauba area in addition to the downhill slope.

Boss said that trails wind several miles into the woods along Lake Michigan, up onto the golf course and back [illegible].

This reporter, a new cross country fan, tried the city's trail network and found it challenging but fun. Beginning at the base of Mt. McSauba, the trail takes the skier back behind the mountain where the old Boy [illegible].

So for skiers of either persuasion, cross country or downhill, an improved facility awaits and the best part of it is that it is only blocks away.

Girls volleyball team expecting a good season

The Charlevoix Girls Volleyball team will launch its 1980 season Wednesday, Jan. 7, when Petoskey comes to town Coach Mary Gengle said [illegible].

The Rayders are looking forward to a good season, Coach Gengle said. The team finished second in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference and coasted through the Pre-District playoffs to the Class C District tournament where they captured the title Coach Gengle said.

Forming the nucleus for this year's squad will be three regulars from last season, Mel Kerridge, Teresa Noirot and Brenda Buchanan. Backing them up will be three other seniors, Doretta Anderson, Becky Witthoeft and Janet Pence. The latter trio have seen limited action but have had enough experience to result in a strong starting line-up, Coach Gengle said.

Kerridge and Anderson have been named co-captains [illegible].

Margo Smith is the only junior returning from last season's Varsity squad. Other juniors up from the JV's are Jackie Pence and Teri Klama.

Other candidates are Cindy Story, a senior who is out for the team for the first time, Lisa Pischner, Lisa Staley and Colleen LaBlance, juniors.

Coach Gengle went on to say that most other teams in the league are undergoing a rebuilding season. Rogers City and Petoskey are expected to be strong contenders for the title she added.

Coach Gengle also coaches the Junior Varsity squad, the training group for the Varsity. Nineteen candidates for the team have been attending practice regularly.

"This group should shape up into a strong team. They are eager, they have height, which we have lacked and a lot of natural talent. They should have a good season and supply some talent for next season." [illegible].

The list of candidates includes three players from last year's JV squad, Connie Borths, Colleen Sell and Treasure Drost, all sophomores and three others from this class who are out for the first time, Angie Langston, Mary Ellen Ciuk, Chris Mitchell and Jackie Mitchell.

An enthusiastic freshman group includes Debbie Bowman, LeeAnn Struthers, Lauri Finck, Tina Bishaw, Bonnie Bergmann, Karolyn Searls, Missy Walker, Laura Henry, Beth Jones, Sharon Zundel, Colleen Bartley and [illegible].

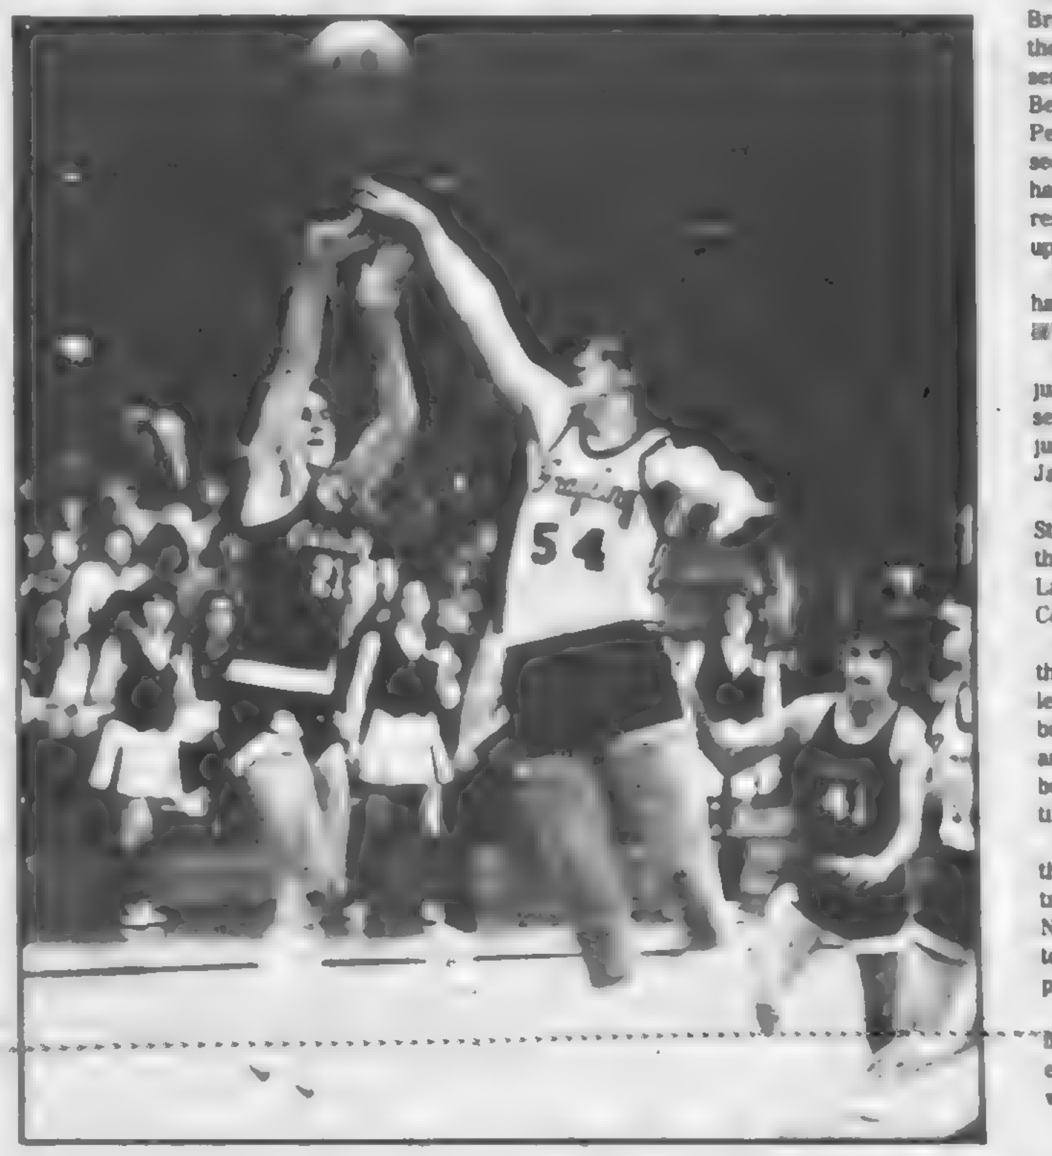
The three experienced sophomores, Borths, Sell and Drost, have been elected co-captains of this squad.

The JV's play a regular schedule Coach Gengle said.

Charlevoix will host its third annual Volleyball Invitational tournament here Jan. 10.

Six Michigan-Huron Shores teams, Gaylord, Petoskey, Boyne City, Rogers City, St. Ignace and the host team and Traverse City St. Francis and Leland will participate in the tourney, an all-day event here on the second Saturday of January.

Leland, the defending champion, is expected to repeat as tournament champions.



Fred Mielke lofts a shot while Steve Schmidt drives for the rebound in junior varsity action against Grayling December 16. Both varsity and junior varsity basketball teams return to action January 6 when Charlevoix hosts St. Ignace

"Feiffer's People" to be Charlevoix entry in drama competition

by LAURA GLASS

The thrill of live theatre; the house lights dimming, the hush of the audience, the slowly rising the curtain; it all comes to Charlevoix High School this semester as the drama class prepares a musical review for competition with other high schools across the state.

Drama instructor and director of the program Connie Ford has announced that her students will produce a Jules Feiffer review entitled "Feiffer's People" for the annual festival competition. The review, she said, is a conglomeration of the comic element of life and should be the type of material to fare well in the competition.

About 30 students are involved in the production. They will be doing everything from building the sets and sewing the costumes to scoring the music and choreographing the dances.

Although final direction is the responsibility of Connie Ford, almost all of the development of the review will be up to the students. The hands-on experience is designed to give students exposure to all phases of theatre production.

"I like the kids to design the show themselves as far as the music and dance are concerned," said Ford.

Two students, junior Jim Boggs and senior Bob Best are scoring the music for the show. Boggs will arrange the piano part while Best is responsible for the rest of the instrumentation.

Cathy Pidek and Janine Browe are doing the choreography.

Ford says that three spotlights will be used for the play but, otherwise, production costs should be minimal since not much set rebuilding is neccessary

Said Ford, "Mainly we will just be needing costumes for this production. Brian Certa (industrial arts teacher at Charlevoix High School) built legs and steps on our platforms for the last play and we will be using them as they are for this production."

District competition is scheduled for the last weekend in January with Regionals two weeks later and the state finals at the end of February. Ford said the musical will be shown in Charlevoix in March sometime after the competition. No exact date has been set as yet.

Year in Review

Area ski resorts are gearing up for the season with hopes that the weather will be more cooperative than last year.

With the coming of December, a state plan was revealed in which Charlevoix County would be host to approximately 58,000 people from Wayne County in the event of a nuclear war attack.

A choir of 75 voices and a chamber ensemble along with four soloists presented the "Messiah" at the Community Reformed Church.

The Charlevoix City general fund is expected to run $7,879 short for the year. Other funds are also endangered because of losses in state funding. The City may have to raise water rates.

The Medusa Cement Company announced it will shut down for three months, idling 42 employees.

So ends another year in Charlevoix.

HS Drama Dept. looks ahead to funding cuts

by LAURA GLASS

There is some concern as to what effects state school aid cuts will have on the drama department and the students. Department head Connie Ford feels that eventually some sacrifices will have to be made just as in evry other department.

"Eventually it (the money cutback) will affect us but no one is really talking about it now. It will affect every department, not just us. But I am sure it will get to the point where we are cut back financially," said Ford.

Without sufficient funding, the drama department will find itself in a dilemma; how to provide talented students with the opportunity to sharpen their skills in statewide competition and still be able to afford the travel and competition costs.

Charlevoix has maintained a reputation for excellence in drama, debate and forensic competition for several years.

Ford said that she has been looking at a few possibilities to help out with finances when the money cutbacks hit. One idea was to form a booster club similar to the sports boosters.

"I've been thinking about a booster club- but I am not really sure at this point," she said. "I think the community knows how important this type of learning is and we have always received a lot of support in the past. We have a program in mind for March to show the community what we are doing; a selection of the best of our shows and performances."

RULES

1. Anyone can enter, except the employees of the paper and their families. Use the entry blank from the paper or make your own, following the same plan. A copy of the Charlevoix Courier will be available at the Courier office to anyone wishing to copy the list of names.

2. Weekly gift certificates will be awarded to the persons naming the most winners. All tie games are considered incorrect unless picked as ties on your entry blank. In case of a tie, persons guessing nearest correct score in the tiebreaker box will win. Insert what you think total score will be of the game in the tie breaker box.

3. Gift certificates are redeemable at any of the participating sponsors on this page only. Entries should be addressed to: Contest Editor, Charlevoix Courier and postmarked by not later than 5 p.m. Friday night. Winners will be announced the following weeks.

4. On the entry form simply draw a circle around the number of the team you predict will win each of the games listed in each of the ads. Then, predict the total on the points "tie breaker" at the bottom of the entry form.

Lyle Gennett, above manning his station at Oleson's food store, was one of several Charlevoix Jaycees who participated in a food drive for the needy the week before Christmas. Club members were at local food stores for a day to accept any donations from shoppers. Donations of food and other goods were distributed through the Charlevoix Christmas Project.

DNR district elk count shows encouraging results

The Gaylord District of the Department of Natural Resources reports that elk in the northeastern part of the state now number approximately 480.

The elk survey by the Wildlife Department of the DNR was completed recently, with 435 elk actually being sighted

The DNR also reports good snowmobile and cross country skiing conditions. However, hunting (grouse, archery deer, and rabbits) is only fair. Fishing success is also light, according to the DNR, although some shanties have been placed on lakes.

Fishermen are reminded that their name and address must be placed on all four sides of their shanties in letters at least two inches high with water proof lettering

Winters today not as bad as those of yesteryear

Those who fret about the snow and cold of Charlevoix County winters might change their minds by reading some facts about the winters of yesteryear, as revealed in the current issue of National Wildlife Magazine:

The lowest temperature ever recorded in the United States was minus 79.8 F., at Prospect Creek, Alaska, on January 23, 1971, and the heaviest snowfall was 86 feet at Rainier Paradise Ranger Station during the same winter of 1970-1971. That's about as deep as an eight-story building is tall.

One of the earliest American blizzards was in February, 1698. One New England pioneer called it "the terriblest winter ever" as Boston got buried under 42 inches of snow – and that was before the days of snow plows.

Perhaps the greatest of all blizzards occurred in March of 1888. From the Chesapeake Bay to Maine, for four days, an average of 40 inches of snow buried the region. Winds gusted up to 70 miles an hour, and there were more than 400 deaths, 200 of them in New York City alone. Train passengers were marooned and 200 ships foundered.

At least one snowstorm affected American history. At 6 p.m. on Christmas Day, 1776, a bitterly cold blizzard struck the East. General George Washington wrote in his diary: "The wind is northeast and beats in the faces of the men. It will be a terrible night for the soldiers who have no shoes. Some of them have tied old rags around their feet, but I have not heard a man complain."

Later that night, Washington crossed the Delaware with his shivering army of 2,400 men and slipped into Trenton, New Jersey. After a long night of Christmas revelry, the Hessian mercenaries were no match for the ragged Americans. "The Revolutionary War would not be won for five more years," says National Wildlife, "but the Battle of Trenton was a turning point. Had it not been for the cover of that snowstorm, it might have gone the other way."
